Moved by Mr. Cahill seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the members of the Council and Messrs. Cox, Dumble, Stratton, Toker and Robinson be a deputation to go to Ottawa on the 11th of March, to consult with the members of the house with regard to the Trent Valley Canal, and that the Council pay for only the travelling expenses of the deputation.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned to meet on Monday night next.

A Season of Suspense—Gladstone's Measure for Dealing With Ireland Anxiously Awaited—The Spread of Democracy.

LONDON, March 1.—Londoners are regretting that next Tuesday night's session of the House of Commons cannot be held at the Royal Opera or in some hall where a reasonable fraction of the great number who wish to witness the proceedings could gain admission. Mr. Sexton's motion of censure upon Lord Randolph Churchill for advising the Orangemen of Ulster to get ready for war if Home Rule is granted is expected to come up, and will certainly arouse an exciting interchange of hostilities between the fiery young Tory and the cool-headed, sharp-tongued member for Sligo. People are looking forward to it very much as to a circus or prize fight, and envying the few who have been able to get tickets to the strangers' gallery. There will, of course, be a mere exhibition of the fireworks of debate, which could have no bearing upon the final outcome of the Irish problem. We are as much in the dark as we were a week ago or a month ago as to what the outcome will be. Mr. Gladstone's silence is beginning to have something theatrical in it. It is beginning to be said that a plan which requires so much time and thought and caution ought to prove preternaturally brilliant when at last announced to a waiting world. On the other hand, there is an unpleasant rumor that the Premier's ingenuity is being less ingenuously employed, and that he is formulating a measure keeping the word of promise to the Home Rulers' ears, but breaking it to their hearts.

The Defiant Democracy.

The disrespect offered to the Queen's name on two recent public occasions and the growing frequency of the discussion of the query, what useful part does the monarch play in the England of to-day, are only interesting as surface indications of the widely spreading irreverence for existing institutions when they cover gross abuses. The same question is raised as to the need of the ornamental lord mayor, maintained regardless of expense and every day some article appears in the papers dilating upon the vast burden of the expense, of the public service weighted down by numberless useless and extravagantly paid officials.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26TH.

After routine in the House to-day, several bills received their first readings, and others their third readings.

Hon. G. W. Ross stated in reply to Mr. Morris that no agreement had been made with any University or Universities for the simultaneous examination of teachers and matriculants, but there is an understanding that the matriculation and teachers examination shall be held at the same time. Hon. Mr. Ross intimated that the examination would not be held till after the High Schools had closed their sessions.

Mr. Meredith moved for a return of judgment in the Petawawa timber limit case of McArthur vs. the Queen.

Mr. Lees' motion to practically commit the Local Government to the purchase of toll roads with a view to the abolition of tolls received the six months hoist.

A motion of Mr. French to bring about legislation to provide other means than those set forth in section 26 of the Consolidated Municipal Act to admit of the reunion of a town that had withdrawn from a county, was referred to the municipal committe to draft a bill.

A number of private bills were advanced a stage and Hon. Mr. Hardy presented a return respecting the accounts between Ontario and the Dominion.

A Victory for Common Sense.

MONTREAL, March, 2.—Common sense has triumphed in this city. At the election for Mayor yesterday, Mayor Beaugrand, was re-elected by a majority of 1060. It will be borne in mind that Mayor Beaugrand in his last term incurred great odium in certain quarters on account of his energetic efforts in stamping out the small-pox plague, and one, Decary was brought out on behalf of the malcontents, as the pro-picotte candidate.

The result of both the Montreal and Toronto mayoralty elections, furnishes ample vindication of the value of representative institutions, and shows that in any case of real emergency, the people are to be depended on to uphold order morality and the fearless administration of the law. Here it may be remarked that the above paragraph is an effective review and critique of the Anti-Vaccinator a journal published in Montreal in the interests of pestilence, a copy of which was received at this office this morning.—Ed. EXAMINER.

Benefitting the Back Townships.

Among the Appropriations foreshadowed in the Provincial estimates for 1886, the following sums for colonization roads in the several townships in this county are found: Eagle Lake road, Harvey, to extend as may be located, $1,000; Anstruther bridge and road, $400; Buckhorn road, repairs in Cavendish and Glamorgan, $600; Burleigh road, repairs, $800; total $2,400.

CHAPTER II.

THE GUARDIAN.

July is come. The hot sun is pouring down its scorching rays on tree and drooping flower, on waving meadow, and the cool and smiling river, with its "water, clear as beryl or crystal," that, flowing through the cottage garden, rushes onward to the illimitable ocean.

Among the great roses, heavy with scent and bloom, the children are playing merrily, chasing each other in and out, and hither and thither, through countless rows of gaudy-colored beds.

Hilda Penruddock, the little heiress, with her yellow locks and pleasing countenance, fair as an angel's, and eyes, "colored with the heavens' own blue," is racing madly over walks and closely-shaven grass, looking like some "silk-white blossom of the spring."

Her cousin, tall and slender for his age, and handsome as an Indian cherub in spite of his golden-brown hair, is swiftly pursuing her, whilst merry laughter from both their lips ascends into the summer air.

"Ah, take care, Hilda!" calls the boy, as his cousin runs dangerously close to the deep shelving bank that overhangs the river. "Do not lean over. You know how strictly nurse has forbidden it."

"The river is shining—shining!" cries she. "See the little stars that dance on the top of it, and the pretty white lilies! I wish I had a lily!"

"Come away," returns he, coaxingly, "and I will get you prettier lilies from the lake outside by and by. Come, let us finish our game. Now, I am the robber chief, and you are my prisoner, and this is my castle."

Penruddock, sitting in the oriel window of the library that looks out upon the garden, watches the children at their play with moody brow and lips compressed.

Upon Hilda more especially his gaze is fixed. What a frail life—a mere breath, as it were—to stand between his and (what is far more to him) the boy's advancement!

That this baby should inherit what, but for her unwelcome birth, would by law have been his, embitters and makes wretched every moment of his life.

What a little, fragile thing she looks, flitting about in the sunshine, in spite of her merry laugh and joyous disposition—a thread that might be easily snapped!

Yet how slow is the great King of Terrors in claiming those whom we would wish away—how swift to clutch at those we would give our heart's blood to retain!

At this moment he sees the children leaning over the bank (perpendicular and utterly unprotected), at the base of which the water runs so rapidly.

The boy's warning to stand back comes to him upon the air.

What if the child, stooping too far, should overbalance herself, and sink into the foaming depths beneath—swollen with last night's rain—and be carried onward to the cruel ocean? Whose fault would it be? Who would be to blame? Such accidents happen very frequently.

Idly the awful thought presents itself, bearing with it a fascination hard to combat. Heart and brain it fills, to the exclusion of all other thoughts.

Meantime, Hilda has stopped short, and in her shrill, sweet treble has ordered Dick to go in-doors and bring her out the dolly that shall represent another unhappy captive to his powerful and daring arm.

Dick engrossed in the reality of his game, departs for the fresh prey, nothing loath, leaving her alone in the quiet garden, with no eye upon her save his who watches with disfavor her every movement.

At first, when left alone, she stands, her little finger in her mouth, as though uncertain what next to do. Then a butterfly, blue as the skies above her, crossing her path, she gives chase, and runs until it is beyond her reach—and she herself is once more close to the fatal bank before described.

All but hardy a little gay song all about that "silly Bo-peep of ancient memory, and the song is borne inwards, even to the ears of Penruddock, as he sits behind the curtains, cold and motionless, waiting for he hardly knows what.

Whatever fiendish thought has taken possession of him, he is, as yet, scarcely aware of it, but tarries, with white lips and distended eyes, that follow eagerly and glaringly each footstep of the child outside.

Hilda, with all the youthful longing for forbidden fruit, gazes eagerly down upon the water-lilies that are rocking to and fro on the disturbed breast of the agitated river.

Stooping over she examines them minutely, longingly, her eyes intense, a faint smile of pleasure on her lips.

Presently, kneeling down, she suspends half her small body over the sloping bank, as though to gain a nearer knowledge of the coveted flowers.

Penruddock, shrinking back, with one hand grasps the curtains, and trembles violently, whilst great drops of dew lie thick upon his forehead; that already in anticipation seems red with the cursed brand of Cain.

Eagerly he gazes on the little one. She is barely balanced; the slightest touch, the faintest motion, may send her over into the river.

Prompted, it may be, by his good angel, he makes a step forward, as though to stay the catastrophe so imminent. Then he suddenly stops.

A wretched memory that but belongs to his vile desire comes to him, and crushes all good within him.

Has he not somewhere heard that to speak, or call, or cry aloud to a child when in a dangerous position is but a swift and sure means to cause its sudden destruction? Therefore will he not speak.

And, as though virtuous feeling alone prompts him, he holds his peace, and tries to believe that his non-interference may yet save the child.

Yet, in reality, and he knows it well, he does not so believe. No, he can not so deceive himself.

The little heiress creeps still nearer to the brink, always with her soft and tender song upon her lips.

She sways suddenly, seeks to recover herself, and then the poor baby—filled with her childish longing for the unattainable, and with all her little soul rapt in admiration of the fatal lilies—falls forward.

For a moment she clings convulsively to the slippery bank, then, with a sharp and bitter scream, rolls downward, and is instantly snatched to the bosom of the greedy river as it rushes onward to the sea.

The whole awful tragedy has occupied scarcely more than one short minute.

Penruddock, rousing himself when it is too late, springs through the window, out into the garden, past the roses—that still smile and tremble coquettishly beneath the touch of the fickle breeze, as though no horrible thing had just been done—and gains the fatal spot.

Gazing with wild and too late remorse into the river, he fails to see signs of white frock, or whiter limbs, or small face, pale with terror.

The river has caught the little body, and hurried it along, past the curve of the rock, through the meadow, perhaps already—so deadly swift it is—out into the open sea. No tiny, struggling mass, still instinct with life, can be seen—nothing but the turbid waters.

Penruddock, with a groan, sinks upon his knees, and, falling each second lower, soon lies prone, an inert and unconscious heap, upon the grass.

How long he remains there, prostrate, and mercifully lost to time, he never knows, but a voice, sweet and loving, rouses him to life again.

"What is it, papa?" says Dick, bending over him. "Are you ill? You will catch cold, so get up. Nurse is always saying that Hilda and I are sure to catch sore throats if we lie on the grass."

As the little one's name passes the boy's lips, Penruddock starts and shivers, and after a few seconds, by a supreme effort, raises himself to his feet.

Never shall the boy know how evil has been this deed he has committed.

He moves very feebly indeed towards the house; but Dick follows him.

"Where is Hilda?" he asks, standing on tiptoe, to bring his face nearer to his father's. "I can't find her anywhere and I left her just here. She is a little imp, and is always hiding from me; but she will come back when I want her. Hilda," raising his voice to a shout, "I shall pack the eyes out of Miss Maud" (the doll) "if you don't come soon. One would think she was dead, she is so silent. What, papa, how pale you are! and how ill you look! Has any one been vexing you?"

"No," says Penruddock, harshly; and pushing the boy, for the first time, roughly from him, goes indoors.

Many years afterward, Dick Penruddock remembers how that day his father, for the only time in all his life, treated him harshly and without the accustomed tenderness.

Ammonia in Baking Powders.

Scientific American.

Among the recent discoveries in science and chemistry, none is more important than the uses to which common ammonia can be properly put as a leavening agent, and which indicate that this familiar salt is hereafter to perform an active part in the preparation of our daily food.

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold over a flame, and it will almost immediately be entirely developed into gas and pass off into the air. The gas thus formed is a simple composition of nitrogen and hydrogen. No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening power over soda and cream of tartar used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to these articles. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter, and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this act it uses itself up, as it were; the ammonia is entirely diffused leaving no trace or residuum whatever. The light, fluffy, flaky appearance, so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is said to be imparted to them only by the use of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest goods have been quick to avail themselves of this useful discovery, and the handsomest and best bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of ammonia, combined of course with other leavening material.

Ammonia is one of the best known products of the laboratory. If, as seems to be justly claimed for it, the application of its properties to the purposes of cooking results in giving us lighter and more wholesome bread, biscuit and cake, it will prove a boon to dyspeptic humanity, and will speedily force itself into general use in the new field to which science has assigned it.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and who cannot through subagents in thirty days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold goods and get their money back. No other employers or agents ever dared to make such offers, nor could we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and that two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they may. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

RUPTURE CURED

IN FROM 20 TO 30 DAYS BY WEARING

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring-less trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 95 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS CO., 23 Adelaide St. East, Toronto, Ont.

Social.

A social, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Church, will be held at the residence of Mr. John Bertram on Friday evening, 5th of March. A good programme will be presented and a very pleasant evening may be anticipated. Admission 25c.

Redpath Concert Company.

In printing some of the sheets distributed in the town, announcing the concert of the Redpath Concert Co., for Wednesday evening—to-morrow night—the price of the seats was printed "30 cents" instead of 50 cents. No doubt our citizens would detect the error knowing that the Oddfellows would have nothing to do with a 30 cents show.

Police Court.

Police Magistrate Dumble, at the police court this morning, delivered judgment in the Leary vs. Darcy case, in which Thos. H. Darcy was charged with a breach of the liquor law, by allowing liquor to be consumed on his premises after seven o'clock on Saturday of last week. The magistrate found the defendant guilty of a breach of the law and imposed a fine of $20, and costs to the amount of $3.90.

C. O. F. Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the members of Court Peterborough No. 29, C. O. F., will be held this (Tuesday) evening in their hall to arrange for attending the funeral of their late brother, John Barrie, which will leave his late residence, McDonel street (west) to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members of the Court are requested to be present. JOHN FANNING, Recording Secretary.

Richard is Himself Again.

"Dick" Smith, the well known and popular clerk of the Oriental, this morning received intelligence of the death of his grandmother in New York, by which event he becomes the inheritor of the handsome sum of $240,000, equivalent, at current interest, to $14,000 per year. It is not every day that Mr. Smith receives such a wholesale consignment of good luck, and he is kept busy acknowledging the congratulations of his friends, to which the EXAMINER adds its own.

"Capital and Labor."

Our readers will have noticed, by a card which appeared in Saturday's EXAMINER, that there is trouble between the Knights of St. Crispin, or Shoemakers' Union, and Mr. Johnston Carey, whose establishment and methods are subjected to severe criticism. In to-day's impression Mr. Carey inserts a card explaining his position, and also a counter reply on behalf of the journeymem shoemakers. It is understood that a meeting of the craft has been called and that Mr. Carey has been invited to be present, to meet the men and discuss the situation. It is to be hoped that an amicable arrangement may be arrived at.

Curling.

The two rinks of the Peterborough Curlers who played the Lakefielders on the Lakefield ice yesterday, succeeded in downing their opponents by twelve shots. Adam Hall's rink defeated W. Postlethwaite's rink by 19 shots, while T. Rutherford's suffered defeat at the hands of R. C. Strickland's. The ice was in fine condition and a fine days sport was enjoyed. The rinks and scores were as follows:

Forester Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. John Barrie, a member of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, will take place on Wednesday afternoon, from his late residence, McDonnell street west, according to the funeral ritual of the order.

The Golden Lion.

The attention of the public is called to the first announcement from Mr. R. Fair, of the "Golden Lion," under the new regime. It will no doubt be read with interest by all, but the ladies especially will be pleased to see so many of the items devoted to them.

Piano Recital.

By urgent request Mr. J. S. Parker has consented to give a piano recital in his new rooms over Flaherty & Clark's store, Hunter street, opposite the Oriental. The recital will be given about Tuesday next, and as the room is of a limited capacity, and cannot seat over sixty persons, invitations will be issued. Mr. Parker's pupils will be the chief contributors.

"MADRE E HIGO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Continuation of George Street.

Every one has noticed how the south end of the town is being built up. Houses have gone up by the score this last year. Yet we fail to see that any attention is given to the necessity of opening cross streets between Lake street and the fair grounds. The longer this work is neglected the more difficult and expensive it will become. Once a man has bought a lot or built a house, he will not easily consent to give up his land for highway. Let our new Council grapple with this matter and by judicious foresight, makes necessary provision and at the same time save money to the municipality. The increased value of the property and the erection of houses will soon return the first cost in the increased taxes.

Jumped The Track.

A Smash Up on The Grand Junction Division—Several Passengers Severely Injured.

The express train which left Peterborough at 7.30 this morning, on the Grand Junction Division of the G. T. R., for Belleville, jumped the track when nearing Hastings, wrecking the passenger, mail and baggage coaches, and injuring a number of the passengers, none fatally, however. Five passengers were seriously injured, one lady in particular, who was taken to Birdsall, the nearest station, for medical attention. Word was at once telegraphed for assistance, and which was immediately sent, and the work of clearing the road commenced. The engine and a passenger coach returned to town about 1.45 this afternoon, carrying one of the disabled passengers, a commercial traveller named Flemming, who was immediately removed to the Oriental, where he is now under the care of Dr. Pigeon. He is so much shaken up that he does not know what happened, or what is the matter with him. The other passengers were removed to Hastings for medical attention.

It is reported that Mrs. James Campbell is the lady who was seriously injuried. Dr. Boucher drove to Birdsall to attend to her injuries.

Private Judgment.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Grip of last week suppresses my words, completely distorts my plain meaning; and very modestly asks me to shake. I have most courteously to decline, being desirous to keep "these hands clean,"

Yours very truly,

NOT IN A HURRY.

We have not been in a hurry this year in sending out our largest importing orders to the Old Country. By waiting we have been the gainers, as our orders just reached the wholesale houses at the time when they were beginning to weaken in their prices. We will, therefore, be able to make closer prices to our customers, and it will be well to bear this fact in mind.

Board of Education.

A Brief Business Session—Mr. Jones' Resigns on Account of Ill Health—Report of Supervision Committee and Town Inspector—A Teachers' Convention Probable.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Board of Education was held in the Board rooms yesterday evening.

There were present, Mr. James Stevenson, in the chair, and Messrs. Dumble, Errett, McWilliams, Rutherford, Henry, Stratton and Kendry.

The minutes of the last two meetings of the Board were read and confirmed.

INQUIRIES.

Mr. Sproule inquired how the South Ward School was unsupplied with pencils, pens, etc., for some time.

Mr. Stratton, chairman of the Supervision Committee, explained that he had furnished supplies when notified by the Principal of the Central School, with a delay of only half a day, sending all Mr. Smith asked for.

Mr. Sproule said his children had bought their pens and pencils for months, and asked if the Board were supposed to supply these.

Mr. Stratton replied that the Board was supposed to supply pens and pencils, and it was the fault of the teachers if the children had to buy their own supplies.

Mr. Errett said that the difficulty could only be overcome by furnishing each school with a desk or cupboard for supplies.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. A. W. Jones, Principal of the South Ward School tendering his resignation, on account of ill health.—Received.

From Alex. Marling, of the Education Department, with reference to the Collegiate Institute grant, for the last six months, amounting to $662.54, which had been certified to.—Received.

From the Clerk of Ashburnham, containing a resolution of the Ashburnham Council, granting the Collegiate Institute $100 on the condition of application.—Received.

From Jas Coyle Brown, County School Inspector, asking the Board for the use of rooms in the school for holding a teachers' convention.—Received.

From Geo. E. Marshall, applying for the position of Principal of the South Ward School at a salary of $500.—Referred to the Committee on appointments.

REPORT OF ATTENDANCE.

	On Roll.	Average.
West Ward School	183	151
South "	205	176
Central School	620	570
Collegiate Institute	171	155

The Treasurer reported the receipt of $91.50 from Dr. Tassie for fees, for the past month, and from public schools $9.00, for the same time.

On motion the reports were adopted.

Mr. Rutherford asked if there were any pupils attending the High School who had not passed the entrance examination.

The chairman informed him that there were a number who took some subjects who had not passed, but they were not included in the list of attendance.

Mr. Jones was heard by the Board. He explained that as he had taught six months of the ten teaching months of the year, he should receive six-tenths of the salary.

Mr. Errett contended that Mr. Jones had not taught six months in this year, as his year commenced on January of this year, no matter when he commenced to teach for the Board. He held that teachers were paid for twelve months in the year and not ten, and according to law Mr. Jones was only entitled to the proportion he had taught out of the twelve months in the year.

Mr. Sproule said he thought Mr. Jones should receive his share of the pay for holidays.

Mr. Dumble thought it would be fair to divide the proportion of the salary during the holidays. He was confident the new teacher, whoever he was, would be glad to accept the situation on such terms.

MR. JONES' RESIGNATION.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the resignation of Mr. Jones be referred to the Committee on Appointments, with power to accept the resignation and appoint a successor to relieve him as soon as possible, and that the Treasurer be instructed to pay Mr. Jones at the rate of $500 per annum for the time he has taught, allowing him his fair share of pay in respect of the vacation.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Sproule, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the Secretary be instructed to advertise in the Mail and Globe for a teacher to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mr. A. W. Jones, Principal of the South Ward School.—Carried.

THE ASHBURNHAM GRANT ACCEPTED.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Dumble, that this Board is willing to accept the pupils of Ashburnham into the high school on the terms proposed. The Board, however, regrets, that Ashburnham, should at this time reduce its grant by $25, when owing to the withdrawal of the County grant, the burden of supporting their high school falls most heavily on the town, and it is hoped that Ashburnham will see its way to make its grant $125, as even then Ashburnham pupils will get their tuition at a lower rate than resident pupils.—Carried.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

The Secretary read the report of Mr. Jas. Stratton, Inspector of Public Schools for the town, which reported the desks in Miss Jenkins' room as almost useless and a disgrace to the school. The report also recommended that new chalk brushes should be provided for the South and West Ward schools.

The Inspector in his report also complimented the Board on their selection of a Principal for the West Ward school.

The report was received.

Mr. Stevenson said he had noticed a great number of desks in the schools were all cut up by the pupils. He thought it would be advisable to appropriate all knives found in the pockets of or on the persons of boys attending the public schools.

Mr. Errett remarked that the knives did not do any harm when in the boys' pockets.

No action was taken in the matter.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the Property Committee is hereby instructed to procure new desks for such rooms as require them, and to cause such desks as require it to be repaired.—Carried.

Mr. Henry asked if the High School rooms were paid for in as equipped or unequipped condition.

The chairman replied that the rooms were hired as equipped for school purposes.

Mr. Stratton read the following report of the SCHOOL SUPERVISION COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education.

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee on School Supervision beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the subject of supplies and that they called for tenders, upon a due consideration of which the following awards were made:—To Messrs. Salisbury & Co., the chalk and pencils amounting to $36.25. To Messrs. Davis & Co., the pens, $43.60; and to Mr. Thomas Menzies, the paper, $54.00. This arrangement is the most judicious in the interests of the ratepayers and most equitable to the tenderers, that your committee could arrive at. The several tenderers are satisfied with the arrangement. Messrs. Salisbury & Co. and Davis & Co. have delivered their share of the supplies and Mr. Menzies' share will soon be available.

Your committee have also unde consideration the purchase of the following maps for the West Ward School, viz: of the Dominion, of Ontario, of the United States and of North and South America. The cost of the whole will amount to about $25.00.

Your committee did not feel warranted in purchasing them without consulting the Board, but would recommend that the proposed purchase be made as the Principal of the school complains that he has no maps for the proper teaching of geography. Since the most competent teacher is handicapped by lack of proper teaching appliances your committee suggest that they be empowered to provide the maps at once.

Your committee would also recommend that six chalk brushes be secured for the primary division of the West and South Ward schools and that a set of tablets be obtained for Miss Aldridge's room.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. R. STRATTON,
Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Stratton the report was adopted.

A SUPPLY CUPBOARD.

Moved by Mr. Errett, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That the Property Committee are hereby directed to procure a proper desk or cupboard in which to keep school supplies in each of the ward schools.—Carried.

RULES OF ORDER TO BE REVISED.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Rutherford,—That Messrs. Errett, Dumble, Henry, Sproule and the mover and seconder be a special committee to revise the by-laws and rules of order of this Board, with instructions to report any amendments suggested, to this Board for their consideration.—Carried.

A TEACHERS' INSTITUTE POSSIBLE.

Moved by Mr. Errett, seconded, Mr. Sproule, that this Board is prepared to supply rooms for the holding of a Teachers' Institute for Peterborough, or in connection with a union meeting with the County Association when application is made from the proper source.—Carried.

It was then moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Errett, that the request of the town Inspector for the use of the rooms in the high school buildings for the purpose of holding a Teachers Institute be granted, and that he be requested to invite the County Association to unite with the town association in holding their Institute, so as to have a union Teachers Institute if possible.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[The publisher of THE EXAMINER does not hold himself responsible for the facts asserted, nor the opinions expressed by correspondents.]

That "Race and Revenge" Resolution.

To the Editor of THE DAILY EXAMINER:

SIR,—My attention has been called to the following item in your issue of February 25th.

"At a recent meeting of the Village Council of Lakefield Mr. Reeve Strickland succeeded in smuggling through by the aid of his casting vote, the following buncombe resolution which the County Council so summarily threw out:—

"That the Council desire to express its thankfulness that the rebellion in the North-west which was threatening the peace and happiness of that portion of our Dominion, when the Council was last in session, was shortly after brought to a successful close by the bravery and energy of our citizen soldiers, and that the Council farther wishes to express its approval of the Government in allowing the law to take its course in the case of Louis Reil, the murderer of poor Scott in 1869, and the leader and cause of the rebellion in 1885, whereby many valuable lives were lost and property destroyed."

Now Mr. Editor I am afraid I must charge you with intentionally trying to mislead your readers, because you know perfectly well the resolution was never voted on by the County Council, although you persist in saying it was, and actually gave the names of those who voted for and against, when there is no such vote on the minutes of the Council.

When the resolution referred to was moved in the Council by me, it was moved that the Council adjourn, the motion to adjourn was withdrawn and then you, who seemed very, I might say, over anxious that my resolution regarding the Northwest rebellion should not be carried by the County Council, which certainly it would have been if you (not a member of that Council) had not interfered, contrary to the rules of the Council, by taking the seat adjoining the Reeve of Galway and writing the following resolution for him to move:—

"Moved in amendment that the motion just made be referred to the Lakefield Council."

This amendment was, to use your own expression, smuggled through by the casting vote of the Warden, and I may add by your exertions as whip of the party, the original motion never having been voted on.

In due course the County Clerk forwarded the resolution to the Lakefield Council, two of the Council were for referring the resolution back to the County Council to be dealt with by them, and two for adopting it on behalf of the County Council. I voted with the two latter. This was all above board, but I cannot say the same of your course in this matter. If you honestly believed that there was anything wrong in this resolution, why did you not, in writing the amendment for the Reeve of Galway, say so? But you had not the courage or manliness of the Reeve of Galway who, when moving the amendment for you, stated that Riel had a grievance, and did quite right in raising a rebellion and that the Government should not have allowed the law to punish him. Now, Mr. Editor, your position in this Riel question is the dangerous one of "running with the hare, and hunting with the hounds," and I think, as a reader of your paper, that you should define your position better; therefore, I now ask you if your views on the Riel question are the same as those expressed in open Council by the Reeve of Galway, and nothing but a straightforward answer will satisfy many of your readers of both sides of politics.

In conclusion, I deny most emphatically that this resolution was suggested to me by anyone, or discussed by me with anyone, except the seconder who aided me in draughting it, and the motion was one that no law abiding citizen or true Canadian would object to.

Yours truly,
R. C. STRICKLAND,
Reeve of Lakefield.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Bible Class.

Rev. Mr. Munro's Bible Class will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock. Subject, "The Prophet Isaiah."

Grand Entertainment.

The grand concert by the Redpath Concert Company, under the auspices of the Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., takes place this evening in the Opera House.

Market Items.

The market this morning was below the average. The principal commodities offered were as usual, beef, pork, wood and hay. Prices are almost unchanged. Quotations were as follows: butter, in prints, 18c. to 20c.; eggs, 20c.; poultry was a blank; beef, from $2 to $5 per cwt.; pork, from $5 to $6.50, and cut up 7c. to 9c. per lb.; wood and hay remain the same, wood ranging from $2 to $4 per cord, and hay from $12 to $14 per ton.

Numerous, Pathetic and Dramatic.

Professor Valance, the eminent Scotch elocutionist, during the last eight years has appeared over fourteen hundred times before large and enthusiastic audiences in the principal halls throughout Great Britain and Ireland, and the elite of English and American residents in Paris. For the past twenty years he has devoted himself to the stage and platform. Mr. Valance will give one of his popular recitals in Bradburn's Hall on Monday, March 8th.

Street Expenditures.

One reason why the people ask "where does the money go to?" and, "what have we got for our money?" is, that the money is wasted in paying lazy, cunning old schemers a full days' pay for less than half a day's work. The poor should get work on the highways, but they should be paid what they earn—and no more. Why should hard-working mechanics and laborers toil industriously to earn money to pay the town taxes which are lavished on old bummers who make only a pretense of work—yet get full pay?" Many of these men spend their gains on whiskey, live on the Charity Committee in winter or seek lodgings in the County jail, to be again turned at the public crib in the summer. Hire these men by all means, but if John earns only 60cts. why pay him $1 per day—or more. Let the corporation work be managed with more economy, and let the people see what they get for their money.

Wedding Bells.

Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock an interesting social event took place at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Conway performed the ceremony that united in marriage Mr. E. White and Mary Josephine, eldest daughter of Mr. P. Simons. The bride was supported by her sister, Miss Katie Simons, and Mr. J. White of Syracuse, brother of the groom, officiated as groomsman. After the ceremony Mr. Simons residence was crowded with guests, assembled to do honor to the occasion, and partake of the exceptionally excellent wedding breakfast provided. The table was most artistically and tastefully laid, and the repast was in every respect worthy of the occasion. After refreshments, the guests spent the evening in social enjoyment, and in admiring the large and splendid array, of beautiful presents, which shows how high a position the bride holds in the esteem of her many friends. The festivities were prolonged till late at night, when the newly wedded pair were escorted to their boarding house which they will occupy, pending the completion of the house now under construction for them. The EXAMINER joins the hosts of friends of Mr. and Mrs. White in the cordial congratulations and wishes for happiness and prosperity that accompany them on their entrance upon the dignity of married life.

REEVE STRICKLAND'S RIEL RESOLUTION.

Mr. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield, in a letter in another column, again refers to the Riel resolution, which he, during the last sittings of the County Council, moved for adoption.

The EXAMINER has always strenuously discountenanced the introduction of party politics into municipal matters, and will continue to do so; and whenever Mr. Strickland attempts to bring forward into the County Council proceedings, political questions, the discussion of which can produce no local advantage whatever, but which sow the seed of trouble and dissension, even though in particular cases we might be in unison with his particular views, it will be both right and reasonable to stigmatise his course, as it deserves, as being actuated by improper motives, and as being influenced more by the tricky party exigencies of the moment than by any possible benefit to the county.

It seems strange that throughout the whole province a resolution couched in almost similar language, with almost the same errors in punctuation and spelling, should be introduced into County Councils by Conservatives only. It seems strange in this case that the original resolution on the minutes of the County Clerk should not be in Mr. Strickland's handwriting, which fact gives evidence to the not unfounded rumor that the original resolution was in the handwriting of Mr. H. H. Smith, and is the handiwork of their political chief, Sir John A. But it seems stranger that a gentleman of Mr. Strickland's intelligence should allow himself to be made the apt tool of more cunning heads, and that he should take so much credit for his hand in wire-pulling such a resolution, when it is well known he was merely the puppet that danced to the strings pulled from Ottawa.

The County Council accepted the resolution, coming as it did from Mr. Strickland as the purest buncombe. The people generally look upon it, coming from him, as a stupid political dodge of a too thorough-going politician, and consider that its introduction into the Council proceedings was altogether absurd, unwarranted and unworthy of the mover.

In its issue of July the 8th, 1885, the Toronto Mail, the organ of the Conservative party, said:—"*The Metis had good ground for grievances * * * * the neglegence (of the Government officials) was gross and inexcusable and* CONTRIBUTED TO BRING ABOUT THE INSURRECTION * * * * *such callous and cruel neglect of the rights of a portion of the community * * * * was wrong and should be censured*," yet in spite of his better judgment and in defiance of the clear and pronounced opinion of the Toronto Mail, with all its well equipped means of information, at the mere debate of his political chieftian, Mr. Strickland in his resolution attempts to shift the whole blame of the insurrection from the shoulders of Sir John A. Macdonald and place the wretched burden on the back of Louis Riel.

Mr. Strickland, in his reference to the Reeve of Galway, has entirely misrepresented that gentleman's remarks. In order to find out exactly what Mr. Mansfield did say we wrote him the following letter:—

PETERBOROUGH, February 27th, 1886.

DEAR MR. MANSFIELD,

In a letter to the "EXAMINER," which will be published on Wednesday next, Mr. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield, says that at the last County Council sittings in moving your amendment to his motion, re the North-West rebellion and Riel, referring his motion to the Lakefield Council for consideration, you made use of the following language: "that Riel had a grievance and did quite right in raising a rebellion, and that the Government should not have allowed the law to punish him." Will you kindly write me what expressions you did use on that occasion.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

In reply thereto we received the following:—

DEAR SIR,—Your letter to hand. The statement of Mr. Strickland is utterly untrue. I said that I was opposed to introducing such questions of a political character into the County Council. I believe that Riel and the halfbreeds had some grievances which were never attended to by the Government. The rebellion had been caused by the neglect of the Government and there was a difference of opinion as to the extent and nature of their wrongs. I was opposed to voting on such motions and moved the resolution that disposed of the matter as far as the County Council was concerned.

Yours truly,
M. MANSFIELD.
Reeve of Galway.

It is mere quibbling on the part of Mr. Strickland to say that his resolution was not voted on. The whole matter was considered by the Council in the light of a farce. No one would accuse Mr. Brown, the Reeve of Belmont, of being either the writer or assistant writer of any such crudely concocted and fraudulent resolution. All who [illegible] spoke on the resolution from the denunciation of Mr. Strickland to the close, and when Mr. Mansfield moved his amendment referring the matter to the Lakefield Council, it was looked upon as the last joke which rang down the curtain on Mr. Strickland's little side-play. Mr. Moloney, Reeve of Deare, who voted against the amendment, certainly spoke against the discussion of such matters in the Council, and marked his disappreciation of the wisdom of the resolution and the majority of those who voted against the amendment merely did so in order that they might get an opportunity of more fully expressing their views as to the utter stupidity and the entire disregard of proprieties by Mr. Strickland in the matter.

Not content with the reception his motion received in the County Council, Mr. Strickland was over-anxious that it should be carried by the Lakefield Council where it was adopted by his misrepresentations and his casting vote. Were it not for these, at least three of the Lakefield councillors would have voted against such a resolution both on account of the impropriety of discussing such a resolution in a municipal body as on account of reasons personal to themselves.

Certainly, the action of Mr. Strickland throughout the whole transaction is not creditable either to himself or the party whom he presumes to represent.

Ashburnham Council.

A Long and Busy Session—The Rolls to be Returned Immediately—New Town Buildings Probable.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ashburnham Council was held in the Council chamber yesterday evening.

There were present, Reeve Burnham in the chair, and Councillors Calcutt, Craig and Faint.

After routine, the clerk read the following

COMMUNICATION.

From Mr. W. A. Morrow, secretary of the Peterborough Board of Education, asking for a grant of $125 toward the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, for which Ashburnham pupils would be admitted on the same terms as town pupils.

Moved by Mr. Faint, seconded by Mr. Craig, that the sum of $100 be granted on the terms referred to in the communication.

A number of accounts, among which were the street pay lists and charity accounts, were presented and ordered to be paid.

A statement from the collector of taxes showed that the face of the roll for 1885 amounted to $4,533, of which amount, after rebates were made, $703.18 remained to be collected.

On motion of Mr. Calcutt, seconded by Mr. Faint, the collector was instructed to collect all outstanding taxes and return the roll of 1885 forthwith.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

On motion of Mr. Calcutt, seconded by Mr. Craig, the auditors' report for 1885 was received and adopted, and the abstract statement ordered to be published as required by law.

It was decided to put a by-law to the people to get permission to issue debentures to pay for an iron bridge on the main street.

MARKET REPORT.

Mr. Faint reported verbally on the present condition of the old market house and town hall. He showed that it was in a very delapidated state, and gave it as the opinion of the majority of the ratepayers that a new brick town hall, market house and police cells was necessary.

Reeve Burnham and Messrs. Craig and Calcutt were of the same opinion.

CHARITY.

Moved by Mr. Calcutt, seconded by Mr. Craig, that in future all charity be dispensed only on the order of any two councillors.—Carried.

It was decided that the rent for the town hall, including light, fuel, etc., for the current year should be $5 per night.

The Council then adjourned.

The Testimony

Of hundreds of druggists bear witness to the efficacy of Polson's Nerviline as the most potent pain remedy in the world for all kinds of pains. Nerviline is composed of newly discovered ingredients, and is equally good for internal or external use. Purchase a ten cent sample bottle, and test it at once. T. R. Melville, Prescott, writes: "My customers who have used Nerviline speak highly of it, and I am satisfied it will take a leading place in the market before long." Try Polson's Nerviline for pains. An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $135 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

CAMPBELL'S
TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognised as specifics for the above-named disorders.

CHAPTER III

AT THE OPERA.

It is the height of London season. All the world is alive and eager in search of amusement, and to-night, as Patti is to sing, each box and stall in the Italian House is filled—overflowing, indeed.

One box alone on the second tier is empty, and toward it immerous lorgnettes from the stalls beneath and from boxes opposite are anxiously directed.

The Diva has appeared, has sung her first solo, has been rapturously received, and applauded to the echo, and the house is now listlessly paying attention to a somewhat overdone tenor, when the door of the empty box opens, and a woman, pretty, and with a charming expression, if slightly passé, comes slowly within the light of the lamps.

She is followed by a girl, who, coming to her side, stands for a moment motionless, gazing down and around with a careless calm upon the fashionable multitude with which the vast building is crowded.

So standing together, the elder woman sinks into insignificance, whilst the younger becomes the center of attraction. She is of medium height, with a clear, colorless skin, and large blue expressive eyes. Her hair is not golden, but light brown, through which a touch of gold runs brightly. She is aristocratic, almost haughty in appearance; yet every feature, and, indeed, her whole bearing, is marked with a melancholy that seems to check even the smile that on very rare occasions seeks to dissipate the sadness on her lovely countenance.

She is dressed in a somewhat strange fashion for so young a girl. Her gown is of black satin, relieved by some heavy golden chains that encircle her neck; she wears black gloves to her elbow, and an enormous black fan flecked with gold. Upon her fair hair a tiny Indian cap of black satin, embroidered with gold, and hung with sequins, rests lightly.

She is whimsical, old-fashioned, what you will, but perfect in every look and movement.

Having completed her slow survey of the house, she turns and says something in quite a languid fashion to her companion, who laughs, taps her with her fan, and motions her to the chair opposite.

"What a success you are, Maud!" says the elder woman, fondly. "Even royalty has taken notice of your entrance! Did you observe that?"

"Royalty, as a rule, is very rude!" says Maud, slowly, after which they both fall into line and turn their attention to the divine Adelina.

Two young men in the stalls beneath, who up to this have been engrossed with the new beauty, at this instant turn to each other.

"Who is she?" asks the youngest, eagerly. "I have been in town some time—quite three weeks—but anything like that has not—"

"Dear child, don't—don't say it!" interrupts his companion, sadly. "It isn't like you. Not to know her, argues yourself unknown! I thought better of you! She is our beauty par excellence, our modern Venus, and licks every one else into fits! She is the very cream of the cream where beauty is concerned, though somewhat shady, I am reluctantly compelled to admit, in the matter of birth."

"Birth!" repeats the young man, with a start. "But look at her—look at her hands, her profile! Who can dispute the question of birth?"

"No one! It is indisputable! That charming girl up there, with the most irreproachable nose and the haughtiest mouth in Christendom, was picked off the street by her chaperone, Mrs. Neville, when a baby, and is probably—at least, so I hear—the daughter of a woman, poor, but strictly honest—they are always strictly honest—who lived by infusing starch into limp linen! I really don't like to say coarsely that she was a washerwoman, it sounds so vulgar."

"It sounds as horrible as it is impossible," says the younger man, still gazing dreamily at the box that holds his harmony in black and gold.

"Most impossible things are horrible," says his companion, lightly. "They grate; they are out of the common. Perhaps that is their charm. Miss Neville charms. Yes, that is her name; her adopted mother wishes her to be so called. Don't look so excessively shocked, my dear Penruddock; it is rather a romance, if it is anything at all, and should create in your mind interest rather than disgust."

"It is not disgust I feel, it is merely a difficulty of belief," says Penruddock, vaguely. "Is that her adopted mother?" shifting his glasses just for a moment from the calm and beautiful blue eyes that have so bewitched him, to the faded pretty woman who sits near them.

"Yes. She is all right, you know,—quite correct. She is George Neville's widow, son to Lord Dalmore, you may remember, who broke his neck, or his head, or something—I don't exactly know what—when out hunting."

"Yes; I remember. He was a friend of my father's. By the bye, that Mrs. Neville must be a sort of connection of ours—at least her sister married my uncle. But all friendship there ceased with my aunt's death. I don't recollect anything about it myself, but I believe a coldness arose after my poor little cousin's unhappy accident. You heard all about that, of course?"

"A very fortunate accident for you, all things considered. Other fellows' cousins don't drop off like that," says Mr. Wilding, in an aggrieved tone.

"My father was awfully cut up about it," says Penruddock; "he has never been the same man since. Moody, you know, and that; and goes about for days together without speaking a word. It preyed upon him. And the Wynters—my aunt's people—said ugly things about it, that sudden care hadn't been taken of the poor little thing, and all the rest of it. But of course it was nobody's fault."

"Of course not! Some people—especially law relations—are never happy except when making themselves disagreeable. That's their special forte. The fact that your father minds them betrays in him a charming amount of freshness."

"And so she adopted that lovely girl!" said Penruddock, presently, returning to his contemplation of Beauty's face, and referring to Mrs. Neville.

"She might have done worse, might she not? I shouldn't mind adopting her myself," says Mr. Wilding, genially. "And nobody seems to mind about the éclat; she is received everywhere, and has refused several very good men."

"Tell me all about it; do, now, that's a good fellow," says Penruddock, leaning back in his seat, and beginning to look profoundly interested.

"There isn't much of it. It is a romantic story, certainly, and a very Quixotic one, but it can be told in a word or two. Brevity is the soul of wit. To begin with, you must try to master the fact that Mrs. Neville adores dogs, and driving in the Park one day about fifteen years ago, she drew up her carriage at the railings and proceeded to gratify the appetite of her Pomeranian by bestowing upon him a cracknel.

"Even as he broke it, a faint cry from the world outside her carriage attracted her attention, and glancing up she saw a very lovely child in the grass of a tall, rather peculiar-looking woman. The child was gazing at her imploringly, its little hand extended as though desirous of the biscuit the dog was devouring.

"Mrs. Neville is tender hearted. The child, as I said, was beautiful; a very model for an angel or a love. Mrs. Neville, who even now is nothing if not emotional, gazed entranced; the pretty baby pouted, and cried again for the biscuit. The cry went to her listener's heart.

"'She is hungry,' she said, to the woman who leaned against the railings in a picturesque attitude.

"'She is often hungry, madam,' returned the woman, stolidly, yet far from brutally; indeed, the apparent hopeless resignation in her tone must have been very perfectly done from all I have heard.

"Mrs. Neville, an unaccountable pang at her heart, pressed all her remaining biscuits into the baby's hands; told the woman to call upon her next day; heard next day the child was an orphan: and the end of it was, took her to her house and heart, to the intense disgust of numerous nieces and nephews, who had looked on Mrs. Neville as their joint prey. There you have the whole history, I believe."

"It is a very strange story; she must have seen a great many pretty children besides this particular one. Why did she choose her?"

"Fancied she saw in her some resemblance to a dead sister, that was very fondly, and even extravagantly regretted—your aunt, Mrs. Penruddock, I suppose, as she hadn't another sister that I ever heard of."

"If she—the young lady above—is like Mrs. Neville's sister, Mrs. Neville must be very unlike her own people," says the young man, slowly.

"Yes, strange to say, that girl is most absurdly like a portrait of Mrs. Penruddock that hangs in the small drawing-room in South Audley Street, where Mrs. Neville lives. Not that there is anything so very remarkable in that; one sees chance resemblances every day. But you, being one of the family, should see this likeness yourself."

"No; I have no recollection of aunt. My father and she were always on bad terms with each other during her lifetime, and there is no picture of her at the castle. The one you mention was sent to Mrs. Neville at her death. I have been so much abroad that I am quite a stranger to the Wynters and all their set. You know Mrs. Neville?"

"Intimately; and Beauty, too," with an amused smile. "And every Tuesday afternoon Beauty gives me a cup of tea with her own fair little hands."

"Indeed!" exclaimed Penruddock.

"Yes, indeed; you did not think such bliss could be on this miserable earth, did you? And sometimes, not often, I take a nice boy, when I find one, and introduce him to Mrs. Neville."

"Am I a nice boy?" asks Penruddock, with a laugh. "Wilding, if you will introduce me to Mrs. Neville, I shall never forgot it to you as long as I live!"

"And a great deal of good that will do me," says Wilding, mildly. "However, I consent, and on Tuesday you shall make your bow to Mrs. Neville, and worship at Beauty's shrine."

"Oh, thank you, my dear fellow, that you!"

"But one word of warning—don't go and fall in love with her, you know; it wouldn't do at all. I am responsible for you to your father, and it would be the worst possible taste on your part to bring down his condemnation on my head."

"Do not make yourself unhappy about that," says Penruddock, quietly. "It may be my fate to be miserable about Miss Neville—I feel inclined to believe that—but I am not sufficiently vain to flatter myself that she will ever take the trouble to make herself miserable about me."

The Tract Society Meeting.

Eminent Musicians' Arrival.

The Redpath Concert Company will arrive by the 5.15 train from Port Hope. The energetic committee of management of Otonabee Lodge are supplying the lively demand for tickets as quickly as possible. There is no doubt that a large audience will assemble to-night to hear these celebrated musicians.

Military Inspection.

Deputy Adjut...-General Villiers was in town to-day inspecting the armories of the 57th battalion. The movement for forming a city battalion is strengthened by Col. Villiers' friendliness to it. He is strongly in favor of it and no doubt will be able to exercise powerful influence in its behalf.

Nicholls Hospital.

The Lady Superintendent thankfully acknowledges the following donations to the Hospital in February: Mayor Stevenson, carload of wood; Mrs. Wallis, old linen and jelly; Mrs T. Rubidge, cake, pastry and papers; Mrs. Flavelle, illustrated papers; Mrs. R. S. Davidson, preserves; Mrs. George Burnham, Jelly and oranges "A Friend": Clothing and old linen;

The Central Park.

Can nothing be done to put the management of this park into better hands? Last year the scrapings of the streets were put on it. So far so good; but what about there planting, etc.? To put in such unsuitable trees as were planted last year—and especially planting in June, is useless expenditure. The Court House Park will soon be a credit to the managers. Surely something can be done to make Central Park more worthy of us than it is. Let it be handed over to a committee whose energy and good taste will secure better results. It would cost little if the expenditure is well managed, but such managemet as last year means expenditure without any corresponding benefit.

This will be one of the most ambitious amateur dramatic entertainments ever presented in Peterborough, and there is no doubt that it will justify the high expectations the above cast, will lead the public to entertain, and that it will be recognized by a numerous attendance. Plan of reserved seats at Hartley's Music Store. Admission, 25 and 35 cents.

The Grand Junction Accident.

Further Particulars of the Affair—The Condition of the Injured.

Yesterday's accident on the Grand Junction is the current gossip of the town to-day. Further information goes to show that while the train was crossing a long bridge over the Ouse Creek, a short distance from Birdsall, a wheel of one of the coaches became loose, and sliding towards the centre of the axle, caused the car to leave the track, dragging the following cars after it, all falling over to the ice below, a distance of six or seven feet, the engine alone remaining on the track. The smash-up was terrific. The passenger coach is supposed to have fallen on its end, and then over on to its side, throwing everything in two directions.

Mr. Keys, of Campbellford, who was the first to recover in the passenger coach, was thrown behind the stove. When he recovered from the shock he at once took in the situation. He noticed that the clothing of Mrs. Waller, of Campbellford, who was thrown to the side of the car, was on fire, and immediately extinguished it and placed her in an easy position. He next stumbled over Flemming, Commercial Traveller of Montreal, who was bruised and bleeding, and routed him out from among the seats. He then walked along the side of the car, to open the door, when he found Mrs. Jas. Campbell, who had been thrown a considerable distance, with her head wedged into a hat-rack. At first he thought she was a fur coat which had been hanging in the rack, and only became aware that she was a person when he stepped on her foot. He immediately extricated her and soon managed to open the door of the car. With the assistance of others the sufferers were removed to Birdsall station, where medical assistance was secured. Mrs. Clancy, wife of Mr. J. Clancy, of the City hotel, and child, were also unceremoniously thrown about and were both bruised and cut.

Conductor Morris was also shaken up and bruised but not seriously. He is reported to have been standing in the doorway of the baggage car when the car fell, and also to have been wedged between the seats of the passenger coach. However, he was thrown in contact with the hot stove in such a position that his clothing took fire. A large train book containing a large sum of money was partly burnt through, and probably saved Mr. Morris from being more seriously scorched. With the assistance of the brakeman he was extricated and assisted in rescuing the more unfortunate passengers.

A special train left town for the scene of the accident on hearing of the occurrence and returned with Mrs. Clancy and child and Mr. Flemming, about 2 o'clock. Another special train during the afternoon carrying Dr. Boucher and Mr. Hatton, who did all in their power to relieve Mrs. Campbell, went to the scene of the accident. She was brought up on the train yesterday evening and removed to the hospital, where a room was previously prepared for her. She was unconscious ever since the accident. The matron of the hospital stated this morning that Mrs. Campbell was not rational throug the night, but towards morning became rational at times. Her attending physician thinks that she has not received any serious internal injuries, and if brain fever does not set in there is no immediate fear. Her head is badly cut and bruised.

Mrs. Clancy, who was considerably bruised and received a severe cut on her head, under the care of Dr. King is recovering quickly, as is also her child.

Mr. Flemming, who is being attended by Dr. Pigeon, is also doing nicely, and his early recovery is looked for. He is slightly bruised around the head and body.

Conductor Morris is on duty and will have fully recovered in a few days.

Mr. Kays, of Campbellford, escaped with a shaking up and has now completely recovered.

Mrs. Wallace, of Campbellford, received severe injuries, being bruised cut and slightly burned, but under medical treatment is recovering rapidly.

DAMAGE DONE.

The cars damaged and almost completely wrecked are two first class coaches and three freight cars. The top of the bridge was broken off by the cars for three hundred feet, the train going this distance off the track before falling over. The rails were bent and warped in every direction.

It is a surprise to everyone that the falling cars did not break through the ice, and that more serious damage and injuries were not sustained.

The road was all repaired and ready for traffic at 7.30 last night. The trains are running as usual to-day. The debris of the wrecked cars is being cleared up and will be completed to-morrow in all probability.

A large number of persons from town visited the scene of the accident. They describe it as an appalling sight and can hardly realize that the passengers escaped as they did.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

Police Court.

Mr. J. E. McIntyre appeared before Police Magistrate Dumble, charged with selling liquor during prohibitory hours. Mr. O'Meara who appeared for the defendant, objected that the case had been previously disposed of by the magistrate, and that he could not again adjudicate upon it. The magistrate noted the objection, and proceeded with the case. Mr. Adams was sworn and testified that he had heard a noise in the bar on Sunday night last about 12 o'clock and had seen a light from under the door. He also saw several parties coming out of the bar. Other evidence was taken showing that Mr. Intyre the hotel clerk, the bar-tender, and two guests were in the bar at that time. The magistrate found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $20 and costs. Mr. O'Meara gave notice of an appeal. Mr. Edwards appeared for the prosecution.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child alive; and 8 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our "routine": it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

The Protestant Home.

The Annual Meeting—Encouraging Reports from the Secretary and Treasurer—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the lady managers of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held at the Home on Tuesday afternoon.

The following ladies were present: Mesdames Vernon (President), Cox (Treasurer), Hall (Secretary), Wallis, McWilliams, Gilmour, F. M. Haultain, M. Millar, Alex. Smith, Nicholls, T. Hay, Bruce Ferguson and Dunlop.

Mrs. Vernon presided at the meeting.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

After the opening exercises and routine, the Secretary read the following report:

March 2nd, 1886.

The Committee of the P. P. H. again desire to thank God for his watchful care during the past year. Frequently our finances have been very low, scarcely knowing where the next few dollars would come from, but we always found "our extremity God's opportunity."

Our kind friend Mrs. Nicholls, generously sent us last March, the handsome donation of $250.00. May she long be spared as "almoner of Jehovah's bounties," and while blessing others, may she be largely blessed in her own soul. We would advocate the claims of this Home amongst the affluent and those enjoying an easy competence in our community, and who may not as yet have felt interested in it. A little from their abundance would help to make things easier and enable improvements to be made which are much needed.

This Home has been a quiet haven of rest to many a weary one, when no other shelter could be got, and we would ask kind friends to pay its inmates now and again a visit, and see for themselves. "Our Saviour's kindnesses were all personal," and many a lesson of humble submission can be learned from untutored lips, for "a lowly heart that leans on God, is happy anywhere."

"The nobler part of Christian benevolence is not vast largesses, but the merciful visit, the friendly word, the look of sympathy, the cup of cold water, the little unostentatious service, anticipating the wants of others and studying their comforts; God values such, and they are considered as loans to him." Fifty persons have been sheltered during the year, twenty-three the largest number at one time in the Home; present number fifteen; eleven received out-door relief.

We have had three deaths, one an old man bedridden for about five years with paralysis, the next a young woman who died of consumption, and the third an aged woman, who died of Bright's disease.

We record with deep regret the loss of Mrs. Haultain, one of our former Presidents. She ever was alive to all that conduced to the well-being of this institution, and though debarred of late years from taking any active part, she was ready to do all she could towards its support.

The donations for Christmas were more liberal than the former year. We are glad to see those who took an interest in the Home from the beginning still its staunch friends, and that new names have been added to the list of donors; they will be glad to know that their generosity added greatly to the happiness of the inmates. Our grateful thanks to all those who have given religious instruction or held services during the year, to the medical men of the town, ever ready to attend free of charge the call of distress, to the Peterborough Board of Trade for their kind donation, and to those who added so much to the comfort of the inmates, by contributing a coal stove for the hall, to the gentlemen of the press for their kind courtesy and obliging conduct at all times in inserting notices and giving their papers gratis, to the ex-Mayor, Mayor, Town and Township Councils for the help they have given from time to time, to the gentlemen managing the H. T. F. for their timely advice and support, to the Orangemen and McWilliams True Blues, for their generous contributions, and to all who have done us any kindness; also our heartfelt thanks are due Mrs. R. Dennistoun, and all those who took part in the concert given in the Opera House for the benefit of the Home.

Our matron deserves our thanks for the neatness and order in which she has kept the Home, and her kindness to its inmates.

JANE GIFFORD HALL,
Secretary.

ADOPTING THE REPORTS.

Mrs. Gilmour moved, seconded by Mrs. Smith,—That the reports from the Secretary and Treasurer be adopted.—Carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and the officers were re-elected as follows:—

PRESIDENT.—Mrs. Vernon.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Mrs. Wallis.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Mrs. Gilmour.
TREASURER—Mrs. Cox.
SECRETARY—Mrs. Hall.

The names of Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. McWilliams were added to the Committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

Omemee.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

The late storms blocking the roads together with the severe cold weather causes our town to assume an usually quiet appearance.

The annual races under the Omemee Trotting Club were held on the ice on the 25th and 26th. The proceedings ended up very quietly and orderly—for so many sports participating, from all surrounding points. The following were the winners:—

1st money, "Mayflower," owned by McCrea, Beaverton.

2nd money by Bartlett's, Lindsay.

3rd money by "Billy F," A. Hamilton, Emily.

The many friends of Messrs. Kincaid & McWilliams here, join in wishing them every success in their new enterprise—and such cannot otherwise be if there is exercised the same energy, push and straightforward dealing as characterized their career in managing a similar business here, the loss of which is being sadly felt since their removal to your town, no one else apparently wishing to embark in such an enterprise.

Regular communication of Lorne Lodge A. F. & A. M., No. 375, Thursday evening, March 4th.

Wm. A. Kincaid, formerly clerk in Mr. J. McNeely's hardware here, has been on a visit for a few days, after seven months' absence. He is looking well, and is content with his situation, at present in McKee's hardware establishment, Peterborough.

The officers of the 45th Battalion are pleased to hear of the enthusiasm shown towards getting up a City Battalion in Peterborough. In times of peace is the best time to prepare to keep peace.

Cholera Preventative.

In order to withstand Cholera and such like epidemics a perfect purity of blood, and the proper action of the stomach are required. To insure that end, is the cheapest, most available and complete manner, use McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia and Impure Blood. There is no purer, safer or more reliable remedy in existence for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, etc. Ask your neighbour or any person who has used it. Sold by druggists. d50-eod-w8-1t

Gold dust of the value of $3,300 was sent to Lethbridge, N.W.T., from the Sweet Grass hills. That district is believed to be exceedingly auriferous.

Mr. Gladstone and Home Rule.

There are signs that Mr. Gladstone is elaborating a working scheme for Home Rule with the assistance of Sir R. G. C. Hamilton, the intelligent and conscientious Under-Secretary for Ireland. If this be the case, it tends to confirm the statement that Earl Spencer has given material aid to Mr. Gladstone in the formation of his Home Rule policy, and will measurably strengthen the hope of effecting a working settlement upon which the Government can afford to face the country at the next elections. The only danger at present impending over the Government's prospects of successfully disposing of the Home Rule question is that which may result from the now no longer doubted combination between Lord Randolph Churchill and Mr. Chamberlain, but the extent or precise purpose of the alliance being unknown, its harmful capacity cannot be estimated. The unusual action of the Associated Chambers of Commerce in adopting resolutions opposing Home Rule as inimical to the trade of both Great Britain and Ireland, indicates the pressure brought to bear upon the meeting by financial bodies interested in mortgages upon property in Ireland, and is a fresh argument in favor of a land bill prepared upon the lines laid down by Mr. Robert Giffen.

Eating the Leek.

Irish-Canadian.

The Mail has made its peace with Warden Massie, to whom it offers an humble apology for publishing certain letters reflecting upon the management and internal economy of the Central Prison. This is rather a shabby back-down from the lofty position assumed by our contemporary when it was informed for the first time by Mr. Massie's counsel that it would have to answer in a court of law as to the allegations contained in these letters, at a possible cost of $20,000. The readers of the Mail will remember how eager for the fray that journal was—how jubilant it felt at the prospect of a trial in so proper a tribunal as the court of assize, where alone—the Mail said—there would be scope sufficient to bring out all the facts in connection with the matter in dispute. The Mail then refused to surrender its authority for the statements concerning the Central prison which had appeared in its columns, and intimated that it was prepared to accommodate Mr. Massie by defending itself against his proposed action. But like that of Bob Acres, the courage of the Mail has oozed through its fingers' ends within the last few weeks; and we now find it cringing where only a short time ago it was rampant, panting for an opportunity to tear down the walls of the Central Prison and lay bare all its alleged iniquities. The roar of the lion has subsided into the gentle coo of the sucking dove; and the clouded Warden has been metamorphosed by his former censor into a very angel of light.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

MONDAY, MARCH, 1st.

After routine, several bills were read a first time. Among others an act further to amend the Consolidated Railway Act by Mr. Mulock.

Mr. McLelan, in answer to Mr. Cartwright, said the gross debt to date is $281,314,532. Of this amount $14,862,800 is represented by temporary loans from banks or other parties.

Mr. Coursol inquired whether the Government, after the conviction of Riel, appointed a medical commission to inquire into the mental condition of the prisoner, and if so, whether the commission forwarded the report, and if that report would be laid before the House.

In reply, Sir John said in consequence of certain representations that had been made to the Government, they caused an inquiry to be made by two medical practitioners into the accountability of Riel after his conviction, and a report was also made to the Government by the visiting physician of the prison. These reports would be laid on the table at once if moved for.

TUESDAY, MARCH 2nd.

The Minister of Finance told Mr. Cartwright to-day in the House that the estimates would be brought down early, and Sir John told Mr. Blake that he did not know yet just what Northwest papers would be brought down. In regard to this Northwest matter there are two incidents: In debating the address in the Senate to Mr. Bellerose denounced the Government in strong terms for executing Riel. They (the Government) were traitors and criminals. The National party, he said, was now an accomplished fact, and they would stand up for their rights as the Irish did in England, "and if it comes to fighting," he exclaimed, "we can do that too." The second one is furnished by Mr. Landry, a former supporter of the Government, who gives notice that he will move on Friday the following resolution:

"That this House feels it its duty to express its deep regret that the sentence of death passed upon Louis Reil, convicted of high treason, was allowed to be carried into execution."

Whether this is prompted by the Government in some way, or is a motion to hang over the head of the Prime Minister like the sword of Damocles till all the papers are brought down or refused, it is hard to say. It is unexpected so early, and is startling in its directness.

Mr. Peter Mitchell inquired when some two-year-old returns he moved for were to be brought down.

Mr. Chapleau answered by rising and presenting a return a foot high, giving a list of shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway. The House sat only five minutes.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

MONDAY, MARCH 1st.

The House sat for half an hour to-day. Mr. Mowat introduced a bill respecting the provisional county of Haliburton. Mr. Brereton's bill respecting the consolidated debt of Port Hope was read a second time.

Mr. Monks and Mr. Freeman's bills to amend the Municipal Act were read a second time and sent to the Municipal Committee. Mr. Freeman's bill is designed to stop stock-watering by gas and water companies.

Mr. Pardee has introduced a bill increasing the price of mining lands from $1 to $2 per acre.

TUESDAY, MARCH 2nd.

In the Legislature to-day Hon. A. M. Ross introduced a bill to amend the act respecting taxation of patented lands in Algoma, and one to consolidate and amend the Agricultural and Arts Act.

In the committee for the liquor license resolutions, Treasurer Ross explained that tavern and shop licenses in villages would be increased by only $60, instead of $70, and in townships by only $30, instead of $40; also that the price of druggists' and shop licenses under the Scott Act would be $75 in cities, $50 in towns, and $30 elsewhere, instead of $100, $80 and $40 as originally proposed.

Mr. Hardy, in moving the second reading of the bill to amend the Liquor License Act, said that he proposed to permit holders of wine and beer licenses to sell light foreign wines as well as Canadian wines. The bill was read a second time.

Hon. T. B. Pardee moved the second reading of a bill respecting free grants and homesteads to settlers on the Rainy River district. The bill provides that the male or female head of a family with children under 10 years of age may be located for a free grant of 160 acres; that all over 18, without children, should be entitled to 80 acres, and that in addition to location each head of a family having children under 18 years old residing with him may purchase the adjoining 80 acres at $1 per acre—one-fourth cash, the remainder in three years; a male of 18 years may have a pre-emptory 80 acres at $1 per year. Patents may issue three years after location. Settlers are to be allowed to cut timber for buildings, fences and fuel. He referred to the difficulty created by the boundary dispute in the settlement of this country.

Mr. Cosmos spoke with great enthusiasm of the country, and said that the fertile belt was 100 miles long, and from 20 to 30 broad.

Several members objected that the grant to unmarried men was too small.

The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Fraser moved the second reading of the bill for compensation to workmen. He explained that it is based mainly on the Imperial Act, but that it goes further. It gives a right of action to a workman who is injured either by the negligence of a fellow-employee, or even where the act is done in obedience to the rules or by-laws of an employer. It also relates to the working of trains, switches, etc. It having been held at courts that the Railway Act of 1881 did not apply to railways not under control of the Province—that is, not chartered or which have not remained afterwards under Provincial control—section four makes it clear that the act is intended to do so, and the issue of the Provincial right to control will be fought out in the courts. Provision is made by which, under exceptional cases, a workman may contract himself out of the act, but the clauses relating to this are very strict, and it must be shown to the satisfaction of the court that the workman has received full compensation in satisfaction of waiving his right under the act.

After recess Mr. Meredith spoke in favor of the bill, and after remarks by Mr. Merrick, the bill was read a second time.

Mr. Fraser's bill to amend the Assessment Act so as to make it clear that wage earners are not liable to taxation, was read a second time.

The Treasurer's bill providing for a Provincial audit was passed through committee.

The House went into Committee of Supply, and passed the item under the heads of Education and public institutions.

TEA MEETING.

On Tuesday evening a tea meeting was held in the line Baptist Church. Although some of the side lines were blocked with snow, there was a good attendance of the members and congregation. Quite a number of the friends from town were also present. After partaking of the eatables, of which a bountiful supply had been provided by the ladies of the church, the company, at the request of the chairman (the Rev. Mr. St. Dalmas), directed their attention toward the platform, where he predicted an intellectual repast was in store for them. Subsequent events proved this prediction to be well founded, for, after due introduction, the Rev. Mr. Munro, of Peterborough, came forward and gave an eloquent lecture on the "Bible." The lecturer had with him a photograph of the stone found in Persia which furnished the key to the cuneiform writing of the Assyrians, and thus placing within our reach positive proof of the correctness of Bible history.

The Rev. Mr. Macfarlane, of Lakefield, followed with a stirring address on the "Church."

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the excellent music furnished by the choir.

About eleven o'clock, after votes of thanks had been tendered to the speakers, ladies and choir, the happy evening came to a close.

BOVINE TRIBULATIONS.

On Friday last as Mr. Chas. Robinson was threshing peas at Mr. A. Nichols' a rather peculiar accident happened. It appears that some cows were feeding about the machine and one of them with the amiability and gentleness which distinguishes animals of the bovine persuasion, on such occasions charged and succeeded in throwing one of the others upon the tumbling shaft. Before the poor brute could get up its hair and hide become wound about the shaft in such a manner as to entirely skin the breast and part of the under part of the animal's body. As soon as the machine was stopped it was found that the skinning process had been so complete that it was necessary in order to liberate the animal to turn the shaft backwards with a crank. When last heard from the animal was doing as well as could be expected.

The Rev. Messrs. McFarlane and Leroyd are holding a series of revival meetings in this place.

Mr. E. Quinn has been engaged in cutting ice for Messrs. Roseborough and Fobert.

Snowballing has been in vogue in this place lately. One match between the iron and blood workers resulted in a draw. Bridgenorth deserves to rank with the foremost cities in our land for the progress it has made in this high and ennobling pastime. There is plenty of evidence in existence, especially in the north, of the prowess and accuracy with which the average Bridgenorthian can "shy" a snowball.

Two parties the week before last—one at Mr. W. Mann's and one at Mr John Telfords. Another at Mr. Thomas Cullens on Tuesday night.

A social was held in the Baptist Church on Friday evening.

No school on Tuesday afternoon as Miss Whitfield was absent attending the funeral of the late Isaac Robinson.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable," or "El Padre" brand of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being a loser thereby.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $120 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to these outof employment to make money.

CHAPTER IV.

IN THE ROW.

All yesterday the rain fell heavily. Not in quiet showers, but with a steady downpour that drenched the world, rendering the park a lonely wilderness, and the flats deserted.

To-day the sun, as though weary of yesterday's inaction, is out again, going its busy round, and casting its warm beams on rich and poor, simple and wise, alike.

The Row is crowded—filled to overflowing with the gayly-dressed throng that has come out to bask in the glad warmth of the sunshine, and revel in the sense of well-being engendered by the softness and sweetness of the rushing breeze.

"The heaven shows lively art and hue,
Of sundry shapes and colors new,
And laughs upon the earth!"

A faint languor, born of the increasing heat, pervades the air.

But for the gentle wind that dances gayly hither and thither, wooing with its tender touch each thing it passes, the heat would be almost insupportable.

The occupants of the chairs seem drowsily inclined, and answer in soft monosyllables those with energy sufficient left to question them.

One old lady, dominant of the carriages that pass and repass incessantly, has fallen into a sound and refreshing slumber, made musical by snores low but deep.

The very loungers on the railings have grown silent, as though speech is irksome, and conversation not to be borne, and content themselves with gazing upon the beauty that is carried by them as the tide of fashion ebbs and flows.

A dark green Victoria, exquisitely appointed, and drawn by two bright bay ponies, claims, and not at all unjustly, the very largest share of attention.

Not so much the Victoria, perhaps, as Mrs. Neville, to whom it belongs, and who is now seated in it, with her adopted daughter beside her.

Miss Neville, as usual, is faultlessly attired in some pale fabric, untouched by color of any sort, and is looking more than ordinarily lovely.

Her large dark eyes, blue as the deep czar violet, and tinged with melancholy, are in perfet harmony with the cream-colored hat she wears.

A little suspicion of crimson adorns each cheek. Her lips are parted.

She seems indeed a very phantom of delight.

"A lovely apparition sent—"

not so much to be a moment's ornament as a lasting joy.

"There is Dick Penruddock," said Mrs. Neville, suddenly. "I want to speak to him."

Leaning forward, she says something to her coachman, and presently the carriage is drawn up beside the railings, and, with a smile and a nod, Mrs. Neville beckons the young man to her side.

It is quite a month since that night at the opera, where Penruddock first saw Maud Neville—a month full of growing hopes and disheartening fears.

At first, Mrs. Neville had been averse to the acquaintance altogether, bearing a strange grudge to the very name of Penruddock, as she held it responsible for all the ills that had befallen her beloved sister.

She had scolded Wilding in her harmless fashion as severely as she could scold any one for having brought one of "those people," as she termed them, within her doors, more especially the boy who had succeeded to the property that should by right have belonged to the little Hilda, her dead sister's only child.

But time and Dick Penruddock's charm of manner had conquered prejudice and vague suspicion; and Mrs. Neville, after many days, acknowledged even to herself that she liked the young man—nay, almost loved him, in spite of his name and parentage.

Just now he comes gladly up to the side of the Victoria and takes her hand, and beams upon her, and then glances past her to accept with gratitude the slow bow and very faint smile of recognition that Miss Neville is so condescending as to bestow upon him.

"Such a chance to see you in this confusion!" says Mrs. Neville, kindly. "And can you come and dine to-night? It is short notice, of course, for such a fashionable boy as you are; but I really want you, and you must come."

"If you really want me, I shall of course come—your wishes are commands not to be disputed," says Penruddock, after a decently hesitation, wherein he has decided on telling a great fib to the other people with whom he is in duty bound to pass his evening. "But your dance—"

"Is later on—yes. But I have two or three old friends coming to dine, and they are very charming, of course, and I quite love them, you will understand; but old friends, as a rule, are just the least little bit tedious sometimes, don't you think? And I want you to help me with them. I may depend upon you?"

"You may, indeed."

"All right, Maud said," said Mrs. Neville, with a faint sigh of relief.

To know that this pleasant boy will be on the spot to make conversation and carry it on when her own powers fail is an inexpressible comfort to her.

"Did Miss Neville say that? I did not dare to believe that she had so good an opinion of me. To be considered worthy of trust is a very great compliment indeed," says Dick, glancing past Mrs. Neville again, to gaze somewhat wistfully at the owner of the cream-colored hat.

But she, beyond the first slight recognition and somewhat haughty inclination of her small head, has taken not the slightest notice of him.

She has even turned her head away, and is apparently lost in contemplation of the brilliant and constantly increasing crowd around.

"I envy you the princess, Miss Neville," says Penruddock at length, in despair, filled with a sudden determination to make her speak, and to compel her large, thoughtful eyes to meet his own, if only for a single instant. "Rather nice, her ponies, don't you think?"

"Not so highly bred as Mrs. Gabbe's, nor so perfect in any way," returns Miss Neville, unsympathetically, letting her eyes rest on him for a very brief moment, and making him a present of a grave, pleasant but cold little smile.

After which she turns her head away again, as though desirous of dropping out of the conversation.

Penruddock is piqued, almost angry. Already he has learned the value of position, money, the world's adulation; yet this girl alone treats him with open coldness and repelling that borders on positive aversion; though she herself is utterly without position, and only indebted to the popularity Mrs. Neville enjoys with both sexes for her admittance into society.

Two or three men coming up to the Victoria at this moment stay to speak to its occupants, and to all Miss Neville gives the same cold greeting, the same frigid, but undeniably entrancing, smile.

Perhaps her somewhat insolent indifference is her chief charm; or it may be that it lies in the half-mournful dignity expressive of an everlasting if silent regret that marks her every glance and movement.

A tall dark man, pushing his way through the others, makes a low bow to Mrs. Neville, and then raises his hat deferentially to the beauty of the hour.

Maud acknowledges his presence with a salutation that is certainly somewhat colder than those accorded to the others to-day.

"How full the Row is this afternoon!" says Mrs. Neville, genially, who has made the same remark to all the others straight through.

"Yes," says Captain Saumarez, the new-comer. "Really, I dare say; but once I had caught sight of your unapproachable ponies I could see nothing else. It seems too much luck to meet you this afternoon with the certainty of meeting you again this evening. Thanks so much for the card! May I venture to hope for one dance to-night, Miss Neville?—or do I, as usual, ask too late?"

"Quite too late. Every dance is promised."

She barely looks at him as she speaks.

"What all, all? I am indeed unfortunate—there is no denying that! Is there nobody you could throw over to give me even one poor dance?"

"I never throw over my partners," says Miss Neville, distinctly; "my conscience is opposed to that, and will not allow me to break my word—once given."

"Yet I think—short as is our acquaintance—I remember one partner ignominiously consigned to the background for no particular reason," replies he, meaningly.

"Do you?" innocently. "My memory is not my strong point, so I shall not discuss the subject. But"—with a flash from the violet eyes—"I think I may take upon myself to say that you are wrong when you say there was no 'particular reason' for my so acting."

"Unless caprice be a reason," retorts he, saying it in quite a low tone.

"I do not understand you," says Miss Neville, with some haughtiness of look and manner; "nor do I desire to do so."

"'Tis folly to remember,'" quotes he from a song she herself is in the habit of singing, and with a short, unmirthful laugh. "You are right. To encourage forgetfulness should be one of our greatest aims. But to return to our first discussion. I am indeed the unhappiest of men. Is there no hope that you will change your mind, and let me live in the expectation of being favored with one waltz?"

"I can offer you no such hope," returns she, with so much pointed decision in her voice and expression that Saumarez, turning sharply on his heel, takes off his hat with a frowning bow and a somewhat vindictive glance, and next the minute has disappeared among the crowd.

There is a slight but perceptible pause after he has gone. The other men have melted away before this, and only Penruddock remains.

"I hardly think I shall stay on for your dance," he says, presently, with some hesitation, looking disappointed, and speaking in a very dejected tone.

That little bit of information just given by Miss Neville to the effect that all her dances were disposed of has checked his ardor for the Audley Street "small and early," and has, in fact, reduced him to a state that borders on despair.

About a week ago, Miss Neville had almost promised him a waltz as to this particular dance, but doubtless she has by this time forgotten all about such a promise, and has given the waltz in question to some more favored individual.

"My dear child, why not?" asks Mrs. Neville, kindly, struck by the sudden melancholy of his appearance. "I do hope, my dear Dick, you are not given to moping. So many young men mope nowadays. I believe they call it by a finer name, but it really comes to the same thing. Now, why won't you stay on for my dance to-night?"

"It sounds rude, and it is rude," confesses Mr. Penruddock, with some contrition; "but the fact is, I know I shouldn't enjoy it—I—couldn't stand it," says Dick, with a reproachful glance at Beauty, who sits apparently careless and unmoved, looking before her.

But at this moment Miss Neville sees fit to join in the conversation.

She turns her head slowly, and letting her handsome eyes meet Penruddock's, chains him to the spot by the very power of her beauty.

"Then I suppose I am at liberty to give away that third waltz that I promised you at Lady Ryecroft's?" she asks, slowly, without removing her gaze.

"You remember it? I thought perhaps you had forgotten," says Penruddock, eagerly. "No, do not give it away. Dear Mrs. Neville, do not think me unstable, or fickle, or anything that way, but the fact is, nothing on earth should keep me from your duties to-night."

He flushes a dark red, laughs a little, raises his hat, and, as though unable longer to endure the rather mischievous smile in Miss Neville's blue eyes, beats a hasty retreat.

"He is a dear boy,—quite charming," says Mrs. Neville, who is feeling puzzled, "but certainly a little vague. So very unlike his father, who was the most unpleasantly matter-of-fact person I ever met. What were you saying to Captain Saumarez, Maudie? I saw that you were talking to him, but you did not seem very genial, either of you."

A Meeting of the Irish National League.

A meeting of the Irish National League was held in the League rooms last night for the transaction of ordinary business. There was a fair attendance and the usual interested was manifested in the work of the League.

Knights of Labor.

A meeting of those interested in the forming of a branch of the Knights of Labor, was held in Trennum's Hall yesterday evening. There was a large gathering and a live interest was manifested. Mr. Marsh, the provincial organizer, who was expected to be present failed to make connections and did not put in an appearance. The date of his arrival hereafter is indefinite.

The Shoemakers' Controversy.

Mr. Johnston Carey wishes us to state that he is desirous of avoiding any controversy with the shoemakers, involving personalities, and that he is only anxious for a meeting with the men with a view of settling the matter in that way or by an arbitration. If this or a similiar arrangement is not arrived at, matters will have to take their course. Meanwhile Mr. Carey says he is willing to pay the highest current rate of wages.

The Redpath Concert Company.

The Oddfellows of Otonabee Lodge are to be congratulated on the marked success of the concert given last evening under their auspices by the Redpath Concert Company. There was a good house, not as numerous as might have been, but composed of cultured citizens, most of whom could appreciate and, of course, enjoy the delightful musical treat presented. The company is not a large one, being composed of five members, but these are all artists in the special parts they fill in the organization, and every member last night more than fulfilled the most sanguine expectations. Mr. Gilder, the piano virtuoso, is a most brilliant master of his art. Quiet and unassuming in manner, he is surpassingly effective. In all his selections, altogether four in number, he displayed remarkable technical expertness, combined with a taste and feeling that made his playing a delight, and secured him the hearty recall he received. Miss Chamberlin, the whistling soloist, was a great success. The oddity of the style of performance at first awakened curiosity, but as she proceeded this gave place to admiration. Some idea of the nature of her wonderful vibilation may be gathered from the style of her selections —the bolero from the "Sicilian Vespers" and the "Chimes of Normandy." She was enthusiastically encored and gave in magnificent manner, with an imitative perfection, the "Mocking Bird." Mr. Frank Reynolds is a many-sided artist, with a rare fund of rich, sparkling and refined humor. He is a very pleasing baritone and sings with great expression and effect. His first double number was a great success, especially the "Adventures of a Frenchman," and his humorous recitals were inexpressably funny and kept the house hilarious with "laughter holding both its sides." The violin playing of Miss Christie was exceptionally brilliant, and she scored a great triumph, being, both times of her appearance, heartily recalled. Her bowing is even and flexible, while her fingering is very correct and rapid in shifts. With a rich, pure, even-toned and thoroughly cultured voice, Miss Warner, the "concert soprano" of the company, appeared to great advantage in her several numbers, but there was "lost that distinctness of enunciation which is essential to the enjoyment of the ballad, especially. Taking the company as a whole, it is a constellation, every member marking as a star. The entertainment given last night was a most delightful one, and no audience ever left the Opera House better pleased. The public owe a debt of gratitude to the Otonabee Oddfellows for bringing so classical a programme, rendered, withal, in so regular a manner; and, if the Order fails to reap much financial advantage, they have accumulated a fund of public gratitude, upon which they can draw at sight, whenever they choose to figure again as impresarios.

Machinery Shipment.

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Co. shipped to Quebec city yesterday a carload of mill machinery for a large mill at that point. This speaks well for the Company's manufactures.

With Confidence!

We make the announcement on first page of a partial list of our Spring importations, and in doing so we pledge ourselves to maintain throughout the season, that high standard of merit for the best quality of fine Dry Goods, for which the Golden Lion is noted. R. FAIR.

Migratory Movements.

This morning the following persons left town for the indicated points, by C. P. R.:—Mrs. Sykes and daughter for Denver, Col.; Mr. James B. Fife, wife and family of five, for Emmetsburg, Iowa; Mr. Patrick Kearney and wife for Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. Thomas Bell and wife, Messrs. Frank Bell, Alex. Cochrane and Wm. Sanderson, for Filley, Nebraska; Mr. Fife and Mr. Bell take each a carload of stock and effects; Mr. Alex. Elliott, of the C. P. R. up town agency supplied the tickets.

A Smallpox Plea.

A Burleigh laborer who got himself into a row last night and was captured by P. C. Adams and brought before the Magistrate this morning, entered a rather peculiar plea that secured him his dismissal on the double quick. He said his family were dying of smallpox, and that he wanted to go to Ottawa as soon as possible. When he reached the market square breathing more freely he chuckled to himself and muttered "smallpox" significantly at times.

Failed to Connect.

The local curlers who composed the rink defeated by a rink of the Lakefield curlers not satisfied with the result of Monday's game, challenged the Lakefield rink to play a game in the Charlotte street rink yesterday for a barrel of flour, to be given to the Protestant Home, the losing side, of course having to pay for the flour. The Lakefielders accepted the challenge, but for reasons unexplained did not show up at the appointed time. Their memories or their courage failed. Thus the bottom fell out of the bargain and the barrel.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

Police Court.

John Martin appeared before Police Magistrate Humble this morning, on a charge of vagrancy. Martin had just been released from gaol, after having served a term of one month for a similar offence, having sprained his ankle and being unable to work. He admitted the charge and asked for one month more, as his ankle had not recovered sufficiently to be of use. The magistrate on asking him if he wished a ticket to his home, and being answered in the negative, gave him two months to recuperate.

John Cote, from Burleigh Falls, was charged by P. C. Adams, with committing a breach of the peace. Cote pleaded that he did not commence the row, that the other fellow, who made off when P. C. Adams appeared, struck him over the eye with a pop bottle, and also further pleaded that his family of three children were dying with smallpox. The magistrate did not wait for more evidence, but told him he was dismissed. He thanked the court, and explained that his family was in Ottawa and that he would leave for that city immediately, and to confirm his statement showed his ticket.

Piano Recital.

On Tuesday evening the first of the series of fortnightly piano recitals was given in Prof. Parker's rooms, Hunter Street, to a select audience. The first piece on the programme Allegro in, C Minor, Adagio, A Major, Beethoven, was given by Mr. Parker, and fully sustained the reputation he has already gained. Miss Russell of Toronto, the possessor of a rich and well-cultivated voice gave a vocal selection. The third piece on the programme was an instrumental solo "Scottish Airs" by Miss Hall, who is a pianist of brilliant execution and good taste, shows that she has had good training as well as ability. Mr. Manning, who is coming out as a vocalist gave a tenor solo in fine voice. Miss Stevenson's selection from Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, was given in a finished manner, showing her ability as a thorough musician. Mrs. W. Sanderson, who possesses a rich soprano voice sang very nicely "Queen of the Night." After intermission, Mr. Parker gave a charming piano solo. Miss Weir sang very nicely "Countless Warblers." "Il Trovatore" by Mr. Parker and Miss McNab was very well played. Mr. Geale, who is fast becoming a popular vocalist, gave a capital sailor song. Mr. Parker delighted the audience with Home Sweet Home, as arranged by himself, a delightful piece of music. The piano used on this occasion was one by Messrs. Newcombe, of Toronto, and has a remarkably rich bass and very brilliant and high sounding treble and which is fast becoming popular in this country. Mr. Parker will give his next recital assisted by pupils on Tuesday, March 16th. Those who are favored by invitations will do well to attend, as they will have a rich treat.

To Subscribers.

Subscribers to the DAILY EVENING EXAMINER will greatly oblige us by reporting promptly any neglect in the delivery of their paper.

On Duty.

Mr. Culpin has taken the oath of office, and ordered a blue suit with brass buttons. He is now Chief of the police force and shows that better he on their good behaviour.

Instructive and Able.

The Norwood Register says:—"The Rev. E. F. Torrence, of Peterborough, in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening last, delivered a lecture on 'Martin Luther.' The lecture was instructive and able and was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. This is the last lecture of the course and our Presbyterian friends deserve the thanks of the people of the village for providing such a series of rich literary treats."

All Improving.

The several persons, injured in the Ouse river accident on the Grand Junction last Tuesday, are, it is gratifying to report, improving. Mrs. James Campbell, according to a telephonic message from the Nicholls hospital, is easier this afternoon. Mrs Clancy and child are recovering rapidly. Mr. D. A. Flemming, commercial traveller, now lying at the Oriental, is showing marked improvement. His wife arrived this morning from Montreal.

A Pointer for the Police.

It may not be a pointer however, but there is without a doubt, a defunct dog of the yellow variety, lying exposed on the corner of Water and Brock streets for the past two or three days, awaiting civic interment. If the health inspector, who by the way, has had diversified experience in canine complications, will report the matter to the new Chief of Police and if the latter will instruct one of the force to take steps for the burial of the cadaver, the public health may be protected.

Enterprising Bellegbem.

Our friend Bellegbem, says the Norwood Register, one of Peterborough's most enterprising business men, was in town on Monday last superintending the delivery of several loads of furniture from his establishment. Dan. does a roaring trade in this section and attributes his success to fair dealing, a liberal use of printer's ink and supplying the public with substantial and stylish furniture at moderate prices. While in town he called on "ye editor" and left his "measure" for a good sized ad. which our readers will find in another colun.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two eminent trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 20 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and opinions by eminent surgeons. When writing please mention this paper. COME HOME FROM ROME.

Right Royal Reception of Bishop Jamot,

On His Arrival from Rome.

"Welcome!" "Caed Mille Failthe!" "Bienvenu!"

Addresses from Priests and People.

On the 14th of November his Lordship Dr. John Francis Jamot, Bishop of Peterborough, departed from his diocese to proceed to the Eternal City, to present his duty and an account of his stewardship to his Holiness, Leo xiii, and, though the expressions of the love and reverence felt for him by his people, evoked by that occasion, were earnest, and flattering, yet they were in no way comparable to the reverential enthusiasm, his safe return from his

On Sunday, Feb. 20th his congregation, being apprised of his speedy home-coming, actively entered upon arrangements to give their beloved Bishop a reception which would worthily express, their veneration for him and their rejoicing at his safe return; and the culmination is seen in the enthusiastic reception of to-day.

Bishop Jamot had a pleasant outward trip, and landed first in Ireland. From the Green Isle he went to France, and spent some days in his native land on his way to Rome, where, on his arrival, he met with a warm and GRACIOUS WELCOME FROM THE SUPREME PONTIFF.

On his return he again visited France, and had the felicity of conducting confirmation ceremonies in his native parish. He sailed from France on February 24th, and reached New York after a very stormy passage. He arrived in Toronto on Wednesday evening and remained the guest of Archbishop Lynch, at St. Michael's palace, till this morning, when he set out for Peterborough, where he arrived to-day at noon.

Long before the train was due, the platform of the station was covered with people awaiting the arrival of the train. Besides the following reception committee was in attendance:

Messrs. Thos. Cahill, chairman, Thos. Kelly, secretary, H. LeBrun, N. T. Leplante, John Delaney, John Hackett, E. Phelan, Robt. White, B. Morrow, F. J. Daly, John Lynch, Daniel Sullivan, Martin McFadden, W. J. Devlin, Jas. Dufus, Jas. Crowley, Jas. Hayes, Thos. Egan, Dr. O'Sullivan, John Doherty, Thos Dolan, Dr. Crevier, John Sullivan, Jas. Maloney, Michael Fes, Jas. Sheehy, Chas. Grant, Roger Devlin, Jas. Corkery, T. B. Hayes, John O'Meara, Geo. Giroux, M. Quinlan, John McIlmoyle, Wm. Hickey, R. W. Muncaster, Jas. H. O'Shea, Jas. Bogue and H Carveth.

The Fire Brigade Band was present, and as the train drew into the station, struck up the welcome of "Home, Sweet Home.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME."

The clergy were also present and also with those that arrived on the same train as His Lordship; and he, accompanied by these and the committee of reception, entered sleighs, which to the number of about a dozen, preceded by the band, progressed to the episcopal palace, from the gate of which extended a double column of sanctuary boys reaching to the doors.

Meanwhile the people poured into the cathedral till the spacious building was packed in every part. The church had been specially beautified and decorated for the occasion. A handsome, evergreen arch, with cross surmounting, spanned the gateway to the church grounds and bore the greeting,

"WELCOME OUR BISHOP."

Over the vestibule door, at the main entrance to the church was the motto in French, Hommages a notre eveque, (Homage to Our Bishop). Over the same door on the inner side was a scroll bearing the words, Salve Pastor Bonus (Hail, Good Pastor).

Inside the decorations were beautiful. The glittering mass of the high altar was flanked on either side with evergreen trees, and on the wall was emblazoned on the left side, Vivat Vivat, Pastor Bonus (Long Live Our Good Shepherd), and on the right side, Laudate Dominum omnes gentes, (Praise the Lord all ye People). The pillars of the gallery were clad in evergreens, the rails while overhead were stretched decorating festoons of red, white and blue bunting. On the front of the nave gallery, were the following mottoes. "With Joy We Greet Our Beloved Bishop," "Joy Reigns Supreme," "O Rest With Us Dear Bishop Now," "May God Your Labours Bless." "God Bless Our Pastor and Father."

SWATHED IN BUNTING IN TRICOLOR,

During the interval the Bishop and clerical party entered the palace and having assumed the episcopal and clerical robes, respectively, issued forth, and formed procession of the following clergy:—Vicar-General Laurent, Lindsay; Vicar-Gen. Laurent, Toronto, Rev. Father O'Connell, Doure; Rev. Father Kelly, Eniamore; Rev. Father Casey, Campbellford; Rev. Father Brown, Port Hope; Rev. Father Murray, Cobourg; Rev. Father Quirk, Hastings; Rev. Father McEvoy, Feselon Falls; Rev. Father Connolly, Downeyville; Rev. Father Bretherton, who accompanied His Lordship on his visit to Rome, and Rev. Father McClosky, Victoria Road; preceded by thurifer, cross-bearer, and sanctuary boys.

As the procession entered the church, His Lordship knelt and performed his devotions. Next rising he received the homage of his clergy. The procession then advanced to the altar, the tones of the Magnificat, by full choir, filling the sacred edifice "with sounding praise." His Lordship then took his place on the episcopal throne, and after the celebration of the cermony of the Pontifical, Vicar General Laurent, of Lindsay, read and and presented the following

ADDRESS FROM THE CLERGY:

To The Most Rev. J. F. Jamot, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough:

May it please your Lordship,—We, the Priests of the Diocese of Peterborough, are to-day assembled to extend your Lordship a hearty welcome on your return from the Eternal City. A few months ago, in obedience to the call of duty, you set out upon your journey to the Shrine of the Apostles. Needless to say, it was an occasion of sorrow to us, but to-day our hearts expand with delight to have you once more in our midst.

After twelve years of faithful service in the Episcopate, you have made your first official visit to Rome, the centre of Catholicity, in order to pay homage to our Holy Father Pope Leo XIII, and lay at his feet a statement of the work done in your Lordship's extensive Diocese, for the glory of God and the good of souls, and to be the bearer back to us of innumerable favors and abundant blessings.

We take this occasion of expressing our high esteem and great veneration for the many good and noble qualities of head and heart possessed by your Lordship. At the call of duty, which has ever been your guiding star, you left your native land La Belle France, to devote yourself to missionary work in this Canada of ours. You labored faithfully and zealously as a Priest, so much so that in due time you were called to a high and onerous office of a Bishop in the church of God. In accordance with ecclesiastical polity you were chosen to rule because you had always know how to obey.

This is not the time nor the place to particularise your many and great achievements, either as Priest or Bishop. Even to attempt a recapitulation thereof would be distasteful to your Lordship, knowing as we do how anxious you are to refer all good works to God, in harmony with that beautiful expression of the sweet Psalmist of Israel: Non nobis, Domine, non nobis, sed nomini tuo da gloriam. But in justice to a magnificent career, upon which the angels look with delight, we must mention your untiring labors among the Aborigines of the North Shore, as well as among the friendless immigrants who have come, axe in hand, to carve out a home for themselves amidst the pines of Parry Sound and Muskoka. The Schools, the Orphan Asylums, the Churches and the Missions established there are the landmarks of Christianity and Civilization, and the memory of these monuments to your zeal shall endure forever.

Nor did your Lordship's devotion to duty diminish when, within the last lustrum, you were appointed to rule over the newly formed Diocese of Peterborough. The enlargement and embellishment of St. Peter's Cathedral in this your Episcopal City, and the many improvements in the several parishes of your Diocese, bear ample witness to your ceaseless activity and unflagging energy. But to us who know your Lordship intimately and well, it is not the external work accomplished by you, great as it undoubtedly is, that calls forth our sincerest love, respect and admiration. Your fervent piety, your singleness of purpose, and your blamelessness of life have endeared you to the hearts of your Priests, and constituted you their glory and their pride.

We would fain express the hope that your Lordship's visit to your native land has been a pleasant one, and that the renewal of old time happy associations may have the beneficial effect of prolonging your physical and intellectual vigor.

We might also say that we are pleased to know that your Lordship visited holy Ireland, and we feel assured that this visit to the land of our forefathers will have increased, if that were possible, your love for the children of St. Patrick.

It is a source of unbounded satisfaction to us that the destinies of the Church are swayed in these perilous times by so eminent a Pope as Leo XIII, now happily reigning. We feel deeply flattered at the marked attention shown you by their Eminences the Cardinals, and the paternal kindness manifested by His Holiness the Sovereign Pontiff towards your Lordship, during your late sojourn in the Eternal City.

Unfortunately in our day, as in times past, there are wicked men who have risen up against God an His Anointed. They would wish to destroy the Church, but Christ is ever present in the bark of Peter, and amid the storm Leo is calm and immovable. In this we recognise the living efficiency of the promise of Christ: "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." With our Holy Father we confidently look forward to the time when it shall please our Divine Lord to say to the waves: "Peace be still."

In conclusion, we pray that the reign of your Lordship over the Diocese of Peterborough may be long and prosperous. When it shall seem good to Almighty God to call you to your reward, may our blessed Lord and Saviour, the Prince of Pastors, recognise in you a good shepherd, and place you among those Holy Bishops who have, in every age, illustrated the annals of dear old Mother Church.

We now humbly ask your Lordship's blessing, and shall ever remain your Lordship's faithful and devoted Priests.

Mr. Thomas Dolan next presented the following

ADDRESS FROM THE PEOPLE:

To the Right Reverend John Francis Jamot, Bishop of Peterborough:

May it please your Lordship:

We, the parishioners of the Cathedral Church of your Diocese, welcome with feelings of the most lively satisfaction your return to us after a prolonged visit to the Apostolic See. We would fail if we permitted our reunion to pass without extending to you in a suitable way the deep and unalterable affection we bear you and the joy we entertain at your safe and happy return. To go back to the time when you were installed as our Bishop and review the unselfish and energetic efforts you have made to advance the interests of your people, calls only from us deep admiration and a stronger desire to second your laudable aspirations in making your people attain a higher existence in the fold of man' Redeemer.

Your sojourn for a time in France, and a visit to your home and friends, the place of your birth and scenes which surrounded you from youth to manhood, we hope have been productive in gladdening your heart and lifting for a moment the great responsibities of your office.

Your stay in Ireland, we hope, gave you an opportunity of renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones among her illustratrious, enlightened and devoted sons.

Your journey to Rome, the seat of Catholic Christianity and of our Holy Father, has been long anticipated, and it must have been a joyous moment when you had the privilage of placing at the feet of the Pontiff a record of your stewardship in this part of his fold, and gaining for yourself and your charge the apostolic benediction.

With feelings of felicity we revert to your great success in preparing so many estimable young men to fill the priesthood in your diocese, the new missions you have opened with fatherly care in the remote districts, the number of churches that have been erected and consecrated for divine uses, the large number of communicants that have been added to the fold by baptism and confirmation, the increase in the number of schools and teachers, whose commendable efficiency, under your guardianship, is manifest, and as a crowning work to your piety and zeal, the restoration of St. Peter's Cathedral, the seat of your episcopacy.

We are happy to assure you that the duties of our parish have been managed with consummate ability by our beloved pastor, Rev. Father Conway, during your absence, and his devoted attention to our spiritual wants merits our warmest approbation.

Our anxiety for your safety during the unfavorable time for so long and perilous a voyage has been unceasing, but now our troubles have vanished and joy fills all our hearts at seeing you again in your wonted place.

We welcome you home again with the deepest feelings of profound regard, with unchangeable sincerity, with a love begotten by associations, that you yourself have made endearing, and with that pure joy we always entertain at seeing our beloved Bishop.

Nous savons, Monseigneur, que vous aussi vous avez, pense aux fideles de votre diocese, et au milieu de nos inquietudes, ce nous etait une consolation bien douce de penser que Votre Grandeur priait pour nous sur le tombeau des apotres et parlait de nos interets spirituels a l'illustre Pontife Leon XIII qui conduit d'une maniere si glorieuse la barque immortelle de l'Eglise.

Puisse le Dieu Tout Puissant continuer a repandre sur Votre Grandeur ces faveurs de predilection, ces graces les plus abondantes. Quant a nous Monseigneur, humblement prosternes aux pieds de Votre Grandeur, nous vous prions de vouloir nous donner votre benediction paternelle.

ful and affectionate expressions. He attributed a great amount of his success to the zeal and untiring energy with which his priests assisted him. They had done their duty nobly and he was confident the good work would have its reward. The clergy knelt and received His Lordship's blessing.

In replying to the peoples' address, he said it went to his heart and touched the cords of affection. He had always received the greatest veneration and respect from all the diocese. He had been pleased to tell the Holy Father of their devotion, and of their zeal in advancing religion and fostering education. He had also submitted to the Holy Father a highly satisfactory financial statement and had been able to answer minutely and satisfactorily all question in relation to his diocese. They were united as one and as long as they continued to be so they would accomplish great and good things.

In replying to the address of the French Canadians, His Lordship, speaking in French, reiterated in the main the general remarks he had made to the English portion of the congregation.

In conclusion he stated that he had made it a point to visit Ireland, the home of many of his congregations, forefathers, and where he himself had spent a number of years before coming to Canada. He had the pleasure of meeting an old and beloved friend the Bishop of Armagh, who was pleased to witness the love the sons of Ireland in Canada had for the mother country.

He had also visited his own native land with great pleasure. He was pleased to see many of his old friends occupying high positions in the church.

He also had the extreme pleasure of visiting Rome, where he remained ten days. He had had a long conversation with the Holy Father, who was delighted with his reports from the Peterborough diocese, which showed his people were all loyal and devoted to him. His report of the education and religious progress, and financial statement were received with joy. The Holy Father had freely granted the papal blessing with the utmost fervor, both for himself and for the people of his diocese. This blessing he intended administering three or four times during the year.

On the 17th of March, St. Patrick's day he proposed administering the papal blessing and plenary indulgence. He invited all the congregation, not the Irish alone, to be present on that occasion. He would say mass himself, assisted by his priests.

He also spoke of the faithful manner in which Rev. Father Conway had discharged his duties in his absence and also of the fidelity of his parishoners.

At the conclusion of His Lordship's address, and previous to the Benediction of the Holy Sacrament, which concluded the day's eventful proceedings, Prof. Doucet rendered on the violin, "Da Me Ca Voua," accompanied by Sister St. Aubert, organist. The closing voluntary was a violin solo, "Watch on the Rhine," by Prof. Doucet, to the accompaniment of Sister St. Aubert.

During the course of the Benediction, His Lordship took occasion to thank the people who had turned out in such large numbers to meet him at the railway station and escort him to his palace; but from their past treatment, it was no more than he might have expected. His thanks were also due the members of the Fire Brigade Band for the part they took in welcoming him home by adding their harmony to the happiness of the occasion.

Both His Lordship and his people are to be congratulated upon the auspicious weather that smiled upon the happy occasion of his home-coming. He is in excellent health and spirits, and seems overjoyed at being once more among his people and his chosen work.

Peterborough, 4th March, 1886.

To the above the following reply was received:—

At a meeting of the Shoemakers' Union of Peterborough, held in Treasures hall on March 4th, 1886, it was moved and seconded and carried unanimously, that if Mr. Carey signs the following agreement this Union will withdraw the Strike from his shop.

Peterborough, March 4th, 1886.

JOHN S. WELLS,
Sec. of Union.

This is the agreement referred to.

I will pay the Union Bill of Wages of April 1st, 1882, not asking any discount for the use of my machinery, all men of the present Union or any who may come hereafter, to work for me shall be paid the full bill, and each man shall be given out his work and shall finish it himself. No team work will be asked from Union men. Nor will I get custom work made by factory or team men. I will also withdraw my suit against the town papers. I will also dismiss Antoine Dumas.

Peterborough, March 4th, 1886.

It is to be hoped that the strike will be ended speedily by the application of a spirit of mutual concession to the discussion of the existing difficulties. In publishing Mr. Millar's letter it was inserted as an advertisement, and respecting its facts there was as little inquiry as is usually devoted to the business announcements of our advertisers. It is not the policy, nor to the interest of the EXAMINER, to injure any mans' business.

Important Notice To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. ANY agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $135 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the county, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

WITHOUT END.

Eternity is as the Marriage Ring.

The Duties of a Wife to Her Husband and Home.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Feb 21.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D., preached to-day in the Brooklyn tabernacle the seventh of his series of sermons on "The Marriage Ring," the subject being "Duties of Wives to Husbands." Before the sermon he read and expounded the last chapter of Proverbs, descriptive of a prudent and sensible wife.

The text was I. Samuel, xxiii., 3: "The name of his wife, Abigail; and she was a woman of good understanding and of a beautiful countenance."

Following is the sermon:

NABAL AND ABIGAIL.

The ground in Carmel is white, not with fallen snow, but the wool from the backs of three thousand sheep, for they are being sheared. And I hear the grinding of the iron blades together, and the bleating of the flocks, held between the knees of the shearers while the clipping goes on, and the rustic laughter of the workmen. Nabal and his wife Abigail preside over this homestead. David, the warrior, sends a delegation to apply for aid at this prosperous time of sheep shearing, and Nabal peremptorily declines his request. Revenge is the cry. Yonder over the rocks come David and four hundred angry men with one stroke to demolish Nabal and his sheep folds and vineyards. The regiment march in double-quick, and the stones of the mountain loosen and roll down as the soldiers strike them with their swift feet, and the cry of the commander is "Forward! Forward!"

Abigail, to save her husband and his property, hastens to the foot of the hill. She is armed, not with sword or spear, but with her own beauty, and self-sacrifice; and when David sees her kneeling at the base of the crag, he cries: "Hold! Hold!" Abigail is the conqueress! One woman in the right mightier than four hundred men in the wrong! A hurricane stopped at the sight of a water lily! A dewdrop dashed back Niagara! By her prowess and tact she has saved her husband and saved her home, and put before all ages an illustrious specimen of what a wife can do if she be godly, and prudent, and self-sacrificing, and vigilant, and devoted to the interests of her husband, and attractive.

ADVICE TO WIVES.

As Sabbath before last, I took the responsibility of telling husbands how they ought to treat their wives—and, though I noticed that some of them squirmed a little in their pew, they endured it well—I now take the responsibility of telling how wives ought to treat their husbands. I hope your domestic alliance was so happily formed that while married life may have revealed in him some frailties that you did not suspect, it has also displayed excellencies that more than overbalance them. I suppose that if I could look into the hearts of a hundred wives here present, and ask them where is the kindest and best man they know of, and they dared speak out ninety-nine out of a hundred of them would say, "At the other end of the pew." Though at times you may have snapped each other up a little quick, I think the most of you are as well paired as a couple of whom I have read. The wife said to her husband: "I have made up my mind to be submissive, notwithstanding all the misfortunes that have come upon us." They had lost their children, he had lost his health, and hence the income of his profession and the wife had temporarily lost her eyesight. "Yes" said the husband, "we ought to be submissive. Let me see what we have to submit to. First, we have a home; we can submit to that. Then we have each other; we can submit to that. Then we have food and raiment: we can submit to that. Then we have a great many friends; we can submit to that. We have a Heavenly Father to provide for us—." "Stop! stop!" said the wife, "I will talk no more about submission."

I hope, my sister, you have married a man as Christian and as well balanced as that. But even if you were worsted in conjugal bargain, you can not be worse off than this Abigail in my text. Her husband was coarse and ungrateful, an inebriate, for on the very evening after her heroic achievement at the foot of the hill, where she captured a whole regiment with her genial and strategic behaviour, she returned home and found her husband so drunk that she could not tell him him the story, but had to postpone it until next day. So, my sister, I do not want you to keep saying within yourself as I proceed: "That is the way to treat a perfect husband;" for you are to remember that no wife was ever worse swindled than this Abigail of my text. At the other end of her table sat a mean, selfish, snarling, contemptible sot, and if she could do so well for a dastard, how ought you to do with that princely and splendid man with whom you are to walk the path of life?

THE HUSBAND'S LIFE BATTLE.

First, I counsel the wife to remember in what a severe and terrific battle of life her husband is engaged. Whether in professional or commercial or artistic or mechanical life, your husband from morning to night is in a Solferino, if not a Sedan. It is a wonder that your husband has any nerves or patience or suavity left. To get a living in this next to the last decade of the nineteenth century is a struggle. If he come home and sit down pre-occupied, you ought to excuse him. If he do not feel like going out that night for a walk or entertainment, remember he has been out all day. You say he ought to leave at his place of business his annoyances and come home cheery. But if a man has been betrayed by a business partner, or a customer has jockeyed him out of a large bill of goods, or a protested note has been flung on his desk, or somebody has called him a liar and everything has gone wrong from morning to night, he must have great genius and forgetfulness if he do not bring some of the perplexity home with him. When you tell me he ought to leave it all at the store or bank or shop you might as well tell a storm on the Atlantic to stay out there and not touch the coast or ripple the harbor. Remember he is not over-working so much for himself as he is over-working for you and the children. It is the effect of his success or defeat on the homestead that causes him the agitation. The most of men after forty-five years of age live not for themselves, but for their families. They begin to ask themselves anxiously the question "How if I should give out, what would become of the folks at home? Would my children ever get their education? Would my wife have to go out into the world to earn bread for herself and our little ones? My eyesight troubles me; how if my eyes should fail? My head gets dizzy; how if I should drop under appoplexy?" The high pressure of business life and mechanical life and agricultural life is home pressure.

AN APPALLING QUESTION.

Some time ago a large London firm decided that if any of their clerks married on a salary less than £150, that is $750 a year, he should be discharged, the supposition being that the temptation might be too great for misappropriation. The large majority of families in America live by utmost dint of economy, and to be honest and yet meet one's family expenses, is the appalling question that turns the life of tens of thousands of men into martyrdom. Let the wife of the overborne and exhausted husband remember this, and do not nag him about that, and say you might as well have no husband, when the fact is he is dying by inches that the home may be kept up.

I charge also the wife to keep herself as attractive after marriage as she was before marriage. The reason that so often a man ceases to love his wife is because the wife ceases to be lovable. In many cases what elaboration of toilet before marriage, and what recklessness of appearance after! The most disgusting thing on earth is a slatternly woman. I mean a woman who never combs her hair until she goes out, or looks like a fright until somebody calls. That a man married to one of these creatures stays at home as little as possible is no wonder. It is a wonder that such a man does not go on a whaling voyage of three years, and in a leaky ship. Costly wardrobe is not required, but ho! woman, if you are not willing, by all that ingenuity of refinement can effect, to make yourself attractive to your husband, you ought not to complain if he seeks in other society those pleasant surroundings which you deny him.

GUARD YOUR TONGUE.

Again, I charge you, never talk to others about the frailties of your husband. Such people have a way, in banter, of elaborately describing to others the short-comings or unhappy eccentricities of a husband or wife. Ah! the world will find out soon enough all the defects of your companion. No need of your advertising them. Better imitate those women who, having made mistakes in affiance, always have a veil to hide imperfections, and alleviations of conduct to mention. We must admit that there are rare cases where a wife cannot live longer with her husband, and his cruelties and outrages are the precursor of divorcement or separation. But until that day comes keep the awful secret to yourself. Keep it from every being in the universe except the God to who you do well to tell your trouble. Trouble only a few years at most, and then you can go up on the other side of the grave and say: "O Lord, I kept the martial secret. Thou knowest how well I kept it, and I thank Thee that the release has come at last. Give me some place where I can sit down and rest awhile from the horrors of an embruted earthly alliance before I begin the full raptures of heaven." And orders will be sent out to the usher angels, saying: Take this Abigail right up to the softest seat in the best room of the palace, and let twenty of the brightest angels wait on her for the next thousand years."

Further: I charge you, let there be no outside interference with the conjugal relation. Neither neighbor nor confidential friend, nor brother nor sister, nor father nor mother, has a right to come in here. The married gossip will come around and by the hour tell you how she manages her husband. You tell her plainly that if she will attend to the affairs of her household you will attend to yours. What damage some people do with their tongues! Nature indicates that the tongue is a dangerous thing by the fact that it is shut in, first by a barricade of teeth, and then by the door of the lips. One insidious talker can keep a whole neighborhood badly stirred up. The Apostle Peter excoriated these busy bodies in other people's matters, and St. Paul, in his letter to the Thessalonians and to Timothy, gives them a sharp dig, and the good housewife will be on the look out for them, and return their calls, and treat them with coldest frigidity. For this reason, better keep house as soon as possible. Some people are opposed to them, but I thank God for what are called flats in these cities. They put up a seperate home within the means of nearly all the population. In your married relations you do not need any advice. If you and your husband have not skill enough to get along well alone, with all the advice you can import you will get along worse. What you want for your craft on this voyage is plenty of sea-room.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Social.

A social, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Church, will be held at the residence of Mr. John Bertram on Friday evening, 5th of March. A good programme will be presented and a very pleasant evening may be anticipated. Admission 25c.

With Confidence

We make the announcement on first page of a partial list of our Spring Importations, and in doing so we pledge ourselves to maintain throughout the season, that high standard of merit for the best quality of fine Dry Goods, for which the Golden Lion is noted. R. FAIR.

Nothing Before the Court.

Police court was a blank this morning. P. C. Adams succeeded in capturing a drunk early this morning, but the unfortunate was so overcome by the evil spirits that he had to be allowed time to sleep off the effects in the cooler, and consequently did not appear in court.

No Snowshoeing and Toboggan Races.

As sure as Mr. H. Calcutt decides on a day for toboggan races, so sure is that day to be unfavorable. Yesterday was no exception and the snowshoe and toboggan races which were announced for yesterday afternoon had to be postponed. The river rose and flooded most of the run, and during Thursday night, froze slightly, forming a thin coat of ice. The water subsided slightly yesterday, leaving a shell of ice over almost the entire surface of the run, in some places breaking in of its own weight, and making tobogganing impossible.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

An Exciting Curl.

Yesterday afternoon a very lively and exciting game was played on the Charlotte street rink by Messrs. W. H. Budden and W. G. Ferguson, in the second last draw in the thirteen-point contest, Mr. Ferguson winning by one point after a very hard fight. About twenty curlers stood around leaning against the whitewashed beams, sometimes stopping a bullet, enjoying the sport hugely. At one time the score stood, Ferguson 7, Budden 12. From this time forward excitement ran high as if the latter gentleman had made one point the game was his. But fate was against him and Mr. Ferguson in three ends made the necessary 6 points, scoring 3 on the last end. This afternoon or early this evening, if the ice is in condition, the last draw will be played, Messrs. Ferguson and Attrill fighting it out to the bitter and sweet end, where the medal hangs. No betting allowed.

Business College Notes.

A meeting of the Peterborough Business College literary and debating society, organized last week, was held this afternoon. A good programme was provided.

In the monthly writing competion in the day classes, Mr. J. F. Conroy was found to be the best penman, at the end of February, and was presented with a silver pin. G. R. Powell was the fortunate one at the close of January.

Dr. Fuller, of Ottawa, was at the college for two days, and examined the students in all subjects. He was highly pleased with the result of his examination, and pronounced everything as satisfactory. He offered prizes in mathematics and penmanship, to be given at the close of the term.

The college is being supplied with a telephone, which is another evidence of progress.

On Monday evening next, the evening sessions of the college will close. A high time is expected.

Benedicts and Bachelors Ball.

A Brilliantly Successful Society Event—List of the Invited Guests.

For some years past, among the elite of Peterborough society, the ball of the benedicts and bachelors has been looked forward to with eager anticipation which was more than realized in the highly successful gathering of last night. It was one of the most brilliant and enjoyable that has ever taken place in town under similar auspices. There was a large number of guests present including many from neighboring cities and towns. The fall floor of the Opera House was devoted to dancing purposes, and the hall was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, the former forming a screen in front of the lower portion of the gallery and the latter being disposed in graceful festoons on the upper portion. The musicians, an orchestra, from Toronto, furnished excellent music. The hall was lighted by two electric lamps, whose light was softened by pink shades, which toned down the intense light effectively, obviating the rather ghastly effect produced by this brilliant light. A noticeable feature was the many exquisite toilets worn by the ladies present. The supper rooms were in the adjacent room east of the hall, where the tables tastefully arranged, were in charge of Mr. Harry Long, and other rooms were used for smoking and dressing and card rooms.

The following are those concerned in the arrangements of this successful and brilliant affair.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. E. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child; send ID cut of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

WITHOUT END.

Eternity is as the Marriage Ring.

The Duties of a Wife to Her Husband and Home.

(Concluded from Yesterday.)

INFORM YOURSELF.

I charge you, also make yourself the intelligent companion of your husband. What with these floods of newspapers and books there is no excuse for the wife's ignorance either about the present or the past. If you have no more than a half hour every day to yourself you may fill your mind with entertaining and useful knowledge. Let the merchant's wife read up on all mercantile questions, and the mechanic's wife on all that pertains to his style of work, and the professional man's wife on all the legal or medical or theological or political discussions of the day. It is very stupid for a man, after having been amid active minds all day, to find his wife without information or opinion on anything. If the wife knows nothing of what is going on in the world, after the tea hour has passed and the husband has read the newspaper he will have an engagement and must go and see a man. In nine cases out of ten when a man does not stay at home in the evening, unless positive duty calls him away, it is because there is nothing to stay for. He would rather talk with his wife than with anyone else if she could talk as well.

I charge you, my sister, in every way to make your home attractive. I have not enough of practical knowledge about house adornment to know just what makes the difference, but here is an opulent house, containing all wealth of bric-a-brac, and of musical instrument, and of painting, and of upholstery, and yet there is in it a chill like Nova Zembla. Another house, with one twentieth part of the outlay, and small supply of art, and cheapest piano purchasable, and yet, as you enter it, there comes upon the body, mind and soul a glow of welcome and satisfied and happy domesticity. The holy art of making the most comfort, and brightness out of the means afforded every wife should study.

MAKE HOME ATTRACTIVE.

At the siege of Argos Pyrrhus was killed by the tile of a roof thrown by a woman, and Abimelech was slain by a stone that a women threw from the tower of Thebez, and Earl Montford was destroyed by a rock discharged at him by a woman from the walls of Toulouse. But without any weapon save that of her cold, cheerless household arrangement any wife may slay all the attractions of a home circle. A wife and mother in prospered circumstances and greatly admired was giving her chief time to social life. The husband spent his evenings away. The son, fifteen years of age, got the same habit, and there was a prospect that the other children as they got old enough would take the same turn. One day the wife aroused to the consideration that she had better save her husband and her boy, interesting and stirring games were introduced into the house. The mother studied up interesting things to tell her children. One morning the son said, "Father, you ought to have been home last night. We had a grand time. Such jolly games and such interesting stories!" This went on from night to night, and after a while the husband stayed in to see what was going on, and he finally got attracted and added something of his own to the evening entertainments; and the result was that the wife and mother saved her husband and saved her boy and saved herself. Was not that an enterprise worth the attention of the greatest woman that ever lived since Abigail at the foot of the rock arrested the four hundred armed warriors?

Do not, my sisters, be dazzled and disturbed by the talk of those who think the home circle too insignificant for a woman's career, and who want to get you out on platforms and in conspicuous enterprises. There are women who have a special outside mission, and do not dare to interpret me as derisive of their important mission. But my opinion is that the woman who can reinforce her husband in the work of life and rear her children for positions of usefulness is doing more for God and the race and her own happiness than if she spoke on every great platform and headed a hundred great enterprises. My mother never made a missionary speech in her life, and at a missionary meeting I doubt whether she could have got enough courage to vote yea or nay, but she raised her son John, who has been preaching the Gospel and translating religious literature at Amoy, China, for about forty years. Was not that a better thing to do?"

Compare such a one with one of these dieaway, attitudinizing, frivolous, married coquettes of the modern drawing-room, her heaven an opera-box on the night of Meyerbeer's "Robert le Diable," the ten commandments an inconvenience, taking arsenic to improve the complexion, and her appearance a confused result of belladonna, bleached hair, antimony and mineral acids, until one is compelled to discuss her character and wonder whether the line between a decent and indecent life is, like the equator, an imaginary line.

WHAT THE WORLD WANTS NOW

is about fifty old-fashioned mothers, women who shall realize that the highest, grandest, mightiest institution on earth is the home. It is not necessary that they should have the same old-time manners of the country farm-house, or wear the old-fashioned cap and spectacles, and apron that her glorified ancestors wore; but I mean the old spirit, which began with the Hannahs and Mother Lois and the Abigails of Scripture days and and was demonstrated on the homestead where some of us were reared, though the old house long ago was pulled down and its occupants scattered never to meet until in the higher home that awaits the families of the righteous. While there are more good and faithful wives and mothers than there ever were, society has got a wrong twist on this subject, and there are influences abroad that would make women believe that their chief sphere is outside instead of inside the home.

Hence, in many households, children, instead of a blessing, are a nuisance. It is card-case versus child's primer, carriage versus cradle, social popularity versus domestic felicity. Hence, infanticide and antenatal murder are so common that all the physicians—allopathic, hydropathic, homeopathic and electric—are crying out in horror; and it is time that the pulpits joined with the medical profession in echoing and re-echoing the thunder of Mount Sinai, which says, "Thou shalt not kill," and the Book of Revelation, which says, "All murderers shall have their place in the lake which burneth with the fire and brimstone." And the man or woman who takes life a minute old will as certainly go straight to hell as the man or woman who destroys life forty years old. And the wildest, loudest shriek of Judgment Day will be given at the overthrow of those who moved in the high and respected circles of earthly society, yet decided by their own act, as far as they could privately effect it, the extermination of the advancing operations, abetted in the horrid crime by a lot of infernal quacks with which modern medicine is infested. When, on the last day, the criers of the court shall, with resounding "Oyez," "Oyez," declare the "Oyer and Terminer" of the universe opened, and the Judge, with gravel of thunbolt shall smite the nations into silence, and the trial of all the fratricides, and parricides, and matricides, and patricides, and uxoricides, and regicide and deicides, and infanticides of the earth shall proceed, none of my hearers or readers can say that they knew not what they were doing. Mighty God, arrest the evil that is overshadowing this century.

TAKE YOUR HUSBANDS WITH YOU.

I charge you, my sister, that you take your husband along with you to Heaven. Of course, this implies that you yourself are a Christian. I must take that for granted. It cannot be possible, after what Christianity has done for woman, and after taking the infinitely responsible position you have assumed at the head of the household, that you should be in a position antagonistic to Christ. It was a slip of the tongue when I spoke of you as being at the head of the household. We men rather pride ourselves as being at the head of the household, but it is only a pleasant delusion. To whom do the children go when they have trouble. When there is a sore finger to be bound up, or one of the first teeth that needs to be removed to make way for one that is crowding it out, to whom does the child go? For whom do the children cry out in the night when they get frightened at a bad dream? Aye, to whom does the husband go when he has a business trouble too great or too delicate for outside ears? We, the men, are heads of the household in name; but you, O wives, are the heads of the household in fact; and it's your business to take your husband with you into the Kingdom of God and see that house prepared for Heaven.

You can do it. Of course, God's almighty grace alone can convert him, but you are to be the instrument. Some wives keep their husbands out of heaven and others garner them for it. If your religion, O wife, is simply the joke of the household, if you would rather go to the theater than the prayer meeting, if you can beat all the neighborhood in progressive euchre, if your husband never sees you kneel at the bedside in prayer before retiring, if the only thing that reminds the family of your church relations is that on communion day you get home late to dinner, you will not be able to take your husband to heaven, for the simple reason that you will not get there yourself. But I suppose that your religion is genuine, and that the husband realizes there is in your soul a divine principle, and that, though you may be naturally quicker tempered than he is and have many imperfections that distress you more than they have can any one else, still you are destined for the skies when the brief scenes of this life are over. How will you take him with you? There are two oars to that boat—prayer and holy example.

But you say he belongs to a worldly club, or he does not believe a word of the Bible, or he is an inebriate and very loose in his habits. What you tell me shows that you don't understand that, while your are at one end of a prayer, the omnipotent God is at the other end, and it is simply a question whether Almightiness is strong enough and keeps His word.

I have no doubt there will be great conventions in heaven called for celebrative purposes, and when in some celestial assemblage the saints shall be telling what brought them to God I believe that ten thousand times ten thousand will say "My wife."

TWO PICTURES.

I put beside each other two testimonies of men concerning their wives, and let you see the contrast. An aged man was asked the reason of his salvation. With tearful emotion he said: "My wife was brought to God some years before myself. I persecuted and abused her because of her religion. She, however, returned nothing but kindness, constantly maintaining an anxiety to promote my comfort and happiness; and it was her amiable conduct when suffering ill-treatment from me that first sent the arrows of conviction to my soul." The other testimony was from a dying man: "Harriet, I am a lost man. You opposed our family worship and my secret prayer. You drew me away into temptation, and to neglect every religious duty. I believe my fate is sealed. Harriet, you are the cause of my everlasting ruin." How many glorious married couples in heaven—Adam and Eve, Abraham and Sarah, Lapidoth and Deborah, Isaac and Rebekah, Jacob and Rachel, Zacharias and Elizabeth, Joseph and Mary, and many whom we have known as good as the most of them!

As once you stood in the village or city church, or in your father's house, perhaps under a wedding bell of flowers, to-day stand up, husband and wife, beneath the cross of a pardoning Redeemer, while I proclaim the banns of an eternal marriage. Join your right hands. I pronounce you one forever. What God hath joined together let life nor death nor time nor eternity put asunder. Witness men and angels, all worlds, all ages. The circle is an emblem of eternity, and that is the shape of the marriage ring.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Benedicts' and Bachelors' Ball.

It might be well to state that the list of invited guests to the ball of the benedicts and bachelors, published in yesterday's impression of THE EXAMINER, included only those whose acknowledgements of the reception of an invitation, had been received by the honorary secretary.

Monday, March 8th.

The closing concert of the series will be held at St. Luke's school room, Ashburnham, on Monday night. Splendid programme. Songs, etc., by the children of the Barnardo Home. A farce by amateurs entitled, "Two Heads is better than one." Admission ten cents.

A Man Lost.

Chief of Police Cooper received a note from Mrs. W. Towler, of Brantford, giving a description of her beloved husband, who departed from Brantford on February 11th, and has not been heard from since, and asking the Chief to keep his optics open for the said Mr. Towler. Should this come under Mr. Towler's notice, it is hoped that it will cause him to return at once to his family felicity before Mrs. Towler comes for him.

Almost a Fatal Accident.

Walter Cluxton, a little five-year-old son of Mrs. Geo. Cluxton, while coasting down the hill on Brock street, in front of Mr. R. Kingan's residence, was saved from being run over by the noon express from Toronto, by the interference of a companion. The boys had been riding down the hill for some time, after having been warned by the switchman in charge at the junction. It appeared that Joseph Cochrane crossed the track in safety, and noticing the train approaching at rapid rate, ran back to stop little Cluxton, and as he was about to pass him in his downward course, caught him by the head and shoulders and threw him off the sleigh, a few yards from the track. The sleigh continued on its course, and was struck by the cow-catcher of the engine and was smashed to atoms. The presence of mind of young Cochrane undoubtedly saved the life of his little companion. This should be a warning to boys who will persist in riding down the hill.

The Revival Services in George St. Church.

Last night was the closing meeting of the series of revival services that have been held in this church for the past four weeks. The interest taken by the public in the work seemed to deepen each succeeding week, last night being so attended that the large lecture room was completely filled. After a brief sermon by the pastor, a prayer and testimony service was conducted, which was remarkable for the number who took part and for the sincere and devout spirit manifested by all present. During the progress of the meetings a large number have professed faith in Christ for personal salvation. A service of special interest will be held on Sabbath (to-morrow) evening, the Rev. Mr. Tovell having announced that he would conduct a brief reception service, giving the right hand of fellowship to all who desired to become members of the church. This will take place after the regular preaching service. It is arranged that these meetings will be closed for the present in view of the Union Evangelistic movement to be inaugurated next Tuesday, under the supervision of the pastors of the uniting churches, assisted by Rev. Mr. Shivera an evangelist from New York.

TORONTO.

The carpenters of the city will hold a mass meeting in the Temperance hall on Thursday evening, March 11, to discuss the the nine hour and other important questions.

The regular monthly meeting of the typographical union will be held in Room I, Temperance Hall, this evening at 8 o'clock. As business of interest to the craft will be brought up, no doubt every member will be present.

The wood-working machinists of the city formed an assemby of the Knights of Labor last Monday night. There was a large attendance. This assembly will be known as the Standard, and will be one of the largest in the city in a very short time.

At the first annual ball of the Printers' assembly 25, K. of L., in Rochester, on March 1, a type-setting match was one of the features of the evening. The first prize was a gold medal, and was won by Joseph Farquhar, a Toronto boy, and up to the time of the late strike, an employe of the Mail. He set in one hour 1,950 ems of solid brevier, having beaten his second competitor 151 ems.

SHOWED THEIR GOOD SENSE.

The Hamilton Times thusregards Mr. Carnegie's claims as a representative of the farmers of the West Riding of Peterborough:—"Mr. Carnegie, the member in the Legislature for West Peterborough, has been posing as the particular friend of the agricultural classes, because, as he explained, he was elected by farmers. The Peterboro' EXAMINER pricks Mr. Carnegie's little bubble of false pretenses by pointing out that he cannot be regarded as a friend of the farming classes so long as he strives to destroy the Agricultural College, the only institution maintained at Government expense in the interests of the agricultural community. But if the farmers of West Peterboro' had their way, Mr. Carnegie would not be in the Legislature. He was returned by a majority of 287, but of this total 149 were secured in the town of Peterboro'. Thus the rural community showed pretty distinctly that they did not desire a champion of the Carnegie stamp. In that they showed good sense."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Turkish Government's expenditures arising out of the Balkan embroglio, for armaments to date amount to $10,000,00. Greece's expenditure amounts to $8,000,000.

The interests of the workingmen are not being neglected by the Ontario Legislature, as is shown in the introduction of the bill providing for compensation in case of injury while at work. The Mowat Government recognizes that a workingman should not suffer because of the neglect or parsimony of his employer, and legislates accordingly.

The Government have brought down the Governor-General's warrants, amounting to $3,575,458 beyond the appropriation asked from Parliament. Of this enormous sum there were $1,400,000 for the purchase of certain bonds of the North Shore Railway, and $389,617, in connection with Indian expenses, $825,000 for mounted police force expenses, and $700,000 cost of expenses for the rebellion over and above the vote of the House.

Russia it seems has not a monopoly of autocratic rulers; the ultra free and democratic United States is capable of developing a pretty respectable specimen of the genus tyrant. President Cleveland has created a sensation by a message he sent to the Senate. In it he asserts that he is vested with absolute and sole control of reasons for removal of office-holders, and that he is not required to make public these reasons. He says he is responsible to the people, and he will not divide his responsibility with the Senate. He even goes so far as to assert that letters in regard to removals from office are his personal property, and he can destroy them if he wishes. The Republicans do not take kindly to the theory laid down, and the Democrats regard it as developing an amount of backbone they had not suspected.

Another turn of the taxmaster's screw is plainly evident. The Excise and Customs taxes on certain articles are to be largely increased is evidently the opinion of a majority of the businessmen, especially of the prominent Conservatives who are "in the known." We are told says the Globe that in expectation of the impositon of a tax of ten cents a pound on tea and four cents on coffee, the leading grocers have filled their warehouses with the commodities named. If so, of course, the Government will not for a year to come get any benefit from the expected increase of duty. We are also told that the tobacco and whiskey trade expect another visitation. On Tuesday the Inland Revenue office in Toronto received nearly $150,000 in taxes on tobacco and whiskey taken out of bond—one firm paying $120,000. Of course the payment of such heavy sums will go to reduce Dominion Government's deficit in the current financial year. The maltsters too expect the restoration of the excise tax on malt to its former figure of two cents a pound.

Rejoicing of the Juveniles.

Bishop Jamot's Reception at the Convent—A Graceful and Enthusiastic Welcome from 200 School Children—Addresses Replies, Speeches, Music.

Yesterday afternoon at the Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, the children contributed their full share to the cordial welcome which His Lordship, Bishop Jamot, has received from his clergy and people, and which must be exceedingly gratifying to him as showing how heartily his labors are appreciated and how large a place he holds in the hearts of all of them, from the ripe in years and holy labours, to the prattling infant.

At about 3.30 o'clock His Lordship accompanied by the clergy, who assisted at his general reception yesterday, repaired to the salon of the Convent, where were found assembled clad in Convent costume besides a few specially invited guests. The salon was beautifully decorated in honour of the occasion with appropriate and gracefully worded mottoes of welcome and felicitation, borne on banners. His Lordship was seated on an improvised throne, and the proceedings opened with an excellently rendered original duet by Miss Dunn and Miss McCabe, the chorus to which the whole school joined in, entitled "Welcome Home from Foreign Shores."

Then followed the most interesting event of the afternoon, a composite address of welcome, alluding to the various scenes and events which the composer assumed His Lordship had passed through during his absence, delivered by the following little misses:—Maudie Cahill, Lily Simons, Katie Mahoney, May Donoghue, Josie Morrow, Nellie Muncaster, Gertie Sullivan, Susie Kelly, Eva Leplante and May Muncaster.

To this followed an original duet, sung admirably by Miss Watson and Miss Hurley, "Once More We Greet Thee, O Father Dear."

AN ADDRESS OF WELCOME

couched in graceful language was read by Miss Essie Crummy, with excellent emphasis and intonation, expressing joy at the Bishop's safe return, and sentiments of filial love and devotion, at the conclusion of which, Miss Josie Morrow presented His Lordship a handsome bouquet.

His Lordship replied in a simple and feeling manner adapting his language to the capacity of his little hearers. He referred to incidents in his journey and spoke of his tempestuous return voyage. During the most stirring scenes, he assured them he enjoyed a feeling of security for he knew "his little babies in Peterborough" were praying for his safe return. He concluded by giving the children

THE EPISCOPAL BENEDICTION.

The entire arrangements for the reception were well conceived and successfully carried out, and were warmly appreciated and applauded by His Lordship. Sister St. Aubert very creditably conducted the musical portion and presided at the organ. During the three and a half years of his Peterborough episcopate, Bishop Jamot has, by his zeal, kindness and vigilant thoughtfulness for the social, moral and religious welfare of his flock, warmly endeared himself to all classes, as proven by the spontaneous and enthusiastic reception accorded him yesterday.

THE EXAMINER is indebted to the Mother Superior, for an opportunity of being represented on this occasion. She always takes a deep interest in anything pertaining to the welfare of the convent, and the promoting through its agency, of the advancement of the cause of the church.

BY THE DUCHESS.

"He is very distasteful to me," says Maud, quickly. "I don't know what it is auntie, but I feel a horror—a hatred of that man. His manner toward me is insolent to a degree. It is as though he would compel me, against my will, to be civil to him, and I never shall!" concludes Miss Neville, between her little white, even teeth.

"I don't think I care much about him myself," says Mrs. Neville. "He always seems to me to be something of an adventurer; and, besides, he is a friend of all the Penruddocks, and, except Dick, I never liked any of them. Not that he is much of a friend there either, as he never speaks of them, and even if drawn into conversation about Dick's father, as a rule says something disparaging. But he has money, and is received everywhere, and I really think, my dear child, he is very devoted to you."

"Oh, do not, pray, try to make him even more detestable in my sight than he is already," says Maud, with a shiver that may mean disgust.

"Oh, no! Of course I meant nothing. And he is the last man that I should care to see you married to. But some time you must make a selection—you can but know that—and I am always thinking for you, indeed I am. Dick Penruddock is very much in love with you, I really believe, though you always deny it."

"I deny it because I think he is not. I hope with all my heart and soul that he is not," says Maud, with sudden and unlooked-for energy.

All the color has fled from her cheeks, and her lips tremble slightly.

"Well, my dear, perhaps so. I own I am stupid," says Mrs. Neville, who, though the best and kindest of women, is certainly in no danger of setting the Thames on fire with her cleverness. "Though I can't see why you should dislike the idea so much. He is quite charming in my opinion, and so handsome! Then there is Lord Stretton; you can't tell me that he does not adore the very ground you walk on."

"Oh, Stretton!" says Miss Neville, disdainfully.

"But, my dearest, you must marry some one!" says her "auntie," in an aggrieved tone. "Dick, as I say, is all that one could possibly desire; but Stretton has a title, and that always counts. As that dear man in 'Punch,' said some time ago, 'Beauty and goodness may fade and pall, but a title lasts.' There is certainly a very great deal of sense in that remark, and it is nice to have a duke for a brother-in-law."

"I don't think Wolfhampton would be nice as a brother-in-law were he fifty times a duke," says Maud, with a curl of her short upper lip.

"He might be improved on, certainly; I don't dispute that," Mrs. Neville admits, sadly. "His manners are positively distressing, so redolent of the stable; and his nose is out of all proportion."

"It is so like Lord Stretton's that no one could possibly know one from the other," says Maud, wilfully.

Mrs. Neville sighs. The case is beyond argument. It is indeed only too true that Lord Stretton's proboscis bears a painful resemblance to his brother's.

"Dick Penruddock is, of course, in many ways far preferable," she says, presently, shifting ground. "He is quite as rich, and is younger, and has prettier manners. But, then, you say you object to Dick also."

"No, I don't object to Mr. Penruddock," says the girl, with a soft, slow blush; "that is not it. You mistake me, Mimi." (This is the pet name she gave to Mrs. Neville when a child.) "I only mean that I shall never marry."

"But why—why?" impatiently.

"Can you ask me that?" returns she, with a glance full of the liveliest reproach.

"But the thing is not a secret—all the world knows how I adopted you, and that you are the daughter of some poor mechanic, dead before I ever saw you. But they know, too, that you are the most beautiful and the most charming girl in the town! Yes, you are!" in answer to a deprecating shake of Miss Neville's head; "and if these men love you, and choose to overlook such a little fault, why, then, I can not see—"

"A little fault!" repeats she sadly. Then, with a touch of pride, "Nay, it is no fault at all, but it is a great misfortune; and though Stretton—or—or Mr. Penruddock may, perhaps, foolishly wish to marry me, do you honestly believe their families would receive me with open arms? Do you think it at all likely that Dick's father would be glad to see him married to a girl without a name? It is impossible, Mimi!"

"I know not what they might think or say, but I know that if he were my son I would gladly see him married to you," says Mimi, maintaining her cause stoutly.

"That is because you love me, and because you are different from all the rest of the world," says the girl, gently, looking at her through a soft mist, that dims the beauty of her eyes, and is born of tenderness, and gratitude, and deep affection.

At this moment the carriage draws up at their hall-door, and, alighting, they pass into the house.

CHAPTER V.

AFTER THE DANCE.

It is many hours later, and the dance is at its best and gayest. The sound of music and the delicate perfume of dying flowers are in the air.

The rooms are filled with all that London can afford of its brightest, and highest, and best; and pretty women in toilets almost as desirable as themselves are smiling and waving their fans, and doing all the damage that soft eyes and softer speech are supposed to do.

It is the third waltz, and the band is playing "Mon Reve." In Dick Penruddock's opinion it is the waltz of the evening, as his arm is round Maud Neville, and her perfect head is very near his own.

He is as happy as a man can be who holds all he deems most precious for one moment to his heart, knowing that the next might separate them forever.

Presently they pause to rest, and find themselves near the door of a conservatory.

"Are you tired?" asks he, seeing she sighs, and raises one hand in a half-wearied fashion to smooth back some loose hairs that have wandered across her forehead. "Come in here, and sit down for a little while."

He tightens his arm on the hand resting upon it, and moves toward the cool retreat before them.

"If you wish it," replies she, uncertainly, and with some slight hesitation in her manner.

Yet she goes with him into the dimly lighted conservatory, where a little fountain is plashing, sending forth a cold, sweet music of its own, and where green leaves are glistening calmly beneath the beams of the subdued lamps.

The time—the hour—the very drip, drip of the fountain—all bespeak loneliness: and to feel one's self alone with a beloved object, as a rule, kills wisdom.

Penruddock, who all day long has been enduring suspense, and an uncertainty that borders on hope, suddenly loses his head. Laying his hand on Maud's, he bends down to her, and whispers something in a soft, impassioned voice.

The girl appears neither startled nor surprised, and when she speaks, her tone, though perhaps a shade slower than usual, is firmer than ever.

Only she changes color, and grows pale until her very lips are bloodless.

"You speak without thought or reflection," she says, gently. "You have considered nothing. No, no; do not interrupt me! I am sorry this has occurred; but there is no reason why we should not forget what you have just said, and be good friends as we were before."

"There is a reason, and a strong one," returns he, very quietly now; "and as to our being mere friends, that is quite out of the question. Do you imagine me an impulsive boy to say a thing one moment and regret it the next? I have dared to say to-night what I have wanted to say for many days. And I must have my answer now."

"And my birth—have you forgotten that?" demanded she, looking at him fixedly.

"I have forgotten nothing. But to me it makes no difference. Princess or peasant, how can it matter? I love you. Darling," said the young man, very earnestly, taking both her hands, and holding them closely, "I implore you to believe in my love! Take time for reflection—consider well. I entreat you to give me no hurried answer."

"I do not hurry," returns she, in a strange tone; "I will not even argue with you. Let us say no more about it; and please let my hands go, Mr. Penruddock. I can not marry you—indeed, I can not."

"But why?—at least, tell me that," demands he, desperately, refusing to release her hands. "Maud, answer me! Do you—is it true that you love another better, and that is why you can not care for me?"

"No; that is untrue," replies she with quick pain in voice and eyes. "I love no one better than you; which means, of course—" hurriedly, and with a sad little quivering laugh—"that I love no one. You will understand me?"

"Only too well," returns he sadly. He lifts her hands, and kisses them separately, in a forlorn, lingering fashion. "And yet there is some talk of Stretton," he says, miserably, his face haggard and unhappy.

"That report is false," she says, slowly.

Then, after a faint hesitation, she raises her head and regards him with earnest attention.

Her eyes are full of unshed tears, and her voice, soft and low, as it always is, trembles a little as she speaks.

"Believe nothing you hear," she says, impassively; "only this—that I shall never marry."

Rising, and turning abruptly from him, she moves toward the ball-room, and, standing in the door-way, gazes, without seeing anything, at the swaying crowd before her.

Presently she becomes conscious that two dark eyes are fixed upon her; she turns restlessly, and Captain Saumarez stands at her side.

"Not dancing, Miss Neville?" begins he, lightly. "And all alone, too!" Then, with a change of manner, and throwing some concern into his tone, he says, quietly, "You look overtired. May I take you out of this to one of the smaller rooms beyond, or in here?" pointing to the conservatory she had just quitted.

"Oh, no; not in there!" exclaims she, with some distress. "But I shall be glad to get away for a little while."

Taking his arm, she makes her way slowly through the dancers and the lingerers at the door-way, and presently sinks, with a sigh of relief, into a low chair, in a small room that opens off an ante-chamber.

The music seems so very far away that the noise and confusion could almost be forgotten. Oh, that she could now get rid of her companion, and find herself, if only for one short half hour, alone!

"Something has annoyed you. Can I help you in any way?" says Saumarez, in his gentlest manner.

Important Notice—To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $250 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $60 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

"This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child ruptured; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. A musical and literary entertainment will be given by St. Paul's Church Mission Band in the school room on Monday evening, March 8th, commencing at half-past 7 o'clock. All are invited. Admission, adults, 15cts. children 10cts.

Law Society Meeting.

The regular annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Society was held last evening in the law library room of the Mechanics' Institute. All the officers were re-elected, viz: Mr. C. A. Weller, president; Mr. D. W. Dumble, vice-president; M. E. B. Edwards, secretary-treasurer; and Messrs. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., and W. H. Moore elected trustees. Matters of interest to the profession were also discussed.

Latest Spring Styles in Hats now on hand at Wm. Loch's.

Cookery Classes.

Miss Lily Munro, (holder of a first-class diploma from the national training school of cookery, South Kensington, England) intends visiting Peterborough for the purpose of opening classes of cookery. There will be twelve lessons given in "superior" and "household" cookery. The terms for the former are $4.00 for the course, and for the latter $2.00, tickets transferable in each family. Miss Munro will require a guarantee of about thirty for the former class before she will undertake to open classes, therefore those who wish to join her classes will please enroll their names without delay at Mr. Menzies' or Mr. A. L. Davis & Co's bookstore, where prospectuses and circulars may be seen. Tickets for both courses may be had after Miss Munro's arrival, but it is necessary that those intending to join should send their names to the above bookstores. This is a rare opportunity given to the ladies of Peterborough, and all ought to avail themselves of this chance, as it is certain to prove a benefit through life. Any young women who wish to be good cooks should make an effort to attend the classes in the "household" course, held every evening (Saturday excepted) from 7 to 9, to make it convenient for those who cannot attend during the day.

Orange Entertainment.

The Orangemen of L. O. L. No. 49, gave an entertainment in their hall yesterday evening. The hall was crowded and a choice programme was provided. Mr. J. B. McWilliams, county master, presided. The opening number of the programme was a song and chorus, "Cousin Jeddediah," by Miss Logan, Messrs. D. H. Moore, W. Hill and R. Weir. Mr. Geo. Gamble gave a reading and two capital songs. Masters Theodore, Victor and Roland McWilliams, and Maxwell Weir, gave interesting recitations. Miss Logan and Mis Johnston by request, sweetly sang the duet, "Matrimonial Sweets." The Misses Belleghem contributed two charming duets. Mr. Stevens gave a recitation and song. Messrs. Halletly, Weir, Hill and Moore excelled themselves in the glee, "The Wolf is on the Hill." They also gave another selection. Mr. D. D. Galletly and Miss Logan by request sang the duet, "Reuben and Rachel," and also gave "Home to our Mountains." Misses Baker and Dormer and Messrs. R. Brenton and W. Artley, presented the interesting dialogue, "Arabella's Poor Relations." Mr. D. D. Galletly brought the entertainment to a close with a fine solo. After singing the national anthem, the audience dispersed well pleased with the evenings entertainment.

Mr. "Hose" Humphrey "Left."

At a meeting, the committee on Fire, Water and Light, decided upon the purchase, —from the Canadian Rubber Company, of 500 feet of new hose. The some 1500 feet of this hose, in use for from five to ten years, notwithstanding that the mode of drying it after use in the early period of its employment was very hard upon it, has given such good satisfaction that the committee did not feel warranted, in the interests of the town, in investing in hose of another make. Mr. "Hose" is informed that the $400 hose cart is still lying at the station subject to his order. The town has no use for it—and if it had—a far better one could be made in town at a much lower cost.

Pushing Business.

The Minden Echo, in an item in yesterday's issue, says: "Mr. Flaherty, of the firm of Flaherty & Clark, of Peterborough, clothiers, etc., has been through this section of the country recently, taking orders for clothing and succeeded in obtaining a large number of orders. Mr. Flaherty's genial manner and business push take with the people here, and account in a great measure for the large success he has had in obtaining orders. Those who have already received their ordered suits seem well pleased with them and speak in high terms of the manner in which the firm have executed their orders We understand Mr. Flaherty received 95 orders for suits."

Market Items.

The fine weather of the past few days has had the effect of reviving the market. This morning's market was a very busy one, and better than any for weeks past. There was an abundance of small commodities and vegetables as well as meats, wood and hay. Prices were as follows: butter in prints, 20c.; in kegs, 11c. to 15c; eggs, 20c.; chickens, per pair 50c. to 70c.; geese, 60c. to 75c.; turkeys, 75c. to $1.25; beef, per cwt, $4 to $6; pork, per cwt. $6 to $6.50; choice cuts, 9c. to 10c. per lb; mutton, 7c. to 8c. per lb; apples, par bag 75c. to $1; per barrel, $2 to $2.50; potatoes, per bag 65c.; parsnips, per bag 75c.; beets, per bag 75c.; carrots, per bag 60c.; turnips, per bag 35c; cabbage, 5c. to 10c. per head; wood, from $2 to $4 per cord; hay has fallen in price and sold from $10 to $12 per ton.

A Pleasant Social Gathering.

One of the most pleasant of the season's long list of ch n socials was held at the residence of Mr. John Bertram, a mile or so out of town, yesterday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church. The weather was all that could be desired and early in the evening a number of popular and energetic young men might have been seen driving around town picking up passengers from all quarters. One young gentleman, who has the reputation of driving "so neat and so steadily," succeeded in carrying twenty precious people out at one load, and five more on returning. The lights from Mr. Bertram's residence shone out invitingly to the eager travellers as they approached the place. A warm reception was given all the socialists by the host and hostess, who did all in their power to entertain their many guests. A pleasing programme was provided, Miss Hall, Miss Tate and Prof. Parker giving instrumental selections, Miss Stevens, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss Bertram contributing songs and Mr. Brown and Mr. Bertram readings. Just when all were enjoying themselves after their heart's desire, a call to arms was made, as thrilling as the call at Brussels before Waterloo, that is, arms were required to escort the ladies to the dining room, where refreshments were served after the most approved social style. The party broke up at about eleven o'clock. As has been stated, the last load carried over two dozen "nice, good, etc., boys and girls," as one of the party expressed it. On the road home the hymn "We are Going Home To-morrow," was quite popular. All reached home in safety to sleep and dream of the evening's events.

The Question Settled.

For some time past, owing to unavoidable delays, the appointment of a representative for this district on the board of the Agricultural and Arts Association, has been in apparent abeyance. The vote between Mr. Robert Vance of Cavan, and Mr. Barnum has for some time stood at a tie. The delay in giving a decision by the Minister of Agriculture, arose from the fact of his having had to correspond with the secretaries of the local societies concerned, in order to find out the number of paid-up members for the current year, some of the secretaries of which were rather tardy in responding. The last report was only received yesterday, the result showing that Peterborough and East Durham societies had the largest number of paid-up members, (Peterborough having 85 paid up members for the current year), there was no difficulty in view of both these societies voting for Mr. Vance,) in deciding his election. Now that this matter has been satisfactorily settled, th certain director of the West Riding society, who has made himself so busy for the past fortnight, in trying to create odium against the Minister of Agriculture and to fasten upon him a charge [of political favoritism, must feel like "hauling in his (short) horns" and taking a permanent "back seat." He tried to make it appear that the Minister was deviating from the custom of deciding a tie on the current year's list of paid-up members, and was aiming to decide the question on last year's list. The only other tie, besides that in which Mr. Vance was interested, was that of Mr. Sills, whose case was decided on the basis of the membership of the current year. This director had better go out and commune with his cattle and apologize to them for having used his ingenuity to injure the interests of the class to which they belong, and for his stupidity, in imagining that the Ontario Minister of Agriculture was reduced to the degradation of descending to the political methods practised by the party to which the said director gives his blind allegiance.

Dissolution.

The law firm of Messrs. Stone & Masson has dissolved. Mr. Masson retiring from the firm and joining Mr. Falkner of Belleville The business will in future be conducted by Mr. E. B. Stone, in the same office. This firm has been steadily building up a good practice since coming to Peterborough, and we are pleased that Mr. Stone is so well satisfied with Peterborough that he purposes remaining here. Mr. Masson has made many friends in Peterborough who will regret his leaving. We wish him every success in his new position and hope that Mr. Stone will find his practice even more lucrative in the future than it has been in the past.

The Final Draw.

The thirteen point game, for a medal presented by the President and Vice-President of the curling club, which has been the bone of contention in local curling circles for the past month, was finished yesterday, Mr. T. P. Attrill winning in the final draw, defeating Mr. W. G. Ferguson by six points. The contestants took time by the forelock, meeting at the rink early yesterday morning when the ice was in fine condition, finishing in time for dinner. The play, of course, was careful and decided. The fortune of war, however, favored Mr. Attrill, who played a capital game, on one occasion securing four points in one end. The score at the finish was Attrill 13, Ferguson 7. This confers upon Mr. Attrill the championship of the club, for this season at least.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. CHARLES CLARKE.

In this issue we begin the publication of portraits of the Members of the Ontario Legislature, accompanied with brief bigraphical sketches. Beginning with the first commoner in the Province, Lieut.-Col. Hon. Charles Clarke, M.P.P. for Centre Wellington and of the Ontario Legislature. He was born in Lincoln, England, on Nov. 28th, 1827. His boyhood was spent in England, and he was educated at Wallington, Lincolnshire, under Mr. Geo. Boole, afterwards Prof. of mathematics in Queen's college, Cork. Charles Clarke removed to Canada when a young man. He soon entered the wide field of journalism, editing the Hamilton Journal and Express from 1848 to 1850. He also wrote several articles advocating advanced Liberal opinions, which appeared in the Toronto Mirror, and were widely read and copied. He was also a contributor to the North American, edited by Hon. Wm. Macdougall. After filling various municipal positions he was returned for Centre Wellington to the Ontario Legislature in 1871, and was re-elected in 1873 by acclamation. He was elected speaker in 1879, after the general election. In 1883 he was re-elected to both positions. His residence is Elora, where he is Lieut.-Col. commanding of the 30th Rifles. He is a staunch Liberal in politics, and is a capable and impartial presiding officer, in the justness of his decisions, above reproach. The above portrait represents Col. Clarke in his official robes as speaker of the House. He is the fifth speaker of the House since Confederation.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3rd.

In the Legislature Mr. Harcourt in moving for a return of persons committed to jail for non-payment of debts under orders of Division Court, said that the county judges differed greatly in their practice as to committals, and that there were many cases of great hardship. The return was ordered.

Mr. Morris moved for a return of the correspondence as to the simultaneous holding of examinations of teachers and matriculants.

Mr. Ross (Huron), in replying explained the scheme of simultaneous examinations which had been arranged and which provides that examinations for second-class certificates for teachers shall be accepted in lieu of matriculation at the Toronto University and vice versa. He said that he was willing to mak similar arrangements with other universities.

Mr. Gibson, (Hamilton) moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Assessment Act by increasing the exemption of incomes to $1,000. He said that present owners of large incomes evaded the tax, while small incomes were taxed up to the handle.

Mr. Meredith opposed the bill as it would favor bank clerks and others in similar positions.

Messrs. Mowat, Fraser, Harcourt, O'Connor and Young favored the general principle of the bill, although some of them contended that the exemption asked for was two large.

Messrs. Drury, Merrick, Wood, Mackenzie and Awrey opposed the bill.

The House divided on the motion for a second reading and the result was a tie, 41 for and 41 against. The Speaker voted with the yeas. It is said this is the first time the Speaker has voted since Confederation.

After recess a dozen private bills were advanced a stage. Mr. Waters then rose amid applause and laughter to move the second reading of the bill to grant the franchise to women. He said the qualifications proposed in the bill were similar to those fixed for men by the Franchise Bill of last session. He gave a history of the movement in Ontario, the United States, England, and the Isle of Man, and claimed that public opinion was rapidly advancing in favor of giving suffrage to women. Women were just as much interested as men in good laws. They obeyed all the laws; they paid all the taxes; but they had no voice in saying what the laws or taxes should be. A woman had surely as good a right to vote as her own male servant.

Mr. Dryden strongly opposed the bill.

Mr. Ferris supported the bill but thought it did not go far enough.

Mr. Mowat said there were strong arguments in favor of woman franchise, but he thought public opinion was not ripe for the change and he asked Mr. Waters to withdraw the bill.

Mr. Meredith strongly opposed woman suffrage.

Mr. Waters agreed to withdraw the bill, but Mr. Meredith insisted on a division.

Mr. Fraser made a powerful speech against the bill, contending that if women obtained the franchise it must follow as a logical result that they must be eligible to be elected to the Legislative Assembly, must serve upon juries and perform military service.

Mr. Metcalfe supported the bill in one of his funny speeches.

Mr. Fraser moved a long amendment declaring that the passage of the bill was inopportune at the present time.

Both the bill and the amendment were eventually withdrawn, and the House adjourned at 11 p.m.

FRIDAY, MARCH, 5th.

Some routine committee work was transacted and several bills advanced a stage.

On the third reading of the Bill to amend the act respecting the Agricultural College, Hon. A. Ross moved that the order be discharged for the purpose of placing the limitation as to the number of the Advisory Board at "not more than seven." He wanted to keep the number at five, but was afraid there were so many interests to be considered that he would not be able to do so. The House in Committee assented to the amendment, and the Bill was reported.

The second reading of the bill to amend the County Courts Act, which would involve a large additional expense, was deferred two months by a vote of 38 to 25.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5th.

After routine Mr. Blake asked how many Halfbreeds were committed for trial in connection with the Northwest rebellion? How many were tried? How many were convicted? How many Indians were committed for trial in the same connection? How many were tried? How many were convicted? How many whites were committed for trial in the same connection? How many were tried? How many convicted, and what are their names?

Minister Thompson said that the information was not ready for bringing down, as it had to be verified. He suggested, however, that it would be better to move for it as a motion, as there were so many details.

Mr. Blake put a series of questions respecting Senator O'Donohoe's call to the Cabinet.

Sir John Macdonald asked to allow the question to stand for a week or so, that he might refresh his recollection. (Laughter).

Mr. Blake: "If the hon. gentleman fails in doing so I shall have to ask the party." (Cheers).

Sir John—"Perhaps the hon. gentleman has done so already."

Mr. Blake (laughing)—"No, no."

Mr. McLean, in reply to questions, stated that the net increase of the public debt from March the 1st last year to March 1st this year was $15,882,422 and the gross increase was $34,983,770.

Mr. Thompson (Antigonish), in reply to Mr. Amyot, said the authority upon which Mr. Justice Richardson stated in pronouncing sentence upon Louis Riel that he could not give him hope that Her Majesty would exercise mercy in his behalf, was in accordance with the usual course of judges' sentencing prisoners when they believed it was one wherein the executive clemency ought not to be exercised. He further said that the date of the order-in-council ordering the execution of Riel was November 18, 1885, and that the third respite was to allow the receipt here in Ottawa of the medical report.

Mr. Thompson, in replying to Mr. Edgar, said that the Government did not intend to introduce bankruptcy legislation or to ask the appointment of a committee to deal with the subject. Any private member could bring in a bill.

Sir John Macdonald, replying to Mr. Mills, said the Government was considering, the propriety of introducing legislation dealing with the Ontario boundary question.

The House then went on to notices of motion, but Mr. Landry's motion, pretending at the suggestion of the Government, to censure the Government for the execution of Louis Riel, was allowed to stand until Tuesday next at the Government's request.

Two motions from Mr. Amyot requesting information respecting the trial of Riel were carried.

A number of other motions and returns were carried and the House adjourned.

Watch the Assessment Rolls.

Last session the Local Legislature passed a Franchise Act which widely extended the Franchise and which gives votes to a large number who never had the right to vote before. The Provincial Voters' List are entirely based upon the Assessment Rolls. Unless a man's name appears upon the Assessment Roll it will not appear on the Voters' List. Therefore it is of the greatest importance that every man to whom a vote is given by this new Franchise Act should be assumed. Particularly notice the law as it applies to three classes, namely; wage-earners, householders, and landholders' sons.

The Plasterers' union of this city have had under consideration for some time the nine hour movement. Last week a conference was held with the bosses, and after careful consideration it was decided that on and after the 1st of June the nine hour rule should come in force. The rate of wages was fixed at 28 cents an hour.

The strike in the Oshawa Malleable Iron works still continues. The men will stay out until the firm recognizes organized labor. Assistance is now pouring in from the International Moulders Union of America. The majority of the men are also members of the K. of L. As this strike is not a question of wages, but one of principle, the men are sure of winning.

The markets and health committee yesterday considered the petition of the licensed carters, for an increase of fifty cents per day when employed by the city. A deputation from the carters union, consisting of President Smith and Mr. O'Rourke, presented the claims of the men, which were found so reasonable that the committee unanimously agreed to grant the prayer of the petition. The wages now will be $2.50 per day for men, horse and cart, and the city will find that the increased pay will not result in a loss, while it will give the men a decent living.

THE END APPROACHING.

England promises to be more radical and ready than Canada in constitutional reform. In the Imperial House of Commons, Mr. Labouchere moved that the House resolve that an hereditary chamber of legislation is inconsistent with the principles of representative government, and the motion was only defeated by a majority of 36. The Parnellites voted with the minority. Many Liberals abstained from voting. The majority consisted mainly of Conservatives and prominent members of the Government. The Parnellites received the announcement of the result with loud cheers. Mr. O'Connor exclaimed, "The writing on the wall."

If the British public opinion is so pronounced on the evil of a hereditary senate how much greater reason is there for Canadians to consider the uselessness and evil of a much more objectionable legislative body, an appointed chamber. The Canadian Senate in its present form, especially, is seriously threatened at no distant date, to be dislodged by the drift of public opinion. As it is now constituted it is simply the tool of the party holding power for the time being. It is capable of immense power for evil and possesses a very questionable capacity for good. In this respect its warmest defenders can produce no reason, justafying its existence. This age has no room for a legislative body that is not responsible to the people. There is very little to be said of the utility of even an elective chamber, but it would be an improvement upon the present excrescence on the body politic. As regards the present Senate, there does not seem to be much need for agitating strongly for its abolition. Give the hoary senators their fling and they will extinguish themselves, Their burdensome expense, their disgraceful squabblings, their impertinent and evil interference with legitimate legislation is preparing the "handwriting on the wall" that is to record their end.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

The Colonial and Indian Exhibition to be held this year in London, promises to be an important factor in making known to the world the natural, industrial and agricultural resources of Canada. It will be opened in May by the Prince of Wales, who is president, and will continue for six months. It is expected that the gate receipts will show an attendance at least of 7,000,000 visitors, among whom will be men of business, literature and politics. from every quarter of the globe.

The exhibition will be the occasion of founding of a new intercolonial library, comprising the literature of all the colonies, and a permanent museum of arts and manufactures—two institutions in themselves of vast utility and importance to civilization. This, together with the peculiar interest which the question of the future relation of the colonies to the Empire of Great Britain has excited among foreign people and the Anglo-Saxon people alike, combine to make the occasion of great significance. It will be the greatest opportunity ever presented to us to lay a picture of Canada before the world. This is being done in many ways by hundreds of corporations of the various cities, towns, villages and rural districts, as well as by merchants and manufacturers in every province of the Dominion.

To provide an effective channel through which information may be disseminated in Great Britain and the colonies, regarding local interests of all classes, it has been decided to publish a journal for the Canadian department of the exhibition. This journal will be called The Canadian Exhibitor, and will be in itself an interesting feature of the exhibition, as it will be entirely a Canadian product. It will be printed on Canadian made paper (as the present prospectus is), with Canadian ink, from Canadian type, and on a Canadian press, one being now in course of construction especially for the work, and it will be edited and published by Canadians. The engravings, with which it will be illustrated, will be almost exclusively Canadian products. The journal will be published continuously during the exhibition, and will be printed in the Canadian department of the building, where the office will be a bureau of general information about Canada. This journal will be an important medium for extending the publicity given to Canadian industrial and other exhibits, and it is to be hoped it will be liberally sustained.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Wood has introduced a bill into the Ontario Legislature which provides that any keeper of a billiard, pool, or bagatelle room, or table, or bowling alley, who admits a minor thereto without the written consent of his parent or guardian shall be subject to a fine of $10 for the first and $20 for each subsequent offence.

The millers are seeking to have the duty on flour raised from 50 cents to $1.00 per barrel. That's right, make the poor man's bread, hard enough, with low wages and scarcety of work, to come at now, still harder to get by a hundred per cent. turn of the N. P. screw.

Wasteful Extravagance.

Senator Alexander the wasteful expenditures of the Dominion Government, especially for partisan purposes and objects. No one would object to a large increase of the public debt, where the grants are honestly and wisely voted for the development of the country. But I do not believe in excessive payments upon contracts over and above the public tenders to enable such contractors to contribute largely towards the return of government candidates at the elections. I do not believe in voting large amounts to certain localities for works of doubtful requirement, in order to soften down in such districts, disaffection to the party in power—or in passing omnibus railway bills involving money votes and expenditure of many hundred thousand dollars in localities where there can be no traffic to sustain a railway—and such public money would therefore be wasted. I do not believe in superannuating large numbers of the civil service at enormous cost to the country for the sole purpose of providing for partisan followers, or in duplicating such positions of large emolument as those of the speaker of the Commons and chief librarian for the same purpose. By such reckless and reprehensible expenditures they have largely brought up the controllable expenditure from $6,500,000 in 1878 to $13,000,000 in the brief period of 7 years—while it is acknowledged by their own organs that they have during that period added $80,000,000 to the debt of the Dominion. But of all the public wrongs which have been done—of all the revelations which have yet been made—that showing the greatest depravity of purpose, has been the distribution privately, without tenders, among partisan supporters of the government in parliament and out of parliament, of the valuable coal lands and timber limits in our Northwest Territory at small nominal values. I believe it is not denied that one prominent partisan follower had resold a timber limit or coal land lease thus obtained for some say a much larger amount. Those enormities have been practised under regulations never submitted to parliaemnt, but emanating from the department of the interior.

IN THE FULL VIGOR OF LIFE,

I would only in conclusion add that public men can only perform their duty in faithfully laying before the people the information they posses. It must rest with the country to determine whether such wrongs and methods of administering the government shall go on. With such public burdens already required, from profligate administration, to be imposed, ranging up to a 35 per cent. tariff—with all the overstrained revenue collected, it would appear that we shall, notwithstanding have a deficit this year of upwards of $3,000,000. Is it for such prodigal management that the Conservatives praise their leader? Then again from carrying the National Policy too far — excessive protection has naturally brought overproduction, and with such a limited market many of our manufacturing establishments (cotton, sugar, and agricultural implements, etc., etc.,) are struggling under crushing difficulties, while many other industries must drift into the same position. As regards the Northwest, the country has allowed itself to be misled, to entertain too sanguine hopes of the immediate future of that territory. The influx of population into that part of the Dominion can only be slow and must depend upon better government. If we desire that this Confederation should not break into fragments from political abuses and mal-administration, there must be less blind allegiance to party and a more independent and enlightened exercise of franchise at the poll.

BY THE DUCHESS.

"You are very good. No; it is nothing. I am only slightly fatigued," returns she, listlessly.

"May I get you something? A glass of wine—some iced water?"

"Thank you—nothing."

Her evident determination not to be friendly, her extreme coldness of voice and gesture, piqué him beyond endurance. What has he done to her that this proud girl should treat him with such open disdain?

"I saw you go into that conservatory about ten minutes ago," he says, after a slight pause, some reckless desire to rouse her from her apathy, and bring anger, if he can not summon love, into those beautiful eyes below him, inciting him to this speech. "You seemed greatly disturbed when you came out again. Was that boy rude to you?"

He has certainly gained his point. Miss Neville's blue eyes literally flash with anger.

"That boy?" repeats she, in an impassible tone.

"I am speaking of Penruddock," returns he, with cool persistence. "Was he rude?"

"I hardly know how to answer such a quest on," says Miss Neville, frigidly. "I never knew until now—to-night—that any man could be rude to me."

"Ah! then I am to understand he did offend?" says Saumarez, insolently, his evil genius at his elbow.

"I was not alluding to Mr. Penruddock—he is incapable of any act of ill-breeding; I was alluding to you!" says Maud, in a clear tone, rising as she delivers this retort.

She would have swept by him and left the room, but with a sudden exclamation he seizes her hand, and detains her against her will.

"Stop!" cries he, with some passion. "I have something to say to you, that I have too long withheld, and that you shall hear now or never."

"Then it shall be never!" says the girl, quickly. "I decline to listen to anything you may have to say. Release me, sir; your very touch is hateful to me!"

"Ay, since Penruddock came upon the field. Do you think I am so blind that I can not see how he has gained favor where all others have been treated with studied coldness? Do you think I have not noticed how he—"

"I decline to discuss Mr. Penruddock with you," says Maud, throwing up her head with a gesture full of graceful dignity that might have adorned a queen.

"Is he so precious in your sight?" says Saumarez, with a sneer. "And is this new lover prepared to overlook the fact of your humble birth?"

"Take care, sir; do not go too far!" says Maud, her voice vibrating with indignation.

"I don't care how far I go now," declares he, all the evil blood in his heart surging upward to the surface. "I love you, too! Yes; you shall listen to me, though it be for the last time!" tightening his fingers on her wrist. "I love you, as that boy can never love you—with all the strength of a man's deepest devotion!"

"Hush! your mention of love is but an insult!" says she, in a withering tone.

"My voice is not so silken as his, no doubt," replies he, driven to madness by her loathing. "Nor do soft words trip so readily from my tongue. But will his love stand the test of time? Will he never regret that he has married one who is—"

He pauses.

"Lowly born."

She supplies the words; speaking them bravely, and not flinching from the stroke.

"Ay, and basely!" says he, between his teeth.

It is a lie, and he knows it. But at this moment he would have uttered any false thing to lower the pride of the woman whom—strange paradox—he loves, yet hates!

A terrible change passes over Miss Neville's countenance as the words cross his lips.

"No, no; it is not true!" she cries, all her courage forsaking her. "I will not believe it! What can you know more than all the others? Ah! Is it for this reason I have dreaded you? Have pity, and unsay your words!"

"I do not speak without authority," replies he, quickly, stung again by her admission that she dreads him. "I know all about your birth,"—there is an air of undoubted truth about these words that strike cold to her heart—"and I tell you again, that you are not only humbly but basely born!"

She shudders violently.

A low cry escapes her, and with the hand that still remains free she covers her face.

At this instant Penruddock, followed by Mr. Wilding (with whom he is earnestly conversing), enters the room. He is unfortunately in time to hear Miss Neville's agonized cry, and to hear Saumarez's last words.

Going up to the latter, he pushes him backward, releasing Maud from his grasp.

"What do you mean to apply such words as you have used to Miss Neville?" he asks, in a low tone.

"I have said it, and say it again!" says Saumarez, with unusual evil sneer.

"You are a coward!" says Penruddock, losing all command of his temper; and, raising his gloved hand, he strikes him across the face.

There is a second's awful silence; then Saumarez—who has instinctively raised his hand to his cheek, on which a pink line may be traced—says, quietly, turning to Penruddock, "When and where?"

"The sooner the better," says Dick, still white and wild with fury.

Maud, who had shrunk aside, and who is now standing close to Mr. Wilding, says to him, in a nervous whisper, so low as to be almost unintelligible, "What does it all mean?"

"Fighting, I think," says Mr. Wilding, who is a plain-spoken man at times, and given to electrify the judges in court on certain occasions. "They are arranging a duel, unless I am greatly mistaken."

"But it must be prevented!" says Maud, wildly. "Something must be done!"

Going up to Penruddock, she lays her hand upon his arm. "Let me speak, Dick!" she says, in trembling accents.

The word—his Christian name—has unconsciously escaped her; but he has heard it, and proudly, gladly, takes the little hand upon his arm between both his own, as though this unexpected mention of his name had made her his—had been an informal confession of her love.

"There is no need that you should question," she goes on, with lowered eyes and pallid lips. "He is right; he has but spoken the truth. I am lowly born, as all the world knows; though, sir," confronting Saumarez, and gazing full at him with terrible grief and reproach in her glance, "it has yet to be proved how you came to use that word basely."

"My conduct to you has been unpardonable, madam," says Saumarez, bowing and drawing back, with set lips and a stern expression. "I ask your forgiveness. To your friend, Mr. Penruddock, I shall give every satisfaction necessary—the very strongest satisfaction!" concludes he, with a grim smile; after which he bows again, and withdraws.

Miss Neville bursts into tears, and sobs bitterly for a few minutes. Penruddock, with his arm round her, supports her head against his breast for some time unrebuked. Presently, however, she checks her emotion, and drawing away from him wipes the tears from her eyes, sighing heavily.

"You have got your work cut out for you, you know," suggests Mr. Wilding, in a low tone to Dick, who had forgotten everything but Maud's grief.

"I am quite aware of that," mutters Dick.

"If you are going to cross to the other side, you will have but very little time to arrange matters before starting."

"There is little to arrange," says Penruddock, absently. "My Cousin George falls in for everything if I come to grief in the encounter."

Then he goes up to Maud, who is still silently crying, and takes her hand again.

"Tell me the truth now," he says. "At this last moment it would be a solace, a comfort to me. That time—a few minutes since, when you called me 'Dick'—your tone, your whole manner thrilled me; it almost caused me to believe that I was not quite indifferent to you. Was that presumption, madness, on my part? Speak, darling!"

He bends his head, and she whispers something in a voice half-broken.

It must have been some word of encouragement, as Penruddock's visage brightens, and his whole manner changes.

"And if I return?" he begins eagerly.

But she interrupts him.

"Oh, you must—you will return!" she says, painfully.

"If I do, you will marry me?"

She shakes her head.

Even at this solemn moment her great resolve is not to be broken.

"My dear Penruddock, this is out of all bearing," says Mr. Wilding, who has been engaged in an engrossing examination of a bit of old Chelsea, but now feels it his duty to come to the rescue and deliver Miss Neville from her embarrassment. "Let us discuss what you have got to do."

"That is simple," says Penruddock, with a frown. "If luck stands to me, I shall shoot him through the heart."

"No, no!" says Maud faintly, putting up her hand in quick protest. "To kill him, that would be murder! Do not have his death upon your conscience."

"Would you shrink from me because of that?" asks he wistfully.

"It would be so terrible," she falters.

"Yet, remember, it would be in your cause."

"For that very reason"—earnestly—"I should feel it all the more. And later on, when you had grown cool, it would be to yourself an everlasting regret, and I should be the author of it. Oh, let him live!"

"Well, I dare say I shall," says Penruddock in a curious tone; "for this reason—that I suppose he will kill me."

"He splits hairs and sixpenny-bits, and all sorts of thin things, at any number of paces that you like to name," said Mr. Wilding, pleasantly.

Miss Neville shudders, and turns a shade paler even than she has been through all.

"After all, there is not so much in life that one should regret it to any intense degree," says Dick, who takes it rather badly that she objects to his killing Saumarez.

"My dear boy, there you err," says Wilding, briskly. "There is a great deal in life, if you go the proper way to find it, and if you don't expect too much; that is the great secret. Life is a first-class thing in my opinion—nothing like it. I never, you know, fight duels myself—nothing would induce me; but if you must, my dear Penruddock, aim low, and cover him well with your eye. I'll see you through it, and stick to you, my dear boy, whatever happens."

"Thanks, old man; I knew quite well that you would not desert me," says Dick gratefully.

"Can nothing be done?" says Maud, clasping her hands. "Oh, Mr. Wilding, do try; surely something may be effected if you will only try!"

"Of course I shall try," says Wilding promptly. "I'll stand to him all through—I have promised that. By Jove! I wouldn't advise that fellow to do anything unfair when I am on the field! And if"—impressively—"anything unfortunate should occur, I'll—"

"Oh, Mr. Wilding, how I hate you!" interrupts Miss Neville, with a sudden burst of wrathful tears. "If no one else will help me," cries she going hurriedly toward the door, "I shall try, at least, what a weak woman can do!"

She opens the door, closes it behind her firmly, and runs upstairs to her own apartments.

CHAPTER VI

AN ENTREATY.

It is an hour later; and in his library Gilbert Saumarez is sitting with folded arms, on which his face lies hidden.

The table is strewn with papers.

A crumpled, faded flower and a little, six-buttoned black-kid glove are on the desk close beside him; how procured, he alone knows.

Certainly, they were never given to him by their rightful owner.

The lamps are lowered, until a half-gloom, that is almost darkness, envelops the apartment.

Ghastly shadows creep here and there, unchecked, unnoticed by the man who sits so silently in the arm-chair beneath the center lamp.

He is lost in thought, in vain regrets, that belong to the present and the near past, but have no connection with the morrow, that may bring death in its train.

But not to him.

No fear of being "done to death" in open fight, need harass him.

He is too expert a shot, has too often earned his reputation as a skilled duellist, to feel nervous at the prospect of an encounter with an amateur—a raw schoolboy in the art of dueling, as he rightly terms Penruddock.

He has killed his man before this; and having made up his mind to shoot this present rival as he would a dog, has dismissed the subject from his thoughts.

Other considerations crowd upon him—other remembrances, sweet and bitter; and so absorbed is he in his inward musings, that he does not hear the door open, nor the sound of the light feet that advance across the floor, until the owner of them is almost at his side.

He raises his head then, and looking up, starts to his feet with an exclamation that is caused by a surprise which for the moment completely overpowers him.

It is Maud Neville who stands before him, pale as "the snowy lily pressed with heavy rain."

Her eyes are large, half frightened, and full of grief. Beneath them dark circles show themselves. No faintest ting of color adorns her cheeks. Her hair, under her swans'-down hood, has loosened, and strays across her low, smooth forehead at its own good will.

She is pale, nervous, thoroughly unhinged, yet never perhaps has she looked so lovely.

To Gilbert Saumarez, gazing at her, some old lines occur that seem to apply to her as to none other—

"To see her is to love her,
And love but her forever,
For nature made her what she is,
And ne'er made she another!"

"You here, and alone!" he stammers, moving from her rather than toward her.

"Yes, here," returns she, in a low tone, tremulous with emotion. "Esther waits for me outside. I have so far forgotten my own dignity and self-respect as to come here to you at midnight, compelled by a sudden necessity. The only reason sir," with an upward glance of mingled entreaty and pride, "that you should respect both!"

"Speak!" returns he, coldly.

She throws back her hood and cloak as though half stifled, and stands before him in all the bravery of her satin ball-dress, on which pearls gleam with a soft, subdued light.

"I have come to ask you to forego this duel—to give it up," she says, faintly, discouraged by this manner, yet not wholly dismayed. "I entreat you to hear me, to listen to what I have to say, not to turn a deaf ear to my prayer."

"Yet to my prayer not an hour since you were deaf," retorts he, quietly.

She is silent.

"You would ask me to spare your lover—that boy, Penruddock," says he, with a mocking smile, "and so proclaim myself a coward, as he called me! Impossible! Why, he struck me across the face with his open hand—here!"

He raises his hand to the cheek that still bears the mark of the blow, but was paled as the remembrance of the deadly insult returns to him.

His eyes blaze with wrath. Involuntarily he clinches his hand. To the girl watching him there seems indeed but small hope of mercy.

She draws nearer, and by a sudden impulse lays her hand upon his.

"At least, do not kill him!" she says, despair in her tone, an awful look in her great gleaming eyes. "Do not murder him! He is young, and youth is precious. You will have mercy on him, will you not?"

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 26th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The Cantata "Ruth."

Owing to numerous attractions in the town, Mr. C. C. Hampshire has decided to postpone practice of the Cantata "Ruth" from Tuesday evening to Thursday evening, 11th inst., at 8 o'clock. Those concerned are requested to be present in St. John's church on the latter date.

Professor Vallance—Glasgow University.

License and Revenue.

According to the last report of the Provincial Secretary, on the working of the Tavern and Shop License Acts, the total revenue, accruing to municipalities in 1885, from these sources was $5,479.49 for the east and west license districts of the County of Peterborough, of which this town's share was $4,244, and that of the rural municipalities $1,235.49, divided as follows: west, $321.75; east, $913.74.

Reception Services.

Reception services were held in both the George and Charlotte street churches yesterday evening. The series of evangilestic services, which have been held in both these churches for the past three weeks, came to a close on Friday evening last, with the result of adding many converts to the church. After the sermons yesterday evening in each of these churches the new members were received into the membership of the church and received the right hand of fellowship. The large number of 105 new members was added to the membership of the George street church and 23 at the Charlotte street church. After the reception services were over the sacrament of the Lord's supper was dispensed.

A New Dry Goods Firm.

Mr. H. S. Griffin, of St. Thomas, is in town arranging for the opening of his new dry goods and millinery establishment, in the southern premises of the new Cox buildings, on George street, at an early date. He expects to open out about the 20th of this month. The premises will be fitted up in first-class style and business will be conducted on the most approved city style. Mr. Griffin has been fortunate in securing the services of one of the best milliners in Canada to take charge of the millinery department. Mr. Griffin comes highly recommended as a business man of ability and energy. The firm will be known as H. S. Griffin & Co.

Police Court.

John Kitely and Joseph Cahill were arranged before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with vagrancy. Kitely, alias Cain, appeared to be flighty. He stated that he had come from Hardship, (the truth of which his clothes bore evidence) and Smith, and that he had lived in Peterborough 30 years. All his answers were very vague. On Saturday P. C. McGinty found him feasting on dirt he picked off the street. The magistrate gave him two months in jail. Cahill, just out of jail, having served a term for vagrancy, admitted the charge against him and asked for five weeks to finish some whitewashing he had on hand at the jail. The magistrate granted his request.

He Passed a Baker's Dozen.

A young man now taking a course at the Peterborough Business College, passed thirteen business colleges on his route here. This speaks well for the popularity of the college.

Monday, March 8th.

The closing concert of the series will be held at St. Luke's school room, Ashburnham, on Monday night. Splendid programme. Songs, etc., by the children of the Barnardo Home. A farce by amateurs entitled, "Two Heads is better than one." Admission ten cents.

With Confidence

We make the announcement on first page of a partial list of our Spring Importations, and in doing so we pledge ourselves to maintain throughout the season, that high standard of merit for the best quality of fine Dry Goods, for which the Golden Lion is noted. R. FAIR.

Adventures of Two Sheepish Dudes.

While two young men were out enjoying a constitutional yesterday afternoon, they were met in the west end of the town by nothing less than a large black sheep. They, taking the animal for a male of the most virulently bumptious description, gave it the right of way. It, however, taking in the situation, put its head on one side and made for the young men, who made tracks as fast as possible, to the amusement of a number of lady witnesses, who knew the animal to be a pet and as harmless as a sheep can be.

Canoes for the Colonial.

A large number, up to the hour of "closing our forms," had availed themselves of the privilege of inspecting the splendid exhibit of canoes, prepared by the Ontario Canoe Company, Ashburnham, for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition. The exhibit was laid out at the company's warerooms, and the collection, of many varieties of canoe, from the substantial lumberman's launch, to the airy, yet strong and elegantly finished pleasure canoe, fit for a prince of the blood to kneel in, elicited warm expressions of praise from the visitors.

A Horse in Trouble.

Yesterday afternoon a farmer's horse caused excitement in the yard of the Croft House by trying to strangle itself. The horse was tied in a stall in the sheds mentioned, together with a mate. Taking a fit of colic or cramps it tried to roll and in some way managed to get its head under the manger in such a way that it could not get it out again. The hostler hearing a racket appeared on the scene and with the assistance of a number of men managed to extricate the animal's head, after having removed a board from the manger. Dr. Beattie was summoned and after the horse had slightly recovered from its choking, led it off to his stable for treatment. It was all right in the evening.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

To Blame Themselves.

The honorary secretary of the committee of the late ball of the Bachelors and Benedicts, has received several anonymous communications, blaming him for certain names being omitted from the published list. The secretary is not at all to blame in the matter. He is not responsible for a newspaper report. The list published in the EXAMINER contained, with perhaps an inadvertent omission or two, the full list of those who had the courtesy to acknowledge the receipt of an invitation and to intimate either its acceptance or declination. Those complaining have simply paid the penalty of their ignorance of the usages of society, so far as the courtesy of the customary recognition, of what they now seem to consider the honor of an invitation, is concerned.

Canoeing.

Glowing accounts come from Lindsay of the annual dinner of the Lindsay Canoe Club held on Thursday last. The menu and toasts were of an essentially nautical character. At the head is, "The Start"; after the meats, comes, "Round the Buoy." A little lower down is the expressive suggestion, "Shake out a Reef Here" and the winning stake is indicated by the bold direction "Let her Jibe." The toasts include "The Queen;" the "Lindsay Canoe Club," "Visiting Canoeists," (Here's a good landing), "River and Lake,"

"Where Scugog rolls its turbid tide,
"And bullfrogs bellow on its marshy side,"

"Sail and Paddle," "The Camp Fire," "The Cook," "The Ladies," and last of all "The Mosquito, Partner of our Joys and Sorrows." The songs were original and appropriate to the occasion. It is spoken of as the best dinner ever held in Lindsay, so thorough and complete were all the arrangements and so enthusiastic the participants. Now then, Peterborough Boating Club, what is being done here? Is there not life enough amongst our members here to go and do likewise?

A line of very fine ladies' boots, our own make, at two dollars, at Johnston Carey's

Spring.

The chirps of the robin was heard around town yesterday and to-day. Sparrows have commenced to build and everything indicates the approach of an early spring.

Lindsay's Welcome.

This morning His Lordship Bishop Jamot, proceeded to Lindsay, where he will enjoy a reception of welcome and congratulation on the occasion of his return from Rome.

What Does it Mean?

The old fence formerly used as a bill board around the lot, corner of Hunter and Water streets, which has lately been the favorite in betting circles in the race for the postoffice site, was torn down and removed on Saturday.

A Good Move.

Chief of Police Cooper's move to make the corner loafer move is a move in the right direction and it is to be hoped that the Chief will continue the movement till this disgusting nuisance—to ladies especially—is abated. The corner loafer and March winds are in season together and the police will require to be on the alert. Chief Cooper starts in well, and we hope he will continue his future course on the lines he has inaugurated.

Another Pioneer Passed Away.

On Saturday, Mr. Henry Hartley passed away at his residence, Aylmer street, aged 66 years. The deceased gentleman was one of the oldest residents of the town, and was at one time actively associated with the commercial interests of Peterborough. He enjoyed the respect of the many friends who knew him, for his honesty and uprightness. He leaves behind a widow, four sons and one daughter. The funeral will take place from his late residence, Aylmer street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetrey.

What We May Expect.

Fresh to strong southerly, gradually veering to westerly and northwesterly winds, mostly cloudy and mild, with light snow or rain, followed by cooler weather to-night or to-morrow.

Beautiful New Business Buildings.

On Saturday the rough board porch which faced the four-storey new Cox buildings during the winter was removed on Saturday. The change which has taken place during the time the front has been boarded up was very apparent, and the change which has taken place since Saturday has also been marked. Almost all the woodwork has been completed and at the present rate of progress will be finished in a few days. During this morning plate glass was placed in all the front windows of the first and second flats. The plate glass front on the second storey is something new and gives the fine buildings a light and cheerful appearance. The southern premises will be occupied by Mr H. S. Griffin, lately of St. Thomas, as a dry goods and millinery establishment. This shop is almost completed and is particularly neat and handsome. The walls are all wainscotted and painted white, while the arched ceiling is anneled and of the same color. The counters and shelving have been placed and will be stocked with goods shortly. The shelves are white, divided by mahogany grained pillars. The shelving is capped with a handsome cornice, white and panneled with mahogany. The counters are faced with oiled and polished cherry with a mahogany pannel. The facing of the drawers behind the counter are mahogany grained. This graining, which is deservedly the subject of much praise, is particularly well executed and is the work of Mr. W. H. Watson. The back part of the shop will be partitioned off for a millinery room. Mr. D. Breese, tinsmith and stove dealer will occupy the northern premises. The second flat which is in reality all one room, only being divided by several arches, will be used as a show room for the Peterborough Stove Works. The work of completing the buildings is being rapidly pushed forward. The iron supporters in front of the buildings are receiving the attention of the painter's brush this afternoon. When completed these buildings will undoubtedly rank with the most handsome on George street and their attractiveness and location cannot fail to constitute them one of the best business stands in town.

Personal.

Mr. F. T. Morry is in town delivering Morry's directory of the counties of Peterborough, and Durham and Northumberland. This directory is a valuable work of reference. It contains the addresses to date of all the residents of the above counties.

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes. d56-6t-w10

A Strike on the Wabash.

Nine Thousand of Jay Gould's Employes Quit Work.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—All the Knights of Labor at this place to the number of 400 employed on the Gould system of railways struck this morning, and it is understood that all the Knights upon the entire system will follow the example.

It is stated that the action of the Texas Pacific officials in discharging a foreman of the shops at Marshall, Mo., for actively engaging in and organizing a Knights of Labor assembly at that place, was the cause of the present trouble. The Knights of Labor there objected to this action and refused to work for the company, which as positively refused to reinstate the foreman. Matters remained in this state for some time, each remaining firm in their intention to defeat the other. To-day a general strike upon the entire system was ordered by the central committee of the Knights of Labor. The order applies to shop men only and does not affect in the least the trainmen. All trains to and from this city are running on time and no serious trouble is anticipated.

The running force of the Gould system, including shopmen, trackmen and trainmen, is 13,000. Of these 9,000 are claimed to be Knights of Labor, but up to this afternoon only those employed in the machine shops had struck. It is estimated that at the present time from 2,500 to 3,000 men have gone out, but it is thought probable that if the managers do not accede promptly to the demands of the strikers all the remaining Knights on the system will be ordered out.

"MADRE E HICO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The Great Inflammatory Remedy.

Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in the back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormand & Walsh, druggists, Peterboro', write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Nerviline may be tested at the small sum of ten cents, as you can buy a sample bottle for that sum at any drug store. Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline the great internal and external pain cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. d56-6t-w10

Important Notice To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

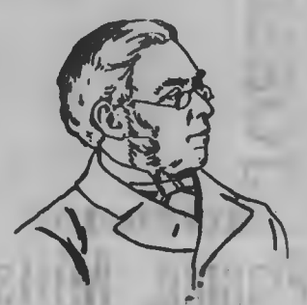
YOUNG MEN'S LIBERAL CLUB.

A meeting of the members of the Young Men's Liberal Club will be held in the rooms over the telegraph office on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of members and of others who sympathize with their, political opinions is requested, as business of importance will demand attention.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. OLIVER MOWAT.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of



"That Little Tyrant."

The above is the portrait of Hon. Oliver Mowat, Q.C., LL.D., M.P.P., Attorney-General. He has a legitimate right to the large amount of pluck and fight which he has shown during the last bakers' dozen of years in upholding the rights of the people and Province of Ontario. He is son of the late John Mowat, of Caithness-shire, Scotland, who served under Lord Wellington in the Peninsular war. Subsequently he came to Canada, settling in Kingston. Here Hon. Oliver Mowat was born sixty-six years ago. Young Mr. Mowat studied law under Hon. John A. (now Sir John) Macdonald, then fairly entered upon the tortuous course of political life he has since followed. Little did the "Chieftain" then think his pupil would prove so apt a one, and would in after years floor the greatest constitutional lawyer with the greatest of ease, round after round. The insight Oliver Mowat then got into Sir John's political methods, if it did not make him a liberal in politics added to the fervour of the political persuasion which he adopted. Subsequently young Mr. Mowat studied law with Mr. Justice Burns, and was called to the bar of Upper Canada in 1842, and created a Q.C., in 1856. Mr. Mowat's career has been one of honors piled upon honors. To start out with, he was an alderman of the city of Toronto for two years; and he is, or has been, member of the senate of the university of Toronto, bencher of the Law society of Ontario, president of the Evangelical Alliance of Ontario, provincial secretary in the Brown-Dorion cabinet, for four days, postmaster-general in the Sandfield Macdonald administration form May 1863 to March 1864, held the same office under the coalition government until November of the same year; in 1864 he then took the position of vice-chancellor of Upper Canada, which he held until Oct. 25, 1872; resigned that to form a new administration for Ontario, and has held the position of attorney-general of the province ever since and probably will continue to do so, so long as his life and health are spared. His sturdy defence of the right of the province are too fresh in the minds of a grateful people to need recapitulation. Whenever he has been pitted against Sir John on questions of constitutional law involving the interests of this province, he has "won in a canter." Hon. Mr. Mowat, is, not to say, an eloquent speaker, but he is effective, and earnest, the honesty of his intentions and his sincerity permeate his speeches and impress his hearers much more strongly than mere rhetorical display can do. He is a far-seeing, shrewd politician and has the added merit of being an honest one. In methods he may be called a successful combination of Liberalism and Conservatism. He is Liberal enough to keep abreast of the progressive spirit of the age and conservative enough to "hasten gently" in proposing radical reforms and progressive measures. He is a popular leader of his party, and takes a warm interest in its success, viewing it as the fittest medium through which this great province can work out its manifest destiny of perpetual preeminence among the colonies of Confederation. He has been in power fourteen years and every year has found him more strongly entrenched in the hearts of the people, and every year more amply than its predecessor, emphasizes his fitness for the position he so worthily fills.

Town Council.

Another Long Session—By-Laws the Bulk of the Business—Victualling Houses Licensed—The Rules of Order Amended.

A meeting of the Council of the town of Peterborough was held in the Council Chamber yesterday evening.

Present, Mayor Stevenson, in the chair, and Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, McNaughton, Kelly, McNeil, Yelland, Moore, Rutherford, Menzies, Kendry.

After routine the Clerk read the following

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. Alex. McNeil, asking the Council to pay half his taxes.—Received.

From the Ohio White Anchor Hose Company asking the Council to purchase hose from them when required.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented for payment.

Jas. English, for wood for furnace	$26.00
Montreal Rubber Co., hose fixtures	11.00
A. Clegg, mending chairs	42.00
Western Assurance Co., re Town Clock	5.00
Western Assurance Co., re Town Buildings	20.00

The last two accounts were ordered to be paid and the others were referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Davidson read the following

REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN,—The communication from Geo. Hilliard, Esq., M.P., and Messrs. Krug & Hibner re manufacturing. As to the former we hope, if not successful in obtaining the thread factory, that this offer will still remain open as to any other factory that may wish to locate here.

Messrs. Krug & Hibner. Their communication to His Worship re exemption, your committee are of the opinion that the Council would grant them exemption for ten years and a low rent for water power during the same term, and that the clerk notify them of the same.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, March 8th, 1886.

Mr. Rutherford gave a verbal

REPORT OF THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE.

He said the committee had met and awarded the contract for the new hose to the Canadian Rubber Company, at $1.10 per foot. The committee had submitted to the Water Company a proposal to change a hydrant to suit couplings, but an arrangement could not be agreed on as the committee deemed the expenditure too great. They had adopted a connecting system which would overcome the difficulty. Mr. Rutherford in company with the Mayor had inspected the hydrants around town and found them all in perfect working order with the exception of one which the waterworks company promised to attend to at once. They had now 1,500 feet of good hose with coupling attachments complete, and were perfectly prepared for any fire which might occur and which he hoped would not occur.

On motion of Mr. McNeil, seconded by Mr. Moore, the Council went into committee on the second reading of the by-law regulating licenses.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford, the Council reconsidered the clause relating to the licensing of billiard tables.

After some discussion, it was moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That the license fee for each billiard table be $50 for the current year.—Carried.

The clause of the by-law prohibiting youths of 16 and under playing in or frequenting billiard rooms was carried.

The clause to license victualling houses called forth a lengthy discussion.

Mr. Cahill thought it was unfair and unjust to eating houses. They had not asked for protection. It would be as reasonable to license grocery stores.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the license fee for eating houses be $1.

Mr. Kendry was of the same opinion as Mr. Cahill.

Mr. Rutherford held that a number of eating houses were not free from suspicion, and when the Scott Act came in force they wanted the power to regulate these places.

Mayor Stevenson thought the License Committee had given the matter careful consideration and arrived at the proper conclusion. He was in favor of refunding the license to any who were unable to pay it.

Mr. Davidson thought the license would protect the eating houses, as it would prevent many from erecting eating stands and refreshment booths on circus days, and thereby assist the licensed victuallers. He was convinced there were places selling liquor under the guise of eating houses. By imposing the license fee they were brought under the notice of the inspector.

Mr. Kelly was opposed to licensing eating houses. He thought he was as much entitled to pay a license for selling dry goods as the eating houses were for supplying meals.

Mr. Cahill thought the officers had authority to go into any place they suspected. A blacksmith shop might be used to sell whiskey as well as an eating house. If the eating houses were to be licensed for selling bread, tea and coffee in small slices, why not impose a license on grocers who sold wholesale.

Mayor Stevenson said the town must have a license fee on hotels or they would lose control of them. He was of opinion that before six months after the Scott Act come in force the hotel bars would be as wide open as to-day.

The clause was voted for and carried, imposing a license fee of $5 on all eating houses.

Mr Kelly made a motion providing that boarding houses should be licensed, which was lost.

The clause with regard to licensing rinks also called forth a debate.

The amounts recommended by the License Committee were $10 on ice rinks and $30 on roller rinks.

Mr Cahill moved that $50 be the license fee of each.

Mayor Stevenson thought the Committee had recommended the proper amount. If the idea was to close the rinks, why not impose a fee of $40. In his opinion the rinks kept many persons from frequenting worse places.

Mr. Rutherford held that the rinks were morally bad places, and Mr. Yelland objected to them from a health standpoint.

Mr. Davidson said if a heavy license fee was imposed the directors would convert the whole rink into a curling rink. He knew skating was a healthful recreation. He thought too much stringency with children sent them to the bad.

Mr. Cahill held that if the rinks were places of immorality and they were allowed to remain as a source of revenue, persons might as well go to the d—l on rollers as on ice skates.

Mr. McNaughton assured the Council that from personal inspection the rinks were free from immorality.

A motion made by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Kendry, to make the fee $20 for ice rinks and $30 for roller rinks, was lost.

The blanks of the clause were filled in as proposed by the License Committee, viz.:—$10 for ice rinks and $30 for roller rinks.

Mr. Cahill made a motion, seconded by Mr. Kelly, to amend the by-law by adding a clause, providing, that all bakers pay a license of $25 and that all persons who sell tea, coffee, butter, bacon, eggs etc., pay a like license fee.

Mr. Kelly withdrew his support and the motion was lost.

On the third reading of the by-law.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry that the by-law be referred back to the committee of the whole, with instructions to strike out the clause imposing a license fee on eating houses and to impose a higher license fee on oyster saloons and temperance hotels.—Lost.

FIRE LIMITS EXTENDED.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford a by-law to extend the fire limits received its first reading. The By-law received its several readings and was finally passed, the limits being extended as recommended by the building committee.

BY-LAW TO PROHIBIT COASTING.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford a by-law to prevent coasting and tobogganing on the public streets and to prevent the use of dogs for drawing vehicles was read a first time, and laid over indefinitely.

AMENDMENT OF RULES OF ORDER.

On motion of Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Cahill, the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the by-law to amend the rules of order, Mr. McNeil in the chair.

The Clerk read the rules and they were submitted clause by clause.

Mr. Rutherford objected to the clause stipulating that no member should vote on a question in which he is financially interested, or in appointing himself to an office in the gift of the Council. He thought the former part of the clause was all right and the latter all wrong. He thought Mr. Moore had a personal object in view and spoke of a scene which had occurred at the beginning of the year, and moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the latter part of the clause be struck out.

Mr. Moore said he was not actuated by any personal feeling. He thought it unseemly and improper for a member to elect himself to any office in the gift of the Council. By adopting this rule all such scenes as Mr. Rutherford referred to would be avoided.

Mr. Cahill thought such a rule would deprive a member of his liberty.

Mr. Rutherford's motion was carried and the clause struck out.

On the third reading of the by-law Mr. Moore moved, seconded by Mr. Yelland, that the Council go back into committee of the whole, with instructions to restore the words struck out of the clause with reference to a member voting for himself.—Lost.

The By-law was finally passed, signed and sealed.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford seconded by Mr. Kendry that Messrs. R. H. Errett, Dr. Fife, E. Pearse, J. R. Stratton, John McClelland, Thos. Cahill, Thos. Menzies and Wm. Yelland be and are hereby appointed members of the Board of Health for the present year.

On motion of Mr. Davidson, seconded by Mr. Cahill, the motion was amended by substituting the name of Mr. John McNaughton, for that of Mr. Cahill, and carried.

Moved by Mr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that it is expedient in the opinion of this Council that a sum of money should be expended this year in filling Spaulding's Bay, and on Crescent street, and that Councillors Cahill, Yelland, McNeil, Kendry and the mover be a committee to consider the matter and report at the next meeting of the Council. The first named to be chairman of the committee.—Carried Moved Mr. Davidson, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the request of Mr. Alex. McNeil be granted, and that the Treasurer be authorized to draw a cheque for half the amount of his taxes.—Carried.

As it was after 11 o'clock, Mr. Kelly called the Council to observe the new rules and adjourn.

On motion of Mr. Cahill the session continued.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that Messrs. J. J. Lundy, John E. Belcher, town engineer, W. VanEvery, Dr. O'Sullivan, Brownlee and E. Phalen, be added to the deputation to Ottawa.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Yelland, that the Printing Committee be ordered to have printed 200 copies of the fire by-law and 200 copies of the rules of order, and that the same be awarded by tender.

Mr. Davidson said the last clause dictated to the Printing Committee and moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the motion be amended by crossing out the last clause.—Carried.

Mr. Rutherford called for the yeas and nays, which were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, McNaughton, Kelly, McNeil, Kendry and Menzies.

NAYS—Messrs. Yelland, Rutherford and Moore.

On motion, the Council adjourned to meet at the call of the Mayor.

POLITICAL PESTS.

It is the curse of Canada that the Conservative party now in power, turns everything possible to party advantage, without having regard to what interests of the country may thereby suffer. Every sacrifice of the public interests is made for the sake of political capital. Not only is this the policy of the political leaders of the Conservative party as, for single example, Sir John's attempting to rob Ontario of her licensing power and revenue, but the underlings and hirelings of the party fall in line and howl lustily with the pack. In the Local House, Sir John's shadow, Mr. Meredith, at the very opening of the session introduced an extraneous question for the sole purpose of creating political capital and of whitewashing Sir John and the Dominion Government for their guilt in causing the Northwest rebellion. Later another matter was introduced respecting a sessional writer, named Pacaud and certain disparaging statements, alleged to have been made by him respecting the volunteers. THE EXAMINER, which has always stood the friend of the volunteers, and championed their cause against the neglect of their rights by the Dominion Government, does not sympathize with any undeserved structures of the force; but it is yet to be learned that, in point of fact, the utterance of criticisms deprives the person making them, of the rights of citizenship. If a minister of the crown could sign an Annexation manifesto and be rehabilitated and occupy a seat in a Conservative cabinet, surely the utterance of a hot-headed citizen on the conduct of certain volunteers, does not expatriate the man. If a man could enter actively into rebellion against his Sovereign, and afterwards become the hand-and-glove colleague of Sir John Macdonald, surely calling a volunteer a "plunderer and a pillager," by a private individual, is not an unpardonable offence. While it may not be justified, it may be overlooked—as of little importance in itself—compared to the factitious importance given it by intermeddling wire-pullers for political purposes. At a meeting of the officers of the 45th Battlion a few days ago "Capt. and Adjutant Sam. Hughes' moved a resolution expressing abhorrence of "slanders and slanderers, who have attempted to vilify the character of the volunteers." If Capt. and Adjutant Sam. Hughes were as good a soldier as politician, he would not have been guilty of a piece of "bad form" like the moving of the resolution above. The politician undertook what the soldier, if he knew his duty, would have let alone. It was simply a piece of impertinent intermeddling, uncalled for and contrary to the spirit of military usage. It is the duty of soldiers to obey orders; to fight and keep silence. It has been before pointed out in these columns how unseemly was the newspaper correspondence carried on by certain officers after the late campaign, and it is quite as "bad form" for a wearer of an officer's uniform, to throw over that uniform, the seamy cloak of the politician and attempt to prostitute his commission to petty party purposes. If a soldier's courage or efficiency is questioned by a mere civilian, his musket and the efficiency of his service when called on should be his only answer. Pacaud, as a private citizen may have insulted the volunteers, but he did not disgrace Her Majes y's uniform by making it the mouth-piece of a ward politician's attempt to snatch a paltry party advantage.

STILL CORRECT.

The Port Hope Times takes THE EXAMINER to task for asserting—and proving, ay, there's the rub—that Mr. John Carnegie does not represent the farmers of the West Riding of Peterborough. Our contemporary says:

"It is the general understanding that the individual receiving the majority of votes represents the whole constituency, not any particular locality. Mr. Carnegie was quite right in saying he was "elected by farmers," and one cannot help being struck with the "audacity" of our contemporary in taking such ground against him."

We still contend that we were right in taking such a ground against Mr. Carnegie. In the way, in which our remarks were applied, they were absolutely correct. If Mr. Carnegie had made a general statement that he represented the West Riding, no exception could have been made to the assertion. But when he sought, spuriously, to pose as the representative of the farmers, apart from the other members of his constituency then his claim was open to question and to the disproof, which we supplied. Technically Mr. Carnegie does represent the farmers of West Peterborough, inasmuch as they form a part of the voters of the constituency; but the farmers as a class he does not, in point of fact, represent. What would have been his position, if the farmers whom he singled out, and claimed to be the mouthpiece of, had alone had the election of a representative? He certainly, would not have been their representative, for as a class they cast their votes, by a large majority, against him. And its was as a class that Mr. Carnegie claimed to be their representative, and in this light we showed and still maintain that he was posing, as their mouthpiece, under false pretenses. The Times is right when it comes to hair splitting, but the position we assumed cannot be gainsaid nor its correctness successfully assailed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Dominion public accounts for the year 1884-5 show a total expenditure of $35,037,060, and a revenue of $32,797,001. The total expenditure upon the Intercolonial Railway last year amounted to $3,636,840, and the total receipts $2,368,153, leaving a deficit of $1,268,687. Of this sum $1,195,263 was improperly charged to capital account. On the Prince Edward Island Railway there is a deficit of $129,575, of which $76,956 is charged to capital account. The total expenditure of the Dominion last year amounted to $60,460,000. Of course a considerable portion of this is charged to capital account. The money that was borrowed and the interest alone is charged as liability, but it is misleading, as the London Advertiser remarks, not to take into consideration the expenditure upon capital account as well as for ordinary purposes.

Imperial Politics.

Gladstone and the Home Rule Question.

LONDON, March 9.—Mr. Gladstone authorizes a flat denial of the newspaper reports that he has drafted a scheme for Hom Rule and shown it to friends, submitted it to Mr. Parnell, &c. Messrs. Chamberlain and Trevelyan also deny that they have been or are contemplating secession from the Cabinet and Liberal party, on account of disagreement with Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule policy or for any other reason.

Both Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell take the trouble to formally announce that neither had mentioned the subject of Home Rule to the other. This completes the mystification and the public alliance between these two statesman is conceded to be sui generis. "It is an alliance of distrust," said a member of Parliament to your correspondent. "It is no alliance at all," said another member, and he claimed that the declarations above referred to proved it. He continued: "Mr. Gladstone hopes to formulate some measure which will not frighten his English supporters, and yet which the Irish party will not venture to antagonize. He, therefore, prefers to have it appear that he is entirely independent of Mr. Parnell's advice on influence. Mr. Parnell is equally willing to disclaim political intimacy with the Premier, though from a different reason. Should the bill brought in by the Government prove unpalatable to the Nationalists, he will be in a position to answer, "Thou canst not say I did it." "This," said the speaker, "is the most plausible explanation of the relations between the two leaders. Thursday night's vote on the Irish Civil Service estimates has been widely discussed and in all quarters it is acknowledged to be proof of the solidity of Mr. Gladstone's position."

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1885.
GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. E. KING.
This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect: is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. READY-MADE CLOTHING.

Nothing like it ever known in Peterborough. Success heaped upon success. Hundreds in attendance. The air echoes with their numerous expressions of satisfaction. The old stereotyped way of conducting the READY-MADE CLOTHING BUSINESS Completely Revolutionized by

GOUGH,

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN. ARCADE BUILDINGS, SOUTH OF TOWN CLOCK GROCERY.

A PASSIVE CRIME.

BY THE DUCHESS.

Overcome by fear, and utterly unnerved, she sinks at his feet and goes up at him, speechless, but still with imploring look and gesture.

There is a childish grief and anxiety in her lovely face that touches the world-worn and almost utterly callous heart of the man before her.

"How you must love him," he says, bitterly, almost scornfully, "to bring yourself to do what you have done to-night! That you—you proud child—should come here where no woman could be seen without injury to herself, convinces me of— But, no!" He interrupts himself, and his voice grows suddenly tender. "I will take care that no evil shall be spoken of you; you need not be afraid of that!"

He stoops and raises her gently from the ground.

"You will promise me," she entreats, in a whisper, "to spare him? I know how skillful you are—what an easy matter it would be to you to place a bullet in his heart. But you will spare him? And who can say but this one deed of mercy may save your soul at last?"

"My soul!" says he, with a haunting laugh. "And supposing that at your earnest instigation I do consent to spare your lover—what then, I pray?"

"I have no lover," says the girl, simply. "I never shall have one. You should know that—you, who told me in plain language not an hour since of my low birth and breeding."

"Pardon me," says he, lowering his eyes, shame covering his brow with crimson. "If I could recall that last hour I would. I lied when I spoke of disgrace."

"You do not deceive me now—you tell me truth?" asks she, with agitation. "Yet you said that you knew of my birth—that I was base-born."

"This is no time for such discussion," says he evasively; "but if ever you want a witness to prove your birth, send for me. And now, am I forgiven my offense?"

"I have forgotten everything," says she, eagerly, "only this—that I want your promise. Swear to me Dick Penruddock's death will not lie at your door!"

"And if I give this promise—if I tell you I shall fire over his head instead of straight into the center of his heart, what shall be my reward?"

"Name it," says she, thoughtlessly.

"It is a simple request. I ask but one kiss, and my oath shall be given."

She starts, and shrinks from him perceptibly.

"You are no man to ask me that!" she says, white to the lips again, and with her small hands tightly clinched.

"Yet that is my bargain—the only one I will make!" returns he, doggedly.

Within her breast fierce battle reigns. All a woman's modesty fights with love's self-sacrifice.

The struggle is severe, but lasts not very long. Love conquers.

"For his sake!" she murmurs, brokenly.

And then she goes up to Saumarez, and stands before him, her face like marble.

"You shall have your reward!" she says, faintly.

He lays both his hands upon her shoulders, and regards her earnestly.

Then he pushes her somewhat roughly from him, and laughs aloud—a very unpleasant laugh, and one by no means good to hear.

"Look here," he says; "I can be generous, too! Keep your kisses!—keep" (bitterly) "your lips unsullied for him! And keep my promise, too; I give it freely, without reward, just for love of you! Perhaps in the future you will confess that I loved you at least as well as he does, or any man could. Do I not prove it? For your sake—to please you—I spare the life of the only man whom I envy, and when I could shoot him as easily as I could a dog!"

"You are generous, indeed!" she says, below her breath. "I can not thank you as—"

"I want no thanks!" he says, shortly. "This is our last meeting—unless," with meaning in his tone, "you scout me, you shall never be cursed by the sight of me again. This country has grown hateful to me. And your fair face has been my ruin—not that that counts nowadays; a life more or less is of little moment. Nay," with an effort, "I do not blame you. It was not your fault. And now good-bye. You must not stay longer. At least, before parting, you will give me your hand in token of good-fellowship!"

"Good-bye," she says.

"Nay, it is not only that; it is an eternal farewell!" corrects he.

She gives him her hand, and, taking it, he holds it closely for a moment only, letting it go almost immediately.

Then, drawing her hood once more over her head, she moves to the door.

But at that instant, even as her hand is on the lock, he follows her, and, falling at her feet, catches and presses a fold of her dress passionately to his lips.

It is all over then; and, rising, he turns aside and covers his face with his hands.

A moment later, he finds himself alone.

CHAPTER VII.

FATHER AND SON.

Not even Mrs. Neville does Maud tell of the terrible anxiety that weighs down her spirits, and reduces her to a state that borders on distraction.

She makes no mention of the quarrel that has occurred between Dick and Captain Saumarez, or of her midnight visit to the house of the latter.

But she is restless and miserable, and Mrs. Neville, watching her, knows that something is amiss.

As all next day goes by, and Wednesday dawns, and still no tidings reach her of Dick's welfare, the suspense and terror she is enduring prove almost more than she can bear.

That she loves Penruddock she no longer seeks to deny even to herself, though in her firm determination never to marry him she is altogether unchanged, has not wavered in the least.

It would undoubtedly have been a comfort to her during all these hours of uncertainty to have had some one near her with whom she could discuss her trouble, and to whom she could breathe out all her fears and longings, but that solace is denied to her.

Mrs. Neville, as she knew, entertained a sincere affection for Penruddock, and to apprise her of his danger would be to raise feelings of grief and direst apprehensions of evil in her kindly heart, and she would herself need comfort, rather than be able to afford it.

So, by a supreme effort, Maud conquered all selfish desires for sympathy, and waited alone for tidings that might bring her joy or sorrow.

"Has Saumarez really and truly kept the promise so strangely given?"

This is the thought that torments her, sleeping and waking, causing her to grow pale, and place her hand upon her heart, if the door should chance to open suddenly, or any servant make a hurried entrance.

May he not bring with him a telegram or message that shall reduce to an unhappy certainty all the vague fears that now distress her?

She is leaning back in a low chair, in the smaller morning-room, making a poor pretense at reading, whilst Mimi sits writing letters at a davenport near, humming gayly, as her pen runs lightly over the paper, a little, soft melody, heard last night at the Opera Bouffe.

The door opens slowly, and a tall woman, dark and careworn, but with all the remains of great and striking beauty, comes quietly into the room.

"Mr. Penruddock is in the drawing-room," she says, in a trained voice, that expresses emotion of no kind, though, as the name passes her lips, a faint quiver contracts her beautiful features.

"Mr. Penruddock!" cries Maud, with a little gasp, springing to her feet.

"Then why not show him in here, as usual?" asks Mimi, glancing round the pretty boudoir to see what can be wrong with it, her thoughts running on Dick.

"It isn't young Mr. Penruddock; it is his father," says the woman, with sullen looks fixed upon the carpet. "He wishes to see you, madam."

"To see me? Dear me, what can George Penruddock have to say to me?" says Mrs. Neville, shrugging her shoulders. "I would rather not see him alone. Indeed, I do not think that I could muster courage for that. Will you come to the drawing-room with me, dearest?"

"Oh, no!" says Maud, turning an agitated countenance upon her friend. "Why should I? He knows nothing of me—at least," with a sudden pang of doubt, "I hope not! If he should mention me, Mimi, say I have a headache. It will be the truth; my brain seems on fire!"

"What an excitable child you are!" says Mrs. Neville, soothingly. "There, lie down on this couch, and keep yourself quiet, for I promise that you shall not be disturbed. Esther, throw one of those soft Eastern shawls over Miss Neville, and fan her for a little while."

Esther arranges the shawl carefully as Mrs. Neville leaves the room, and pouring some eau de cologne upon a handkerchief, applies it to her young mistress's temples.

She is a swarthy woman, with a visage full of suppressed power, and with a suspicion of revengefulness in its cast; but her whole expression softens and grows unspeakably tender as she bends above the girl and ministers to her.

When, many years ago, she had brought the baby to Mrs. Neville's house, by her desire, she had so played her cards that she too had been taken in by the soft-hearted, romantic woman, and kept on as nurse to the destitute child, and had never since quitted her.

"That undertaking, last night but one, was too much for you," says Esther, in a low tone, "You have not been yourself since. I greatly blame myself, and am very sorry that I ever had hand, act, or part in it."

Important Notice To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

A Barber's Scrape.

The EXAMINER, which has taken great interest in the development of a national literature, as witness its long series of articles on the "Poets and Poetry of Canada," has pleasure in announcing that the delightfully, fresh, sparkling, and intensely funny comedy, "A Barber's Scrape," composed by Mr. Fuller, a talented young Canadian dramatic writer, whose "H. M. S. Parliament," was received with so much favor a few years ago, will be presented in the Opera House next Monday and Tuesday evenings, March, 15th and 16th. The company is a thoroughly good one, and wherever the comedy has been presented, it has met with enthusiastic reception. Speaking of it the Montreal Herald says:

"The amusing farce comedy of "A Barber's Scrape" was taken of the boards Saturday evening. The company go to Ottawa, and, we understand, open under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General. Mr. Charles Melville, the business manager, is to be congratulated on his success here, and we trust he will shortly revisit Montreal with his company. The principal character in the play, Mr. Richard Golden, the celebrated comedian has won "golden" opinions, and as Leander Lather was simply immense. Mr. E. W. Hines and Mr. W. West made hits, and Miss Earle Remington, a sprightly little lady, brought down the house by amusing comicalities. Miss Lizzette Eliani is a pleasing actress and sings admirably, and was well by no means least, Miss Maria A. Singer as Venus was graceful and elegant, with a splendid form and perfect figure. She was particularly attractive. They will doubtless draw crowded houses."

Admission 25 cents, 35 cents, and 50 cents. Reserved seats at Hartley's Music Store.

Agricultural Amalgamation.

The directors of the West Riding Central exhibition, meet to-day, to attend the meeting held there, to look after the interests of the amalgamation proposal.

Our Spring and Summer.

Foot & McWhinnie's line of ladies' fine Kid Boots for Spring and Summer wear. They are the sole agents in Peterborough for these goods, and are confident that in style, quality, and price they cannot be excelled.

Well Considered.

We make the announcement on first page of a partial list of our Spring Importations, and in doing so we pledge ourselves to maintain throughout the season, that high standard of merit for the best quality of fine Dry Goods, for which the Golden Lion is noted. R. FAIR.

The Brown Memorial.

At a meeting of the Brown Memorial Committee, held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to erect a Ohio sandstone drinking fountain, from plans furnished by Mr. J. E. Belcher. Col. H. Rogers is prepared to receive tenders, at the post office, for the contract of building the fountain.

The Night Classes Continued.

The closing exercises of the night course of the Peterborough Business College have been postponed for three weeks, to take place at the same time as the graduating class of the day school. At this time it is proposed to hold a convocation in the Opera House, at which educational men from Toronto, Ottawa and Kingston will be present.

The Third Carnival.

The coming carnival, in spite of the success of the other two, promises under the energetic management of the boys to be by all odds the best of the series. It is ascertained that a host of persons are preparing new and novel costumes. The contest for the gold headed cane, between Hon. Ed. Blake and Sir John, will be a striking feature of the next carnival. Keep the carnival in mind, look out for it, prepare for it, the last and best of the season.

T. V. C. Deputation.

It is probable that a strong deputation will be present in Ottawa to present the claims of the Trent Valley Canal and urge action on the Government. The members of the deputation are beginning to move and a large number will leave for Ottawa by the 12.?0 C. P. R. train to-morrow, and more will follow in the evening. It is open to any citizen who may desire to do so to join the deputation and he may take advantage of the reduced rates of fare by applying at Mr. Alex. Elliott's up-town C. P. R. agency.

Peterborough Presbytery.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in the St. Paul's Church class room this morning at ten o'clock. Rev. J. Carmichael, of Norwood, presiding. There were present. Ministers,—Revs. Messrs. J. Cleland, Port Hope; W. C. Windall, Cartwright; W. Bennett, Peterborough; P. Duncan, Colborne; D. Sutherland, Warkworth; J. Cameron, Millbrook; Jos. Ross, Roseneath; D. L. McCrae, Cobourg; C. H. Cook, Baltimore; W. J. Jemieson, Garden Hill; J. Carmichael, Norwood; J. M. Cragie, Bobcaygeon; D. A. Thompson, Hastings and Messrs. Bell and Torrance, town. Elders, Messrs. J. Craik, Port Hope, and Jos. Tullytown. The ladies of the church provided an excellent lunch and tea in an adjoining room of the church for the visiting members.

An Exhibit of Trophies.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, of the "Hub," takes pleasure in announcing to his friends in Peterborough and surrounding country, (that through the kindness of Mr. W.R. Bingham, of the "Hub," Toronto), he will have on exhibition for ten days, two solid gold trophies given by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the Illustrated Sporting World, one for lacrosse, and one for the best general athlete in Canada, also a life-sized picture of Mr. Richard K. Fox and the Ryan-Sullivan championship belt, given for the championship of the world. Also the American Baseball League Trophy, the Aquatic Championship Emblem for America, and ten other valuable and costly medals, altogether costing the enormous sum of $10,000. Come early and save the rush, as they will positively only be on exhibition for ten days.

Church Entertainment.

Quite a large audience assembled in St. Paul's Church school room last evening to enjoy the entertainment given by the Young Ladies' Mission Band of that church, nor were they disappointed in their expectations of a pleasant time. The programme, which was rendered with much spirit, was as follows:—

PART I.

Chorus.....Mission Band.
Instrumental solo.....Miss Fairweather.
Kindergarten.....Children.
Dialogue....Masters H. Dawson and A. Wood.
Vocal solo.....Miss Johnstone.
Instrumental duet....Miss Paterson and Prof. [Parker.
Recitation.....Master Victor McWilliams.
Vocal solo.....Miss Eva Carey.

PART II.

Chorus.....Mission Band.
Reading.....Miss S Cameron.
Vocal solo.....Miss Logan.
Dialogue (second part).....Masters H. Dawson [and A. Wood.
Kindergarten.....Children.
Instrumental duet....Miss B. Haslett and Prof. [Parker.
Quintette.....Five Little Girls.
Chorus.....Mission Band.

While all engaged in it did their parts to the apparent satisfaction of the audience, so much so that several had to respond to encore, the feature of the evening was undoubtedly the Kindergarten songs of the children. Under the careful training of Miss Eliza Johnston, they having gained great proficiency in these pleasing exercises in the rendering of which they seem to take as much pleasure as their hearers.

For the Colonial.

The Ontario Canoe Company's Exhibit.

The exhibit of the Ontario Canoe Company prepared for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, as shown at the drill shed, Ashburnham, yesterday and to-day, is a magnificent one and calculated to open the eyes of the visitors to the Colonial. The exhibit consists of twenty-one canoes and two row boats, all patented. Twelve open canoes and two open row boats will be exhibited on a double rack for the purpose, arranged in order of size, the smallest at the top. The canoes on one side of the rack range from 14½ to 17 ft. in length, and four with from 25 to 37 inch beam, and on the other from 13 to 16 feet in length and from 24 to 36 inch beam. The first mentioned rack is topped with a butternut ribbed canoe, with the others under it as follows:—A spruce ribbed, an alternate spruce and butternut ribbed, a longitudinal ribbed butter-nut, a painted longitudinal ribbed cedar, and a cedar ribbed row boat, all the above, with the one exception, being varnished and highly finished. A small and very pretty butter nut and basswood board canoe, under which were basswood, cedar, and butter nut canoes, all varnished; a painted basswood canoe and a painted basswood row-boat. All of these will fit into each other, the thwarts being removed for the purpose, and when packed will take up a comparatively small space. The rest of the exhibit consists of a magnificent, varnished, cedar-ribbed "Ontario" canoe, cedar-decked, with keel, two lateen sails, rudder and foot-steering gear. A full-decked "Ontario," decked with walnut and curly maple, fitted with Radeix centre board, drop rudder, foot-steering gear and two Morton sails. All the fittings plated. A juniper ribbed canoe, fitted with lateen sails, and also a juniper canoe fitted with a canoe tent, which is held in place by the masts, and by being hooked under the gunwale. The last and least is an extra light cedar-ribbed canoe, 12½ feet in length, with 25-inch beam, weighing 12½ lbs, and capable of carrying 400 lbs. This exhibit will impress the beholders of the importance of the industry and of the excellence of the Ontario Canoe Company's make of boats.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1886.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. T. B. PARDEE.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

who represents West Lambton in the Ontario Legislature, and holds the important cabinet position of commissioner of crown lands. He is the son of A. B. Pardee, county of Grenville, Ont., and was born Dec. 11, 1830. He was called to the bar in 1861, created a Q. C. in 1879, elected a bencher of the Law society in 1871, was a county attorney of Lambton for some years; was first returned to parliament in 1867, and has represented the same county ever since; was appointed provincial secretary in 1872, and to his present position in 1873. During his early years Mr. Pardee spent several years of his life on the Pacific Slope, when the rude experiences, and the stirring surroundings that tend to develop the individuality and resources of a man's nature, evidently were an excellent training school, in which Mr. Pardee learned much of human nature, a knowledge which he turns to excellent account as a politician. An admirer pronounces Mr. Pardee a "successful politician one of the ablest men in the Reform ranks, not only in Ontario but in the Dominion. He is a hard worker, a good speaker, jolly with his friends, and a stern, uncompromising opponent to his foes." If Hon. Mr. Mowat were to retire from the leadership of the reform party, Hon. Mr. Pardee would certainly not be the last man to be selected who would worthily fill such a position.

The Hastings Races.

Numerous Entries and Speedy Races—Successful in Every Particular.

THE FIRST DAY.

Yesterday was the first day of the Hastings races, which were the most successful in every respect yet held in the village. The weather was all that could be desired and the track was in fine condition, old and experienced horsemen pronouncing it the best they were ever on. Early in the morning horses and cutters came in from every direction, bringing in many eager spectators. At 12 o'clock, when the first trot was called, a very large concourse of people had assembled to witness the sport.

THE GREEN RACE.

Three horses scored up for this event, O'Leary's, of Hastings; Millar's, of Keene, and Dillon's, of Hastings, O'Leary's horse taking first place. Time, 3.13. The following is the synopsis of the heats:—

O'Leary	1	2	1
Millar	2	1	2
Dillon	3	3	3

THE THREE MINUTE RACE.

For this race there were seven entries. All started, as follows:—McCrea's "Black Diamond," Beaverton; James Connor's "Clara C.," Peterborough; John Simpson's "Lapidist Chief," Peterborough; "Tommy T.;" Cox's "Maud," Peterborough; "Defiance," and "Yeomans." "Black Diamond" won first place, "Clara C." second, with "Lapidist Chief" a plucky third. The best time was made in the fourth heat, "Black Diamond" making the mile in the remarkably good time of 2.29. The following were the places held by each in the five heats:—

Black Diamond	2	3	1	1	1
Clara C.	1	1	2	3	2
Lapidist Chief	3	2	3	2	3

Agricultural Amalgamation.

The Conference at Norwood—The Scheme Unsuccessful.

At a special meeting of the East Riding Agricultural Society, held at Norwood on Tuesday, there was an attendance of about one hundred and fifty, including the directors of the West Riding Central Exhibition, who were present to advocate the proposal for permanent amalgamation of the two societies, the resulting society to hold its exhibitions in Peterborough.

Mr. Kidd, president of the East Riding society and Warden of the county, occupied the chair and explained the primary object of the meeting to be the discussion of the question of holding the East Riding exhibition permanently at Norwood and referred to the conditional grant of $500 to the West Riding Central Exhibition, and thus introduced the subject of union.

The Directors of the West Riding society were heard in explanation of the terms on which the East Riding society would be admitted to the proposed amalgamation. It was proposed to allow it to share equally in the $3000 worth of buildings, enclosed grounds, race track, etc., as they at present exist in Peterborough. It was shown that one main building was all that was needed to place the Peterborough exhibition grounds among the largest and best in the province. If the amalgamation were provisionally assented to this fall, the details of which might be agreed upon by a joint committee, an exhibition of the thus united societies might be held this fall, and legislation sought thereafter to ratify and consummate this amalgamation.

The representatives of the East Riding society held that they would derive no advantage from the proposed fusion of the societies. At present each society got $700 government grant—in all $1,400—if united the total grant would be $700. The general feeling of the eastern section of the meeting seemed to be adverse to the proposed union and in favor of a permanent exhibition being held at Norwood. Accordingly the following resolutions was submitted:

Moved by Mr. O'Reilly, seconded by Mr. F. Birdsall, that in the opinion of this meeting it is advisable that the East Riding Agricultural Society in future hold its annual exhibitions permanently at one place. This resolution was carried by a majority of about three to one.

Moved by Mr. F. Birdsall, seconded by Mr. Jno. Brackenridge, that the officers of this society be instructed to call a meeting of its members as soon as possible for the purpose of voting on the question of in future holding the permanent exhibitions of this society in Norwood.

This resolution was adopted, the following amendment having been rejected:—

Moved in amendment by Mr. Watts, seconded by Mr. Alfred Saunders,—That it is advisable, and in the interests of this Society, that we amalgamate with the West Peterborough Agricultural Society and have our exhibitions jointly in future in the town of Peterborough, on terms to be agreed upon by a joint committee to be appointed by both Societies.

Our space will not admit of our giving a detailed report of the proceedings, but the above will shew that the directors of the East Riding Society hold decided views, hostile to the proposed, hoped for and desirable, amalgamation.

Wedding Bells.

This afternoon at four o'clock the wedding bells metaphorically rang merrily in honour of a wedding on Water street. At that hour at the residence Mr. George Stevenson, brother of the bride, Rev. I. Tovell, pastor of the George Street Methodist church, united in marriage, Mr. J. S. Fullerton, Toronto, barrister, and Miss Emma Stevenson. The bride, was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Stevenson, while Mr. W. J. Wallace, barrister, of Toronto, brother of Rev. F. H. Wallace, acted as groomsman. The bride is one of the most amiable and worthy young ladies in the town, possessing in a high degree the social and domestic qualities, to be desired in a bosom friend or a life companion, and Mr. Fullerton is fortunate in securing a most estimable and worthy wife. The unusually high esteem in which Miss Stevenson was held by her friends was signified by the numerous and exceptionally beautiful and valuable bridal presents of which she was the recipient. This evening the happy pair start west on the C.P.R. express, for their bridal tour to the west, accompanied by the fervent good wishes for future happiness of a host of friends. The EXAMINER begs to offer its most cordial congratulations, with the hope that the expectations and reality of married happiness may be to each other as the first faint flush of dawn, to the full blaze of noonday.

Delivery of Maps.

The maps purchased by the supervision committee of the Board of Education for the West Ward School were delivered to-day. They are maps of Ontario, Quebec, Dominion of Canada, United States, and North and South America.

Miln, The Tragedian.

Mr. Geo. C. Miln, the tragedian, is now on his fourth annual tour. Commencing three years ago, without the backing of capital or experienced management, he has by sheer force of will power, and exhibition of undoubted dramatic talent, forced his way to the front. To-day he stands among the few prominent tragedians of the country. We understand that his present company is the strongest he has yet travelled with, and that he is paying special attention to the stage settings of his pieces. In his repertoire are the finest plays of the English language, including Hamlet, Macbeth, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, Richelieu, The Fool's Revenge, &c. This company will visit Peterborough, on Thursday and Friday, March 11th and 12th. On Thursday "The Fool's Revenge", will be presented and on Friday "Richelieu." It will be worth the while of theatre-goers to witness a performance of this actor.

"Our Boys."

There was an exceptionally good house present last night to witness the successful presentation of the drama, "Our Boys," under the auspices of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, an organization which has already done such effective service in raising athletics and sports to a higher and healthier level. The character of the house assembled, composed throughout of our best citizens, shows that the Association and its work have enlisted the sympathy of those whose approval is well worth receiving. The reserved seats were completely filled, while the other portion of the hall was rather thinly seated. The play was effectively put on and capitally presented, considering the drawbacks which existed. The Association, when they entered upon the preparation of the play, did not anticipate the near approach of Lent, yet they decided to bring it on last night rather than wait six weeks. The consequence was that there was not as much opportunity for rehearsal as could be wished. In spite of these drawbacks the play ran smoothly and was well presented, especially the second act, which challenged comparison with professional rendition. Mr. H. A. Hammond as "Sir Geoffrey Champneys," looked and acted the part in a capital manner, though he labored under the disadvantage of taking up the part in substitution for the original cast, only a few days ago. Mr. A. St. A. Smith, as "Mr. Middlewick," the unbending Roman (and Grecian) father, was simply immense. His make-up and action were of a high order. He was the life of the play. Mrs. Dennistoun and Miss McKerrad took the parts of "Violet" and "Mary Melrose," respectively, with great credit. Though their presentation lacked the stagey style one is accustomed to, it must be acknowledged that they acted as might be expected of refined ladies under similar circumstances. Miss Wallis, as the spinster aunt, acted the part in an exceedingly effective manner and fairly divided, with Mr. Smith, the credit of the best sustained role in the play. Miss Crawford, the "lodging house slavey," was one of the best impersonations. Mr. Lawford, as "Young Middlewick," was too nervous to feel at his ease, but as the play went on he warmed up to his work. Mr. Slight made a capital "Talbot Champneys." He acted excellently and seemed more at home in his part than any other member of the cast. Altogether, "Our Boys" was very creditably presented, and the audience showed appreciation by frequent applause and a feeling of satisfaction with the pleasing evening's entertainment provided. Excellent music was provided by the Fire Brigade Band Orchestra.

Personal.

Mr. J. J. Tilly, Director of Teachers Institutes and Inspector of Model Schools is registered at the Grand Central.

Mr. Van V. Howard, representing Geo. C. Miln, the tragedian, is in town to-day arranging for two entertainments by this popular Shakespearian actor—Thursday and Friday evenings, March 11th and 12th.

Mr. Davis M. Wilson, brother of Mr. Macfarlane Wilson, of China Hall, left town last evening for Toronto, to make arrangements for entering upon his duties as travelling agent of Messrs. Boxer Bros., wholesale crockery dealers, Montreal. Mr. Wilson has had a long experience in one of the largest retail crockery businesses in the Province, China Hall, and is well fitted for the position he has assumed.

The Sawdust Deputation.

The Ottawa correspondence of the Globe contains the following:—

"Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, J. M. Irwin, T. G. Hazlitt, G. W. Ramsay and R. C. Strickland, of Peterborough, arrived in the city as a deputation early Tuesday morning and interviewed the Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals, praying that the Trent River be exempted from the provisions of the Fisheries Act relating to the depositing of sawdust in the rivers and streams. They asked for the same privileges as those enjoyed by the Ottawa lumbermen, and suggest that the department should control the river and decide upon what might be deposited in it. If the present Act be rigidly enforced the mill-owners on the river would be obliged to remodel their mills. Mr. Foster told the deputation that he had an audience a short time ago with an anti-sawdust deputation, and having received complete evidence he would decide upon the case. The deputation took occasion to complain about the manner in which the Chief Engineer of the Department regulated the waters of the Trent Canal.

A TERRIBLE PACE.

The Dominion Government, in extravagant expenditure, is going at a terrible pace. A consideration of the revenue and expenditure of the Dominion for the eight months of the fiscal year of 1884-5 is enough to make one stand aghast and to dasedly enquire what the country is coming to.

The official statement of the revenue and expenditure of the Dominion for the eight months from July 1, 1885, to March 1, 1886, compared with the same months last year, shows the total revenue for the last eight months to be $19,828,220, and the total expenditure $24,544,400, leaving a deficit of $4,716,180, compared with the deficit of $400,000 at the same date last year. Compared with 1885 the revenue for the eight months ending with February shows a decrease of $1,040,523, while the expenditure has increased by $3,268,700. Sir Leonard Tilley's estimate of expenditure for the year was $30,468,630, or $20,245,743 for eight months. It will be observed that his estimate has been exceeded by over $4,000,000. If the expenditure for the remainder of the current year is kept up at the same rate as for the past eight months it will reach $37,000,000 by the 30th June. Sir Leonard's estimate of revenue is not being realised. He predicted that $32,000,000 would be received in the year or $21,500,000 in eight months. The revenue collected in the eight months is nearly $2,000,000 short of Sir Leonard's estimate. Compared with the eight months of 1885 the return for a similar period just ended shows a decline of $694,293, and a decline of $230,000 in excise. The expenditure statement shows an increase of over $300,000 in charges for interest on public debt, of $211,901, for legislation, of $2,196,117 for rebellion expenses, of $490,304 for the mounted police, of $48,000 for mail subsidies, of nearly $100,000 for Indians, and $10,000 for miscellaneous. The amount spent upon immigration during the past eight months was $204,537. These figures are simply startling. With only eight months of the fiscal year elapsed, we have reached a deficit of almost five millions. At the same rate of decrease for the unexpired portion of the year the deficit will reach on the 30th of June, the astounding total of about seven millions. And, while the revenue shows this enormous falling off, the expenditure is increasing at an enormously rapid rate. Yet there is no talk of retrenchment, on the part of the Government: no effort on the part of the Government to check the ruinous waste and extravagance that is plunging the country more deeply in debt every year. In view of such a state of things; in view of the fact that corruption, mismanagement and reckless waste characterize the entire policy of the Government, it is time the people began to inquire if the country is receiving justice at the hands of its present rulers, and if, having shown themselves so utterly incompetent; so utterly regardless of the interests of the county; they should not be deprived of the trust they have so grievously abused.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

MONDAY, MARCH, 8th.

Mr. Charlton introduced a bill to provide for the punishment of seduction and to afford protection to women and girls, which was read a first time.

Mr. Edgar introduced a bill to amend the Supreme Court and Exchequer Court act. He explained that the object was to allow the constitutionality of provincial acts to be tested and decided upon motion of the provincial authorities themselves, by permission of the governor-general in council. The bill was read a first time.

Hon. Mr. White laid on the table the annual report of the minister of the interior.

Mr. Blake repeated his question of Friday last regarding the disposition of prisoners accused of crimes arising out of the recent rebellion.

Mr. Thompson, in reply, said that except in a few cases the prisoners were not regularly committed for trial, but were taken in overt acts of rebellion and held for trial or discharged. There seems to have been in all 46 halfbreed prisoners, 31 Indians and two whites. Eighteen of the halfbreeds were convicted of treason-felony, one of high treason and one of murder. Eleven halfbreeds, accused of high treason, were discharged on their own recognizances of $400 each to appear and receive sentence when called upon. Seven accused of treason-felony and one accused of larceny were discharged upon their own recognizances to appear and take their trial when called upon. One was discharged by order of General Middleton, two by direction of the Minister of Justice, one was acquitted and three were discharged at Battleford. Of the Indian prisoners, 21 were convicted of treason-felony, one of manslaughter, eleven of murder, three of arson, six of horse stealing, one of cow killing and one of pothilfirm gein. Ten Indians accused of treason-felony were discharged on promising to come up for trial when required. One who detained at Regina for further enquiry by the Indian department, and has since probably been discharged, and three were acquitted. Twenty-one charged with various offences were discharged at Battleford, and two others appear also to have been discharged. Of the white prisoners, one Wm. H. Jackson, accused of treason-felony, was acquitted on the ground of insanity, and the other, Thomas Scott, was also acquitted.

In reply to Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Carling said the total of number immigrants reported to have settled in Canada during the calendar year of 1885 was 76,156.

In reply to a question, Sir John said the amendment of the Franchise act was under consideration.

Mr. Casey made inquiries respecting Rebellion claims.

Mr. Desaulniers, made inquiries as to the Government's knowledge of the motive of the jury in recommending Riel to mercy.

Hon. Mr. Thompson replied that such information, if in existence, would be brought down with the returns.

Sir John Macdonald asked that the consideration of the resolution of Mr. Landry, (Montmagny) expressing regret that the sentence of death was carried into execution in the case of Louis Riel, be postponed until Thursday next when it would be made the first order of the day, and the discussion would be continued de die in diem until concluded. This was regarded by the government as a motion of such importance that they would not proceed with the estimates or the budget until they know how they stand on this motion.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

MONDAY, MARCH 8th.

There was a thin attendance at the Legislature to-day. The House went into committee on several private bills, which were advanced a stage.

In answer to Mr. McIntyre, Hon. Mr. Mowat stated that the Order-in-Council of the Federal Government, in 1877, transferred to the local Government, Government House. Mr. French's bill to amend the Surrogate Court Act, received the three months' hoist.

Among the bills that received second readings was one to enable the trustees of St. Andrew's Church to sell or mortgage certain lands.

A number of men interested in the manufacture of butter met the other day at Guelph and formed themselves into what they called "The Western Ontario Creamery Association." It was resolved to hold annual meetings, to ask the local government for a grant, and to have a capable instructor visit the creameries. Judging from the success and practical results of other associations carried on for the promotion of special industries, much good can be done by the Creamery Association. Canada loses several hundred thousand dollars every year by making bad instead of good butter. Those interested in creameries would add enormously to the productive wealth if they could bring the standard of Canadian butter up to that of Canadian cheese.

Canadian Clover.

Within the last ten years, the reputation of Canada's clover seed has advanced in pace with her reputation in cattle and dairy products, and to-day our leading grass seeds stand in the London market above the products of all other countries, both in quality and cleanness. Germany and France lately stood first, but now our Alsike clover brings 25 per cent. more; our red clover, 5 to 10 per cent more; and our timothy, 15 to 20 per cent. more than German, or any other seeds. Hurst & Sons, leading English dealers, say in their circular, that "for quality and cleanness, Canadian clover seed cannot be equalled." A. Cross & Sons, Glasgow, say, that while other seeds are only medium, this past season Canadian seeds are "fine, dark and clean." Many other dealers in Europe speak in the same terms, and these grass seeds are now shipped from Great Britain to many foreign countries, a direct shipment being also made recently from Canada to New Zealand. Mr. Geo. Keith, of Toronto, from whom the writer learned these particulars, mentions that a year or two since, three of the leading Toronto dealers shipped over 250 car loads of grass seeds, valued at $500,000.

Such facts will give Canadians some idea of the many new aspects, and the vast scope of Canada's future commercial relations with foreign lands.

AN INTERESTING EVENT.

On Tuesday evening, March 2nd, an interesting social event took place in North Douro. The patrons of Mr. George Singleton's cheese factory and a number of others, on his invitation, assembled at his residence. The party was regaled with a sumptuous oyster supper, with all the other et ceteras necessary to constitute a first-class repast. After the good things had been disposed of with a zest, emphasized by their excellent quality and by the hearty welcome of host and hostess, the company engaged in social chat, the patrons of the factory, among other things, discussing matters of interest in connection with the cheese making industy and the quality and good points of Mr. Singleton's cheese, which all pronounced of a superior grade. Mr. Singleton manufactures a high class article for the local market only; it has met with much success in the past and his prospects are better for a thrifty and profitable trade the coming season. If Mr. Singleton's cheese is good, so is his treatment of patrons, for all expressed themselves well satisfied with the straightforward and honorable manner in which his dealings with them had been carried out.

During the evening the company was entertained at intervals with choice selections of music, and altogether spent an enjoyable evening, all appreciating fully Mr. Singleton's hearty hospitality. After the performance of an appropriate closing piece of music, the company separated, all well pleased with the enjoyment of the occasion, and all wishing Mr. Singleton and his, prosperity and happiness.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The carnival on Friday evening last at the Victoria Rink was (well what) not as advertised. The proprietor advertised that Miss Nellie Morton, the champion lady skater of the Dominion, would be present. Also the Indian Band, but neither appeared, and as several went to see the skating of Miss Morton, they were greatly disappointed. As to the attendance, it was only fair. There were only a very few in character, of which the following are given:

Miss B. Peters	Nun
" L. Peters	Gipsy Queen
" M. Morrison	Queen of the Forest
" L. Patton	Red, White and Blue
" L. Fowlds	Yum. Yum
" D. Crow	"Debora"

The half-mile race was captured by Mr. Butler, who finished without opposition in good style.

Prize for the best lady and gent skater, in costume, was awarded to Mr. J. Hall and Miss L. Peters.

Messrs. Wilson & Tierney are busy about their new building, seeing to the drawing of brick, sand, etc. The buildings are to be of white brick.

We have just been handed a fine circular of fancy poultry, gotten up for the "Eclipse Poultry Yards," and printed at the Observer office, in which is described the different breeds at these yards. Mr. Ward informs us he has already orders booked away ahead and credits the EXAMINER with the greater part, for his advertisement in your paper has brought him letters from Winnipeg, Sarnia and several other places, thus showing the wide circulation of your valuable paper.

Dr. Clark and Mr. A. Clark have been away on a visit to Cobourg.

Mr. Scriver has been having auction sales this week to clear out his stock of millinery and fancy goods.

Mr. and Mrs. Boster and family, of Trenton, were up a few days last week visiting their mother, and say trade is booming in Trenton.

We also had a pleasant call from Miss Morton, of Trenton.

Mr. D. Wright, our noted egg buyer, is moving into the house he lately purchased.

The Ladies' Aid Society, in connection with St. George's church, held another social in the Temperance Hall, on Tuesday evening last. The principal attraction was the disposing of a large three-storey cake, disposed of by votes.

Look out for report of the races in DAILY EXAMINER. They will prove with out a doubt a grand success, one of the finest meets in the country, right down to the bine ice.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening the 8th inst.

Present, the Reeve in the chair, Councillors Moore, Cox, and Isbister.

Minutes of last regular and adjourned meetings read and confirmed.

A petition signed by Messrs. J. C. Sherin, W. J. Wallace and others was presented, asking the Reeve to call a public meeting to discuss the terms of purchase of mill reserve No 1, for village purposes, and the clerk was directed to call a meeting of the ratepayers for Monday, March 15th, in the Council Chamber at 8 p.m.

The auditors presented their report for 1885, which on motion of Mr. Moore seconded by Mr. Cox, was received and adopted and ordered to be paid.

A communication from W. Robinson of the Times, asking for a share of the village printing was received.

Moved Mr. Cox, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that the printing of the corporation of Lakefield be equally distributed between the EXAMINER and Review, provided they do the printing on the same terms as they do it for the county.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Isbister, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the Reeve, Isaac Garbutt, sen., James Moore and W. D. Strickland be appointed delegates to attend the deputation to meet at Ottawa on the 11th March, to urge upon the Government the speedy construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and that the three latter be allowed $10.00 each to pay their expenses.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Isbister, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the following accounts be paid and the Reeve's order do issue for the same, viz:

John Simpson,	cleaning snow	$7 50
Isaac Watson, sr.,	wages	4 75
A. Mowry,	"	2 50
Thos. Watson,	"	50
John Simpson,	"	1 00
Total		$15 75

—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Isbister, seconded by Mr. Moore, that this Council do now adjourn until Tuesday, March 23rd, at 8 p.m.—Carried.

RIFLE MATCH.

Some of our friends from the north having managed to hit a barn door during practice, got very conceited about rifle shooting, so two or three weeks ago they sent a challenge to any four of the Lakefield Rifle Club to shoot a match for a supper. The challenge was at once accepted, the supper ordered and at the hour appointed the Lakefield men were at the "butts" but no Young's Point men put in an appearance. However, they turned up last Tuesday and the match was fired at an eighteen inch round target, 4 in. bulls eye with 9 in. centre, 100 yards, 6 shots each; the following is the score by points,

Lakefield	67
Youngs Point	32

Majority for Lakefield 35

Mr. Ash the president of the Lakefield club scored 23 out of a possiable 24. A return match will take place at Young's Point on March 18th.

SALVATION ARMY.

A couple of women with poke bonnets and tambourines and three or four dirtey looking men, one with a red coat and brass horn arrived in our quiet village last Saturday and on Sunday proceeded to charm the small boys and amuse the bigger ones, by their music, singing! (save the mark) and antics on Queen street. After which they held forth to a large croud of curious citizens in the former Bible Christian Church. We understand that they secured as a recruit one of the squaws camped near the village, so they will be able to add a genuine Indian warwhoop to their other attractions.

FORESTERS' ENTERTAINMENT.

[The following report of the Foresters' entainment was inadvertantly held over from last week.]

Last Thursday evening was a "Red Letter Day" with the members of the Court Lakefield No. 43, C.O.F. being the fifth anniversary of their first meeting and organization, and was celebrated as usual by an entertainment, which proved even more of a success than those of the past, which is saying a good deal. The members of Clementi Lodge A. F. & A. M. kindly gave the Foresters the use of their hall as a reception room, the Court Room had been beautifully decorated by the committee, and attracted a good deal of attention from their visitors.

About 8.30 p.m., J. C. Baladon, Chief Ranger, took the chair, and after a few words of welcome, announced that the evening's entertainment would open by a concert, and the following programme was carried out:

Chorus	"Merrily on We Bound"
Song	"Jock o' Hazeldean"	Wm. Brodigan
"	"The Bridge"	Bro. W. M. Graham
"	"There is Nothing Like a Freshing Breeze"	Mr. J. D. Graham
"	"He Rose"	Jubilee Song
"	"I'm Afloat"	Bro. Henderson
"	"A Man's a Man for a'that"	Bro. R. Graham
Trio	"Three Bumble Bees"	Bro. Henderson, W. & J. Graham
Chorus	"Hail Smiling Morn"

The musical part of the programme being over, refreshments were handed round, and the guests proceeded to amuse themselves with the games provided or enjoyed a quiet chat with friends. At 11 p.m. a bountiful supply of oranges, apples and sweetmeats was served to all, and the Chief Ranger again took his place in the chair, when a vote of thanks to the ladies who had so kindly assisted at the musical part of the programme, proposed by Bro. Dr. Bell, was carried with cheers. "God Save the Queen" and the Foresters' closing ode brought to an end one of the most pleasant evenings ever spent in Lakefield. The Court is to be congratulated on the position it has attained in public estimation as well as their success as a Court. The membership is now 63. They have had but one member suspended in five years, own a handsomely furnished hall, and have a good sum in the treasury. Their regular meetings are always well attended, showing the interest taken by the members, while the large turnout last Thursday evening proved that the public also take an interest in their efforts to provide for the future as well as the present.

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes. d56-6t-w10

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, of FIRST RESERVE. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salesability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $150 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

Dear Window Dressing.

The windows of Messrs. Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s shop are the recipients of a great deal of attention. Neatly placed in the centre of each window, surrounded by canned goods of all kinds, rest in life-like posture the giant head and antlers of a monster moose deer. They are both beauties, the great palmated horns branch out majestically, measuring over five feet across, and are much admired. The recorded history of the heads show that they were shot on the shores of the Mattawa River some seasons ago by Master James Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, and were stuffed by Mr. B. Hudson.

St. Luke's Concert.

The last of the series of concerts given in St. Luke's school room was held yesterday evening. Though the last of the series, the entertainment was one of the first in point of excellence. The room was crowded. Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, as usual, presided. The first part of the programme was furnished by the children of the Hazel Brae Home, under the leadership of Mr. Duff, and assisted by Mrs. Duff, Mr. Cooper and Mr. W. Loch and others, whose names have been given in connection with the "toy symphony" band. The instrumental and vocal selections were given in the usual good style, showing the careful training the children are subject to. The audience was delighted with their productions. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Duff and the children. The second part of the programme consisted of a laughable farce entitled "Two Heads are Better than One," in which the performers excelled themselves and delighted their hearers. The cast was as follows:— Mr. Tytler, "Mr. Strange," an eccentric old gent; Mr. Cooper, "C. Conquest," a poor, but clever, youth; Mrs R. B. Rogers, a friend of Mr. Strange's, and the possessor of an imbecile son; Mr. Carter, the son; Miss McNab, "Helen Strange." The audience dispersed after singing the National Anthem, highly pleased with the entertainment.

A Losing Game.

The match between the three rinks of the Peterborough and Lindsay curlers, at the Charlotte street rink, resulted in a defeat for the home team. The ice was in fine condition and some remarkable play was made. The winning rinks all led by very large majorities. Skip Boucher was defeated by Skip McMurtry by 19 shots; Skip Rutherford was defeated by Skip Flavelle by 11 shots, while Skip Ferguson upheld the honors of the local team by defeating Skip Bradburn by 15 shots. All seemed to enjoy themselves, notwithstanding the game was too one-sided to be over interesting. The following were the rinks and scores:

To-day is Ash Wednesday and the beginning of Lent. Services were held in St. John's Church and St. Peter's Cathedral, town, and St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham.

The Strike.

Johnston Carey is prepared to fill all orders on measure work. Men's Oxford shoes made to measure for $2. Women's high button Balmorals, glove grain $2, and all other work in proportion. None but first-class workmen employed. JOHNSTON CAREY.

With Confidence

We make the announcement on first page of a partial list of our Spring Importations, and in doing so we pledge ourselves to maintain throughout the season, that high standard of merit for the best quality of fine Dry Goods, for which the Golden Lion is noted. R. FAIR.

Why?

Why continue to drive around with faded and shabby Buffalo Robes, when you can have them dyed a rich Black or Brown. Bring your Robes and Coats to the Blyth Mills and have them dyed and made equal to a Black Bear Skin, before you store them away for the season. J. M. MASSON, Blyth Mills, Peterborough.

A Marvel of Cheapness.

No one can afford to be ignorant these days for lack of cheap reading matter. Messrs. Sailsbury & Co., have received supplies of "Cassels National Library," a series of volumes, each containing 200 pages of clearly printed matter, comprising the works of standard authors, at the wonderfully low price of ten cents. They are marvels of cheapness.

Teachers Institute and Lecture.

A Teachers Institute will be held in the Collegiate Institute to-morrow and on Friday. In connection with this Mr. J. J. Tilley, Director of Teachers' Institutes and Inspector of Model Schools, will deliver a lecture on "The Relation of Education to the State," on Thursday evening in the Opera House. The public are invited to attend. Admission free.

T. V. C. Deputation.

The town councillors and a large number of influential citizens, delegates on the Trent Valley Canal deputation, left for Ottawa by the C. P. R. this morning and at noon, and a number more will leave this evening. Among the number are several curlers, enough to form two rinks, who hope to engage in a match before they leave the capital. A number will also visit Montreal before returning.

Police Court.

Police Magistrate Dumble this morning dismissed the charge against J. E. McIntyre for using insulting language towards P. C. Pidgeon.

Robert Ross was brought before the magistrate, charged by P. C. McGinty, with having been drunk in a public place. Ross admitted the charge, and was given ten days to straighten up.

Mr. J. O'Meara, who appeared for Mr. McIntyre in the Adams vs. McIntyre case, for breach of the liquor law, has appealed against the judgment of the magistrate.

Market Mems.

This morning's market was not over the average, notwithstanding the favorable weather. Prices have changed slightly, potatoes selling as high as 75c. per bag, while eggs are coming down. Several quarters of veal were offered for sale at 7 and 8c. per lb. Quotations were:—Butter, in prints, 20c.; eggs, 18c.; chickens, per pair, 60c.; beef, per cwt., $4 to $6; pork, per cwt, $6 to $6.50; cut up 7c. to 8c.; veal, per lb. 7c. to 8c.; mutton and lamb, 7c. to 8c.; potatoes, per bag, 70c. to 75c.; apples, per bag 75c. to 90c.; per barrel, $2.00 to $2.25; wood, from $2 to $4.00; hay, $12 per ton.

Evangelistic Services.

Conducted by Ferdinand Schiveras, the Brooklyn Evangelist.

Ferdinand Schiveras the well-known American Evangelist arrived in town yesterday and opened a series a of services in the Baptist Church. Mr. Schiveras is a man of about the ordinary size, dark complexioned has a kind and intelligent clean-shaven face and is of commanding appearance. He was born in New York in 1852 and converted at D. L. Moody's meetings in Brooklyn 1876. His father was a Roman Catholic and his mother a Protestant. Schiveras when young attended a Protestant Sunday School, but when nine or ten years of age became reckless. He took a liking for the stages and resolved to prepare for it. Naturally gifted as a dancer and mimic, he had fair to attain popularity as a performer. He obtained several engagements and took every opportunity to improve himself. One week before his conversion he appeared before footlights in a New York theatre, with every evidence of a coming success. One evening he, with others, was handed a ticket to Mr. Moody's meetings. Out of curiosity he went, with the result of being converted. From the day of his conversion he became an active worker in the cause of Christ. He and his brother George, who was converted about the same time, engaged rooms and fitted them up and held evening prayer meetings, working through the day at anything he could find. He continued this way for five years, when he gave up all secular employment to go and preach the Gospel to the non-church-going masses. While holding these meetings Rev. Geo. F. Pentecost heard of him and induced him to commence a mission work in one of the worst parts of Brooklyn. In a few months a chapel was erected and one of the darkest spots of Brooklyn was changed almost beyond recognition. His success as an evangelist was gained slowly. After holding meetings with Mr. Pentecost for four months, holding meetings in the streets and dodging the police, he left the fields. He has visited all Chicago, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and all the leading cities of the United States and Canada with signal success.

Yesterday evening he held his first meeting in Peterborough in the Baptist Church. The edifice was crowded to its utmost capacity and many were unable to gain admission. Rev. Messrs. A. H. Munro, R. F. Tompson, A. Bell, I. Tovell, F. H. Wallace, G. H. Davis, town, and P. Duncan, of Colborne, and D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, occupied the platform with Mr. Schiveras, and assisted in the services. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, after which Mr. Schiveras spoke for over an hour. In his address he is earnest and pathetic, and at times dramatic, full of freshness, vigor and gospel truth. His straightforwardness and genuility convinces the most listless. He no doubt will do a good work in town. He will preach in the Charlotte street church to-night. All who wish a seat should go early. Mr. Schiveras will also hold meetings in the Y. M. C. A. rooms each morning at 9 o'clock during his stay in town, and Bible reading meetings in the Baptist Church at 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Great Inflammatory Remedy.

Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in the back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormand & Walsh, druggists, Peterboro', write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Nerviline may be tested at the small sum of ten cents, as you can buy a sample bottle for that sum at any drug store. Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline the great internal and external pain cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. d56 6t-w10

Important Notice—To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. C. F. FRASER.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

Hon. Christopher Finlay Fraser, Q. C., represents the Roman Catholics in the cabinet and Brockville in the legislature, is Commissioner of Public Works. He is son of J. S. Fraser, of Brockville, studied law with the Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C., was called to the bar in 1865, appointed Q. C., in 1876, and also a bencher of the Law society; is president of the Catholic Literary association, of Brockville, and was one of the orginators of the Catholic League. After suffering defeat in Brockville in 1867, and in South Grenville in 1879, he was returned for the latter constituency in 1872, but unseated on petition. He immediately took the field again, was successful, and was re-elected by acclamation when appointed Provincial Secretary in 1873. He was also re-elected in 1875, but returned to Brockville in 1879, and carried that constituency again in 1883. Hon. Mr. Fraser is the finest orator in the Local Legislature. Usually he sits with a big slouch hat well pulled down over his eyes, apparently in a state of lethargy, but when he rises to speak the slouch hat and the lethargy disappear at the same time, his right arm works like a flail, his long red beard fairly bristles with energy and he pours forth a flood of unexceptional elocution that never fails to carry the House like a whirlwind. He would sooner fight than eat his dinner, and if his health were more robust would be a match for the best man in Canada.

A Friendly Warning.

To Mr. Schiverea, the Evangelist:

SIR,—Sometimes extempore speakers, carried away by the intensity of their feelings, utter sentiments which, upon reflection, they regret. Such I presume were two or three assertions that escaped you last evening. One was "that God loved sinners right down to hell; yes, in hell." In proof, you alluded to Dives in hell, whom you said "God addressed as his son, though in hell." If your refer to the parable you will see, it was not God, but Abraham, the saint, to whom he prayed, who called him son, that is, acknowledged him as one of his descendants. It cannot be supposed that God will allow a son of his whom he loves to be cast into hell.

Another utterance that escaped you was to the effect, "that you have to thrust grace down some people's throats, as parents force medicine down the throats of their children." Can you sir, thrust grace into any sinner or person? I am sure, upon consideration you will not say so.

You also affirmed "that God Almighty himself bore and suffered the penalty of our sins." You meant of course that Jesus Christ his Son did. But you will not say, that God Almighty is Jesus Christ. God Almighty is not a man, Jesus Christ is; and as such though divine, he presented himself, as a Lamb without spot to God; but Jesus cannot be affirmed to be God Almighty to whom, as the great propitiation, he offered himself.

These utterances the writer heard with regret and pain, and now calls your attention to them, that the like in future may be avoided, being assured that their tendency is injurious alike to the speaker and his hearers.

Admiring your zeal and intense earnestness and wishing the greatest success to your labors, I remain,
Yours respectfully,
A FRIEND.
Peterborough, March 11, 1886.

"MADRE E HIGO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The Hastings Races.

The Second Day's Sporting as Successful as the First.

The races at Hastings yesterday were as successful as on the previous day. The day was as fine, the spectators more numerous, the track in as fine condition and everything favorable to the sport. Mr. Ed. Brown, of Peterborough, and Messrs. Kerr and Gibson, of Campbellford, occupied the judge's stand, and gave judgment to the satisfaction of all. Mr. J. J. Daly, of Peterborough, acted as timer.

The first race called was the open trot, for which there were three entries, F. McCrae's "Mayflower" and "Black Diamond," of Beaverton, and Mr Croft's "Balmoral," of Cobourg. "Balmoral" won first place in three straight heats. The following is the place held by each in the three heats:—

Black Diamond	3	3	3

It was apparent to all that "Mayflower" was not half working, and it was found after the race was finished that she had cast three-quarters of a shoe from one of her front feet when scoring in the first heat, and which explained too late the cause of her poor work. Mr. Gibson, one of the judges, found the part of the shoe and made inquiries, but found no owner until the race was finished. The best time made was in the first heat by "Balmoral," 2.33. The second was 2.34 and the third 2.33½.

There were four horses started in the running race, Mr. Simpson's "Gray Johnnie," of Brighton, winning first money, taking first place in the three heats. The time made was 1.49, 1.50 and 1.50.

A large number of sporting men from Peterborough were present and all report the races as exceptionally good. Mr. Simpson, of the Queen's hotel, drove "Black Diamond" for the first and second heats, and "Mayflower" in the third heat.

Peterborough Presbytery.

Minutes of the Proceedings.

Mr. Duncan was appointed Moderator for the next six months.

The committee on the care of the church property at Oak Hill were instructed to enquire into the character of the deed of the property and to report at next meeting.

The report of the committee on Home Mission work was adopted, and arrangements made for the supply of the different fields during the summer.

There was a lengthened discussion arising out of the report of the Committee on Augmentation. The report was adopted. Delegates to augmented congregations reported regarding the condition of the charges visited. These reports were transferred to the Committee on Augmentation to prepare a report from them for presentation to the Assembly's Home Mission Committee. Reports were received also as to visits made to self-sustaining congregations.

It was resolved, on motion of Mr. Bell, to instruct all delegates who had failed to fulfil their appointments, to enter upon the work assigned them at the earliest opportunity. It was also resolved that the work of visitation in connection with augmentation be done in future not later than the month of September in each year.

In connection with the communication of an overture from the presbytery of Hamilton, on the mode of the election of Moderator of General Assembly it was agreed to recommend that the practice of the church since the time of union, which was somewhat disturbed by the action of last year, be reverted to, and that, in future, nomination be made by Presbyteries.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in the first church, Port Hope, on the 6th July at 10 o'clock a.m.

The following ministers were appointed as delegates to the General Assembly, as in order of the roll:—Messrs. Sutherland, Cameron, Torrance, Bell, White and Ross.

The elders chosen by election were:—Messrs. J. Russell, Cobourg; Gabriel Orr, Coldsprings; W. R. Roxburgh, Norwood; John Aitken, Bobcaygeon; R. C. Martin, Garden Hill, and R. Tully, Peterborough.

Messrs. Cleland, Mitchell, Cameron ministers, and Messrs. Craick and Tisdale, elders, were appointed a committee to consider the remaining remits of assembly and to report to the meeting of Presbytery to be held at the time of the meeting of Synod in May next.

The Committee on the state of Religion, Sabbath Schools and Temperance, were invested with Presbyterial powers to prepare reports on their respective departments for presentation to the corresponding committee of the Synod.

Mr. McCrea was authorized to moderate in a call at Burleigh, so soon as the people are prepared for the step.

The Presbytery agreed to recommend Mr. Rumble, a Bachelor of Arts of Victoria College, and a member of the Presbyterian church in Cobourg, to the Home Mission Committee, for work in the mission field.

Principal Grant, of Queen's College, was nominated as moderator of the general assembly.

The congregation of Dunsford obtained leave to sell their manse property, and apply the proceeds to the enlargement of their church grounds.

Messrs. Cameron and Roxburgh were appointed as members of the Synod's Committee on Bills and Overtures.

Mr. R. M. Knight, after the usual trials and examinations was in due form, licensed to preach the Gospel.

WM. BENNETT,
Presbytery Clerk.

A Shocking Catastrophe.

BERLIN, March 10.—A disastrous fire has occurred in a flax drying house at Oels, a town of Prussian Silesia. Several women were burned to death and many others injured. The total number of casualties is thirty-five.

A Big Toronto Lock-Out.

TORONTO, March 11.—Yesterday about three hundred street car drivers were locked out. The grounds of dismissal were the connection of the drivers with a labour union. Six months ago three men were discharged for belonging to the union. One hundred and thirty two of the discharged men had applied for membership but had not been balloted for. Public sympathy in spite of the inconvenience caused, is in sympathy with the drivers.

Teachers' Institute.

A Joint Convention of County and Town Teachers.

The Teachers' Institute opened this morning in the Central School. There were present almost all the teachers in the town and county. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle, President; Mr. W. Smith, Vice-President; Mr. W. Beatty, Secretary.

Messrs. Ronay, Hutchison, and Mark, were appointed a committee to consider the advisability of charging a membership fee to defray expenses.

Messrs. Hutchison and Ronney, and Miss McLeod and Miss Wright, were appointed a committee to consider and report on the post course of reading for teachers, recommended by the Education Department, and also to consider and report on the advisability of curtailing the summer holidays.

During this afternoon Mr. J. J. Tilley, Inspector of Model Schools, gave an interesting address on "Development Lessons in Fractions with Class," and Mr. Hutchison followed with an instructive address on "Decimals with Class." Mr. Marks spoke on the subject of "Township Institutes."

This evening Mr. J. J. Tilley will deliver, in the old music hall, his interesting and instructive lecture on "The Relation of Education to the State." All are invited to attend. Admission free.

Benafort.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Several public meetings have been held in the township of South Monaghan, called by the Reeve, Mr. J. Biddell, for the purpose of ventilating opinion regarding union with the county of Peterborough, and in order to decide whether further steps, more important, be taken in the matter. Much has been said for and against the proposed union. Those who favor the project contend that we are comparatively speaking, apparently of little importance being so isolated, though within a short distance of Peterborough town, and that advantage should be taken at once of circumstances which are likely to secure a new bridge on or near the old site. Those who oppose the scheme talk of high taxation, and by many methods of figuring endeavor to show that the construction of the new bridge as proposed may, though necessary, prove too costly. A delegation however have been named to confer with Peterborough to find proposed terms of union precisely, which if suitable will result in a ballot from South Monaghan to decide.

Two severe cases of inflammation have been checked by Dr. Gray, of Ballieboro, recently.

A Sunday School is to be opened and conducted at the new church here on Sabbath afternoons.

Much preparation has been made and is in progress for new buildings. Mr. John Mien, of Otonabee, is the principal contractor, and the new buildings will be near the river, east of here.

CURLIANA.

A second curling contest between Keene and Campbellford was played at Campbellford last Friday, 5th inst. Two games were played as follows:

Forenoon.

CAMPBELLFORD.	KEENE.
E. Gaudrie.	Wm. McCrea.
D. Kerr.	M. Kennaly.
Jas. Dinwoodie.	Jno. Dickson.
Jas. White, skip....15	Wm. Campbell, skip..14

Majority for Campbellford, 1 shot.

Afternoon.

Robt. Dinwoodie.	M. Kennaly.
D. Kerr.	W. McCrea.
Jas. White.	W. Campbell.
Jas. Dinwoodie, s'p 12	J. Dickson, skip.....19

Majority for Keene, 7 shots.

Thus with respect to games, the day's sport resulted in a draw, but in counting points Keene won by 6. The Keene rink returned in the highest spirits and full of compliments toward their Campbellford brethren for the right royal welcome and kind treatment they received. Dinner was served at Mr. D. Kerr's, where the visitors were most generously entertained.

Mr. Peter McFarlane is at last able to attend to his daily duties.

Our old friend, Mr, John Wood, is quite ill and confined to the house.

Mrs. Thos. Mather, jr., has also been very ill, but is mending.

John Robinson, a son of the late Peter Robinson, while chopping in the woods lately, cut his foot severely, directly across the instep.

Wm. Fortune also met with a severe accident by having the leg just above the ankle crushed between a log and a tree. The larger bone was fractured and he is still laid up.

Fat Fees for Lawyers.

How Leading Tory Wire-Pullers Were Rewarded.

OTTAWA, March 9.—The Dominion Government appear to have been as generous as usual last year in distributing public money among their supporters of the legal fraternity, in the shape of payments for alleged legal services. The total amount paid out for such services was $59,902, charged as follows:—To Railways and Canals, $19,595; Consolidation of Statutes, $15,933; Public Works, $1,992; Inland Revenue, $2,756; Customs, $1,672; miscellaneous justice, $4,428; charges of management, $2,050; Postoffice Department, $1,256; Indian Trust Fund, $1,936; Dominion Lands, $400; Marine and Fisheries, $619; Militia, $165; other services, $56.

The payments of the principal lawyers employed by the Government is 1884 and 1885 were as follows:

	1885.	1884.
E. J. Hodgson	$4,311	$ 523
Wallace Graham	1,720	1,059
do (con. statutes)	2,560	2,559
Christopher Robinson	2,160	2,840
H. C. Pelletier (Quebec)	3,560	4,203
D. O'Connor (Ottawa)	2,680	2,593
Hon. L. R. Church	1,388	1,388
Bompas, Bischoff & Dodson	1,760	2,705
M. Adams (New Brunswick)	1,810	nil
Aikens, Culver & Hamilton	1,392	1,119
Drake, Jackson & Helmcken	1,485	76
L. R. Harrison	1,395	2,085
John A. Macdonnell	2,674	3,155
Hugh McMahon	1,000	2,000
Hon. John O'Connor	1,433	5,040
G. W. Burbidge, D.M.J.	2,500	not given
A. Ferguson (Ottawa)	2,800	2,240
J. A. Ouimet	2,840	2,560
Wm. Wilson	2,500	2,500
H. Abbott, Jr.	910	798
Hon. J. Armstrong	665	485
John Bergin	110	nil
T. C. Casgrain	500	1,292
J. C. Eccles	848	700
Delany & Ostrom	187	nil
Andrews, Caron & Co.	575	nil
W. A. Park	328	197
D. L. Scott	361	nil
Strafford & Belleau	165	nil
Strathy & Ault	125	nil
C. P. Davidson (Montreal)	48	687
Hugh Richardson	200	200

The balance was made up of payments in sums under $100 to different lawyers. It will be observed that Mr. R. J. Hodgson, manager-in-chief of the Conservative party, in Prince Edward Island, heads the list, Mr. H. Cyrias Pelletier, party manager for Quebec district, coming second. The building of the St. Charles Branch Railway has been a perfect bonanza for Mr. Pelletier. The amount paid for land taken for that branch will reach about a million dollars, though Sir Charles Tupper told Parliament that the whole branch would not cost more that one third of that sum. It is further alleged that in cases where friends of the Government, or parties whose influence the Government wished to secure, have made claims for land damages the cases have gone by default. Hon. L. R. Church, who gobbled $1,388 last year, is, or was until recently, the partner of Mr. Chapleau, Secretary of State, and is also his partner in the Pontiac Railway scheme. Mr. M. Adams, of New Brunswick, is an ex-member of the Provincial Cabinet and a member of the Legislature. He is the leading spirit of the Tory party in the Miramichi district. The firm of Athens, Cutler, & Hamilton is composed of the Attorney-General of Manitoba, and a son of the late Minister of Inland Revenue and present Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Mr. John A. Macdonnell, of Toronto, needs no introduction. His charges for legal services have been the theme of public discussion in Parliament, on the platform, and in the press. Mr. Wallace Graham, of Halifax, who seems to be such a special favourite, is the law partner of Mr. C. H. Tupper, M.P., for Pictou. Mr. D. O'Connor, of Ottawa, is President of the Conservative Association, and of course, entitled to be largely subsidized. Hon. John (now Mr. Justice O'Connor) drew $933 as one of the Commissioners appointed to consolidate the statutes, and $500 for other services. Mr. H. Abbott is a son of the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, the central figure of the Pacific Scandal, who is now M.P. for Argenteuil and Solicitor for the Pacific Railway Company. Hon. James Armstrong, a superannuated Judge, is one of Sir Hector Langevin's relatives, and Mr. John Bergin is a brother of the member for Stormont and Cornwall. Mr. A. Ferguson, an active Ottawa Tory, secured $2,500 for services in connection with the consolidation of the statutes, and $36 besides. Mr. R. P. Vallee, of Quebec, who received $207, is Tory ex-M.P. for Portneuf, and now Revising officer for Quebec East. The Government think it only right that he should have some inducement to prepare the electoral lists in their interest. Sir A. P. Caron's law firm received $275 last year, but possibly the Militia Minister may plead that he is not now a member of the firm, or that his partners were employed in an action against the Government, in which their clients were successful. $57,902 to lawyers, and $51,382 to pay for advertising in Tory newspapers. Is it surprising that there is a deficit of six millions, and that new taxes will have to be placed upon tea, coffee, and other articles? It will be observed, also, by reference to the Public Accounts, that the number of legal gentlemen entitled to receive Government patronage is increasing.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

TUESDAY, MARCH 9th.

OTTAWA, March 9.—Immediately upon the opening of the House to-day a motion moved by Sir Hector Langevin passed, declaring that when the House adjourned to-day it should not again meet till Thursday.

A number of returns and the report of the Medical Commission appointed to inquire into the mental condition of Louis Riel after his conviction, were presented.

Mr. Cameron (Huron) introduced a bill to amend the law of evidence in criminal cases, which is the same as that passed last year but rejected by the Senate.

In the absence of Mr. Langelier, Mr. Laurier inquired what amount was paid the various newspapers for distributing Sir Alex. Campbell's memo re Riel, and the names of the papers.

Mr. Chapleau had evidently forgotten, intentionally or otherwise, to bring particulars with him, but he promised to do so later.

Upon a motion to adjourn at 3.40, Mr. Blake rose and complained that although Thursday was the day fixed for the consideration of the Riel motion, yet the Government had not, either voluntarily or in response to motions, brought down any of the papers in connection with the Northwest.

Mr. Langevin, who, in the absence of Sir John, was leading the house, in reply nodded to Mr. Speaker to carry the motion to adjourn, which was done.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

TUESDAY, MARCH 9th.

During the greater part of the day the House was in Committee on Mr. Hardy's Liquor License Bill. Mr. Hardy got a clause added making it an offence to knowingly sell liquor to any person who sells without a license.

Mr. McLaughlin moved an amendment providing that the hour of closing should be 7 on Saturday and 11 on other week days. This was lost. The bill as amended was reported.

The bill amending the law as to conveyancy and the bill respecting estates of deceased persons were advanced a stage.

The discovery of the instantaneous process of taking photographs has been quickly followed in the medical world by a perfect and instantaneous remedy for all acute aches and pains, as Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, etc. This valuable remedy is called Fluid Lightning, and is sold at 25 cents a bottle by J. A PASSIVE CRIME.

BY THE DUCHESS.

"Do not," says the girl, wearily; "though I fear that hazardous step has availed me nothing. I doubt if he has shown mercy to Dick Penruddock."

"Was it to crave mercy for him that you sought Saumarez's rooms that night?" asks the woman, quickly, a frown contracting her brow.

"Yes; I asked and obtained his promise that he would spare Dick. But this long silence terrifies me; what if he should break his word?"

"Had I known that—" says the woman, between her teeth, and said it in such a strange tone that Maud glanced anxiously at her.

"What do you mean, Esther? How strangely you speak!" she says, a little sternly. "Would you rather that Mr. Penruddock met his death? You are cruel, very wicked. What harm has he done you?"

"I would spare none of the breed," says the woman, slowly, her looks fixed on vacancy.

"You speak as though you knew them. Were you ever connected with them in any way?" asks Maud, curiously, sitting up and bending eagerly forward closely to watch the nurse's troubled countenance.

"Connected—no," says Esther, in a tone of cunningly acted surprise, awaking as though to a sense of danger—"how should I? My head is full of fancies to-day—you must not mind me. And Mr. Penruddock—I hope he will come home safe, my dearie, for he is a brave young gentleman, and a handsome one; but not so handsome as my Lord Stretton; no, nor in any way whatever so worthy of you."

"When did Mr. Penruddock come, nurse," asks Maud, after a pause.

"Almost as I came in. No doubt he is here to speak about his son." She chooses her words carefully, and marks well the effect produced by them.

"He has heard, it may be, of his constant visits here, and deems you unworthy of an alliance with his house. But he need not fear, need he? You have rejected Mr. Dick—you assured me of that the other night?"

"Yes, it is true. His fears are groundless. I do not desire to marry his son!" says Maud, proudly.

"So best," says Esther. "His blood is bad; at least"—hastily—"so I have heard."

Maud is silent.

After a little while she says, in a rather depressed voice and with averted looks, "What is he like, Esther?"

"Who?—Penruddock? Stern and forbidding, cold and haughty, as of old," returns the woman, absently—"not bowed and broken with the weight of time and memory, as, if he had a conscience, he should be."

"Why, how you say that!" says Maud, raising herself on her elbow. "For the second time you make me think you know him."

"Nay, child—how should I?" says the nurse, impatiently, yet in a half-frightened manner. "It is from all I have heard I judge, and that was no good. The old, too, should not be high and mighty; they should remember the grave, and how it yawns for them—they should repent them of the many sins that they, in the past, have committed."

"How ghostly," says the girl, with a slight shiver. "Do not talk like that: it almost unnerves me. To hear you, one might imagine that Mr. Penruddock was nothing less than a murderer!"

The woman smiles disagreeably, and covers her face with her hand, perhaps to hide the change that passes over it. Then taking up the bottle of perfume again, she pours out some more, and applies it, but with a trembling hand, to Miss Neville's forehead.

"Nurse," says Maud, presently, in a nervous tone, "I have been thinking of something, and I can not get it out of my thoughts. Perhaps some one has told Mr. Penruddock of this quarrel with Captain Saumarez, and he has come up to town about it, and has come here to accuse me to auntie as being the cause of it; and—" starting to her feet in her agitation—"if that be so, what shall I say or do?"

"Tut, nonsense," says Esther, calmly—"that can not be. Ill news 'fly apace' indeed, to carry itself down so far to the country in such a hurry. And besides, who knew of it? There, my dear child, try to sleep," she says, softly; "and ring for me if you want me again."

So saying, she goes to the door, opens it, and, crossing the passage outside, walks lightly down-stairs, and seats herself in a room off the hall, from which, with the door just a little way open, she can command a view of any one going to or coming from the drawing-room.

Left to herself, Maud for some time lies quietly upon the couch, thinking sadly of all that has happened during the last two days, and of all that yet may happen.

The blinds are pulled down, and the dusk of evening has descended and is creeping everywhere, making odd shadows in far corners, and rendering even near objects indistinct.

The day has been dark and cloudy, and the rain has fallen—now steadily, anon in fitful gusts.

The evening is as gloomy as the day, and at this moment the raindrops are pattering drearily against the window-panes with a sad, monotonous sound that chills the heart.

The usually pleasant room looks dull and cheerless now in the uncertain light—dull as her thoughts, and cheerless as are her hopes!

The moments fly; the ormolu clock upon the mantelpiece chimes the half-hour.

And then there is a noise of footsteps outside, a word or two quickly spoken, and the door is thrown open to admit Mrs. Neville and a tall, gaunt man, who follows her closely and quickly into the room.

Maud, springing to her feet, gazes breathlessly at George Penruddock, though she can barely judge of his appearance in the growing twilight.

She herself, standing back in the extreme shadow, is in such a position that he can scarcely, perhaps not at all, discern her features.

"What have I heard, Maud?" says Mrs. Neville, in great distress. "Is it true that Dick has been led into a quarrel—has, in fact, risked his life in a duel for your sake? Tell Mr. Penruddock yourself that this story is a vile fabrication—a shameless, wicked untruth!"

"I can not!" begins Maud, huskily.

"You hear her!" says the tall, gaunt old man, in accents that vibrate with anger. "She acknowledges everything. She alone is to blame! This adventuress, this young viper, madam, whom you have taken to your bosom, has willfully led my unhappy son into a quarrel that has in all probability brought him to the grave!"

"Silence, Mr. Penruddock!" says Mrs. Neville, with an air of offended dignity foreign to her. "This girl that you so ignorantly accuse is in reality as good and true a child as ever breathed, and I shall listen to nothing against her. She herself shall tell us all the truth; but I forbid you to annoy or frighten her with your coarse speeches."

"Yes; let her speak quickly—let me hear," says Penruddock, brutally, and scowling at Maud.

In a broken undertone, Maud tells them of all that took place between Dick and Captain Saumarez the night of Mrs. Neville's dance, suppressing only her visit to the latter's house and the promise Dick extorted.

When she has finished her recital, she bursts into tears, and sobs distressingly.

Mrs. Neville, going up to her, takes her in her arms, and presses her head down upon her kindly bosom.

For a few minutes no sound can be heard in the room save the girl's bitter weeping, as she fondly and gratefully clings to her faithful friend.

"Ay, weep!" says Pgenruddock, cruelly. "You may well weep all the tear upon the man you have killed—upon the hearth you have left desolate! It was a cursed hour when first he met you! I have heard of you and have been told of your studied coquetries, though I have never seen you, nor do I desire to look upon your fatal face! I thank the friendly darkness now that prevents my seeing one who has blighted my remaining years. I know all. I have heard of the unfortunate infatuation entertained for you by my unhappy son, and I now live to see its end and results. Most satisfied. Your vanity must surely be satisfied when you know that he died for your sake."

"Oh, Maud, do not let him say that! He is not dead! He will come back!" says Maud, in an agony of grief and despair, appealing in a heart-broken manner to her friend and mother. "And it was not all my fault. And—and I will not believe that he is dead! It would be too cruel!"

"What a gloomy room, and what a gloomy topic! Who is talking of death?" asks a gay, glad young voice from the door-way, that thrills the listeners to their hearts' core.

It is a voice that makes the old man start and tremble violently, and hold out his arms in expectation, with a suppressed but thankful cry.

Yet for the first time his loving greeting is overlooked, is cast aside.

A slight figure, half hidden by the dusk, but discernible to the eyes of a lover, has chained the new-comer's attention, and, oblivious of his father and of all things, Dick Penruddock goes eagerly up to it.

At the sound of his voice, Maud has raised herself, and, breaking now from Mrs. Neville, goes quickly to him, and, with an impulsive gesture, lays her hands upon his shoulders.

"It is indeed you! You have really come back to me!" she gasps, in a little, tremulous whisper, that plainly tells her love and gratitude.

"Yes; to you!" responds he, gladly. "But there was no danger—none. He fired right over my head, and refused to fire again. No one knows why. I really think he must have had a sneaking kindness for me all through, or else he has tired of killing. So you see I was bound to come back, like that inevitable bad coin, you know. Why, what is this? Are those tears, my love—and are they shed for me?"

She is looking up at him with eyes full of tears, and pink lids, and pallid cheeks; yet never has she appeared to him so beautiful as now, when decked with these signs of woe that are worn for love of him.

"My dear Dick, what a fright you have given us!" says Mrs. Neville, with a deep sigh, half of relief, half of annoyance. "Why, we have been mourning you as past all help in this world, during the last hour; and now here you are, safe and sound! I really think you ought to be ashamed of yourself, and ought, also, to offer us a profuse apology."

"For being alive?" smiled Dick.

"Yes—no, I mean—no— Dear me, I hardly know what I am saying; but you really ought to feel sorry for all the trouble that you have caused."

"Have you anything to say to your father?" says Mr. Penruddock, at the far end of the room. "That young lady"—pointing to Maud—"if all I hear be true, you saw only two nights ago; me you have not seen for two months. Yet it seems that you have nothing to say to me, though much to her. Has"—and this was spoken very bitterly—"has an acquaintanceship of weeks obliterated the affection of years?"

"My dear father!" says Dick, deprecatingly.

Then he kisses Miss Neville's hand, and leaving her, goes up to where his father is standing.

Maud, glad of the chance, slips from the room at this moment, and escapes to her own sanctum.

"Why, father, what lucky chance has driven you up to town?" says Dick, affectionately, and placing his hand on Penruddock's shoulder.

"No lucky chance, but the news of this duel that you have been fighting," says his father gloomily. "Into what dangers have you been enticed?"

"Why, how came you to hear of it in your quiet country home?" says Dick, with some amazement.

"It matters little. I did hear, that is plain, and came up by the last train."

"Must have been that incorrigible Wilding," mutters Dick, below his breath.

"My time in this great city must be short," says Penruddock, not heeding him, "and I would speak with you seriously before leaving. When can I find myself alone with you? There is much that I have to tell."

"Any time; I am quite at your disposal. In an hour—half an hour," says Dick, readily. "First, I must see Wilding, to explain matters; I had promised to dine with him to-night, but shall, of course, resign everything to devote myself to you. Where shall I meet you in half an hour? Where are you putting up—at the Langham, or Claridge's?"

"Claridge's. I shall expect you at the time you say. Do not disappoint me."

"You have my word," says Dick. "Well, I shall be off now. Good-bye, Mrs. Neville. You must not scold me any more, you know; I'm not proof against your displeasure, that is a positive fact. I shall drop in to-morrow, if I may, to tell you all about my adventure."

"Yes, do come, if only to see how thoroughly I can forgive," says Mrs. Neville, smiling; her heart incapable of harboring anger.

And the young man, smiling in turn, presses her hand, takes up his hat, and quits the room.

Penruddock, having made his adieus in more elaborate form, goes slowly down the stairs, and into the hall.

As he passes a room, the door of which is now open, a woman, tall and dark-drowed, comes quickly forward, as though summoned by his footstep, and confronts him.

As his eyes light upon her, a ghastly change comes over him. He is white as a sheet, seems to shrink and grow smaller, and draws his breath heavily.

"Well, Penruddock," she says, in accents slow and distinct, appearing to enjoy his discomfiture; "and so we meet again. How pleased you look!"

"What has brought you here?" demands he, hoarsely, looking nervously around.

"Fate!" replies she coldly.

"But here—what has brought you here?" asks he, as though unable to refrain from idle questioning.

The woman, bending toward him, lays her bony hand upon his wrist.

"To help you to remember," whispers she, in a tone that makes him shudder, so much compressed hatred lies within it. "Have you forgotten? Fifteen years ago this month, Penruddock! Fifteen years ago!"

So saying, she turns abruptly and enters the room again.

Penruddock follows her.

"Stay, woman!" he exclaims.

"Be not so eager," replies Esther; "we shall meet again."

By this time she has reached a door opposite to that by which she had entered that room, opens and darts through it, closing it quickly behind her.

Penruddock would still follow her, but reaching the door through which the woman has gone, he finds it locked against him.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $120 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

The Fire Brigade Band are putting forth every effort to make their last carnival of the season the best of the season, and skaters are preparing to back the band up. The cane contest will no doubt be a keen one, and an interesting feature of the affair. Skaters who have not yet decided, should make all speed to prepare their costumes. To-morrow, Friday evening, is the date.

A Prize for a Peterborough Man.

Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, agent for the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, has received the following letter.

Toronto, March 9th, 1886.

G. A. Morrison, Esq., Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to notify you that the Peterborough agency through your management has taken the second prize for the largest amount of business done in the Dominion.

Respectfully Yours,
J. D. WELLS,
General Manager.

We congratulate Mr. Morrison on his success, which is all the more worthy of notice, as we see his company has done over $6,000,000 of business in Canada during 1885.

Music for the Million.

Smart's music store has opened out the largest consignment of sheet music ever received in the town. It comprises over four hundred pieces, consisting of both popular and classical selections—instrumental and vocal—solos, duets, trios, choruses, etc., adapted to any style of voice. All fresh, new and taking, at popular prices. Smart's music store, George street.

Attend the Carnival.

By all means let every person who can skate attend the last of the Band carnivals and make it the grandest of them all. The Band have added to the pleasure of skating during the season and deserve the patronage of the skating public as a substantial return for favors given. The cane contest will be an attractive feature. The proposed cane is a beautiful gold-headed ebony and may be seen in Salisbury's window. Don't forget the carnival to-morrow (Friday) evening.

Police Court.

Joseph Gonyea was brought before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with assaulting Seth Hands on the 10th of March. Mr. Gonyea pleaded not guilty. Mr. Hans was sworn, and stated that Gonyea had rushed into his house and choked him yesterday morning, and had also tried to beat him. He admitted refusing to pay rent for the house he occupied and rented from Gonyea, on the ground that Mr. Chamberlain owned the place, and entered into a detailed statement of altercations between himself and the defendant on the subject of rent-paying. Mr. Gonyea contradicted the evidence of Hans, and explained that he went to the house with the intention of seizing Hans' goods for rent due and which Hans refused to pay. He said he had pushed past Hans in the door but did not strike or choke him. The magistrate held that there was no intentional assault and dismissed the charge. Mr. G. W. Hatton appeared for the defendant.

Be sure and exercise your Franchise—at the BAND CARNIVAL ON FRIDAY NIGHT—in the contest for the Gold-Headed Cane between Hon. E. Blake and Sir John.

For Spring and Summer.

See Foot & McWhinnie's line of ladies' fine Kid Boots for Spring and Summer wear. They are the sole agents in Peterborough for these goods, and are confident that in style, quality, and price they cannot be excelled.

Further Importations.

The second instalment of Spring Importations for the Golden Lion arrived yesterday, and consists of Tweeds, Coatings, Pantings, Carpets, Dress Goods, Buttons, Gloves, Hosiery, &c., and we cordially invite our customers inspection. R. FAIR.

Norwood's Interests.

In the Globe's Capital notes for Thursday is found the following paragraph:—"Messrs. T. Webb, W. J. Eyre, H. Blaker, R. Waddle, J. Young, and J. W. Dinwoodie are here interviewing the Government in respect to the Brighton, Warkworth, Campbellford & Norwood Railway. The delegates had an interview with Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals, and asked that a subsidy be given the road and the power to connect it with the main line of the Canadian Pacific."

Vote early; vote often in the Gold-Headed Cane contest between Blake and the Chieftain at the BAND CARNIVAL FRIDAY NIGHT. Don't let the want of the few votes you might cast be the cause of the defeat of your Political Champion.

What We May Expect.

A little more fine weather,

And the ice at the skating rink to stand it till carnival night.

Inspector Tilley to indulge in educational talk at the "old music hall" to-night.

Rehearsal to-night of the cantata "Ruth" at St. John's Church.

Schiveras to be at the George street Methodist Church to-night.

His name to be pronounced a hundred different ways.

And people to be surprised that the owner calls himself "Shiveer."

Busy hands at work on carnival costumes.

Tobogganing to be preparing for its funeral for the season.

Ottawa delegates to have to dance attendance on the Government till to-morrow.

And "old to-morrow" to get his work in again in the matter of delay.

Another Narrow Escape From Death.

Last evening another boy had a very narrow escape from a sudden and violent death. It was at the Hunter street crossing of the G. T. R. A heavy freight train, had run up the Lakefield line to allow the 5.15 mail train for Toronto to pass on to the Missing Link. The freight was backing down to the station at a fair rate of speed, and was near Hunter street when the brakeman saw an empty wood sleigh approaching the crossing, having on it two men and a boy hanging on behind—"stealing a ride." The brakeman seeing that neither the driver nor his companion noticed the train and were in great danger of being run down, if they kept moving there not being time to stop the heavy train,) frantically shouted to them to stop. Mr. W. J. Green who was at the crossing waiting for the train to pass, also used his utmost efforts to arrest the progress of the party. They being either blind, deaf, drunk or reckless, paid no attention but passed on to cross the track and just as the front part of the sleigh had cleared the track, the train struck the hind bob "slewing" it about and breaking off about a yard length of the rack, but not seriously injuring the sleigh, for the driver, without turning his head urged on his horses at a rapid pace up Hunter street. The boy had seen the danger and when a couple of yards from the track threw himself from the sleigh, about a quarter of a yard of coat which had caught fast to the wood rack being torn away. If the coat had been of firmer texture the boy would have certainly been killed. Mr. Green who witnessed the entire affair, thinks it is a fortunate matter that the lad did not wear a coat of strong cloth purchased at his clothing store.

A Belmont Mystery Cleared Up

Through Diary of a Murderer.

The Township of Belmont has been revelling in a murder mystery for the past dozen years, but a few days ago it is said that the veil was lifted by the dying lips of a participant in the terrible tragedy. A resident of the township supplies the following information:—

About twelve years ago a gentleman arrived in that township and was for some time engaged in prospecting for minerals. Appearances suggested that he was the possessor of considerable money, at least, they were sufficient to warrant the currency of the popular rumor that he carried a good deal of wealth about his person. Suddenly the prospector disappeared and there were not wanting suspicions that his money had aroused the cupidity of some person, and that a desire on the part of this person to suddenly become rich was an essential factor in his disappearance. Surely enough, some time in the summer,

THE DISCOVERY OF A DEAD BODY

converted suspicion into certainty. Though the body was too much decomposed to be identified by personal appearance as the remains of the prospector for minerals, yet no doubt existed that they were his. Now suspicion became busy as to the personality of the perpetrator of the robbery and murder, which, there was now no doubt, had been committed. Suspicion fell upon a certain individual, and the being attributed to him, must have reached his ears, for he suddenly left the country and took up his abode in some part unknown else, leaving his wife behind. In a short time the deserted wife filled the void in her heart and home with another man. Years rolled on, and a few days ago the woman was laid by illness on what proved to be her death-bed. The voice of conscience, which had been silent for a dozen years, would be suppressed no longer. The woman made a detailed confession, fully confirming the suspicions that the people of Belmont had entertained respecting the cause of the sudden disappearance of the mining prospector. She stated, it is alleged, that the miner's money tempted her husband and that the latter, having assaulted the victim, was being rather worsted in the encounter, and was likely realise that he had caught a Tartar, when the wife, coming up from behind with an axe, by a vigorous blow of the weapon, decided the conflict in her husband's favor. The robbery of the murdered man's person was then easy, and the flight, with the blood-stained spoil, naturally followed.

WITH MURDEROUS INTENT

A Pleasant Surprise.

A Retiring Teachers' Merits Recognized.

The South Ward Schools was the scene of a little occurrance yesterday, which though not of over interest to the public was specially interesting to the pupils and teachers of the school, especially to Mr. A. W. Jones, retiring head master. The occasion was the presentation of the following address:—

Mr. Jones:

DEAR TEACHER AND FRIEND,—As your pupils and associate workers, we learn with deep regret, that owing to poor health, you are compelled to sever your connection with us.

The constant anxiety attending your duties must have been especially very trying to you during the past few months.

We desire to express to you our appreciation of your kindness and forbearance in your relation to us, which under the circumstances must often have been very difficult.

Will you kindly accept this portfolio, and napkin ring from us, accompanied with our prayers to our Heavenly Father, that you may speedily be so restored in health, that you can again actively engage in your chosen life-work.

Yours, on behalf of pupils and teachers.

DAISY SPROULE.
ADDIE FERGUSON.
WISHART VAN EVERY.
LAURA MORRIS.

South Ward, Peterborough, March 10th, 1886.

The address was accompanied by a handsome well-stocked portfolio of green plush, morocco lined, and a napkin ring, bearing engraved thereon, the recipient's initials. Mr. Jones, who is giving up teaching, met with the following experience. Mr. G. B. Sproule one of the trustees for No. 1 Ward, who has always taken a deep interest in the school, audaciously stepped in and announced to Mr. Sones, who was busily engaged in the regular afternoon work, that several visitors would be in in a moment and suggested that he be prepared to receive them. Immediately after the announcement, in poured 150 pupils from the lower rooms accompanied by their teachers. Four pupils then stepped forward and proffered the gift, the address being read by Miss Daisy Sproule. Mr. Jones made a brief reply thanking all for the kindness toward him and expressing sorrow that he was compelled to resign his position. Mr. Sproule addressed the assembled pupils and teachers complimenting them on their high standing and expressed regret that Mr. Jones should be compelled to leave after serving so faithfully and successfully as headmaster of the school. The school was then dismissed.

Personal.

Mr. James Ferguson, Napanee, of the firm of Ferguson Bros., hardware merchants, is in town for a day or two visiting friends.

Mr. Joseph Reynolds, violinst has returned to town and will join Prof. Doucet's Opera House, Orchestra.

Capt. J. L. Reid, Councillor A. Winslow, and Mr. R. A. Mulholland, merchant, Port Hope, passed through town last night. They took the 11 o'clock train for Ottawa, where, it is understood, they go in the interest of making Port Hope the terminus of the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Blain Goodfellow, a former and well known resident of Peterborough, now of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Northwest Territory, is in town on a two or three weeks visit. He reports his brother, Andrew, who is a councillor, succeeding well in his Northwest home.

The Warlike Greeks.

"MADRE E HIGO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

I am employed by the House of Thurber, Whyland & Co., of New York, and reside at 18 Warren Place, Brooklyn. During the intense cold weather of the past winter, in crossing the bridge, the frost struck my face and an attack of eryaipelas was the result. I applied Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia, the relief was immediate and the cure rapid. Edward Deis. Sold by J. McKee. d56-w9

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes. d56-6t-w10

Important Notice - To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. G. W. ROSS.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

The Minister of Education.

George Wilson Ross, Minister of Education, is of Celtic origin and comes of good Reform stock in the way of political pedigree. He received the rudiments of his education in the county of Middlesex, where he was born, and put on the finishing touches at the Normal School, Toronto. He soon became one of the leading educationalists of the province, as well as a leading prohibitionist, and besides being appointed a school inspector was a vice-president of the Ontario temperance and prohibition league, and a P. G. W. P., of the Grand Division Sons of Temperance. He represented West Middlesex in the House of Commons from 1872 to 1882, when he was defeated by one Johnston, and afterwards accepted his present Cabinet position in the Provincial Administration, for which he is peculiarly well fitted. G. W. is a thorough-paced Reformer; an excellent debater, and one of the best speakers in the House. He has managed the affairs of his important department with consummated skill and prudence. Being in thorough sympathy with our educational development and possessing besides a thorough knowledge of details of the system and of our educational requirement, his administration has been the great success which might have been anticipated.

Talmage Sermon.

Hotels and Boarding-Houses Contrasted With Homes.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Feb. 28.—Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage, D.D., preached to-day, in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, the eighth of his series of sermons on "The Marriage Ring."

The text was Luke x, 34 and 35; "And brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And on the morrow when he departed he took out two pence and gave them to the host, and said unto him: "Take care of him, and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again I will repay thee." Following is the sermon in full:

This is the good Samaritan paying the hotel bill of a man who had been robbed and almost killed by bandits. The good Samaritan had found the unfortunate on a lonely, rocky road, where to this very day depredations are sometimes committed upon travelers, and had put the injured man into the saddle, while this merciful and well-to-do man had walked till they got to the hotel and the wounded man was put to bed and cared for. It must have been a very superior hotel in its accommodations, for, though in the country the landlord was paid at the rate of what in our country would be $4 or $5 a day, a penny being then a day's wages, and the two pennies paid in this case about two day's wages. Moreover, it was one of those kind-hearted landlords who are wrapped up in the happiness of their guests, because the good Samaritan leaves the poor wounded fellow to his entire care, promising that when he came that way again he would pay all the bills until the invalid got well.

Hotels and boarding houses are necessities. In very ancient times they were unknown, because the world had comparatively few inhabitants, who were not much given to travel, and private hospitality met all the wants of sojourners; as when Abraham rushed out at Mamre to invite the three men to sit down to a dinner of veal; as when Lydia urged the Apostles to stop at her home; as when the people were positively commanded to be given to hospitality; as in many of the places of the East these ancient customs are practiced to-day. But we have now hotels presided over by good landlords, and boarding houses presided over by cumbrous host or hostess, in all neighborhoods, villages and cities, and it is our congratulation that these of our land surpass all other lands. They rightly become the permanent residences of many people, such as those who are without families, such as those whose business keeps them migratory, such as those who ought not, for various reasons of health or peculiarity of circumstances, take upon themselves the cares of housekeeping.

Many a man falling sick in one of these boarding houses or hotels has been kindly watched and nursed, and by the memory of her own sufferings and losses the lady at the head of such a house has done all that a mother could do for a sick child, and the slumberless eye of God sees and appreciates her sacrifices in behalf of the stranger. Among the most marvelous cases of patience and Christian fidelity are many of those who keep boarding houses, enduring, without resentment, the unreasonable demands of their guests for expensive food and attentions for which they are not willing to pay an equivalent—a lot of cranky men and women who are not worthy to tie the shoe of their queenly caterer. The outrageous way in which boarders sometimes act to their landlords and landladies show that these critical guests had bad early rearing, and that in the making up of their natures all that constitutes the gentleman and lady were left out. Some of the most princely men and some of the most elegant women that I know of to-day keep hotels and boarding houses.

But one of the great evils of this day is found in the fact that a large population of our towns and cities are giving up, and have given up, their homes and taken apartments, that they may have more freedom from domestic duties and more time for social life, and because they like the whirl of publicity better than the quiet and privacy of a residence they can call their own. The lawful use of these hotels and boarding houses is for most people while they are in transitu, but as a terminus they are in some cases demoralization utter and complete. That is the point at which families innumerable have begun to disintegrate. There never has been a time when so many families, wealthy and abundantly able to support and direct homes of their own, have struck tent and taken permanent abode in these public establishments. It is an evil wide as Christendom, and by voice and through the newspaper press I utter warning and burning protest, and ask Almighty God to bless the work, whether in the hearing or reading.

In these public caravanseries the demon of gossip is apt to get full sway. All the boarders run daily the gantlet of general inspection—how they look when they come down in the morning and when they get in at night, and what they do for a living, and who they receive as guests in their rooms, and what they wear and what they do not wear, and how they eat and what they eat, and how much they eat and how little they eat. If a man proposes in such a place to be isolated and reticent and alone, they will begin to guess about him: Who is he? Where did he come from? How long is he going to stay? Has he paid his board? How much does he pay? Perhaps he has committed some crime and does not want to be known; there must be something wrong about him or he would speak. The whole house goes into the detective business. They must find out about him. They must find out about him right away. If he leave his door unlocked by accident he will find that his rooms have been inspected, his trunk explored, his letters folded differently from the way they were folded when he put them away. Who is he? is the question asked with intense interest, until the subject has become a monomania. The simple fact is that he is nobody in particular, but minds his own business. The best landlord and landladies cannot sometimes hinder their places from becoming a pandemonium of whispers, and reputations are torn to tatters, and evil suspicions are aroused, and scandals are started, and the parliament of the family is blown to atoms by some Guy Fawkes who was not caught in time, as was his English predecessor of gunpowder reputation.

The reason is that, while in private homes families have so much to keep them busy, in these promiscuous and multitudinous residences there are so many who have nothing to do, and that always makes mischief. They gather in each other's rooms and spend hours in consultation about others. If they had to walk a half mile before they got to the willing ear of some listener to detraction they would get out of breath before reaching there, and not feel in full glow of animosity or slander, or might, because of the distance, not go at all. But Rooms 20, 21, 22, 23 24 and 25 are on the same corridor, and when one carrion crow goes "Caw! Caw!" all the other crows hear it and flock together over the same carcase. "Oh, I have heard something rich. Sit down and let me tell you all about it." And the first guffaw increases the gathering and it has to be told all over again, and as they separate each carries a spark from the altar of Gab to some other circle, until from the coal-heaver in the cellar to the maid in the taproom of the garret all are aware of the defamation; and that evening all who leave the house will bear it to other houses, until autumnal fires sweeping across Illinois prairies are less raging and swift than that flame of consuming reputation blazing across the village or city. Those of us who were brought up in the country know that the old-fashioned hatching of eggs in the hay-mow required four or five weeks of brooding, but there are new modes of hatching by machinery which take less time and do the work in wholesale. So while the private home may brood into life an occasional falsity and take a long time to do it, many of the boarding houses and family hotels afford a swifter and more multitudinous style of moral incubation, and one old gossip will get off the nest after one hour's brooding, clucking a flock of thirty lies after her, each one picking up its little worm of juicy regalement. It is no advantage to hear too much about your neighbors, for your time will be so much occupied in taking care of their faults that you will have no time to look after your own; and while you are pulling the chickweed out of their garden yours will get all overgrown with horse-sorrel and mullein-stocks.

One of the worst damages that comes from the herding of so many people into boarding houses and family hotels is inflicted upon children. It is only another way of bringing them up on the commons. While you have your own private home you can for the most part control their companionship and their whereabouts, but by 12 years of age in these public resorts they will have picked up all the bad things that can be furnished by the prudent minds of dozens of people. They will overhear blasphemies and see quarrels and get precocious in sin, and what the bartender does not tell them the porter or hostler or bell boy will. Besides that, the children will be cast into this world without the restraining, anchoring, steadying and all-controlling memory of a home. From that, none of us who have been blessed with such memory, have escaped. It grips a man for eighty years, if he lives so long. It pulls him back from the doors into which he otherwise would enter. It smites him with contrition in the very midst of his dissipation. As the fish, already surrounded by the long, wide net, swim out to sea, thinking they can go so far as they please, and with flying tops of silvery scale they defy the sportsmen on the beach, and after awhile the fishermen begin to draw in the net, and then they dart this way and that, hoping to get out, but find themselves approaching the shore and brought up to the very feet of the captors, so the memory of an early home sometimes seems to relax, and let men farther and farther from God and farther and farther from the shore—five years, ten years, twenty years, thirty years; but some day they find an irresistible mesh drawing them back, and they are compelled to retreat from their prodigality and squandering, and though they make desperate efforts to escape the impression, and try to dive deeper down in sin, after awhile are brought clear back and held upon the Rock of Ages.

(Concluded To-Morrow.)

The T. V. C. Delegation.

The Policy of Delay in Full Force—The Indifference of the Government—An Indignation Meeting of Delegates—The Apathy of the Member for the West Riding.

The following delegates who visited Ottawa in connection with the T. V. C. deputation, returned this morning in disgust: Messrs. C. McGill, W. A. Stratton, John McNaughton, A. Rutherford, John McClelland, W. H. Moore, E. Phelan, W. Loch, Thos. Mackie, Thos. Rutherford, W. VanEvery, T. Elmhirst, W. Yelland, H. C. Rogers and Jas. Henry.

They thought their business was as important to them as to that of the members of the Government was to them. Being discourteously snubbed in being denied an audience on the day appointed, they did not feel certain that the time set (to-day) would bring about an opportunity of meeting the Government. Their visit in the interests of the canal was by no means encouraging and some of them say that when they again visit Ottawa on a similar mission, it will be when there is a change of Government or when the present Government makes a change of policy in dealing with the Trent Valley Canal which is, judging by their past record of neglect and indifference, not to be any more expected than that the leopard will change his spots at will.

MEETING OF DELEGATES.

Yesterday morning about one hundred and fifty of the delegates met in the Railway Committee room and expressed indignation that Minister Pope had not set a proper hour to meet them. Several of the delegates had been selected to address the Government, and it was impossible to hear them at six o'clock on a night when there will be an evening session. Last year Pope and Sir John staved off a similar delegation by appointing the meeting at 2 o'clock and as soon as proceedings had got started, Sir John left on the plea that his presence was needed in the House of Commons.

At this meeting, after some discussion, it was moved by Mr. J. H. Peck, Trenton, seconded by Mr. M. Boyd, Bobcaygeon, and resolved, that in the opinion of this meeting, assembled to further the interests of the Trent Valley Canal, the said object can be best forwarded by forming an association, to be called the

TRENT VALLEY CANAL ASSOCIATION.

It was also resolved that a Board of Directors be appointed to do, from time to time, what may seem necessary to further the interests of the T. V. C., and that the said Board consist of, not more than, nine directors, the following to be the directors:—

Messrs. W. H Cross, Barrie; G. W. Ostrom, Mayor of Trenton; M. Clarke, warden of Northumberland; D. Cavanagh, warden of Hastings; M. M. Boyd, Bobcaygeon; R. C. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield; and D. R. Murphy, Trenton; Nelson Heslip, warden of Victoria, and J. Stephenson, Mayor of Peterborough.

The officers were appointed at a meeting of the directors as follows:—

PRESIDENT—R. C. Strickland.

VICE-PRESIDENT—M. Cross, Barrie.

SEC'Y-TREASURER—E. A. Peck.

Mr. W. H. Cross was appointed to present the memorial to-day—or "to-morrow"—and the following gentlemen to support its representations and prayer by addresses:—Rev. Wm. Logan, G. W. Ostrom, M. M. Boyd, Col. Deacon, Jas. Stevenson, G. Bedford, Col. Rogers, W. Brandon and D. R. Murphy.

As far as the experience of the returned members of the delegation is concerned, the outlook for immediate work of construction of the canal being begun,

IS EXCEEDINGLY HAZY.

The shabby treatment accorded the delegation is attributed to two or three causes, first, the utter indifference of the Government to the project; the utter incompetence of Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals, and the apathy and sloth of the member of the West Riding, whose exertions might have secured more attention and more courteous treatment to the deputation. If the delegation went to Ottawa, inspired by the idea that they had, in the member for West Peterborough, a friend at court, they were sadly, summarily and decidedly undeceived.

Why They so Firmly Support the Present Government.

Next to the lawyers supporting the Government the newspaper publishers seem to be most closely looked after and cared for. The total sum paid by the Dominion Government for advertising last year was $51,822. This is, of course, in addition to the $120,000 or so paid out for immigration pamphlet and other printing. Of the $51,822 paid out for advertising, $11,859 was charged to postal service, $11,241 to public works,, $10,059 to immigration, $4,444 to railways and canals, $3,443 to Indians, $2,089 to Dominion lands, $2,194 to militia, $1,207 to marine and fisheries, $1,291 to mounted police, $983 to civil government, $582 to inland revenue, $491 to legislation, $477 to civil service examinations, $496 to penitentiaries, $443 to charges of management and $524 to miscellaneous services. The following statement shows the amounts received by the principal Conservative newspapers from the Federal Government in 1885:—

B., Press, $169; Yarmouth Times, $365; Dominion Annual Register, $440; Dawson's Hand Book, $250; advertising in English papers, $7,407, do. details not received, $271.

In addition to the before-mentioned papers a large number received sums under $100 each.

Mr. G. P. Burland, of Montreal, was paid $6,139 dollars for printing, Mr. G. H. Bradford $718 and Mr. C. J. Pittman $1,045. It has been found that some Government newspapers are in the habit of rendering accounts to the Government for printing, in the names of employees or friends of the establishment. The Ottawa Citizen drew last [year $1,398 through an employee, Mr. C. E. Clarke, who has since been appointed to a position on the House of Commons staff. The general reader may know Messrs. Bradford and Pittman. The Prescott Messenger printed 80,000 German immigration pamphlets, charging for the first lot of [30,000, 87 cents per thousand cms for composition, the price charged by the regular contracts for pamphlet composition being only 10 cents per thousand cms. Le Canada, at Ottawa, is the property of Mr. Tasse, Tory M. P. for that city. Last year that paper received $600 for printing and $565 for advertising.

The Mail endeavors to break the force of the above indictment of corrupt extravagance, by asserting that the Ontario Government last year paid $6,000 to newspapers for printing and advertising; forgetting, however, to state that if its figures of legitimate expenditure by the Local Government are correct the amount paid to all the papers of Ontario in one year falls over $500 short of the amount paid to the Mail, a single newspaper, in a single year.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH. 10th.

Mr. Monk moved the second reading of a bill to apply the Land Titles Act to the county of Carleton, but withdrew the bill on the Attorney-General's declaration that it was not intended to extend the operation of the law this year.

Mr. Wood introduced a bill to prevent minors from frequenting pool and billiard rooms.

Mr. Hardy thought the limit should be 16 or 18 years of age instead of 21, and that the flogging clauses should be struck out.

Mr. Meredith took a similar ground.

The general opinion seemed to be that while the principle was good the bill went too far. It was read a second time and sent to a committee.

The Special Committee, of which Hon. C. F. Fraser is Chairman, after some discussion decided to recommend that the time for polling in cities and towns be extended one hour.

In the Private Bills Committee, the time of the members was fully occupied with the City of Toronto Bill, two very important clauses of which passed, viz., the Don navigation scheme, to cost $300,000, and the proposed trunk sewer, to cost $1,500,000.

Important Notice—To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

CHAPTER VIII.

A TRUE LOVER.

After a momentary sensation of faintness, that follows close on Esther's disappearance, Penruddock rallies, and tells himself that her presence in this particular house is but one of the coincidences that will occasionally occur in all our lives, and that her wild allusion to objectionable dates has only arisen from the morbid qualities that go so far to make up her character.

By the time his son has arrived, and is ushered into his private sitting-room, he is himself again, composed, calm, and cold, and freer from foolish sentiment than he was an hour ago, reaction having set in.

He opens his subject, which has to do entirely with Dick's misplaced affection for Miss Neville, "so called," without any appearance of excitement or undue warmth, merely expressing in every possible way his disapprobation of the young lady to whom his son is so devoted.

When he has finished, Dick for several moments remains quite silent.

When rejected by Maud on the night of the dance, he had given way to despair, but so many little things have occurred since then to encourage new hopes, that he has, on reflection, declined to be altogether disheartened.

Her love is not as yet given to another, and therefore she may be his some time in the happy undefined future.

"I regret that I must go against you in this matter," he says at length, quietly but decidedly.

He is standing on the hearth-rug, his arms folded, and looking frowningly upon the carpet.

His father, standing opposite to him, with clouded brow, is regarding him anxiously.

"You speak like a child who is asked to relinquish a favored and dangerous toy," he says, contemptuously. "You, with your fortune and position, to marry a girl penniless, nameless—nay, if report speaks correctly, even worse than—"

"That will do," says the young man, with a sudden gesture suggestive of passion. "Say nothing more, if you please. It is of no consequence whatever to me that she is poor and nameless, as were she possessed of all the wealth in Christendom, and owner of the highest title in the land, I could not possibly love her more than I do now."

"Sentiment in the young is admirable," says Penruddock, in a sneering tone. "It betrays amiability and good feeling. But even virtues may be carried to excess. Do you—pardon me—but do you mean to marry this young woman?"

It would be difficult to say why, but who ever knew a man that wasn't annoyed when any one called the girl he loved a "young woman"?

"What else should I mean," he asks, with wretchedly-concealed ire, "if she will have me?"

"Oh! you need not entertain any anxiety on that point. They always have one," says Penruddock, contemptuously. "It is generally a complete 'take in' from start to finish." Then, changing his tone from one of unpleasant banter to that of authority, "Now look here," he says; "let us have no more of this. You can't marry her."

Perhaps as he speaks he forgets how the son inherits his own blood and temper to some degree.

"I shall be quite charmed if nothing more is said about it," said Dick, brushing carelessly some spots of dust from his coat; "but I shall certainly marry Miss Neville if I can induce her to accept me."

There is something in the quiet determination of his tone that impresses George Penruddock.

Going over to his son, he lays his hand upon his shoulder, and says more gently—nay, even with an entreaty—"Think well of what you are going to do. This marriage will mean to you ruin, misery, unavailing regret."

"It means my one chance of happiness," says Dick, with a deep sigh, throwing up his head, and looking eagerly forward, as though in the distance he could see some sight that to him was full of sweetness and light.

"Can nothing move you?" asks Penruddock, unsteadily. "Not all the years gone by, in which I have lived, and thought, and speculated for you alone? Is this, after all that I have done, to be my sole return?"

"Dear father," says Dick, turning to him with quick and eager affection, "why try to make me miserable? I remember all—every kind word and kinder action; and I would implore you in this, the most important act of my life, to give me your sympathy. When you know Maud you will better understand me, because you, too, will love her. To-morrow I shall ask her again to be my wife, and if she consents, which" (and here he looked and spoke very mournfully) "I strongly doubt, you will gain a daughter as loving as your son."

"Nay," says Penruddock, angrily, turning aside; "I want no daughter plucked from the mire. Go, sir!" pointing to the door. "I shall not again see to you for either your love or obedience. Yet stay, and hear my last words, as you intend to go to-morrow to ask that girl again to marry you. I warn you I shall be there too, to explain to her the terrible injustice she will do you should she consent to your proposal."

"And I warn you," says Dick, calmly, but in a very curious tone, "that it will be extremely unwise of you, or any one, to say anything likely to wound or offend Miss Neville, even in the very slightest degree."

As the door closes upon his son, George Penruddock sinks heavily into the nearest chair, covers his face with his hands, and is overcome with emotion.

"And for this I have suffered, and endured, and sinned!" he says, with a convulsive shudder. "Oh, that it were possible to undo my wretched past! But that can never be, alas!—that can never be."

* * * * *

When Dick leaves his father's presence, it is but to hasten to his rooms, and send a hasty but earnest note to Miss Neville, telling her of his intention to call next day, and again entreat her to look favorably upon his suit.

Then he puts in a few lines about his father, very decisively written, saying that he also intends putting in an appearance at South Audley Street on the morrow; and while assuring her of his own lasting affection for her, implores her—as she feels even a poor sentiment of friendship for him—to pay no heed to any disparaging remarks that ignorance of her sweet excellence may induce any one to make.

After this follow a few more little sentences, put in rather incoherently, but, in all probability, the dearer because of their want of precision to the reader of them, and then he is here "most faithfully, and with the entire love of his heart, Dick Penruddock."

It is a thorough love-letter; one that might have been written a century ago, when love was a thing more sacred and more full of courtesy than it is to-day.

Maud, sitting in her own room, weeps bitter tears over it, and kisses it foolishly but very fondly, and tells herself again and again that fate has dealt unjustly with her in that it compels her to return the writer of this gentle billet doux, with pulling him entirely out of her life, [illegible] has gone to be gained and loved by some more fortunate woman.

And that she must so leave him is, perhaps, the deepest sting of all.

Esther, the nurse, coming in, finds her gross upon a sofa, crying quietly yet very bitterly, and, full of sympathy, and a little frightened, comes over to her, and smooths back tenderly the soft hair from her forehead.

To this fond and faithful woman, the girl will always be her child, her nursling.

"What is it, my lamb?" she says, bending down to her with deep concern. "What distresses you? All day long you have been fretting, and now, even as evening falls upon us, I find you weeping again! Why is this, my precious? What has happened?"

"It is nothing," says Maud, evasively. "A foolish fancy; and, besides, my head aches."

"Or your heart, perchance. Yet why? He has come back to you, that young Penruddock, safe and sound. Your conscience, therefore, must be free of offence. Saumarez has been true to his word, and has spared him: yet, in spite of all this, you are openly unhappy. The boy is alive. It is I should weep for that, not you?"

"Esther," says the girl, suddenly, sitting up, and confronting her with flushed cheeks and angry eyes, "you must not speak thus—you shall not; and if you persist in hating him, I shall learn to hate you!"

"Ay, that will be my reward, no doubt!" mutters Esther, bitterly.

Her tone smites her listener to the heart.

"I was wrong," she says, with contrition. "How could I speak to you like that?" She slips a warm, soft arm round the woman's neck as she speaks, and Esther, turning, kisses her little hand with passionate love. "How could I hate one who has taken care of me all my life, and even saved me from death once, as you have told me? But of what kind you have not said. Death from starvation, was it?"

"No; from sudden death."

"Why have you never told me about that?"

"What?"

"You know what I mean—that rescue?"

"I shall some day."

"Why not now?"

"I shall wait till they are more sensible."

"I do not understand you."

"I mean till you have learned to forget Penruddock, and to love another."

"Then I think I shall never hear that story," says the girl, very simply.

"Tut! Does love, think you, last forever? Time will teach you more than that."

"It would take a very long time indeed to teach me to forget Dick."

"So you think now; but when a year has gone by, and he has forgotten you, and found a fresh idol, then you will believe in my words, and then you shall hear the story of your deliverance from death."

"I don't want to hear it," says Maud, willfully, drawing back from Esther.

She was silent for a few moments, and then asked, in an anxious tone, "Are men really so fickle as you say, nurse?"

"Fickle and worse. Cold and cruel."

"But not Dick, I am very sure," says Maud, with tears in her eyes and voice.

"He is his father's son, and will no doubt follow in his father's foot-steps, notwithstanding that his mother was, really and truly, a saint upon earth."

"Was she?" eagerly. "Then I think he must be like his mother."

After which she falls to weeping again bitterly, with the little crumpled note, so precious to her, hidden in her small, feverish hand.

Her tears seem to drop like molten lead upon the woman's heart.

She gets up impatiently, and paces the room in a restless fashion, stopping at last close to the chair where her darling sits lamenting.

"Do not cry," she says, tapping the back of the chair with nervous fingers. "Why will you spoil your eyes and wear away your heart-strings? What is it that ails you now? Tell your old Esther."

"It is a hopeless wish," says the girl, mournfully; "but I want to be as other girls are—I want to have a father and a mother of whom I need not be ashamed. I want to be born in the same society as—as Dick's, and to be his equal. I don't want money; I only want to be raised above the finger of scorn. Oh, Esther, come near to me! I must tell it all to you. I never knew until to-day, when he seemed given back to me from the grave, how fondly, how truly I love him!"

"Alas—alas! that things should have gone so far!" mutters Esther, regretfully.

"When I saw him again, and felt his hands in mine, a great well of joy sprung up within my heart. It was as though he belonged to me, was mine forever—as if nothing could ever part us again; yet it is all in vain."

"All is vanity," repeats the woman, dreamily.

Her thoughts seem far away, lost in dreams that belong to a curious past.

"To-morrow," goes on Maud, sadly, smoothing out the crushed note with tender fingers, "he is coming to ask me to be his wife, and for the last time I shall say no. After that we shall be strangers forever, and how shall I bear it? Oh, how bear it and live?"

"Then marry him, if your heart is so set upon it," says Esther sullenly.

"Do you think I would do him such injustice? And, besides, I would not marry him against his father's will. I have still"—scornfully—"some pride left."

"How can you possibly know that Penruddock would seriously object?"

"By this letter, though the thought is well disguised, and by many other things."

"So, still proud!" says the woman, scornfully. "Yet the day is fast approaching when he will be compelled to lower his tone."

"What do you say, Esther?" hastily cried Maud, wondering at those words.

"Nothing. Never mind me. Yet it kills me to see you unhappy, when I could help you."

"Help me! Oh, nurse, if you only could!" says the girl, in deep agitation, kneeling down before Esther, and leaning her arms on her knees while gazing with intense earnestness into the dark visage above her. "Some times your manner is so strange it makes me believe you are suppressing something. Dear nurse—dearest Esther, help me in this matter if you can! Mr. Penruddock is coming here to-morrow with Dick. Help me to meet them. Oh, do, pray do! You could not endure to see me miserable, I know; help me, then, dear Esther, if only for the sake of your own peace, help me!"

There is a whole world of entreaty in the large blue eyes, that raze upward through a veil of tears.

Esther, after a moment's hesitation and fearful struggle with herself, makes a gesture as though resigning something that for years had been sweet to her, and, stooping, presses her lips fondly to Maud's white brow. Is she not her own child—dearer to her than anything the world can offer? Shall she not, for her darling, relinquish her pet scheme?

"Perhaps the time is come," she says, slowly. "Tell me, child, is Gilbert Saumarez in town?"

"I don't know; but you could find out. Why do you want that dreadful man, nurse?"—with a blush and a shudder, as she remembers that last meeting with him, in which Esther had borne a part.

"Now lie down again, and try to sleep, or you will be in a high state of fever to-morrow, and unfit to encounter any one," says Esther, with authority, not answering her question. "And"—meaningly—"there is much before you—more than you form any idea of!"

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 500 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $40 to $100 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $40 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and would them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers. nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those who wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the season, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

Mr. Stirling has the best of qualifications and recommendations, and it is to be hoped he will, in every respect justify this selection for the important position he is to hold.

Week Day Gospel Army Meetings Discontinued.

The officers of the Gospel Army have decided to discontinue their services during Mr. Schiverea's stay in town and to assist in the churches in their evangelical work, with the exception of the Sunday services, which will be continued as usual. Staff-Captain Muir.

Music for the Million.

Smart's music store has opened out the largest consignment of sheet music ever received in the town. It comprises over four hundred pieces, consisting of both popular and classical selections—instrumental and vocal—solos, duets, trios, choruses, etc., adapted to any style of voice. All fresh, new and taking, at popular prices. Smart's music store, George street.

Mass Meeting of Young Men.

Ferdinand Schiveres, the Brooklyn evangelist will conduct a mass meeting for young men in the Opera House on Saturday evening, commencing at 7.30. Mr. Schiveres desires that all young men who are in the habit of frequenting the Opera House should be present. Having received a training for the stage and having had some experience on it, he is confident he can interest them. Every young man will be welcome. A male choir will conduct the singing. No collection.

Vote early; vote often in the Gold Stand, ed. Cane contest between Blake and the Sheehan at the BAND CARNIVAL TO-NIGHT. Don't let the want of the few votes you might cast be the cause of the defeat of your Political Champion.

Rumoured Judicial Change.

It is stated on good authority that, owing to the continued illness of Judge Dennistoun, who is very slowly recovering from his recent attack of paralysis, and to the fact that there is considerable legal business at a stand-still in consequence, the Government is considering the advisability of superannuating His Honor, and appointing a new judge. In connection with the latter, it is said, that the local law society have unanimously recommended the appointment of C. A. Weller, Esq., should the vacancy occur as indicated above.

Mills.

The Mills Company arrived in town this morning and will appear at the Opera House to-night in Tom Taylor's tragedy, "The Fool's Revenge." The piece is one in which Mr. Mills has made one of his greatest successes and the large company is admirably selected to support the great star. The papers of the Lower Provinces and Upper Canada, at the time of his tour a few weeks ago, spoke of Mr. Mills's Bertuccio as one of the greatest tragic characterizations on the stage. A rare opportunity is offered Peterborough play-goers to witness a magnificent tragedy interpreted by a strong company. The piece is splendidly mounted and costumed and the very reasonable prices of admission should insure a packed house. There are but two nights the stage at present playing "The Fool's Revenge"—Mr. Booth and Mr. Mills. The press of the United States draws lines of comparison between these impersonations, being divided in opinion as to which is the greater.

Royal Entertainment.

We understand a number of the young ladies of St Luke's church, Ashburnham, are practising in preparation for exhibiting their skill as a "Brown Brigade." The date of the entertainment will be announced ere long. Look out for particulars.

The Concluding Carnival.

The usual advertising street waggon paraded the streets to-day announcing the carnival of to-night. The rink has been tastefully decorated as on former occasions, the ice shaved and everything made in readiness. The carnival should receive the liberal patronage of the public. Besides the attraction of masquerading there will be the usual prizes for dress and races, special prize for a matched race between Shevlin and Kirby for a medal; the cane contest will also be an attraction to electors—universal suffrage.

The Evangelistic Meetings.

Ferdinand Schiveres, the Brooklyn evangelist, now laboring in town, conducted a meeting in the George street church last night. As at the previous meetings the seating capacity of the building was tested to the utmost, while many had to stand and some were obliged to go away. Mr. Schiveres's address was to Christians, showing the necessity of united effort and good example and encouraging them in their labors. To-night he will hold services in St. Paul's church, and on Saturday will hold a young men's mass meeting in the Opera House. On Sunday he will occupy the pulpits of St. Paul's church in the morning, and George street church in the evening. He will also hold a meeting in the George street church in the afternoon. He will remain in town until Saturday, the 27th of this month. Morning prayer meeting are held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, and a a Bible reading meeting in the Baptist church every afternoon, commencing at 3.30.

Teachers' Institute.

A Joint Convention of County and Town Teachers.

During the afternoon session yesterday, Mr. McIlmoyle gave an address on teaching advanced classes in geography.

The committee reported advising that the association pay half the subscription to educational papers to members of the association, and also approved of the "post-graduate" course of reading for teachers, and advised that the summer holidays be not shortened.

MORNING SESSION.

After routine this morning, Mr. G. B. Sproule gave a short and excellent address on the "Moral Education of Children."

Mr. Long gave an exhaustive paper on pointing in the various ages of the world.

Mr. Tilley contributed a valuable paper on composition.

Mr. Barton Earle illustrated his method of teaching literature, with a class, from Coleridge's ode to Wordsworth.

Mr. Sawyer, of the Business College, demonstrated his method of teaching penmanship by blackboard illustrations.

The teachers adjourned at 12 o'clock.

Questions for Meditation.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Without intention of calling forth a polemical discussion I would submit, in view of the points raised by "A Friend's" letter in yesterday's issue, the following thoughts for meditation. And first:—If "God is love," where is he not love?

Second:—If God is the same and changes not when does he cast aside his essential characteristic, love?

Third:—If from everlasting to everlasting, He is God, and if God is love, when, and where does He cease to be love, and to love?

Many questions of a kindred nature might be proposed, but these will serve my purpose now.

I do not heartily endorse wild expressions in reference to the Almighty, still, if they are used, I am not sure of the wisdom of condemnation, even, when so mildly expressed, as in your edition of yesterday, unless they are in direct opposition to the character of God.

I am, yours, etc.,
Lex.

Peterborough, March 12, 1886.

Education and the State.

Address Delivered Last Night Before the Peterborough Teachers' Institute by Mr. C. J. Tilley, Inspector of Model Schools.

There was a fair attendance of teachers and the friends of education in the old Music Hall yesterday evening, to hear the able and instructive lecture of Mr. J. J. Tilley, Director of Teachers' Institutes and Inspector of Model Schools, on the subject of "The Relation of Education to the State."

On motion of Mr. Jas. Stratton, Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle, in the absence of Mayor Stevenson, took the chair.

Mr. B. Earle was called on to give a reading from Tennyson, which he was unable to do, his voice having failed.

The chairman then introduced Mr. Tilley, who took the platform amid applause. In commencing he said he was glad to meet so many, and explained that his remarks would not be for teachers only but for the public generally. In his remarks he proposed to show

"THE RELATION OF EDUCATION TO THE STATE."

He called attention to the custom of a business man in taking stock, to find out where he stands. By this transaction he endeavors to find the channels through which his profits come, to guard and foster them that they may be increased; also to find the channels of loss, to close them up. In the face of the wisdom of such proceedings he thought it wise to consider the national standing in the same way; to find the channels through which prosperity flowed and to strengthen and guard them. We are a happy, law-abiding and progressive people, and through what sources has this national greatness come? It was not only fertility of the soil, because if so, India would rank among the foremost nations, when she is only the servant of another. Wealth of members did not give national greatness or China would have a pre-eminence, when she is now only a tenth rate power. We owe much to soil and climate and to the characteristic Anglo-Saxon energy; the close connection with the mother country. He hoped this connection would long continue, despite the talk of annexation and separation. But we are largely indebted to

MORAL AND INTELLECTUAL FREEDOM.

All the manufactures and commercial industries were the fruits of this freedom. The real progress may be measured by the churches and schools. They were the milestones marking the progress of the country. The progress in this direction in Ontario was particularly noticeable where the support of churches and schools was by voluntary contributions.

The people were not only content with doing for themselves, but were willing to go [illegible] to enlighten the settlers in the now distant parts of the Dominion. Ministers went forth to the newly settled countries, subjecting themselves to the greatest hardships, not for honor but to give religious instruction to others. In intellectual instruction there was an equally liberal spirit. Every school was thrown open [illegible] to child or adult, the only necessary qualification being good behaviour. Any country that did this was sure to progress.

Responsibility with [illegible] necessity. It was a great blessing when we were given a responsible government. Advancement was certain when people read and spoke for themselves. The education of the masses was necessary, and it was almost compulsory that persons should be intelligent. It was the duty of the government to protect its subject's life and liberty, and to give moral as well as intellectual liberty. the law does not dictate what a man shall eat or wear, but as every individual has more or less influence for good or evil society demands that

NO PERSON SHALL GROW UP IN IGNORANCE.

The government besides furnishing a system must carry it out. It must provide the teachers, who are the executive power. It is possible to have a good minister of education, and good inspectors, but without good teachers the system would be incomplete. The teacher makes or mars the matter. Parents knowing this shift all the responsibility upon the teachers. There was also a responsibility upon the people. He divided them into three heads. The selecting of a teacher, the retaining of a teacher and the sustaining of a teacher. The speaker found that ordinary business precautions were not observed in the selecting of teachers. He was aware there was a difficulty in ascertaining a teacher's worth, owing to the exaggerated recommendations given; family relations, political and society influences all being made to bear.

A WANT OF PROPER REMUNERATION

also assisted in retarding progress. A miserable system of putting up the schools at auction, by asking applicants to state salary required and choosing the one requiring the lowest. Experience went for nothing and efficient teachers gave up the profession, to be followed by a fresh crop. This cause above all was keeping back the schools. He wished the teachers were not obliged to answer such advertisements. If trustees would select teachers as churches do min[illegible]—the person they think best qualified—and pay as high a salary as their circumstances would allow, their would be a decided improvements. He always doubted the statement of a school trustee who explained to him that as the school was in a poor state a poor teacher was all they required, and asking to have such a person recommended. He felt confident that such trustees would be satisfied with a poor teacher for his neighbor's children but not for his own. The idea was as absurd as that of a person who having a case in court he considered poor getting a a poor lawyer to argue it. As the water in a fountain will not rise above the level of its source, so the pupil will not rise above the level of the teacher. A poor teacher was a bad bargain at the lowest salary.

RETAINING A TEACHER.

The present generation had a liability to be unstable and fickle. It is amply illustrated on all sides. He contrasted the steadiness of purpose of an Old Country boy to Canadians. The steadiness of the former he attributed to the staying qualities of their teachers and the unsteadiness of the latter to the itineracy of Canadian teachers. It was of the highest importance that teachers should be acquainted with the aptitude, influences and effort of such influence on his pupil, and to know the parents' intentions, to properly instruct them. Teachers and parents should stand side by side and co-operate in advancing the pupil. Upon the familiarity of the teacher and pupil depended the measure of the pupil's success or failure. This intimacy could not be formed in a day. Years was required. It was not merely to impart instructions from text books, but also to impart character when the mind is pliable and most ready to receive. The impressions would be carried to the next life.

SUSTAINING A TEACHER.

The parents of children could sustain teachers to a great extent by moral support. The expressed opinion of the parent toward the teacher was also the opinion of the child. The instinctive love for parents could be used to assist the teacher by speaking well of them, and not slightingly or disparagingly. To incite a child to petty insubordination towards a teacher may plant the seed of serious insubordination that will some day rise to defy the parent to his face. There were also some persons who thought their children required different treatment from any others. These were nuisances. Mistakes were often made by teachers, such as often even occur in the family, and a parent can understand the difficulty of regulating a dozen families instead of one and in charity should not criticise too severely.

TRAINING SCHOOLS.

In accordance with the statement he had made that it was the duty to supply the machinery to work the system, he showed how Dr. Ryerson had provided the Normal School system, for the purpose of teaching teachers how to teach. As only ten per cent. of the teachers could attend these schools and the demand for Normal School teachers increased, the late Hon. Adam Crooks was convinced that other training schools were necessary. He found that an addition of five Normal Schools would be necessary, and considering the cost, of sustaining these schools too great, devised the new model school system, the maintenance of which was a small amount in comparison, and which were doing the required works. The speaker considered they were doing a great work, and materially assisted in the advancement of the state.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

He regretted to know that some were opposed to high schools on the ground that they were for the rich. On a careful examination he found that 25 per cent. of the people paid 65 per cent. of all the taxation, and that the remaining 75 per cent. only paid 35 per. cent., which showed that the rich paid a much larger proportion towards their maintenance. Allowing that the high school was for the rich man and the common school for the poor man, the rich man paid the larger proportion towards the maintenance of poor's school. If there was any person who should not complain it was the poor man. The high schools were now doing literary and scientific work which was formerly done by the Normal schools, thus aiding in the preparation of teachers.

THE EXPENSES.

It was also claimed by some that schools were expensive. It could not be otherwise. It was not to be expected that the education of children should not cost more than the maintenance of streets and bridges or the administration of justice. We should consider that no former generations gave a free common school education to every one. He had faith to believe that the next generation would revere and bless the people of to-day for the privileges they will enjoy. The application of science, as in the telephone, electric light, and many other inventions was traceable to a liberal education. He held that all the religious and educational liberty enjoyed by the people of to-day had been dearly purchased by our ancestors. The rebellion of 40 years ago had the effect of bringing Lord Durham from England, who instituted the Confederation of the Province and we have since enjoyed a responsible government. The blood of thousands had sealed the religious liberty of to-day. He held that the free churches, the free press and a free education will be ever maintained. This liberty should be appreciated and the source of it remembered, and should receive our moral support. Without these blessings how low would be our state, and with them our privileges are almost sublime, and brighter hopes and prospects beam on us for the future.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer, to which he briefly responded.

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes. d56-6t-w10

MR. SMITH'S DENIAL.

We have received a letter from Mr. H. H. Smith, Winnipeg, in which he denies that he wrote the Riel resolution, the Reeve of Lakefield tried to smuggle through the County Council, or knew anything of it till he saw it in the papers. We did not say that Mr. Smith wrote the resolution, but that the handwriting resembled his. We accept the denial. We hope Mr. Smith will continue to discharge efficiently the duties of his office, eschewing politics, and thus set a wholesome example to the Reeve of Lakefield whose inordinate anxiety, to make political capital for himself and party, at the expense of municipal interests, amounts to little short of a monomania.

Hotels and Boarding-Houses Contrasted With Homes.

(Concluded from Yesterday.)

If it be possible, O father and mother, let your sons and daughters go out into the world under the semi-omnipotent memory of a good, pure home. About two or three rooms in a boarding house or family hotel you can cast no such glorious sanctity! Do not be guilty of the sacrilege or blasphemy of calling such a place a home. A home is four walls inclosing one family with identity of interest, and a privacy from outside inspection so complete that it is a world in itself, no one entering except by permission; bolted and barred and chained against all outside inquisitiveness. The phrase so often used in law books and legal circles is mightily suggestive—every man's house is his castle. As much so as though it had draw-bridge, portcullis, redoubt, bastion, and armed turret. Even the officer of the law may not enter to serve a writ unless the door be voluntarily opened unto him; burglary, or the invasion of it, is a crime so offensive that the law clashes its iron jaws on any one who attempts it. Unless it be necessary to stay for longer or shorter time in family hotel or boarding house—and there are thousands of instances in which it is necessary, as I showed you at the beginning—unless in this exceptional case, let neither wife nor husband consent to such permanent residence.

The probability is that the wife will have to divide her husband's time with public smoking or reading-room, or with some coquettish spider in search of unwary flies, and if you do not entirely lose your husband it will be because he is divinely protected from the disasters that have whelmed thousands of husbands with as good intentions as yours. Neither should the husband, without imperative reason, consent to such a life unless he is sure his wife can withstand the temptation of social dissipation which sweeps across such places with the force of the Atlantic Ocean when driven by a September equinox. Many wives give up their homes for these public residences so that they may give their entire time to operas, theatres, balls, receptions, and levees, and they are in a perpetual whirl like a whip-top spinning around and round very prettily until it loses its equipoise and shoots off in a tangent. But the difference is, in one case it is a top, and in the other a soul.

Besides this there is an assiduous accumulation of little things around the private home which in the aggregate make a great attraction, while the denizen of one of these public residences is apt to say: "What is the use? I have no place to keep them if I should take them." Mementoes, bric-a-brac, curiosities, quaint chair or cosy lounge, upholsteries, pictures, and a thousand things that accrete in a home are discarded or neglected because there is no homestead in which to arrange them. And yet they are the case in which the pearl of domestic happiness is set. You can never become so attached to the appointments of a boarding house or family hotel as to these things that you can call your own, and are associated with the different members of your household, or with scenes of thrilling import in your domestic history. Blessed is that home in which for a whole lifetime they have been gathering until every figure in the carpet and every panel of the door and every ornament of the window has a chirography of its own, speaking out something about father, or mother, or son, or daughter, or friend that was with us awhile. What a sacred place it becomes when one can say: "In that room such a one was born; in that bed such a one died; in that chair I sat on the night I heard such a one had received a great public honor; by that stool my child knelt for her last evening prayer; here I sat to greet my son as he came back from a sea voyage; that was father's cane; that was mother's rocking chair." What a joyful and pathetic outgrow of reminiscences!

The public residence or hotel and boarding house belittles the grace of hospitality. Your guest does not want to come to such a table. No one wants to run such a gauntlet of acute and merciless hypocriticism. Unless you have a home of your own you will not be able to exercise of this grace what blessing came to the Shunamite in the restoration of her son to life because she entertained Elisha, and to the widow of Zarepath in the perpetual oil well of the miraculous cruise because she fed a hungry prophet, and to Rahab in the preservation of her life at the demolition of Jericho because she entertained the spies, and to Laban in the formation of an interesting family relation because of his entertainment of Jacob, and to Lot in his escape from the destroyed city because of his entertainment of the angels, and to Mary and Martha and Zacchæus in spiritual blessing because they entertained Christ and to Publius in the island of Melita in the healing of his father because of the entertainment of St. Paul, drenched from the shipwreck, and of innumerable houses throughout Christendom upon which have come blessings from generation to generation because their doors swung easily open in the enlarging, ennobling, irradiating and divine grace of hospitality. I do not know what your experience has been, but I have had men and women visiting at my house who left a benediction on every room—in the blessing they asked at the table, in the prayer they offered at the family altar, in the good advice they gave the children, in the gospelization that looked out from every lineament of their countenances; and their departure was the sword of bereavement.

It is the delusion as to what is necessary for a home that hinders so many from establishing one. Thirty rooms are not necessary nor twenty, nor fifteen, nor ten, nor five, nor three. In the right way plant a table, and couch, and knife and fork, and a cup, and a chair, and you can raise a young paradise. Just start a home, on however small a scale, and it will grow. When King Cyrus was invited to dine with an humble friend, the king made the one condition of his coming that the only dish be one loaf of bread, and the most imperial satisfactions have sometimes banqueted on the plainest fare.

Do not be caught in the delusion of many thousands in postponing a home until they can have an expensive one. That idea is the devil's trap that catches men and women innumerable, who will never have any home at all. Capitalists of America build plain homes for the people. Let this tenement house system, in which hundreds of thousands of the people of our cities are wallowing in the mire, be broken up by small homes, where people can have their own fireside and their own altar. In this great continent there is room enough for every man and woman to have a home. Morals and civilization and religion demand it.

Let the capitalists, inspired of God and pure patriotism, rise and build whole streets of small residences. The laborer may have, at the close of the day, to walk or ride further than is desirable to reach it, but when he gets to his destination in the eventide he will find something worthy of being called by that glorious and impassioned and heaven descended word, "Home."

Young married man, as soon as you can, buy such a place, even if you have to put on it a mortgage reaching from here to capstone. The much-abused mortgage, which is ruin to a reckless man, to one prudent and provident is the beginning of a competency and a fortune, for the reason he will not be satisfied until he has paid it off, and all the household are put on stringent economy until then. Deny yourself all superfluities and all luxuries until you can say: "Every thing in this house is mine, thank God! every timber, every brick, every foot of plumbing, every door-sill." Do not have your children born in a boarding house, and do not yourself be buried from one. Have a place where your children can shout and sing and romp without being overhauled for the racket. Have a kitchen where you can do something toward the reformation of evil cookery and the lessening of this nation of dyspeptics. As Napoleon lost one of his great battles by attack of indigestion, so many men have such a daily wrestle with the food swallowed that they have no strength left for the battle of life; and, though your wife may know how to play on all musical instruments and rival a prima-donna, she is not well educated unless she can boil an Irish potatoe and broil a mutton chop, since the diet sometimes decides the fate of families and nations.

Have a sitting-room with at least one easy chair, even though you have to take turns at sitting in it, and books out of the public library or of your own purchase for the making of your family intelligent, and checker boards and guessing matches, with an occasional blind man's buff, which is of all games my favorite. Rouse up your home with all styles of innocent mirth, and gather up in your children's nature a reservoir of exuberance that will pour down refreshing streams when life gets parched and the dark days come and the lights go out and the laughter is smothered into a sob.

First, last and all the time, have Christ in your home. Whatever storm of adversity or bereavement or poverty may strike your home, all is well as long as you have Christ, the King, on board. Make your home so far-reaching in its influence that down to the last moment of your children's life you may hold them with a heavenly charm. At 76 years of age the Demosthenes of the American Senate residing at Washington—I mean Henry Clay, of Kentucky. His pastor sat at his bedside, and "the old man eloquent," after a long and exciting public life, transatlantic and cisatlantic, was back again in the scenes of his boyhood, and kept saying in his dream over and over again:—"My mother! mother! mother!" May the parental influence we exert be not only potential, but holy, and so the home on earth be the vestibule of our home in heaven, in which place may we all meet, father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, grandfather and grandmother and grandchild, and the entire group of precious ones, of whom we must say in the words of transporting Charles Wesley:

"One family we dwell in Him,
One church above, beneath;
Though now divided by the stream—
The narrow stream of death;
One army of the living God,
To his command we bow;
Part of the host have crossed the flood,
And part are crossing now."

I am employed by the House of Thurber, Whyland & Co., of New York, and reside at 18 Warren Place, Brooklyn. During the intense cold weather of the past winter, in crossing the bridge, the frost struck my face and an attack of erysipelas was the result. I applied Giles' Eminent Iodide Ammonia, the relief was immediate and the cure rapid. Edward Deisa. Sold by J. McKee. d56-w9

The Sons of Toil.

Items of Interest to Working Men.

Over 4,000 assemblies of the Knights of Labour have been organized within the past four months.

The number of Knights of Labor on the American Continent is estimated at 900,000, and rapidly increasing.

There are 28 assemblies of the Knights of Labor in Toronto.

A settlement has been arrived at in the Toronto street car drivers' lockout. The Company has consented to take back the 32 discharged men and the whole force went to work this (Saturday) morning.

Nearly 500 applications for charters of incorporation from local assemblies in Canada and the States was received during the past month by the Executive Board of the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor.

Several local trades unions in Toronto have joined the Knights of Labour within a short time past, and many more are considering the advisability of pursuing a like course.

The lockout of the members of the Lathers' Union of Toronto because of their refusal to work by the bundle has been brought to an end, the employers having receded from the position taken.

Some 300 girls employed in the ironing department of a collar shop in New York struck recently because the proprietors refused to discuss the use of objectionable machinery.

The Rockport Granite Company of Cape Ann, Mass., are reported to have in their employ about fifty Scandinavians and Siberians whom they pay only 50 cents per day. These people are huddled together in a stone house where they sleep in pine bunks and board themselves.

In view of the phenomenal increase of membership, and with the object of a more thorough training of those already organized in the principles and modes of procedure of the Order, in the substitution of arbitration for strikes in labour difficulties, a peremptory order has been issued by the Executive Board of the Knights of Labour to organizers to cease organizing new assemblies for a period of forty days.

Some 2,500 shoemakers are on strike at Beverly, Mass. There is only one shop in operation in the town.

Owing to a refusal to grant an increase of wages in five large factories in Milwaukee, Wis., about 400 men struck on a late occasion.

The striking glovemakers of Johnstown, N. Y., have organized two co-operative establishments—one with a capital of $30,000, divided into shares of $25 each, and the other with a capital of $10,000, divided into $10 shares.

The basis of settlement between the shoe manufacturers and their cutters of North Adams, Mass., is $15 per week, and the number of cases to be cut for that price is to be decided between each employer and his employees.

The Co-operative Pottery Company of East Liverpool, Ohio, is proving very successful, and orders are constantly increasing.

Over 900 moulders are on strike at Troy, N. Y., for an advance of 25 per cent. in current wages.

Several hundred girls lately joined the Knights of Labor at Cohoes, N. Y.

Another co-operative nail company is about to be started in Milwaukee, Wis.

The White Sewing Machine Company, employing over 2,000 men, at Cleveland, Ohio, has abolished the contract system in its shops to which labor organizations objected, and in future will hire mechanics direct.

The Commissioners of the Joliet, Illinois, State Prison lately advertised for tenders for the employment of convicts by contract. Last week the Commissioners met to open the bids, but none were received. It is said that the question of abolishing the contract system will be submitted to the people of that State at the next election.

No cars are running on the street car lines between Troy, Lansingburg, Cohoes and Waterford. The conductors and drivers, 300 in number, are all on strike, ordered by the Knights of Labor.

The horse railroad employees in Boston will soon make a demand for shorter hours and $2 per day.

There are rumors that the street car drivers and conductors in Cincinnati are preparing for a strike for shorter hours of work.

The spinners of the knitting mills at Cohoes, N. Y., were ordered out this morning by the Knights of Labor. It looks like a long lockout. About 5,000 operators are interested.

Master Workman Powderley, being shown a statement that the Knights of Illinois followed a political party under the auspices of the Order, declared it untrue, and said that if such a thing were attempted by any Assembly its charter would be recalled. The Order cannot be turned into a political party. While reform in politics is sought for it must not come at the expense of the Order.

The use of the boycott is only beginning to be understood. In Greensborough, Georgia, it has been utilized in a novel manner. A cigar dealer has a pretty daughter. A young fellow courted her, won her love, and asked the old man for her. The stern parent refused his consent, and forbade further communication between the lovers. The young fellow immediately organized a club of sympathizers, and they have boycotted the old man—refusing to purchase his "non-union" cigars. The old man is weakening, and it is likely that a new union of two members will soon be formed.

Not a pound of freight has passed over the great bridge into or out of St. Louis since the employes of the Bridge & Tunnel Company struck, except over the St. Louis & San Francisco line, and its trains can penetrate the city only as far as the Grand Avenue Depot. Many prominent business men express the opinion that the diverting of trade from this city on account of the strike will not only be temporary, but permanent. Grocers complain that they are unable to fill one-half their orders, and fear their customers will seek other markets, and when once turned away the majority will stay away. These same statements are made by nearly all wholesale dealers. All through trains are made up by the officials of different roads. The Knights offered to furnish men to do this work, but the offers were refused.

SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1886.

THAT REIL RESOLUTION AGAIN.

With a persistence, comparable to that with which a murderer haunts the scene of his crime, Mr. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield, returns to the discussion of the following resolution, which he attempted to foist upon the County Council and which the good sense of that body severely sat on:—

"That the Council desire to express its thankfulness that the rebellion in the Northwest which was threatening the peace and happiness of that portion of our Dominion, when the Council was last in session, was shortly after brought to a successful close by the bravery and energy of our citizen soldiers, and that the Council further wishes to express its approval of the Government in allowing the law to take its course in the case of Louis Reil, the murderer of poor Scott in 1869, and the leader and cause of the rebellion in 1885, whereby many valuable lives were lost and property destroyed."

His communication published in another column, if it does not merit, may at least receive a little attention. THE EXAMINER only stated that the handwriting of the resolution resembled that of Mr. H. H. Smith, and since that gentleman very properly repudiates both the authorship and writing of the resolution, we accept his statement. Mr. Strickland's statement that the resolution was copied by a clerk in the County Clerk's office, from Mr. Strickland's free hand pencil sketch, may be satisfactory to himself but he will not find it so easy to pull the wool over the eyes of the general public as he did over those of a member of the Lakefield Council, whom he succeeded by misleading representa- in inducing him to help adopt the political capital motion in question in the village council of Lakefield, and who has since publicly regretted the course he had been persuaded into pursuing.

Respecting the denial by the Reeve of Galway of the language, attributed to him by Mr. Strickland, the EXAMINER knew perfectly well that he did not use the language put into his mouth by the political capitalist. We do not make it a rule to make public statements without authority and when the proof of our statement, was so easily obtainable, Mr. Mansfield was communicated with and his written statement, secured in proof of the position we took.

On the same principle we may treat Mr. Strickland's taunt as to our opinion on the question of Riel's execution. We take the ground assumed by Hon. Mr. Blake. When all the evidence necessary to the formation of a correct judgment is produced by the Government, then we can give an intelligent opinion. But, as the Government which Mr. Strickland is so anxious to whitewash, shows a similar anxiety and refuses to produce, even on a Parliamentary order, such evidence, Mr. Strickland may have to wait some little time.

Regarding the accusation of Mr. Strickland that we endeavor to exercise political influence upon the County Council, it is hereby repudiated and flatly denied. We defy Mr. Strickland to instance a single case in which we have opposed any candidate for any position in the gift of any Council, because of his political faith. The County Council was kept fairly free from political machinations till the evil day—in that respect—when Mr. Strickland entered it. He has persistently attempted to prostitute its legitimate functions to political purposes, in season and out of season—in caucus, as well as in Council. Hardly a session has passed when he has not tried to make a political point against the Liberal Government of Ontario, to serve his own political ends and those of his political masters. This is not our own assertion merely; the pages of the minutes of the Council proceedings from year to year, bear testimony to the fact. Mr. Strickland may suavely deny, with his persuasive smile and apt assumption of "Heathen Chinee" innocence, that he introduces party matters into the County Council, but he need not think that his simple assurance can outweigh palpable proof to the contrary. His card to the electors of Lakefield, denying political objects was an insult to their intelligence; he habitually uses his influence in a political direction, and if he ever favored a political opponent it was with the hope that he might use him for his own political purposes.

As Mr. Strickland has apologised to Mr. Mansfield, let him also apologise to the member of the Lakefield Council, whom he induced to vote for his political resolution by misrepresentations as per that member's own statement and to the County Council and the people of the county for abusing and prostituting his position for party purposes.

If Mr. Strickland desires to amplify his reputation as a political intriguer in introducing political matters into municipal, he is taking the right course; the more he agitates the matter the more the proof accumulates.

The Closing Carnival.

Good Costumes and Exciting Races—Sir John Takes the Cake.

Owing to several causes the closing carnival of the Fire Brigade Band was not as successful as it should have been. The evangelistic services, the opera house, and the unfavorable weather, all tended to injure it. Notwithstanding the several drawbacks the carnival was of the most enjoyable character, the band carrying out every detail to a nicety. The rink was gaily decorated, the music furnished by the band was just as lively and the only drawback was that there were not more present to enjoy the treat. The races were the most interesting held in the rink, while the characters represented were not as numerous as the former carnivals, there were many new and original ones well worth seeing. The costumes of the ladies were all particularly charming, while the gentlemens' were made to match. A large number of masqueraders neglected to hand in their cards. The following is the list given:—

LADIES.

Miss Maud Reddy	Grace Darling
" Millie Thorndyke	Night
" May Heuback	Five O'clock Tea
" Maud Deacon	House Maid
" Ella M. Braden	Watteau Shepherdess
" Lillie Derry	Songs of Italy
" Jessie Breeze	Grandma
" Lottie Green	Tambourine Girl
" Hannah Hagerman	A Welsh Peasant
" Miss McKerras	Hospital Nurse
" Emma Derry	Moonlight
" Bessie Hopwood	Peasant Girl

GENTLEMEN.

Mr. Nelson Reddy	Chamber Maid
" Willie Allis	School Boy
" Geo. E Marshall	Prince Hal
" T. Savigny	Peterborough Trade
" G. Evans	Zulu Chief
" Fred. Boundy	Dutchman
" E. A. Reid	Marshall Ney
" W. C. Craig	Robinson Crusoe
" Jas. W. King	C.L.C.
" Geo. Davidson	Spanish Count
" Cokely Armstrong	Photographer
" W. E. Laidlaw	England's Light Hussars
" F. Larose	Mexican
" Frank McNaughton	Councillor McNaughton
" H. F. Kreutt	King Harry II
" Geo. Heuback	Mexican
" Walter Derry	Cow Boy
" Robert Hay	Clown
" H. Stenson	Ashburnham Swell
" G. Hay	Captain Jinks
" William Detcher	Northumberland
" H. Ventress	Hon Ed. Blake

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

The judges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, awarded the prizes as follows:—

BEST DRESSED LADY IN COSTUME.—Miss Lottie Green, "Tambourine Girl," a solid silver brooch.

BEST DRESSED GENTLEMAN IN COUSTUME.—E. A. Reid, "Marshall Ney," a silver cup.

BEST DRESSED LADY IN COMIC COSTUME.—Miss Jessie Breeze, as "Grandma," a pair of napkin rings.

BEST DRESSED GENTLEMAN IN COMIC COSTUME.—W. Logan, as "A Frog from Spalding's Bay," a nickel clock.

THE RACES.

At 9 o'clock the ice was cleared and the matched race for 24 laps between H. S. Kirby and J. Shevlin, was called. The contestants appeared on the ice in racing costume, and at the word go, started. Kirby, by a few rapid strokes, took the lead, closely pressed by Shevlin. At the third corner Kirby tripped and fell, thus losing his lead by several yards. He quickly regained his feet, however, and made chase after Shevlin, overhauling and passing him on the third lap. Kirby settled to a long, strong stroke, slowly and steadily increasing his lead. Shevlin stroked quicker but less effectually. At the 24th round Kirby led by half a lap, winning the race and medal.

The potatoe race for boys came next in order and was an interesting and exciting scramble. Walter Gillespie, Geo. Millar, Leslie Barrie and Robert Martin entered. Walter Gillespie won the silver cup after a hard tussle, defeating Robert Martin by one potatoe.

Alex. Bell, of Lakefield, W. Grierson and M. Minore started in the barrel race. Alex. Bell again led the van and was awarded a silver medal.

In the boys' race, twelve times round the rink, Milton, alias Cook Minore, A. Martin and T. Millar entered. Minore was declared the winner, the others dropping out of the race.

THE POLITICAL CONTEST.

The political contest for the gold-headed cane, between Sir John A. Macdonald and Hon. Edward Blake, was not boomed till late in the evening after the prizes had been awarded, when voting became quite lively. The result was a victory for Sir John by 78 votes. The poll at the close stood: Sir John, 210; Hon. Edward Blake, 132.

The band deserve great credit for the manner in which they have conducted their carnival, and it is unfortunate that they have not been more successful.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30th, 1885.
GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermaticon trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. R. KING.
This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. CHAPTER IX.

ALL KNOWN.

Next morning, sitting in her own room, discussing the post and her chocolate, Mrs. Neville grows suddenly serious over a letter just opened, and which not only disturbs, but very greatly perplexes her.

It is from Mr. Penruddock, demanding an interview, and begging her to name an hour in which he may speak to her upon a subject of much importance, both to him and her.

There is no mention of Maud in the letter; yet it so unmistakably means business in every line, that Mimi feels uneasy, and, ringing the bell, summons Esther to her aid—the woman having proved herself of sound judgment upon several occasions when Mrs. Neville had found herself in want of good advice, and knew not where else to look for it.

For two long hours she and Esther remain closeted together, at the end of which time Mrs. Neville, opening the door, comes out into the corridor with an air of open triumph and gladness in her whole demeanor, that contrasts rather oddly with the pink lids and heavy eyes that betray the fact of her having been crying bitterly. In her hand she bears a letter, which is addressed to George Penruddock.

Esther, going on to Maud's room, after some persuasion induces her to send a note to Dick, desiring him to come to South Audley street at a particular hour—that is to say, at nine o'clock that evening.

* * * * * * *

The lamps are carefully lowered, the curtains drawn. There is sufficient light to discern objects, but hardly enough to read the features of Maud Neville, who, reclining in a low chair at the upper end of the room, sits idly gazing into vacancy, whilst swinging slowly to and fro a huge black fan.

Upon a table underneath Mrs. Penruddock's picture two lamps are burning dimly.

Mrs. Neville is lounging in a solemn armchair, and is to all appearances enjoying life in its greatest intensity, which, to speak more plainly, means that she is slowly but surely falling into the arms of Morpheus.

The sound of a bell rings through the house; there is a pause, and then the door opens slowly, and Mr. Penruddock comes in with the heavy, determined step of one who has a righteous cause to be adjusted, and with his countenance stern and white.

It is at all times a forbidding countenance, no one has ever thought otherwise, though strangely handsome, but to-night it is very nearly repulsive.

He advances to where Mrs. Neville (who was suddenly roused from slumber to a full sense of the situation) is sitting, but pauses on his way, and shudders, perceptibly, as looking up by chance, he sees that he is before the portrait of his dead sister-in-law.

Mrs. Penruddock's large pathetic blue eyes are gazing down upon him, as so often they gazed in life, sweet and earnest, and just now, as it seems to his distorted fancy, something more than all this.

In it that he has grown superstitious within the last few moments, or do they wear a reproachful look, that thrills his whole being?

Is the beautiful face eager and expectant, as though she would demand at his hands the little one left to him in trust?

Recovering himself by a great effort, he goes up to Mrs. Neville, and says something formal to her about his gratitude for the interview thus granted.

He is perhaps going on to explain why the meeting was solicited, when the abrupt entrance of his son checks him for the time being.

A quick shade of anger crosses the young man's brow as he sees his father.

Instinctively his glance turns to where Maud is sitting, so far apart from the rest; but she is so enveloped by the shadows falling from the lowered lamps, that he can not distinguish her features with any clearness.

He would have gone over to her at once, but Mrs. Neville, by a sharp gesture of command, stays him, and brings him to her own side.

"Stay, Dick," she says, quietly. "Your place is here—as yet!"

So he stays by her, as in duty bound, though sorely troubled at heart.

"After all that I have urged, you have come," he says, coldly, turning to his father.

"Yes; to say that which I told you yesterday I intended to say!" retorts Penruddock, stubbornly. Then, addressing Mrs. Neville, he adds, in a labored tone, "It would make matters much easier if I might speak to you alone, without the presence of—Miss Neville!"

There is a covert insolence in the hesitation that he shows before pronouncing Maud's name that makes Mrs. Neville angry and indignant.

"If what you have come here to say refers to Miss Neville, it is both her wish and mine that she should be a listener to it," she says, slowly. "Therefore, do not hesitate, but commence at once, and let us hear, if you please, that which you have come hither to speak."

"That is as you desire, of course," Penruddock returns, calmly; "and, indeed, it is but little of your time I shall require. I would merely remark that I shall never, under any circumstances, give my consent to an alliance between my son and your adopted daughter."

At this, Maud, who until now has sat silent and almost motionless, starts into life.

She rises to her feet, and, though still keeping well in the shadow, turns to confront Penruddock.

"Reserve your disapprobation, sir," she says, in a voice low but distinct; "there is no occasion for it, still less for your consent to my marriage with your son. As he will himself inform you, I have already told him, and very distinctly, that such a union is utterly impossible."

Dick makes a movement as though he would go to her, but Penruddock detains him.

"You hear what she says?" he exclaims, eagerly. "She has refused you. Let it rest there. It is all at an end. Surely you would not press the matter? Have you no self-esteem? Have you no pride?"

"In this case, none," says the young man, sadly. "It is my happiness, my life, for which I plead."

"But she tells me plainly that with her own lips she has rejected you."

"If," says Dick, earnestly, going up to Maud, and taking both her hands in his—"if she will also tell you, not only with her lips, but honestly and from her heart, that she does not love me, I shall then resign all hope of ever gaining her. I shall cease to weary her with my presence and my sincere protestations of affection, and leave her free to wed a happier man; but never until she has told me that. You may therefore spare yourself all further trouble on my account."

He pauses, as if overcome by emotion, and then goes on again, in a voice that trembles slightly, "I await my sentence, Maud, speak!"

But she does not speak. Twice her lips move as though she would unwillingly have given voice to some thought, but no articulate sound escapes her.

(To be Continued.

Mr. Reeve Strickland's Riel Resolution.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

SIR,—I have carefully read your editorial on my letter handed you for publication on the 27th ultimo. And I find that you are again trying to mislead your readers.

You do not positively say the resolution I moved was in the handwriting of Mr. H. H. Smith, but you try to make your readers think so, when you know perfectly well that it is in the handwriting of the County Clerk's assistant, young Mr. Orde, who kindly made a copy in ink of the resolution which I had written out hurriedly in pencil. The first time I saw Mr. H. H. Smith, or had any communication with him was about a year before the rebellion broke out.

I am pleased to see that Mr. Mansfield denies saying what I and many others understood him to say, even you who were sitting on the adjoining seat, and wrote the amendment for him, seem to have been under the same impression, else why keep my letter out of your columns for four days so that you would have time to write to the Reeve of Galway and receive his reply contradicting my statement. Why not deny it yourself if you know Mr. Mansfield made no such remarks. However, I accept Mr. Mansfield's denial and regret that I should have misunderstood his language, as I am only too glad to hear that such sentiments as were attributed to him are not those he entertains. But, Mr. Editor, what about yourself, you have not told us what your views are in this matter, I again ask you the question, do you say the Government should or should not have allowed the law to take its course in the case of Louis Riel?

You say "THE EXAMINER" always strenuously discountenanced the introduction of politics into municipal matters; this may be so but you cannot say so for yourself. Why! your are the only politician we have in or about the the County Council, and I say again that my resolution would have carried if you had not (contrary to the rules of the Council) interfered.

I notice your remarks as to the punctuation and spelling of the resolution, and in conclusion, I would ask you, and other readers of this letter to excuse mistakes as I did not receive a High School education, there not being such a thing when I was a boy, nor am I a High School Trustee, nor do I aspire to the position of County School Inspector to which position you Mr. Editor may attain by dint of a little more political wirepulling in the County Council.

I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
R. C. STRICKLAND.

Peterborough, March 11th.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. Important Notice - To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any house that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

Great Attractions at the Golden Lion.

We continue to offer great attractions this week in Fresh New Goods, embracing many novalties in Dress Fabrics never before produced. R. Fair.

Telephone Extension.

During the past two days Mr. H. W. Kent, the wide awake manager of the local telephone exchange, has put up wires for six new services. These make 111 instruments in town, making Peterborough the largest town on minor city telephone exchange in Canada.

Music by the Acre.

The show windows of Smart's music store, George street, exhibit the most elaborate display of samples of music ever shown in town, and the public attention thus directed to the magnificent stock on hand at this place, has resulted in unprecedentedly large sales. There never was such an opportunity of securing first class music, never such an almost endless stock to select from. Don't neglect to call when you want to replenish your musical repertoire; you will find the stock complete and the prices right at Smart's music store, George street.

Police Court.

Yesterday at noon Police Magistrate Dumble held a session of Police Court. George Sigsworth, of Ashburnham, was charged with using insulting language towards P. C. McGinty. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs.

This morning three lads named Peck, Parnell and Billings were charged by Mr. John Newton with breaking windows in his house. The charge was withdrawn, the defendants agreeing to pay costs and for the windows.

Wm. Turner, a vagrant, who was just dismissed from jail, asked for another month, which request was granted.

Trent Valley Canal.

The remainder of the T. V. C. deputation has returned from Ottawa, and it is not clear as to what success has been met, no two, hardly, agreeing on their interpretation of Minister Pope's Delphic utterances and apparent promises. The utmost that can be said is that he assured the deputation that they would see in the estimates for the year an appropriation of $350,000 for the T. V. C., but whether this means a re-vote of an unexpended balance of $200,000 of a former appropriation and a new appropriation of $150,000, or a new appropriation of $350,000, nobody can positively decide. However, The Examiner is pleased to see that the agitation in the interests of this section, it has kept up in favour of further work, on the canal, and its presistence in keeping the Government stirred up have not been without result. We have not space today for a report of the interview with the Government.

Curling.

The local curlers who were in Ottawa on Thursday, not being successful in obtaining a hearing from the Minister, occupied their time in playing a match with the champion rinks of Ottawa, which won the Governor-General's medal and the Quebec tankard in the iron contest. Mr. W. G. Ferguson opposed Mr. G. Hutchinson, one of the best skips on the continent. They played 22 ends, each securing eleven and scoring each 16 shots. Mr. T. Rutherford was unfortunate in being defeated by 16 shots. The following is the score:

The Gun Club.

The Gun Club will meet at their range at the Riverside Park on Monday afternoon for practice. A meeting of the club will be held in the telephone office on Monday evening at which all members are requested to be present.

The Postoffice Site.

It is asserted that the question of the postoffice site was finally and forever decided in favor of the Hunter street lot during the visit of the T. V. C. deputation, and that the contractor will be in town in a few days to look over the ground.

Further Importations.

The second instalment of Spring Importations for the Golden Lion arrived yesterday, and consists of Tweeds, Coatings, Pantings, Carpets, Dress Goods, Buttons, Gloves, Hosiery, &c., and we cordially invite our customers inspection. R. Fair.

St. Andrew's Church.

The work of completion is rapidly progressing. The contractor is now putting in the seating. The groined ceiling now presents a magnificent appearance. The Dominion Stained Glass Works, Toronto, are putting in the splendid windows, which, for uniformity and harmonious combination of coloring, cannot be surpassed.

Preparing for Freshets.

Workmen have been engaged for the past day or two in cutting away the ice in the creek under the tannery bridge, Brock street, so that the water may have free course and flooding be avoided. Peterborough need not have much fear of this however, and can appropriate the Pharisaic congratulation that she is not as other towns are—say Belleville and Port Hope—in the matter of floods, anyway.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The evangelistic meeting held in St. Paul's church yesterday evening, was again crowded to the door. Twelve converts was the result. A young men's meeting will be held in the Opera House to-night. Mr. Schiverea who has had some experience on the stage, promises to interest all young men who are accustomed to attend the Opera House. Admission free.

Market Items.

The market this morning was the best for some time, all kinds of produce being offered in abundance. Purchasers were numerous and bought freely. Prices were little changed and were quoted as follows:—Butter, 18 ots.; eggs, 18 ots.; chickens, 60c. to 65c. per pair; geese, 65c.; turkeys, 75c. to $1; prime beef per cwt., $4 to $5.50; pork, per cwt., $6 to $6.50; per lb., cut up, 7c. to 8c.; lamb and mutton, per lb., 7c. to 8c.; potatoes, per bag, 60c. to 65c.; apples, per bag, 60c. to $1, per barrel, $2 to $2.25; parsnips, per bag, 75c.; beets, per bag, 70c.; carrots, per bag, 60c.; turnips, per bag, 40c.; cabbages, white, 15c. per head, red, 5c. to 10c. per head; wood, per cord, $2 to $4; hay, $10 to $12 per ton.

"A Barber's Scrape."

Mr. W. H. Fuller's farcial musical comedy, the "Barber's Scrape," is universally conceded to be the most successfully comic and mirth-provoking play ever enacted behind Canadian footlights. "It is," says the Montreal Gazette, "full of fun and frolic, sparkling with rich gems of humor and overflowing with wit." A Peterborough gentleman, now in Kingston, who witnessed the play in that city, thus writes, date of March 11th: "You can conscientiously recommend 'A Barber's Scrape.' It is a tip-top show, a genuine side-splitter. Be sure to take it in." Bradburn's Opera House, Monday and Tuesday evenings, March 15th and 16th. Prices, 25 and 35 cents. Reserved seats at Hartley's music store.

Our last year's business having been very unsatisfactory, notwithstanding the general cry of depression, we have decided to make an earnest effort to sell more goods in 1886 than we have sold in any previous year. OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

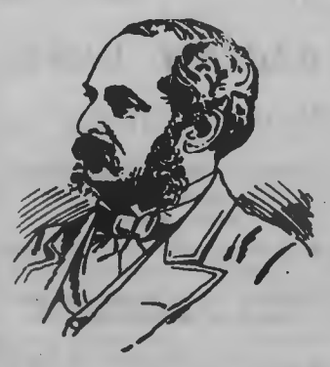
HON. A. S. HARDY.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of



The Provincial Treasurer.

Arthur Sturges Hardy, yclept "Little Thunder," in contradistinction to the late Hon. E. B. Wood, "Big Thunder," stands portrayed in the sketch given above. He was born in the County of Brant and was raised and educated in Brantford. He studied the law and was called to the bar in 1858 and received the red bag of a Q. C. in 1876. He first entered the Provincial Legislature in 1873 as member for South Brant, a constituency he has represented ever since. He was invested with the portfolio of Provincial Secretary in 1877, and for the past ten years has held the position with honour to himself and in the interests of the Province. He is a powerful debater and commands the respect of both friends and opponents, and is a well known and honored political man.

Trent Valley Canal.

The Delegates and Ministers Hold Council Together—Mere Ministerial Promises.

The reception of the delegates re Trent Valley Canal was held in the Railway Committee Room of the House of Commons, by the following ministers:—Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways, Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, the Hon. Thos. White Minister of the Interior, Hon. Mackenzie Bowells, Minister of Customs, and the Hon. Mr. McLelan, Finance Minister.

The following members representing constituencies, interested in this route were present:—Messrs. Robertson, West Hastings, Dundas, South Victoria, A. P. Cockburn, North Ontario, Dalton McCarthy, North Simcoe, John White, East Hastings, H. A. Ward, East Durham, H. H. Cook, East Simcoe, R. Tyrwhitt, South Simcoe, J. Burnham East Peterborough, Geo. Hilliard, West Peterborough.

Mr. Cross, Mayor of Barrie, was presented to the ministers as chairman of the deputation. He read a letter from Sir John Macdonald expressing much regret at not being able to be present, but he was confined to his bed with a cold that morning. Mr. Cross then presented the memorial which had been adopted by the delegates, the same in terms as that adopted at the meeting in Peterborough on the 10th ult. He stated that the water route was greatly favoured by Barrie and other places of Simcoe, their railway faculties not being satisfactory.

Rev. M. Logan, Fenelon Falls, considered this work was one of national importance affecting at least one tenth of the whole people of the Dominion. He presented a diagram of the proposed route. He claimed that the canal besides being generally beneficial to the Dominion, was much needed as a local improvement. It would permit the utilization of large quantities of timber to which otherwise could not be marketed profitably. He considered the canal important, besides, from a military standpoint, and pointed out that the capture of the Welland Canal in case of war would be easy and most injurious unless we possessed another water way. There was water power on the route sufficient to grind all the grain grown on this continent. The project was second only to the C. P. R.

Major Rogers said he had resided in Grafton, but moved to Manitoba a few years ago. He recited instances of the rapid growth of that country and of its capacity for growing grain. He considered that a large quantity of grain would be brought annually to Port Arthur for shipment, and that the Trent Valley Canal would be a most useful and inexpensive means of transport.

J. W. Ostrom, Mayor of Trenton, reminded the Government that Sir Charles Tupper, when Minister of Railways, had promised that the work should be proceeded with as fast as the resources of the Government would permit. Whether it were cheaper to convey grain by water or by rail there would, at any rate, be competition if the canal were made, which would be beneficial. The deputation were terribly in earnest about this matter. He thought more information should be given as to the surveys which had been made.

James Stevenson, Mayor of Peterborough, said the people where he lived were in earnest about the project and looked to the Government to complete it. Some people said this could never be done and Toronto papers endeavored to throw cold water on the project. He feared work was not progressing as it should.

Col. Deacon, Mayor of Lindsay, felt certain that if he talked for a week he could not explain their position better than as it was stated in the memorial. It was already conceded that the work was of national importance.

Col. Bolton, of Birtle, N.W.T., Nelson Heaslip, Warden of Victoria County, and D. R. Murphy, of Trenton, also addressed the ministers, impressing upon them the necessity of completing the undertaking.

Hon. Mr. Pope expressed his pleasure in meeting their friends and discussing such important interests. He promised that all the money that could be got out of the Finance Minister should be expended. The importance of the work was recognized by the Government. As Sir Charles Tupper said, he now said that the Government felt bound to proceed as rapidly as their resources would permit. About $350,000 were placed in the estimates for this year. He regretted they could not promise more. To every word uttered by Sir Charles, this Government were pledged. They would press on the work as fast a possible.

Sir Hector Langevin thought the Government could not be asked to be imprudent. They were not men to make promises only.

Hon. Mr. McLelan had no doubt the delegation were terribly in earnest but they must consider the financial position. The Government had a large expenditure in connection with the C.P.R. All parts of the Dominion must be considered.

Hon. Mr. White felt committed to this work. The Government could not be accused of spending money merely to tickle the ears of the people of the district.

Hon. Mr. Bowell thought the people of this section took a large interest in this work.

The Chairman thanked the members of the Government for listening to the deputation, which then withdrew to analyze their feelings and the nature and import of the promises made.

The Peterboro' Cheese Board.

The Annual Meeting Held in the Old Music Hall.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held in the old Music Hall on Friday afternoon. There were present Mr. J. M. Drummond, President; Galvin, Vice-President; Warren Taylor, Secretary, and a large number of representatives from the counties of Peterborough and Victoria. A large number of cheesemakers and buyers were also present, their President, Mr. J. Moore, having called a meeting for the same place and date.

After routine the subject of amending rule 5 of the association by appointing an Inspector, to inspect and class the cheese and to settle any differences between buyers and manufacturers. Several members intimated that the chief cause of differences was that buyers came around and offered for lots, and when the market went down they forgot about their bargain and did not call to take up the cheese.

TOO MUCH RIVALRY.

Mr. Galvin, of Lakefield, said he thought a great deal of the difficulty arose out of an unhealthy rivalry. Buyers were in the habit of culling cheese, and to save exposure, factories sold their cheese under the market value. He had got over the difficulty by not allowing the buyers to cull the factory's productions, but sold it to better men at better prices, without subject to culling.

Mr. Young thought an Inspector would effect a remedy.

Mr. Drummond thought it would not be advisable to appoint a maker as an Inspector. As a farmer considered the wheat grown by him just the wheat, in the same way a maker would consider the cheese made by him as just the cheese.

Mr. Taylor was in favor of appointing Mr. Wrighton.

Mr. Young thought that both factory-owners and the buyers should appoint an arbitrator.

Mr. Crebbin objected to two being appointed, as each would favor their elector and would not agree. One or three should be appointed. He said he had had some experience with who made an offer and forgot their bargain and did not take the cheese. He thought the proper way to do with such was to have no dealing with them.

Mr. Pilky was in favor of imposing a forfeit fee on buyers, as the makers were responsible for such transactions and consequently lost when the cheese was not taken.

The President stated that Mr. Flavelle was willing to put up a forfeit.

Mr. Garbutt thought an inspector would leave no room for such difficulties.

Mr. Galvin was in favor of adopting Mr. Crebbin's plan of giving dishonest buyers the go-bye.

Mr. Taylor said it was hard to ascertain when a man was dishonest. He was in favor of a straight-forward policy as there was no use in trying to grind the buyers. If they found a buyer dishonest they need not deal with him.

AN INSPECTOR DECIDED ON.

On motion of Mr. Taylor seconded by Mr. Young, rule 5 was amended by appointing an inspector to arbitrate in points of difference between manufacturers and buyers.

Mr. John Moore was nominated to act as inspector but refused to accept the position on the ground that he was an interested party.

Mr. Wrighton was nominated and appointed Inspector and Arbitrator.

The Secretary read an extract from a paper on the

by Mr. D. M. McPherson, of Lancaster, Ont., an expert, which was as follows:

2nd. System of Inspection.—The effort of the two Ontario Dairymen's Associations have done considerable to improve the general make of Canadian cheese, but it is quite apparent that there is still room for greater efforts by patrons and manufacturers in a united form. As the interests of the patron and manufacturer are identified, the co-operation of each is necessary and essential to success. This being a recognised fact, I would advise the forming of groups of say 25 factories, each group to appoint an expert cheesemaker to visit each factory weekly. His duties would be to inspect the milk as it is taken in, to educate the cheesemakers in each factory in all the details of making a fine cheese; to inspect the cheese in the curing room, carefully branding all cheese not up to the fine standard quality; to fill out a report of the condition of the factory as regards cleanliness; suitability of the building for making and curing; to note the amount of cheese made daily, and all other information desirable, the knowledge of which would be a benefit both to the employes and the patrons, and a copy of these reports filed where it could be perused by all interested in each factory. The cost of such an expert would be about $100 per month, which amount, divided among say 20 factories, would be only about $25 each per season, and let one-half of this be paid by the manufacturers and the other half by the patrons. The advantages of this system are many and very important; the patrons would have a means of knowing how their milk is handled, the cheesemaker would know what kind of cheese he is making, the cheese buyer, after confidence was once established, would save the expense of visiting each factory to examine its goods; all cheese sold would be of standard good quality. The inspectors would be assisted by the general inspector appointed by the Dairymen's Association.

He also read a letter from Mr. Whitton, instructor of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, in reply to a communication.

The letter intimated that the factories might, by joining the Eastern Association, have his services as an instructor at any time they wished at the rate of $3 a day, the Association paying the remainder of his salary.

AN INSTRUCTOR NECESSARY.

Mr. Taylor said they should endeavor to impress upon patrons the fact that the day for soft cheese had gone, and to be salable a prime quality was required. Big yields were out of the question. They were now turning out a good article, but to keep their place in the English markets they should improve. He thought an instructor was necessary. The cheese makers and factory owners could pay one half his salary and the patrons the other half.

Mr. Crebbin thought it would be impossible to induce the patrons to contribute their share. They did not take enough interest in cheese-making and were not even careful in sending milk to the factory.

Mr. Spence said the makers could not afford to pay the instructor and he did not think the patrons would. They were cutting down prices now and had to be coaxed to send milk.

Mr. Drummond favoured the engagement of Mr. Whitton for three visits of three days at each factory.

Mr. Pilky, was in favour of a local man who could give all his time and attention to this district. He was confident they could get a competent man who would be cheaper in the end than Mr. Whitton. He was willing to contribute his share.

Mr. Smith suggested that the cheese makers should have three days for visiting other factories for the purpose of exchanging ideas. This was thought impracticable.

MR. WHITTON APPOINTED INSTRUCTOR.

After further discussion, it was moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. J. L. Reid, that Mr. Whitton's services be obtained as Instructor until the Board sees some better way of obtaining an Instructor.—Carried.

Mr. Taylor explained that complaints had been made in England with regard to the boxes used by this section. They were not strong enough. He gave the Woodstock factory's quotation for such a box as they required as 12½c.

Mr. Bickle of Port Hope, was heard. He promised to supply a superior boxes 12c. each delivered. There was no action taken.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the current year:—Mr. J. M. Drummond, President; Mr. Galvin, Vice-President; Warren Taylor, Secretary; Mr. Edwards, Treasurer.

A vote of thanks was tendered the officers for last years services.

The Treasurer reported $17 in the treasury, and the fee for representation on the Board for each factory was put at $1.

It was decided to hold the first market on May 27th, which was to be advertised in the local papers.

Mr. Moore explained that the Cheese Board and the Manufacturers' Association had both engaged the hall. He had engaged it for the cheese-makers and Mr. Drummond for the Board.

Mr. Galvin, Vice-President of the Board was glad they had met as it was to the interest of both.

The meeting then adjourned, the cheese-maker's association to meet again next Saturday.

Parliamentary Notes.

Refusing Information—Indemnity Scandals—Our Expensive High Commissioner—How the Money is Wasted.

OTTAWA, MARCH 13th.

Mr. Valin, a servile government supporter, acting no doubt under instructions from the Minister of Militia, has given notice of a motion for a statement showing the cost of preparing returns moved for during the recent session by Mr. Blake, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Cameron, Mr. Charlton, and other leading members of the Opposition. It is difficult to believe that even to make such a motion unless strong pressure was put upon him in the form of threats to make him pay up arrears due upon his colonization land grab, but Sir Adolphe Caron per Mr. Valin, pays a compliment to the industry and activity of the Opposition by making such a motion. Possibly Mr. Valin thinks that it is the duty of every member to act as stoughton bottle in Parliament, get all the public plunder he can, and vote blindly with the Government.

THE INDEMNITY SCANDALS.

In addition to his stumping tour in West Northumberland during last session, it turns out that Mr. Wigle was absent in East Simcoe for ten days or a fortnight working against Mr. Drury at the by-election in that Riding. During all the time that Mr. Wigle was absent the House of Commons was in session, yet the member for South Essex filed a "solemn declaration" with the accountant of the House of Commons, stating that he was present every day that the House sat, and drew his full indemnity. Daoust, who was also in East Simcoe stumping against Mr. Drury, followed Mr. Wigle's example, declaring that he was in attendance every day. Mr. Curran, who during the session spent over a week in West Northumberland, admits having been absent for three days, and Mr. Cimon, who was absent about half the session, also declared that he was present every day. Having helped to elect a man who drew double indemnity, no doubt Messrs. Wigle and Curran think themselves entitled to at least one full indemnity each.

SIR C. TUPPER'S TAX BILL.

It appears that in addition to paying the High Commissioner a salary of $10,000 a year, buying and furnishing a palace for him in London, and paying about $2,000 for travelling expenses for Sir Charles Tupper, the taxpayers of Canada had to pay the income tax upon his salary. In that way Sir Charles became a source of revenue to the British Government. Among the payments made by the Government, on account of the High Commissioner's London establishment, were the following:

Income tax upon Sir Charles Tupper's salary one year to 5th April	$ 250
Tax upon official residence	80
Insurance on official residence	36
Ground rent for 12 months	332
Parochial rates from June 24, 1884, to March 25, 1885	413
Total tax bill	$1,140

When next year's accounts are published it will perhaps be found that in addition to paying Sir Charles Tupper's salary, his travelling expenses, rents, water rates, income and school taxes, the public have been paying his bread and wine bills. Sir Charles made a good thing by retiring from the Ministry. He exchanged a salary of $8,000 a year for one equal to at least $16,000 a year. Sir Charles is on the make.

ANOTHER HORSE PURCHASING JOB

It seems that the work of purchasing horses for the Northwest was made to do duty in influencing more than one by-election. Mr. J. Bigonette is one of Sir A. P. Caron's confidential friends. He is a carter by occupation and resides in Quebec. The friends of the Minister of Militia insist that the latter has never had the smallest interest in Mr. Bigonette's jobs, but still his name has appeared in the public accounts as a recipient of large sums of money from the Dominion Government for several years past. By a curious coincidence the Government found that about the time the Tory members for Levis and West Northumberland were unseated, last year, a number of horses were wanted for the Mounted Police. So Messrs. Coleman and Roddy Pringle were sent into Northumberland, and "Caron's man," Bigonette, into Levis, to buy horses—and votes. The last named individual received an "advance" of $8,000, and bought 51 horses, which cost something over $160 each, or $8,212 altogether. Horses such as Bigonette, Pringle, and Coleman furnished to the Government could be bought in the Northwest for $140 and $145 each, and in Quebec were not worth more than $120. The horses bought by Coleman cost the Government $180 each. The Auditor-General having asked for vouchers for the payments to Messrs. Pringle, Coleman, and Bigonette, Mr. Fred. White, the Comptroller of Mounted Police and Gisborne of secret service money, wrote stating that $160 was the price agreed to be paid for each horse purchased, and the buyers were to have ten dollars commission for each horse purchased. What became the difference between $160 and the price paid by Coleman and the others for each horse? Was it to go towards buying votes? The whole matter was arranged in secret—$36,208 was paid for 156 horses: average cost of each horse, $160. Average cost of horses exported from Canada in 1885, as shown by Mr. Bowell's Customs returns, $123.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The Electric Light

Is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. By this agency Pelaee's Nerviline is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficient power. Nerviline is a wonderful remedy, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonizing internal or external pain yields as if by magic. Neglect no longer to try Nerviline. Buy to-day a ten cent trial bottle and be relieved from all pain. J. Wilson, druggist, Goderich, writes: "Nerviline gives good satisfaction." Sold by druggists and country dealers everywhere.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sent; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

A PASSIVE CRIME.

BY MRS. PUCKRIDGE.

Presently she lifts her sad eyes to his as if in mute reproach, and then two tears gather within them slowly, and as slowly fall one by one down her pale cheeks.

"Dick, come here," says she. Neville, nervously, her voice trembling.

He obeys her.

Pressing Maud's cold hands, he whispers hurriedly, "I shall wait forever,"

And then goes back to Maud's side.

"If you mean to defy me in this matter," says Penruddock, who has overheard him, "you can take the consequences on your own head, and you know very well what those consequences will be. Henceforth you and I shall be strangers, and I will do my best to forget that I ever had a son. But I warn you that such mad marriages bring only grief and disgrace in their train."

"There shall be neither grief nor disgrace through me," says Maud, faintly.

She is still standing, and has her hand on the back of her chair as though to support herself.

"It is the first time," goes on Penruddock, remorselessly, not heeding the heart-broken interruption, "that a blot or stain has fallen on our house or name."

"Silence, sir," cries Dick, furiously turning upon him; but no more can be said on either side, for at that instant the attention of all is turned upon the door, just inside which, upon the threshold, Esther stands, with one arm extended, as if she would demand silence.

There is something in her whole attitude and demeanor that is remarkably striking, and which engenders fear and expectation in every breast.

The looks of all are fixed on her as she comes slowly up the room, the tall, majestic figure clothed in black, and drawn up to its full height.

Her manner is expressive of mystery and long-suppressed excitement. Of all present in the room, Mrs. Neville alone possesses a clew to her thoughts.

Silently and slowly she advances until she has reached Penruddock.

Here she comes to a standstill, and confronts him with gleaming eyes and parted lips.

"No blot, no stain upon your house or name? You dare say that! Have you lost all memory of the past? Does your conscience never speak?" she repeats, mockingly. "Is murder no crime? Have a care, Penruddock! And answer me, if you dare, this question—Where is the child Hilda?"

Penruddock starts back, his face growing livid. Yet only for an instant does he lose his self-control; rallying by a mighty effort, he says, glaring savagely at Esther, "This woman, this fanatic, lives but to torment me! Leave the room, I command you! Your idle ravings have nothing whatever to do with the subject we are now discussing. Begone at once, or I will force you hence!"

Esther pays not the slightest heed to that, but pointing toward the picture, and gazing sternly on Penruddock, says, "See where her mother looks down upon you! Do not her eyes haunt you? Where is the little one, the little heiress of Penruddock, who stood so fatally in your way to her house and acres? Answer!—where is she?"

"She is dead—drowned, as all the world knows!" says Penruddock, gloomily, answering her against his will, as if in somewise compelled to it.

"It is false!" cries Esther, triumphantly. "She is not dead! She lives! She is here to claim her own! Behold her, villain, tremble!"

At this moment Mrs. Neville turns up to their fullest height the two lamps that stand beneath Mrs. Penruddock's picture; and Esther, holding out her hand to Maud, says, in a loud tone, "Hilda Penruddock, come forward!"

Obeying the gesture, not the words, which as yet she fails to understand, Maud comes slowly forward until she appears in the full glare of the lamps, and right beneath her mother's portrait.

Standing thus, silent and half bewildered, she is so exactly like the beautiful painting above her, as to call forth an exclamation from Dick.

Mrs. Penruddock is dressed in cream-colored satin; the girl is attired in cashmere of the same shade, trimmed exquisitely with old gold and some costly lace.

It would be a difficult, indeed, an impossible matter to decide which is the loveliest, the dead mother or the living daughter.

As the extraordinary likeness dawns upon Penruddock, he is completely overpowered, turns aside his head, and groans aloud.

Above even the startling resemblance to the mother, he sees in the grown girl the features of the little child so cruelly, though passively done to death.

Again the whole terrible scene in the cottage garden flashes before him; again he watches, with cold persistency, until the tiny heiress meets, as he supposes then, and has till now believed, with her death.

He throws up his hands, as though to fling from him the hateful vision, and turns fiercely upon Esther.

"It is all a lie!" he exclaims, loudly—"a cleverly concocted scheme; but it shall not avail you much. It is an old story. Accidental likenesses have been tried before this, but an imposture always comes to light."

"Always! Yes, there you are right," returns Esther with deep meaning.

Maud, white as an early snowdrop, is clinging to Mrs. Neville, who has her arm around her.

Dick, at a little distance, is listening, with intense excitement, to the strange revelations now being made.

"Who ever saw the child again?" says Penruddock. "She was washed out to sea. All inquiries were made. No stone was left unturned to discover her; but it was too late. There was no one, not a living being, in sight when it occurred; no one saw the fatal accident."

"There you are mistaken. Two saw it," says Esther, solemnly. "You and I!"

"I was not present, saw nothing of it!" says Penruddock, hoarsely.

The ground seems slipping from beneath his feet. His parched lips seem barely able to form his words, and he with difficulty supports himself.

"You were present!" says the woman, relentlessly. "You stood inside the library window, and I saw you there, crouched as I was in the bushes at the other side of the river."

"In the bushes!" stammers Penruddock.

"Yes; I had come to get a glimpse of my darling at her play, and watched you as, with greedy eyes, you waited till the child crept nearer and nearer to her death."

Fearful is now the expression on the countenance of the wretched man.

"Without one word of warning, without one attempt to save the innocent life left to your charge by a dying brother, you looked, with a cruel longing, to see her perish!"

"'Tis false!" Penruddock, with very great difficulty, contrives to say.

"Though you never touched her, though the crime was a passive one, there was murder in your heart that day, as surely as you are shivering here before us all!"

"It is all a fabrication!" Penruddock, feebly, wiping his forehead.

Then he pauses, like a man in a dream, as his eyes wander from face to face, as though some horrible thing has been committed—to see if there be condemnation in his looks.

"Dick, do not believe it!" he says, in a tone full of keenest agony.

He looks so old, so broken, that Dick is touched, and going up to him, places his arm around his neck.

"I believe nothing against you father," he says, tenderly; "be sure of that. But pray control yourself, and let Esther tell her story."

"When the deed was done and the fatal plunge taken, you rushed to the water's edge," goes on Esther, who declines to address one word but Penruddock, slightly lowered the veil that he plainly covers beneath her glance. "But even then, at the last moment, a strong desire to save did not possess you. Had you pursued your search to the bend in the river, hidden by the drooping alders, you would have seen the little white figure floating onward whilst battling feebly with the stream. You would have seen me running along the bank in wild pursuit; and you would have seen, too, the poor child drawn from the water by Gilbert Saumarez."

"Gilbert Saumarez! He?" exclaims Dick, in the utmost surprise.

"Yes; he was a guest at the vicarage at that time, as you, Penruddock, may remember. But he shall himself tell his own story."

She beckons with her hand, and Saumarez, who has plainly been waiting in the anteroom, on receiving that signal, comes up to them.

"Captain Saumarez, tell us all you can of this strange tale," entreats Mrs. Neville, with faltering accents.

"I have very little to tell; but it's all quite true," says Saumarez, after a swift glance at Maud's pale face. "I was fishing lower down upon the river on that day, the 14th of July, when, looking up, I suddenly saw a little child struggling in the water, and, a woman—that woman there," pointing to Esther—"running along the bank. I jumped in, pulled the child out of the river, and saw that it was Hilda Penruddock, whom I knew well. Only that very morning I had been playing with her up at the cottage. I restored her to this woman, who represented herself to me as the child's nurse, and thought no more about it. I should of course have mentioned it in conversation at the vicarage if I had had time; but, unfortunately, I had made up my mind to leave that day, and finding on looking at my watch that I should barely catch the up-train, I rushed home, seized my things, bade my friends farewell, and within an hour was steaming up to town. Four days afterward I started for Inuna, where, as you all know very well, I remained for years."

"But you knew Maud—you recognized her in town?" asks Mrs. Neville, in great agitation.

A suspicion of shame crosses Saumarez's face, darkening it for a moment.

"Yes, last year," he says, unwillingly. "I called here one day, and Esther passed through the hall as I entered. I knew her at once, and asked for the child. She was, I think, about to deny all knowledge of her, when Miss—Miss Penruddock, with whom I was not acquainted at that time, came out of some room, and, looking me full in the face for an instant, passed on. Her wonderful likeness to her mother, who was well known to me, struck me at once. I had heard of the adoption by Mrs. Neville of some strangely pretty child, and, as if by inspiration, the truth occurred to me. I accused Esther of it, and she at once, taken off her guard, confessed all."

"Then why did you not immediately speak?" demands Dick coolly.

"It was no business of mine," responds the other, shrugging his shoulders.

"But surely, you might have spoken," says Dick; "and it seems remarkable that you did not."

"No doubt I should, some time or other, have mentioned the circumstance, only that the woman had implored me to keep silence; saying that she had waited for years to have revenge on some one; and I really thought it a pity to spoil the planning and plotting that had lasted for so long."

"Yet you made love to my niece, knowing all that you did," says Mrs. Neville, gravely.

"In that matter, madam, I acknowledge I erred," says Saumarez, lightly, though he bites his lip. "But all is fair in love and war. I wooed her as a girl over whom a cloud rested, knowing her in my heart to be an heiress, and of irreproachable birth. Nay, hear the exact truth," he says, with a somewhat reckless laugh. "I am not so rich as the world deems me; and thought if I could win Miss Neville, I might afterward prove her to be Miss Penruddock, and so secure her fortune. But I failed. At first I thought only of the money to which she was entitled; but now, and always, I shall think that, were she penniless and unknown, the man who gains her love will be richer than any soul on earth. You believe me, I am sure?" he adds, turning abruptly, and most unexpectedly, to Hilda.

"Yes; I believe you," she says, earnestly; and then—very sweetly, struck by the extreme melancholy of his expression—she comes a few steps nearer to him, and holds out her hand. He takes it, presses his lips to it, hastily but fervently, and without another word quits the room.

"It is, I plainly see, an unnecessary question; but, for all that, I will ask if you have quite made up your mind that this ridiculous story is true?" demands Penruddock, angrily, addressing his son, upon whose countenance no disbelief can be read.

"Quite!" says Dick, readily, who has forgotten to think of anything beyond the fact that the stigma attached to Hilda's birth has been removed.

"Then you acknowledge her?"

"As my cousin? Yes, certainly."

"Then, as certainly, you are a beggar!" says Penruddock, with a harsh laugh.

The young man starts as if shot, and puts his hand to his forehead. For the first time he realizes what all this may mean to him. By what right now shall he speak of love to the woman who is all in all to him, whose image occupies his heart? Their positions are reversed; she is the possessor of land and fortune; he is now the lonely outcast.

He draws a deep breath, and then rouses himself. Going up to Mrs. Neville, he bids her good-night, in a low tone, that still does not falter.

"All this has been too much for you, and—my cousin," he says, gently, though without looking at Hilda. "To-morrow, everything can be discussed more thoroughly; but for to-night enough has been said."

"We shall see you to-morrow, I hope?" says Mrs. Neville, anxiously.

"I think not. It will be better not," says Dick, with a faint smile. "I shall have many things to see to, and my father will, of course, require me."

At this mention of his name, Penruddock turns his head, and all present notice how terribly his face has changed within the last few minutes.

As if all hope has died within him, he looks crushed and broken, and very pitiable.

There is, too, within his eyes a somewhat vacant expression that contrasts very powerfully with his insolent demeanor of an hour ago.

"Eh, Dick?—eh, lad?" he says, in a confused fashion, putting his hand to his head, and sighing deeply. "What are you saying of me? I heard my name. Don't believe them, Dick! It is all false; every word!" Then, in a tone of eager, almost abject entreaty, he adds, in a whisper, "Don't you condemn me, Dick! You have not the right to do that. It was all for your sake, Dick—all for you!"

"Come away. Come home with me, father," says Dick, hurriedly and anxiously.

A touch of deep pain, mingled with shame, mars the beauty of his features as he listens to his father's words, which are a confession of his guilt.

"Home! Where is that now?" asks Penruddock, vaguely, disregarding his son's effort to lead him from the room. "From the castle to the cottage—that is a fall, indeed! And," sinking his voice, "I can't go in the cottage, Dick—the river is there!—always the river!" with a strong shudder. "And it never ceases—it flows on and forever! I can hear it always in my dreams at night!"

"Rouse yourself. You are dreaming now, I think," says Dick, who is as pale as death.

"No; not now," says the old man. He looks a very old man now indeed, so strangely altered are his features and mien. "It is too late now for dreams. If what she says be true, all is over, all is at an end!"

(To be Continued.)

"MADRE E HICO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, at its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and in which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show our only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but to its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $10 to $20 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make any offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $10 in that time, AVOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $10 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $15 a month, and that one of our agents took fourteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine canvassers and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to these out of employment to make money.

An Overcoat Collared.

On Sunday Mr. James Savigny of Otonabee, left an Irish frieze overcoat in his sleigh in St. Paul's church sheds. After the services he went to put his coat on; he found that some other claimant had put the coat on and taken it off—in other words had stolen it.

Looking for the Best.

Napanee is contemplating the adoption of the electic light, and is to send a deputation to towns and cities, now using that kind of light, to ascertain what is the best system. As they are in search of the best, it may be assumed that the object of the delegation will be attained when they visit Peterboro', which they will do in a few days.

Why?

School House Architecture.

We have received from the Minister of Education a handsome, octavo pamphlet of 136 pages, entitled "School Architecture and Hygiene." It deals with the construction of school houses, giving plans, etc., and has special reference to ventilation and sanitary arrangement. It is illustrated with about seventy-five cuts, showing plans and elevations of school buildings and also working plans in detail. The book is an admirable one on the subject and should be in the hands of all trustees contemplating the erection of school buildings. It will be of special interest to the trustees concerned in the construction of a new school building in No. 4 Ward.

Sunday Sermons.

The evangelist Ferdinand Schiverea preached a most able and impressive sermon in St. Paul's Church yesterday morning. He took as the basis of his remarks the words "It is finished," which appear in the 30th verse of the 19th chapter of John. He described most graphically the incidents in connection with the crucifixion of Christ, and showed that men were not punished for their sins, as Christ had suffered for all, but for not believing on and accepting Christ as their substitute. He also held service in the George street church in the afternoon and occupied the pulpit of the same church in the evening. During the afternoon he pointed out the vanities of dancing. In the evening he preached from the text "What shall I do to be saved?" On both occasions his discourses were direct and appealing and had a good result.

Home Again.

The T.V.C. Deputation delegates have all returned home. Some of them think if they remain here till the canal is finished they will live to hear the last tramp sound.

County Deputation.

A deputation, in the interests of the county, composed of Messrs. E. B. Edwards, county solicitor; A. B. Kidd, Warden; M. Sanderson, Reeve of Smith, and John Lang, Reeve of Otonabee, will leave town for Toronto to-morrow, to attend the Local House, to watch the legislation with regard to bridges.

The River Running Dry.

The river has been rapidly lowering for the past two days and is now four or five feet lower than on Friday. Considerable speculation was entered into as the cause, and some supposed that it was being done in the interests of anti-scotters. On enquiry it is learned that the cause of the failing in that the 'stop-logs at Young's Point have been put up to hold back the river, hence the weakness of the stream.

Police Court.

Geo. Brown, John Hall and John Kelly, were charged with being vagrants. They were released from jail on Saturday having spent 3 months in that place for a similar offence. They admitted the offence and were desirious of receiving another month's residence in the castle on the hill. The magistrate gave them the desired month.

Chief of Police Cooper appeared in court in his official capacity this morning for the first time.

Preparing for Business.

Mr. H. S. Griffin is making active preparations for the opening of his dry goods and millinery business on the 20th of this month, next Saturday, in the new Crystal block premises. The greater portion of his stock has arrived and is being shelved and stored convenient for immediate sale; while bales and boxes are arriving daily. Miss Beaswetherick, for the last two years in a leading Chicago millinery establishment, and formerly manager of that department of Alexander & Keids' wholesale house, Toronto, has arrived and is looking after the millinery department.

Our New Chief.

Chief Cooper appeared on the street Saturday afternoon for the first time, dressed in his new suit and armed with all the authority of his position. Contrary to expectation not a brass button appears on the whole suit, not a visible one anyway. This does not insinuate that he has brass enough without. The suit is after the most approved city style, military cut, English, you know, with "C. P." on the collar, a la Salvation Army. Street loafers and evil-doers generally don't know what to make of him and fight shy. While in Toronto Mr. Cooper experienced a little of the street car riot. He described it as a wild affair. In following up the mounted police who cleared the street, he was struck with a piece of brick thrown from the roof of a building. Scantling and whole bricks were the ordinary missiles thrown. The Toronto News says of Chief Cooper:—"W. H. Cooper, chief of police of Peterborough, was actively engaged all day in securing pointers as to how to quell a riot. He received a slight cut behind the ear, a stone having been thrown from a building on King street, but he considers the pointers he secured were worth the crack he got." Mr. Cooper goes about his duties like a man who knows his business, and we trust that every good citizen will strengthen his hands and that of his force in preserving order.

Personal.

The Barber's Scrape Company arrived in town this morning and put up at the Oriental and Grand Central.

Mr. J. W. Griffin, of St. Thomas, was in town last week, assisting his brother, Mr. H. S. Griffin, in placing his stock.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, one of the representatives of No. 4 Ward in the Town Council, has returned home from a visit to New York state. He has been absent about a fortnight, and is much improved in health and condition. He is in fine fettle for the spring building boom which will soon open out, and no doubt his efficient and satisfactory services will be greatly in demand.

His Honor Judge Dean, of Lindsay, and N. F. Patterson, Q.C. of Port Perry, are registered at the Grand Central. Judge Dean was appointed by the officiating justice in the Bulmer vs. Brunswell appeal, to fix the damages and value the house in dispute, on which business he is in town to-day. Mr. Patterson has business in connection with the examination in the Ferguson vs. Sanderson suit.

Mr. Wallace Law, for the past six months employed as assistant watchmaker in Mr. W. A. Sanderson's shop, left town this morning for his native town, Tilsonburgh, where he has accepted a lucrative position with a former employer. Previous to his departure Mr. Law was given by his fellow employes an oyster supper, a complimentary address and a beautiful gold ring. He has the best wishes of a large number of friends in his new departure.

A Successful Remedy.

Dr. Derenwend's German "Hair Magic" has proved itself to be a first-class remedy for gray, and thin hair. The sale of it is rapidly increasing everywhere. Where the roots of the hair are not altogether destroyed, it will make it come in thick and strong, and restore the gray hair back to its natural colour. For sale by all principal drug stores. J. Tully, agent for Peterborough.

A New Flour Milling Firm.

Mr. W. Meldrum, lately of Paris, Ont., in partnership with Mr. W. Davidson, has leased for eight years the mill lately known as Clegg's Mill. The new firm will be known as Meldrum, Davidson & Co. They are now busily engaged in putting the new appliances into the enlarged buildings and will in all probability be in running order about April 1st. It will be one of the most completely equipped mills in Canada, having a capacity of 150 barrels of flour per day. The Hungarian process will be employed. Mr. Meldrum has started and run some of the largest and most complete mills in Canada, being lately employed as mechanical superintendent of Whitlaw, Baird & Co's mills, of Paris, which have a capacity of 250 barrels per day. Mr. Meldrum, on leaving Paris for Peterborough, was tendered a farewell supper and presented with a beautiful gold watch, chain and seal by the employes of the mill. The Paris Star-Transcript says of the occasion:—

Wilson's Restaurant was the scene of a social gathering on Thursday night, the occasion being a farewell supper to Mr. Wm. Meldrum, late head Miller of Messrs. Whitlaw, Baird & Co., who has severed his connection with the Mill and gone into business for himself at Peterborough. Reeve Allan occupied the chair, and Councillor A. H. Baird the Vice-Chair. About thirty gentlemen sat down to an oyster spread prepared in Wilson's inimitable style. An excellent programme of toasts was presented and carried through in good style.

To the toast of the evening, "Mr. Meldrum," a good many spoke, paying high tributes to the departing citizen. Mr. Baird said that both himself and Mr. Whitlaw entertained the highest respect for Mr. Meldrum and parted with him with regret. They had felt less anxiety about their business since employing Mr. Meldrum, three years ago. He thought that Mr. Meldrum had made a good choice, had a splendid prospect before him and he wished him all prosperity in his new sphere.

Following the toast came a genuine surprise to Mr. Meldrum, in the shape of a presentation, from the mill employees, of a good-bye address, accompanying which was a handsome gold watch, inscribed: "Presented to W. Meldrum, by J. B. Wilds, T. Button, H. Tatam, W. J. Mitchell, J. P. Keaveny."

The recipient fittingly acknowledged the gift and the kind expressions emanating from the company.

Mr. Meldrum has come to stay, having brought his wife and family to town and settled down to business. He will, no doubt, make a desirable citizen, and will receive a hearty welcome and liberal support. Mr. Davidson is well known and will give strength to the name and fame of the new firm.

Men's Mass Meeting.

A Thousand Men Addressed by Schiverea in the Opera House.

Over a thousand men assembled in the Opera House on Saturday evening to listen to Mr. Ferdinand Schiverea's address to young men. A male choir of about twenty-five voices opened the meeting with "Whosoever Will." This was followed by other hymns, and devotional exercises in which Rev. Messrs. Tovell and Munro engaged. The audience joined in the singing and at times sang the chorus without the choir's support. Mr. Schiverea also tested the singing abilities of the audience by dividing it into sections and getting each section singing separately.

"BE THOU STRONG."

Mr. Schiverea, in commencing his address, called the attention of his audience to a clause of the 2nd verse of the 2nd chapter of 1st Kings, "Be thou strong, therefore, and show thyself a man." He asked what is a man? Some, he said, had the idea that age made a man, six feet in height constituted a man, or a person who could support a moustache, smoke a cigar, drink a glass of liquor, or visit the house of shame. These did not make a man. There were many who had all these qualities and yet were as distant from a true man as a monkey. A monkey never was guilty of such foolishness. God made man after His own image and a little lower than the angels. Sometimes they make themselves lower than the brutes.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

Many young men started out meaning to be one of the boys and to enjoy the things of the world. He was confident that there was not one in the audience who had seen more than he. At the age of 17 he was tramping the country, begging from door to door. Only a few years ago he came out before an audience, his face blackened with cork and danced his jig. He was preparing for a professional stage life, when he was converted at one of Mr. Moody's meetings. Before he was converted he was as low as a monkey, but since then he had proved that he was a man, by God's power. Some men try to prove that they are men when spending their last nickel for a drink, ruining their families and making fools of themselves. Young men brought disgrace and shame upon their mothers in this way and thought they were manly.

He used to call his mother "Mother." It was unmanly to do so now, is the fashion. The text when it said, "be strong," did not mean physically so. Little temptations laid great physical giants low. A glass of whiskey had killed the greatest prize-fighter. Physical strength was very desirable, yet it was not all sufficient. Mental strength was not the strength referred to. The giant minds had also fallen in the moment of temptation. Moral strength was not sufficient. Many men who were morally strong, who never smoke, drink, etc., and who thought themselves strong enough, were downed by the devil in the hour of temptation. He gave a number of instances which came under his notice, and also some of his own experiences. He advised young men who wished to mount the ladder of fame, to do so in the strength of the Lord. The

"OLD MAN" AND "OLD WOMAN"

THE DEVIL MADE PUPPETS OF MEN

who were not trusting in the strength of God. As the showman pulls the string to make the dolls dance, so the devil causes men to steal, lie and do all that is evil. He had watched the young men of Peterborough and had seen them saunter to the low saloons and spend their hard earned money on distilled damnation. They thought they were having pleasure. He had tested it and found it all vanity. He said he would like to correct the erroneous idea that the young men had, that there was no pleasure in serving the Lord. Would it not be easy for him to go back to his evil ways if he did not find more pleasure in serving God. When he was dancing it did him no good to hear the spectators say "can't he do the jig," and it did the spectors no good to see him do the jig. He also showed some of the vanities and evils of the stage, and gave pictures from the book of his own experience showing how companions influenced him for evil, leading him by the nose against his will. He gave an account of the

of Toronto who had been converted at a meeting in Toronto, and who told the speaker of his doings. He had spent over $100 a week, of money stolen from his father's shop, as the prodigal had wasted his substance, contracting diseases that would bring him to his grave and bring shame on his mother, sisters and father. How many such young men there were in the audience they themselves knew. He made some startling statements and asked his hearers if they did not know them to be true. He also showed that the places where a man should show himself a man were at home and in society, and illustrated his point by examples.

He urged the young men to become Christians. It was better to be laughed at for being a Christian than to be laughed at in hell. In his experience the companions who scorned him when he first became a Christian now respected him. It was easier anyway to stand the scoffs of companions than to suffer from a swelled head, bruised bodies, empty pockets and lost souls. It was not necessary to become round shouldered and gloomy to become a Christian. He was neither, but the opposite. He said he felt as though his face was shining like an electric light.

INFLUENCE.

Another important matter was that every person had an influence for good or evil and were either pulling men down or raising them up. Many young men would not take a stand because their companions scoffed at them. He gave his experience in this particular, and encouraged young men to follow his example. No man had power of himself to overcome his evil ways, but all he had to do was to come to God as he was and say "Lord, Jesus, take me as I am." He concluded by an earnest appeal. About a dozen stood up and testified that from henceforth in God's strength they would prove themselves men.

A largely attended prayer meeting was held after this meeting.

Cobourg's Little Strike.

Cobourg, March 13.—The carters engaged in shipping grain from McDonald & Co's storehouse quit work because the firm ordered them to draw two extra bags at each load. A number of farmers were engaged to complete the shipment and were brought before Police Magistrate Dumble for carting without a license. They were discharged on condition that they take a license to comply with the town by-law.

Collision at Sea.

The Swiftest Ocean Steamer Sinks.

New York, March 14.—The magnificent steamer Oregon, of the Cunard Line, the swiftest ocean steamer (till yesterday) afloat, lies at the bottom of the Atlantic within a few miles of Sandy Hook, having been sunk about 4 o'clock this morning while making for this city by an unknown deeply-laden three-masted schooner. The schooner struck the steamer fairly in the side and the latter began to fill rapidly. The passengers and crew, numbering in all 305, were safely rescued, and shortly after the steamer sank.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. A. M. ROSS.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

The Provincial Treasurer.

Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. Alexander McLagan Ross, M.P.P., treasurer of the Province of Ontario, is a native of Dundee, Scotland, where he was born in 1823. Most of his life, however, has been spent in the county of Huron. A. M. Ross is a statesman, a soldier, and a financier, and in every capacity he has efficiently discharged the several duties with thoroughness and credit to himself. He entered Parliament in 1875, and was made treasurer upon the retirement of Hon. James Young a couple of years ago. At the time of the Trent affairs he organized an artillery company in Goderich, and was made its captain. He then served on the frontier during the Fenian raid in 1866, and on the organization of the volunteer force into battalions in that year was appointed lieutenant-colonel, which position he now holds. His financial experience before taking the treasury portfolio was that of paymaster in the B. & L. H. railway, and treasurer of the counties of Huron and Bruce. He is an able executive officer, a clever financier, and, though not a brilliant debater, presents a financial statement so compactly that his opponents fail to find a chink in his armour, and a fairly good debater.

Mr. Gladstone's Irish Scheme.

LONDON, March 15.—The Standard says: It is supposed that Mr. Gladstone's scheme for the government of Ireland proposes the establishment of a Bargh Chamber Parliament at Dublin, and embodies the principle of minority representation. Ireland will continue to send members to Westminster, not in proportion to her population, but in proportion to her contribution to the Imperial reserve. Under this scheme there would probably be 30 Irish members of Parliament. The police are to be disarmed and are to be under the control of the Government at Dublin. Provision is made for the use of the Imperial forces when needed for the security of life and property. The Government at Dublin will not have power to impose duties on British goods, to treat with foreign powers, to employ the revenues of the country for the endowment of any religious body, or to pass measures impairing the validity of contracts.

A Princess Defeated in Court.

In the little principality of Lippe-Detmold, the same as in the whilom electorate of Hesse, there existed until recently a so-called Princess tax; i. e., the people of these countries were taxed a certain sum every time one of the Princesses of the reigning family, or even of a branch line, got married. Repeated suits on account of the refusal to pay the said tax have been the order of the day during the last twenty-five years. One of these, of nearly thirty years' standing, that of the Countess von Haslingen against the Government for tax unpaid to them, was recently decided against the Princely plaintiff, which puts an end to the superannuated custom and will doubtless be the means of saving the country a round sum of three hundred thousand marks per annum. —N. Y. Graphic.

Zion Gleanings.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

There was a sound of merriment by night,
And Zions corners had gathered there,
Her beauty and her gallantry, and bright
The stars shone o'er fair woman and brave man.

Their youthful hearts beat happily, but their high hopes were soon to be drowned in a flood of woe. The "in haste" messengers followed by a long split in the wind and clouds of snow were fit forebodings of a terrible calm. The inconsiderate gallants had overlooked to equines in their selections, and at the eleventh hour a messenger stood beseechingly at every neighboring stable door, a panting allegory of humanity; but the equines and the gallants being both under the kind attention of discreet guardians could not take hasty measures. When pouty lips were murmuring—"the boys! are they never coming?" a sly creation was addressing his team—"you shall go for the pleasure of the ladies only." And so they did, leaving the gallants to play their desperate capers in the church shed.

The British Cabinet Doings.

LONDON, March 13.—A Cabinet Council was held to-day, which was attended by all the ministers. The main topic under discussion was the Irish question. After a consultation, which lasted three hours, the Cabinet adjourned.

LONDON, March 14.—The Observer states that Mr. Gladstone's draft, as printed and handed to the Cabinet, deals exclusively with expropriation, for which a colossal sum will be required. The administration of the fund is to be entrusted to an Irish local body, the constitution of which is left blank in the draft but which, the ministers were informed, would be of the character of an Irish Parliament.

The Observer says that at the Cabinet meeting, yesterday, the measures submitted by Mr. Gladstone for the Home Government of Ireland were unfavorably received, and that the project, if persisted in, will lead to a disruption of the Cabinet.

ROYAL TEMPLARS OF TEMPERANCE.

The Royal Templars of Temperance intend having a grand re-union on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock, when business of a very pressing nature is to be considered; also a very fine time other ways may be expected. All old members are earnestly requested to attend. Don't be afraid that you have stayed away too long, but come.

We are sorry to record the departure of Mr. Munroe, who has been engaged by the Observer office since its commencement. Mr. M. left on Tuesday for a short trip east, before again settling down. We wish him success in his new field.

Mr. H. Dillon, of the Albion hotel and proprietor of the Queen's, was fined $20.00 each by the inspector, for selling liquor without license last week.

Mr. H. Gibson, of the "Narrows," was round bidding his friends good-bye last Monday, he having accepted a position at Port Heron. Herb. was well thought of when at Mr. Willson's here and will leave many hearts to mourn his departure.

We hear on good authority that the Observer, issued by Mr. Merton, has been bought out by Mr. N. Clark who will move the plant to Campbellford early next week.

Prof. H. Brown, in his world of wonders' had a very slim house here on the tenth, but we believe he procured another member for his troupe, in what capacity he is acting we are not able to say.

BY-LAW MEETING.

The meeting on Monday evening, called by the Reeve in answer to a petition presented at the last meeting of the Council to discuss the purchase of Mill Reserve No. 1 for village purposes, was attended by a large number of rate-payers. Dr. Bell, the village clerk, was voted into the chair, and called upon those present to express their views. During the evening Messrs. W. J. Wallace, J. C. Sherin, Wm. Graham, J. Griffin and others spoke against the purchase of the property by the village. While the Reeve, Isaac Garbutt, Councillors Moore, Isbister and Cox, Dr. Bell spoke in its favor. After the matter, as well as the general financial condition of the village, had been well discussed, it was moved by Mr. W. J. Wallace, seconded by Mr. J. C. Sherin,—That in the opinion of this meeting the purchase of any property by this municipality for market purposes would be a useless investment, as it would not in any way advance the growth and prosperity of our village, yielding no return for the expenditure of a large sum of money.

Moved in amendment by Mr. R. C. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Isaac Garbutt, sr.,—That it is in the interests of the village that the property known as Mill Reserve No. 1 should be purchased for a market and town hall.

A standing vote was taken and the chairman declared the amendment carried.

After a vote of thanks to the Chairman and cheers for the Queen the meeting broke up. The voting on the By-law will take place next Monday, the 22nd inst. in, the council chamber, when every voter should turn out and record his or her vote for the best interest of the village.

CANOES.

Mr. T. Gordon, boat builder, of this village, last week shipped a nest of five canoes to the Colonial exhibition, they are all of different styles and were the handsomest work of the kind ever turned out in this place. Mr. Gordon has orders for 40 from his agent in England and will soon begin to ship them.

Dead Letters by the Hundred.

Proprietor (in a whisper)—"Pray be quiet. That old gentleman at the table might hear you. He has been coming here regularly for six months, and never got a single thing thrown in with the regular dinner. It might make him feel slighted."—Philadelphia Call.

He Abandoned the Missionary Field.

The Rev. Mr. Matterson, the well-known missionary, has returned from the island of Cookaluro. At a meeting of missionaries the other night Mr. Matterson said:

"Gentlemen, I don't care to go back to that country."

"Why?" some one asked.

"Well, I'll tell you. Shortly after arriving in the island I began keeping house. I employed a fellow who could speak English to take charge of my household affairs. He seemed to be a very intelligent fellow, and I trusted him. One day an Englishman who published a small paper, wrote an article slandering me. I was very angry, and in the presence of my man Keeloo, said that I was half inclined to go over and eat the editor up. I was anxious to see the next issue of his paper, but it did not come out. Keeloo, noticing my anxiety, said:

"'Paper will not come out again.'

"'Why?'

"'Cause you help eat editor three days ago.'"

Cleaning Out Waste Pipes.

The annoyance arising from the stoppage of waste pipes in country houses, although very great, is but a small matter compared with the dangers which may follow obstructed pipes. The "sewer gas," about which so much has been written and which is so justly dreaded, is not, as many suppose, the exclusive product of the sewer. Indeed, the foulest, most dangerous, and deadly gases are not found in the sewers themselves, but in the unventilated waste pipes and those which are in process of being clogged by the foul matters passing through them. Any obstructions in the soil or waste pipes are therefore doubly dangerous, because it may produce an inflow of foul gas into the pipe, even though the entrance to the sewer itself has been entirely cut off.

The question is how to get rid of the accumulations in pipes partly stopped or already closed. Digging up and cleaning out is a costly remedy, often ineffectual by reason of careless workmen. The second is the plumber's force pump, which is usually only a temporary relief. In pipes leading from the house to the cesspool there is a constant accumulation of grease. This enters as a liquid and hardens as the water cools, and is deposited on the bottom and sides of the pipes. As these accumulations increase, the waterway is gradually contracted, till the pipe is closed.

When the pipe is entirely stopped, or allows the water to flow away by drops only, proceed thus: Empty the pipe down to the trap, or as far as practicable, by "mopping up" with a cloth. If water flows very slowly, begin when the pipe has at last emptied itself. Fill the pipe up with potash, crowding it in with a stick. Then pour hot water upon it in a small stream, stopping as soon as the pipe appears to be filled. As the potash dissolves and disappears, add more water. At night a little heap of potash may be placed over the hole, and water enough poured on so that a supply of strong lye will flow into the pipe during the night. Pipes that have been stopped for months may be cleaned out by this method, though it may call for three or four pounds of potash. The crudest kind, however, appears to act as well as the best. If the pipe is partially obstructed, a lump of crude potash should be placed where water will drip slowly upon it and so reach the pipe. It is also well to fill the upper part of the pipe with the potash as before, and allow hot water to trickle upon it. Soda and potash are both used for the purpose of removing greasy obstructions, and the usual method of application is to form a strong lye and pour it into the pipe. It is better to put the potash into the pipe, because the water which it contains, instead of diluting, helps to form the lye. As water comes in contact with the potash it becomes hot, thus aiding in dissolving the grease. Potash, in combination with grease, forms a "soft" or liquid soap, which easily flows away, while the soda makes a hard soap, which, if not dissolved in water, would in itself obstruct the pipe.

When a pipe is once fairly cleaned out, the potash should be used from time to time, in order to dissolve the greasy deposits as they form, and carry them forward to the cesspool or sewer. The potash is very valuable for this purpose, because, in addition to its grease-solving powers, it is exceedingly destructive to all animal and most vegetable matters. The most dangerous and deadly gases appear to come from urinals and wash-basin pipes, these, in many cases, seeming to be more foul than those from water closets. The decay of the soap and animal matter washed from the skin appears to be the sources of the gases. The potash will be effective in keeping these pipes clear, and in this way may lessen the dangers. A Correspondent in the American Artisan.

A beekeeper having been told that a leg, through being repeatedly stung by bees, had become impervious to any unpleasant sensation when attacked by them, resolved to experiment on his own person. He kept a record of the number of times he was stung, and when he began to cease feeling the effects of the stings. The result was that all sense of feeling had gone when he had been stung thirty times within a few weeks.

WATCH THE ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

Last session the Local Legislature passed a Franchise Act which widely extended the Franchise and which gives votes to a large number who never had the right to vote before. The Provincial Voters' Lists are entirely based upon the Assessment Rolls. Unless a man's name appears upon the Assessment Roll, it will not appear on the Voters' Lists. Therefore it is of the greatest importance that every man to whom a vote is given by this new Franchise Act should be assessed. Particularly notice the law as it applies to three classes, namely: wage-earners, householders, and landholders' sons.

As to wage-earners the Franchise Act provides that:—

"Every male person upon the last revised assessment roll as a wage-earner who resides at the time of the election in the local municipality in which he tenders his vote and has resided there continuously since the completion of the last revised assessment roll of the municipality, and who has, during the twelve months next prior to being so entered, derived or earned wages or income from some trade, occupation, calling, office or profession of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars shall be entitled to vote."

And it further provides that:—

"The fair value of the board or lodging received by such person in townships as part of his wages shall be considered or included as part of the $250."

The amount for which the wage earner is assessed is not taxable. His name is placed upon the assessment roll for the sole purpose of giving him a vote. The wage earner must take an affirmation in form provided by Statute, and the assessor is compelled by law to have these forms printed (at the expense of the municipality), and to take them with him when engaged in his work of assessing. Every Householder in each Township municipality has a vote. This opens the door for many new voters. Every Landholder's Son also votes, and the word "son" includes "stepson," "grandson" and "son-in-law," and the word "landholder" includes "tenants," so that the sons of Tenants may vote. Formerly the right of farmers' sons to vote was governed by the amount for which the father was assessed, and it still is so in the Dominion Franchise. By the Ontario Act of last session, where the parent is assessed either as owner or tenant in cities or towns for $400, and in villages and townships for $200, all the sons who are twenty-one years of age, and who have resided with their parent for the pass twelve months, are entitled to be placed upon the Assessment Roll as landholder's sons. The expression "landholder's son" includes in its meaning a step-son, grandson, or son-in-law, who may have so resided with the assessed landholder. Six months temporary absence during the year does not prevent the name from being entered. It is very desirable that every one entitled to vote should have his name entered on the Assessment Rolls in the first instance, and not trust to an appeal afterwards which will involve considerable trouble. Organize active Committees in every Polling Sub-division, so that the Assessment Roll of this year will contain the name of every Liberal in the Riding and thus made as perfect as possible,

Rest assured that defeat or victory hinges on vigilance in attending to the Assessment Rolls or Voters' Lists. A few days active work now on the part of local committees and the battle is half won. All the friends of good Government in Ontario should render assistance in this all important matter.

A Missing Link Supplied.

In the Biography of one of the Hastings Members of Newspaper Portraiture.

Yesterday, says the Belleville Ontario, our local cotem. produced pictures of the members of the Local Legislature for East and North Hastings. Accompanying these were condensed biographies of the individual mentioned, but one glaring oversight marred the perfection of the record. Some years ago the honorable member of North Hastings was an issuer of marriage licenses. In his sturdy independence, he did not consider it necessary to get the regular blank forms with the seal of the Provincial Secretary attached, but issued those of his own make-up. Whether this was the result of special wisdom, special ignorance, or special economy on his part, deponent knoweth not, but at any rate, when the denouncement came, the Legislature had to pass a special measure to legalize the marriage contracts of those parties who had applied to A. F. for permits. Our conscience, adds the Ontario, would not allow us to permit an imperfect biography of one of "Our Members" going to the public, and we hope the Intelligencer will add the above facts to the record of one whom it delights to honor.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

FRIDAY, MARCH 12th.

After routine Mr. Meredith moved for a return of the correspondence regarding the claim of Thos. Smith to a water lot in Port Arthur. A long discussion ensued. Mr. Meredith claimed that some injustice had been done to Smith by selling the land on which he had squatted to a dock company.

Mr. Pardee said that the company got the land only on condition of compensating Smith.

Mr. Fell moved—That in the opinion of this House it is expedient that a more efficient mode of auditing accounts of local municipalities and school expenditure should be devised, as the present system as regards accuracy is unreliable and unsatisfactory, and has failed to inspire public confidence in the results.

Hon. A. M. Ross thought the difficulty arose from the pernurious conduct of councils who would not pay a sufficient sum to have the accounts properly audited, and from the fact that many treasurers were not familiar with the method of keeping accounts. The motion was withdrawn.

Mr. French's bill respecting leases was read a second time. Its most important provision is that no goods except those of the tenant and his family shall be distrained for rent; also that no goods shall be distrained except such as are not exempt from seizure under execution.

Mr. Meredith moved the second reading of a bill providing that County Councils shall elect county registrars.

This gave rise to a long discussion on the evils of party patronage. The Government opposed the bill, which was defeated on a party vote, Mr. Broder voting with the Government.

Food Frauds.

The Shameful use of Lime and Alum in Cheap Baking Powders.

Many food frauds, such as chicory coffee or watered milk, although they are a swindle in commercial sense, are often tolerated because they do not particularly affect the health of the consumer; but when an article like baking powder, that enters largely into the food of every family, and is relied upon for the healthful preparation of almost every meal, is so made as to carry highly injurious if not rankly poisonous elements into the bread to the eminent danger of the entire community, it is the duty of the press to emphatically denounce the manufacturers whose avarice has prompted them to such diabolical operations.

Among recent important discoveries by the food analysts is that by Prof. Mott, the U. S. Government Chemist, of large amounts of lime in the cheap baking powders. This is, if not the most dangerous, certainly the most useless adulterant yet found in the low grade, inferior baking powders. It is a startling fact that of over one hundred different brands of baking powder so far analyzed, comprising all those sold in this vicinity, not one of them, with the single exception of the Royal Baking Powder, was found free from both lime and alum. The chief service of lime is to add weight. It is true that lime when subjected to heat gives off a certain amount of carbonic acid gas, but a quick lime is left, a caustic so powerful that it is used by tanners to eat the hair from hides of animals, and in dissecting rooms to more quickly rot the flesh from the bones of dead subjects. A small quantity of dry lime upon the tongue, or in the eye, produces painful effects; how much more serious must these effects be upon the delicate membranes of the stomach, intestines, and kidneys, more particularly of infants and children, and especially when the lime is taken into the system day after day and with almost every meal. This is said by physicians to be one of the chief causes of indigestion, dyspepsia, and those painful diseases of the kidneys now so prevalent. Instances of the most serious affections of the latter organs from drinking lime waters found in some sections of the west are noted in every medical journal.

Adulteration with lime is even more to be dreaded than with alum, which has heretofore received the most emphatic condemnation from every food analyst, physician, and chemist, for the reason that, while alum is probably partially dissolved and passed off in gas by the heat of baking, it is impossible to destroy or change the nature of the lime in any degree, so that the entire amount in the baking powder passes, with all its injurious properties, into the stomach. When we state that the chemists have found twelve per cent. or one-eighth of the entire weight of some samples of baking powder analyzed to be lime, the wickedness of the adulteration will be fully apparent.

Pure baking powders are one of the chief aids to the cook in preparing perfect and wholesome food. While those are to be obtained of well established reputation like the Royal, of whose purity there has never been and cannot be a question, it is proper to avoid all others.

"MADRE E HIGO!"

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

A Tender Case.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

She had a quarrel with him and he had left her and married somebody else after the engagement had been pending some time. He was wealthy and she was mad and vindictive. She consulted a lawyer.

"Did you tell him to get out?" asked the lawyer.

"No, I only told him I never wanted to see him again."

"Did you say that the engagement was at an end?"

"No; I only said that I would not marry him."

"Ham. Did he ever promise you should be his wife?"

"A million times. He plighted his faith to me three times a week for a year. He stole my young affections. I tell you, I am his wife in the sight of heaven."

"Humph. I am afraid, miss, the courts have no jurisdiction in that case.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30th, 1885.
GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.
This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 95 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

A PASSIVE CRIME.

BY THE DUCHESS.

"The end is not come yet," returns Dick, bravely, throwing up his head with a certain proud gesture that brings tears into the eyes of one who is watching him.

He closes one hand firmly, as though to defy misfortune, while into his face there comes a nobility, a sense of dignity, that perhaps it lacked before.

"You have still enough to satisfy every want," he says, addressing his father; "and as for me, the world is before me, and I shall conquer it in defiance of fate and evil fortune. All is for the best, and we should be thankful that the little one was saved. You are thankful, father, are you not? Say that you are thankful," he asks, with extreme earnestness.

It is as though he had completely and entirely dissociated the love of his manhood from the delightful little companion of his earlier days.

"Yes, yes—deeply thankful!" says Penruddock, in a strange tone, hardly recognizable. "A weight is lifted from my heart—a load from my soul—that has lain upon them for many a year! Now it is raised, my heart feels lighter. But," looking helplessly around, "my head is bearing the burden now. It feels like molten lead. And there is a sound as of many voices—and—"

A deep groan escaped him; he staggered, and, but that Dick hastily caught him in his arms, would have fallen heavily to the ground.

CHAPTER X.

DOOMED TO BE HAPPY.

It is two months later, and already Penruddock has lain for six weeks within his quiet grave.

For some days after that fearful seizure—consequent on the destruction of all those hopes he had purchased even at the price of crime he had lingered in an unconscious state, knowing no one, hearing and seeing nothing, but sometimes murmuring, "The child! drowned—I might have saved her—but no—let her go—all for my boy—all for my son!"

Then the fertile, scheming brain had come to a standstill; the heart, that in all its many years had known but one pure affection, had ceased to beat, and Penruddock was no more.

Mrs. Neville had called at Dick's rooms, where the dying man lay, every day during his illness, and had seen Dick and conversed with him many times, of his father's state alone—no other topic had been touched upon.

On two occasions Hilda had accompanied her, but on those days the young man had been either accidentally or willfully absent.

Not once during all these long weeks had the cousins met. They had never, indeed, seen each other since that last momentous evening in South Audley Street, when Esther's disclosure had made them change sides, and had changed the fortunes of both; so happily for the one, so disastrously for the other.

Yet, about that time there was a policeman in that quarter who for many nights had kept a sharp watch upon a young man, well dressed, but with his collar turned up to his ears—looking upon him as a possible burglar, for he would stand for an hour without flinching opposite a certain house, gazing upon nothing—so far as X 91 could see—except a faint streak of light that came from an upper window.

Finally, X 91 grew tired or ashamed of his suspicions, and, comforting himself with the thought that this eccentric young man was either a harmless lunatic or an admirer of the upper housemaid, let him gaze in peace.

* * * * * *

To-day is too lovely for description. "The sun has drunk the dew that lay upon the morning grass;" the very birds are silent from excess of languor; the flowers droop and grow pensive beneath the heat, and all nature seems at rest.

"The wind had no more strength than this,
That leisurely it blew,
To make one leaf the next to kiss,
That closely by it grew."

In the castle, on this golden September morning, scarcely a sound can be heard. The inner world seems as lazy, as averse to action of any kind, as the world without.

Three days ago Mrs. Neville brought Hilda down to her birthplace; but the girl has refused to find comfort or pleasure in the grand old castle. Wealth has come to her, and, for the time at least, happiness has departed.

There is a pallor in her cheeks, a fountain of hushed tears in her expressive eyes, that goes to Mimi's heart; but having extracted a promise from Dick that he will not leave England without bidding them farewell, she can only wait patiently, if unhappily, for what is yet to come.

It is coming very quickly that for which she waits—the solution of all her doubts.

Even as she and Hilda are sitting together in one of the morning-rooms, silent, but full of thought, a footstep sounds in the hall without, the door is opened, and Dick Penruddock stands before them, pale and haggard, but always the same Dick in one pair of eyes at least.

"I am very fortunate in having found you at home," says Dick, in his most formal manner. "I have come down here because I promised, and because I could not leave England without bidding you good-bye."

He takes Mrs. Neville's hand, and presses it warmly, with a faint, a very faint, smile.

"Good-bye!" echoes she, in dismay, as though the fear of this hour has not been tormenting her for days.

"Yes; I am about to leave the country, never more to return to it."

He has not dared to glance at Hilda after the first involuntary look on greeting her.

"But this is all so sudden, so dreadful!" says Mrs. Neville, who is at her wits' end. "What is your purpose in leaving? Where are you going?"

"To New Zealand—anywhere. I hardly know whither; and, indeed, it matters very little, so long as I get well away from the old world and all its associations."

"How you must hate the old world!" says a soft voice close to him, that has a suspicious tremble in it. "Do you mean to carry nothing from it but regrets?"

"Nothing!"—shortly.

"Is everything forgotten?" asks the soft voice again, even more tremulously this time. "Can you remember no happy hours?"

"My deepest regret," says the young man, with infinite sadness, "lies in the fact that I shall never be able to forget those happy hours."

Mrs. Neville, kind and considerate soul that she is, has stepped into the conservatory for the time being, therefore they are virtually alone.

"Dick!" says Hilda, looking and speaking very tenderly and very reproachfully.

"Don't!" says Penruddock, hastily. "Do anything but speak to me in that tone. It is more than I can bear. For weeks I have been training myself to meet you with proper coldness, and now, by one kind word, with one gentle look, you would seek to undo all my labor."

"And why, if I may ask, should you want to meet me with coldness?"

She is very close to him by this time, and has laid her hand upon his arm.

"There is no reason why I should tell you, because you know it."

"I know!—what is that I know?"

"Do not torture me."

"I have no desire to do that. But you have not yet said what it is that you know."

"Oh, cruel!" he exclaimed. "You know that you are rich now, whilst I have nothing, or next to it. I—in fact," says Dick, mournfully, "I am no match for you now, whatever I might have been before."

"But you are the same Dick as you were then," argues she, "except that you are a little more—I mean a little deal more unkind."

"Am I?" says he. "It is very likely. Misfortune embitters us all."

"Won't you look at me, Dick?"

"There is no need to look at you. Your image is engraven on my heart. I can see you at every moment, and shall see you, go where I may."

"Nevertheless, look at me; it may soften you a little. Oh, Dick, I don't want this odious money; but I do want you. Now I have said it."—flushing crimson—"and you will not, I hope, think badly of me."

"I could never do that. But it is impossible. Do not let us talk about it."

His voice breaks a little.

"Then you refuse me?"

"Yes; because it is for your own good."

"No; because I happen to have more money than you possess. Let us have the truth, at all events. Say that that is really what you mean."

"Well, then, yes, since you make me say it. I could not be indebted to my wife for—for everything."

"No doubt you are right," says Miss Penruddock. "Pride before all things, no matter how many hearts may be broken by it." She means to be sarcastic, but only succeeds in being wretched.

"Mine is a just and proper pride," he says.

"Oh, very well! Then it is not worth while, I suppose, to say anything more about it?"

"No, indeed," he sighs.

"And you are quite determined to leave England forever, and to go to New Zealand?"

"Quite."

"Then," cries she, "since you insist upon it, I shall give this hateful money to a lunatic asylum, and, whether you like it or not, I shall go to New Zealand, too."

"Maud!" says Dick, in his overpowering agitation forgetting her real name.

"Yes; I shall. Nothing shall prevent me," says Miss Penruddock.

And here, we very much regret to say, she so far forgets herself as to place her arms around his neck, and to burst into tears upon his breast.

So for the next few moments, at least, Penruddock's trip to the other side of the world is delayed.

He drops his hat, and encircling her fondly with his arms, for a full minute is quite ridiculously happy.

Then he checks himself, and sighing deeply, says, "There must be an end of this. This will never do, you know," in a most miserable tone.

"Never?" says Hilda, who has quite recovered herself, and in whose blue eyes a malicious twinkle may now be seen.

Does not victory already lie with her? No wonder, therefore, that she rejoices.

"Come over to this sofa," she says; "and as we must, to please you, give away our detestable though rather comfortable income, tell me, which do you consider to be the most deserving of all the asylums?"

At this point Mrs. Neville coming in, and seeing them sitting together on ardently amicable terms, goes up to Dick, and kissing him on either cheek, tells him, without a word of warning, that he is a "dear boy," and as worthy as any one can be of her "dearest girl," and that she is happier to-day than she has been for a very long time, and several other things that are equally pleasant to hear.

All which so overpowers Dick, that he has not sufficient courage to say anything that shall damp her satisfaction, and Hilda carries the day.

* * * * * *

They have been married now for four weeks, and are in Italy, or Egypt, or St. Petersburg, or somewhere—we really have, at the present moment, quite forgotten where.

At all events, we may safely say that, be they where they may, they are two among the very happiest mortals the world contains.

THE END.

Similitudes.

It is surprising what a pleasure we take in an apt similitude. Not only does it enter largely into our enjoyment of poetry, but it gives zest to all bright colloquial talk. The voluble center of any group of listeners—on the street or in the drawing-room—is sure to be heard spicing his narration with the "like" and "as" of the frequent simile. If I were a novelist (as I do not at all thank Heaven I am not) I would keep lists of good similitudes; not only those of my own invention,—which I should not expect to be prosperous,—but those picked up by the wayside in actual speech. It is not so much that they adorn the expression of thought as that they illuminate it. Or if they adorn, it is as the modern jewelry, set with the electric spark. It used to be supposed that in poetry for instance, figures of speech were for mere ornamentation. Now we know that in good poetry they are chiefly used for throwing light. So in colloquial speech: the reason we enjoy them seems to be that they hit out the idea like a flash. There is nothing the mind enjoys, after all, like getting an idea, and getting it quick,—which is only giving, in a nutshell, the gist of Herbert Spencer's admirable essay on Style. A friend was telling me the other day that he had a new cook. He said (he is a small man), "I am afraid of her. She is as big as a bonded warehouse." I saw in the paper lately that somebody expressed himself as being "dry as a covered bridge." And how can we declare the fineness of anything so well as by saying it is "fine as a fiddle"? The alliteration, no doubt, helps, but it does not count for very much. You could not substitute fish, or feather, or fife, or flamingo, though each is fine after a fashion. Nothing will serve but the "fiddle," with its preternatural shine of varnish, its perky angles and curves, pointed like a saucy nose, with perhaps (but this is venturing into deep psychological water) a suggestion, subconscious, of the jaunty fiddler with his airs and graces, dressed as if just out of a bandbox. "Lively as a flea" seems good and lively, but an old sea-captain of mine used to say "he flew around like a flea in a hot skillet." "Like a bumble-bee in a bass-drum" describes the activity of a different sort of temperament.—February Atlantic.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $5.00 to $20.00 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like to see more energetic and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $100 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $150 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

A Tailor's Union Formed.

At a meeting held in the Tribune Union Hall, alias Treanm's Hall the tailors of the town met and organized a Tailor's Union, in connection with the Knights of Labor. Mr. Geo. Ball was appointed President, and Mr. W. McEvely, secretary. The Tailor's have taken the initiatory step and they desire that the other traders shall go and do likewise.

Police Court.

Mr. Edward Tutton was up before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning, charged by Inspector Leary with having on his premises liquor for sale, without a license. He pleaded guilty to the charge. As it was the second offence the Magistrate imposed a fine of $60 and costs or two months in jail, and ordered the Inspector to confiscate the liquor, of which there was three barrels of beer, and destroy it.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The meeting held in the George street church last night was again crowded to the doors. Mr. Schiverea's address was practical and pointed and was listened to with interest. Meetings will be held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms at 9 o'clock in the morning and at noon until farther notice. These meetings were well attended to-day. A meeting was held in St. Andrew's school room this afternoon.

Attrill Again Victorious.

Mr. T. P. Attrill, not contented with winning the thirteen-point game and medal, has also led his rink to victory in the contest for the medals contributed by seven competing rinks skipped by Messrs. Geo. Dunsford, W. G. Ferguson, D. Cameron, T. Rutherford, Dr. Boucher and Adam Hall. The match has not been completed, but Mr. Attrill has won nine games out of twelve, and it is impossible now for any of the rinks to even tie his score, therefore his rink is sure of the medals. The rink is composed as follows:—Messrs. C. A. Weller, W. H. Clarton, W. Salisbury, T. P. Attrill, skip. Mr. Attrill is the undisputed champion of the season. The other rinks will play the game out for the honors of position and for amusement and practice.

A Barber's Scrape.

The latest musical absurdity, "A Barber's Scrape," was given in the Opera House last night to a large audience. The play is a very laughable and ludicrous one and was presented by the company in a very acceptable manner. The play describes the adventures of Leander Lather, a barber, who urged by motives of ambition becomes the editor of the daily Chestnut. Mr. Lather goes to the Belvidere Gardens on a jamboree, unknown to his fiancee Matilda. Struck by the resemblance of the hand of the statue of Venus Aphrodite, he slips the ring on her finger and brings the monster beauty to life. From that time forward Aphrodite follows Leander and claims him as her affianced husband. The statue had been stolen from an art gallery and a reward is offered for its recovery. The police get on to Leander and he has to move back to his barber shop, where the persistent Aphrodite follows him, involves the unfortunate in a variety of complications and nearly drives him to desperation. In the third act the statute is taken back to the gardens and, finding the barber has gone back on her, and that Jove declines to interfere, gives him up to Matilda and returns to her petrified condition. Mr. Richard Golden as Leander Lather showed much individuality, and is a finished actor. He is well supported by Harry Kelly, as Rats, his factotum; Miss Marie Remington, as Matilda; Miss Lisette Mitzi, as Hildilda Grab, à stepfather; Frank Deane, as the Poet of the Rockies, was a perfect picture of Sir John. Mr. W. J. Hills, vocalist and mimic, was warmly applauded. Miss Marie A. Sanger, as Venus Aphrodite, is a lady of magnificent proportions, weighing about 200 pounds in the shade, and took her part to perfection. The company on the whole is a first-class one, and those desirous of enjoying a good laugh should attend the Opera House to-night.

Knights of Labor.

A meeting of those proposing to join the Knights of Labor, when fully organized, will be held in Temperance Hall this evening.

No Go.

An attempt was made this morning to get a couple of rinks together to go to Lindsay to play the Lindsay curlers the return match. It was found impracticable, as Skip Attrill's rink could not be brought to the mark, being exhausted probably after fighting for and winning the four medals.

Colonists' Trains.

The first of a series of colonists' excursion trains was run from all points on the C.P.R. to Manitoba and the Northwest to-day. From local points the excursion was not well patronized. The train passed through town at 12.15 and will run straight through to its destination without change

The Gun Club.

The Peterborough Gun Club met yesterday afternoon at their range at the Riverside Park. The weather was favorable and a fine day's sport was enjoyed. Mr. H. T. Strickland succeeded in making the highest score, breaking 7 birds out of 12. The following were the scores made:

R. Tivey	0 1 0 1 0 1 1 0 1 0 0 1—6
H. T. Strickland	0 1 1 1 1 0 1 1 0 1 0 0—7

So Near and Yet so Far.

As the fishing season is fast approaching, it will be a matter of interest to fishermen to know that it is one month farther away than last year, not saying that suckers won't be up as soon, but the close season for bass, pickerel and maskinonge has been extended one month, and the regulation now reads something like this:—"In the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, no person shall fish for, catch, kill, buy or sell or possess any pickerel between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of May (both inclusive) in each year, nor any bass or maskinonge between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of June (both days inclusive) in each year."

Division Court Clerks Association.

Yesterday's Mail contains the following paragraph under the above heading:—"A largely attended meeting of Division Court clerks from different parts of the province was held at the Walker house on Friday. An association was formed with the following officers:—President, R. W. Errett, Peterborough; 1st Vice-President, Wm. J. McIntosh, London; 2nd Vice-President, E. G. Fraser, Petrolia; Secretary-Treasurer, H. Jennings, Penetanguishene. Executive Committee,—E. H. Duggan, Toronto (chairman); M. P. Ketchum, Brighton; Joseph Baker, Waterloo; W. Jarvis, London East, with the officers ex officio. The Executive Committee will prepare by-laws, and submit them to a meeting of the association to be held in September next.

A Wedding at St. John's.

This morning about 11 o'clock the bell of St. John's Church, unable to hold its tongue any longer, told that a wedding ceremony was being performed. Rev. T. B. Angell, lately curate of St. John's Church, was united in marriage to Miss Clara Clarton, youngest daughter of W. Clarton, Esq. Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector, officiated. Only a small circle of friends were present. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. The bride is well-known in town as an accomplished and amiable young lady, and has a large circle of warm friends. Mr. Angell, who has labored in Peterborough for some time as curate of St. John's, is a young man of ability and earnest purpose, and is deservedly popular with all. The happy couple will leave town this evening on an extended wedding trip, carrying with them the well-wishes of a large circle of friends. The EXAMINER would also add its congratulations, wishing them all the prosperity and joy of a long and happy wedded life.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

A meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday afternoon. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises. The President occupied the chair. After the reading of the last meeting's minutes, the following communications were brought before the meeting: From Mrs. Chisholm, of Ottawa, giving terms for Mrs. McLachlan, temperance lecturer, and from Mrs. Brethour, of Brantford, giving a detailed account of the Union's work in that city. The Corresponding Secretary was instructed to communicate with the sister Unions in adjacent towns and villages, asking them to co-operate with the Peterborough branch in securing the services of Mrs. McLachlan to deliver a lecture in each place; also that Mr. F. S. Spence, editor of the Canadian Citizen, Toronto, be requested to advise the Union as to terms for Rev. C. H. Mead, and to ascertain at what time he could spend a Sabbath and Monday evening with the Peterborough branch, conducting gospel temperance meetings. It was suggested that the Union offer prizes to Institute and public school pupils for the best essay on temperance at midsummer closing examinations. This matter was left over for decision at next meeting. Two visitors from the Salvation Army added interest to the meeting. The meeting was closed with singing and prayer.

Shipwreck.

This afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the wedding bells announced that that other rhythm had been struck up the chime of Hymen; the celebration being the wedding of Mr. W. H. Dayman to Miss Ida. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother by Rev. J. W. R. Beck. The bride was attended by Miss Nettie Mescript, while Mr. J. R. McCune acted as gentleman. The bride is an amiable and accomplished young lady and is highly respected by a large circle of friends. Mr. Dayman, who has been employed as operator in the G.N.W. telegraph offices for the past six years, is one of the most obliging, capable and popular officer, and a clever amiable and exemplary young man, highly esteemed by all who know him. The estimation in which they are held may be measured by the many valuable presents which they received. Among the number were a beautiful French China Tea Set, the gift of the employees of Mr. Cox's office, and an elegant parlour suite, the gift of Mr. Geo. A. Cox. The happy couple left for Toronto by the 5.15 train this evening. They will return by way of Port Hope where they will pay a visit to Mr. Dayman's home. THE EXAMINER offers its cordial congratulations and hopes that the union will be a most happy and extended one.

Disgraceful Sidewalks.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I wish to call the attention of the Street Inspector to the disgraceful state of the sidewalk on Hunter street, above Mr. Belleghem's. One of the stalwart corporation laborers could clean the whole of the snow off in about half an hour and the trouble would be at an end. I trust the hint will be taken.

Yours,
JULIA.

A Mining Camp Story.

Four miners sat one night in June, 1858, in a tent at an Australian digging discussing their future plans and deploring their ill fortune. For weary months they had worked the mine without getting more than a bare living. At length they decided to leave the spot, though not without regret. Three of them were in the mine taking a last look round, when one said to his mates: "Goodbye; I'll give you a farewell blow," and with that his pick sent the splinters of quartz in all quarters. His trained eye spied a glitter on one of the bits that landed at his feet. He picked it up, examined it, and found it to be gold. He at once proceeded to work with a will. His chums saw that something out of the common had happened, and they, too, plied their picks vigorously. With silent resolve they worked on until they unearthed a big nugget. Then a fierce glad yell of joy reached the ears of the fourth man at the windlass at the mine top. "What's amiss?" he shouted down. "Wind up," was the reply, and when he did so the lump of pure gold met his gaze. They called it "The Welcome," and obtained thirty thousand dollars for it. The claim where the nugget was got is now covered with the fine streets of the thriving town of Ballarat.—N. Y. Sun.

The Price of Their Support—A Probable Famine in Election Funds—The Riel Debate.

(Correspondence of Hamilton Times)

OTTAWA, March 16.—A large deputation of Mr. Chapleau's constituents waited upon him yesterday to remind him of his promises to build a railway for them. They would only continue to support him, some of the delegates said, they only agreed to condone Riel's execution, on condition that he should get a large amount of Dominion money expended amongst them. The Secretary of State tried to put them off with flowery talk, but they meant business, and told him plainly that unless money was forthcoming within a reasonable time he need not seek election against in Terrebonne.

It is reported that Minister McLelan is alarmed at the demands made upon him by his Quebec colleagues, and says it will take all next year's revenue to satisfy them, while nothing will be left to carry on the elections in the other Provinces.

It is admitted on all hands that the Government party have been badly whipped on the Riel debate. The speeches thus far made on the Government side have, with the exception of Mr. Wood's brief address, contained no argument whatever. It must be said to the credit of the member for Brockville that he spoke to the point and used some arguments which, from a legal point of view, may have some force. His tone was also in marked contrast to the irrelevant harangue delivered by Curran, which would be a disgrace to any hustings. In fact, it is doubtful if a hundred men could be found in all Canada who would listen to the torrent of froth, fury and falsehood, to which Mr. Speaker had to submit yesterday afternoon. Mr. Curran's object was well understood. He hoped by abusing Riel and the Reformers to conciliate the Orangemen, who object to his elevation to the bench, but his role was a difficult one, and so to get a fling at his old antagonists he asserted, amid great laughter, that the Orangemen of Ontario were all Grits and that Mr. Blake was the great friend of Orangeism. Even the Montreal Star, which is the meanest and most contemptible kind of a Tory organ, admits that in the debate the Tories have been badly worsted. The speeches of Langevin and Royal showed that they were talking against their convictions for the sake of office and plunder.

The question of the justice or injustice of Riel's execution has now been completely overshadowed by the expose of the trickery, falsehood and dishonesty resorted to by the Government in order to justify their course and evade the responsibility for the rebellion. It is evident that they hoped by hanging Riel to vindicate themselves, but they have miserably failed. It has also been shown that they had decided to execute the Metis chief long before the Medical Commission was sent out to test his mental condition. Sir John Macdonald's letter to Caron says that the decision was arrived at before the 3rd of November, and the reports of the doctors are dated the 8th of that month. Mr. Thompson also stated yesterday that the cipher telegrams from the doctors upon which the Government acted were afterwards handed back to those who sent them, thus admitting that the report lately laid before Parliament are cooked reports. In fact, before this Riel matter is disposed of, it will be found that the Government have undertaken a systematic process of cooking and doctoring all the papers relating to Northwest affairs.

Sir John Macdonald is still reported seriously ill, though the opinion is divided as to whether he is really sick or only shamming.

Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, March 16.—Eleven hundred workingmen have petitioned the Mayor for the more prompt payment of money earned in the service of the corporation, and for an increase of the day's pay for street scraping. They state in their petition that they and their families are in a state of destitution.

Mr. Goldwin Smith has been appointed Chairman of the Committee to collect funds in aid of the Irish Loyalists, Mr. J. L. Hughes, Secretary, and the Rev. Dr. Potts, the Rev. Dr. Wild, Prof. Clark and Mr. E. F. Clarke, Treasurers.

After a spirited debate last night, the Young Liberal Club rejected by a majority of 24 to 21 the following resolution:—"That political union with the United States would best promote the progress and prosperity of the Dominion."

Mr. Dalton McCarthy Q.C., M.P., addressed the Toronto Board of Trade at great length yesterday, in explanation of his bill creating a Railway Commission. He explained that it would not injuriously affect through traffic, and that it would cover the case of a dispute between a railway company and a steamboat line. The Board unanimously resolved to petition Parliament to pass the measure.

Two Comets Coming.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 19.—The Yale professors of astronomy have calculated the orbits of two new comets. One was discovered by Prof. Barr, of Nashville, in December, the other by Fabry, of Paris, on Dec. 1st. The latter comet is about 130,000,000 miles away, while Barnard's is 150,000,000. The professors say that about May 15th Fabry's comet will be only 15,000,000 miles from the earth, and on June 1st Barnard's will be distant 35,000,000 miles. Both comets will appear in the greatest brilliancy about May 1st and will be plainly visible to the naked eye. Fabry's comet will project itself upon the sun's disc, and in that case it will be watched with great interest by astronomers.

A Criminal Action

Against a Prominent Young Farmer of Sidney.

A criminal action has been instituted against Mr. E. J. Graham, a well-to-do and influential young farmer of Sidney. Mr. W. J Massie being the plaintiff. The case grew out of transactions connected with the Belleville Milk Company, of which the parties to the case are controlling stockholders. Mr. Graham claims that it was understood by himself and the other members of the company that he, as business manager of the company, was to use Mr. Massey's name in the transaction of the company's business. Mr. Massey denys any such understanding. The charge is that Graham, with intent to feloniously defraud, made a written request in the name of J. W. Massey, to a Philadelphian firm to send to him, Graham's address a certain "bottle mould." The preliminary trial is being held before Mr. Flint. S. B. Bardett for the plaintiff, Mr. Geo. D. Dickson, Q.C., for the defendant. Mr. Graham was admitted to $1,000 bail, $500 from himself and $250 each from two sureties. The case is still in progress.

A diver who visited the wreck, yesterday, found one bale of cotton and one case of dry goods. The Merritt Wrecking Co. will make a report in regard to raising the wreck of the "Oregon," but as she lies in 120 feet of water it is hardly thought probable the steamer will be raised. The cargo, engines and valuable parts of the vessel, however, will be brought to the surface. Among the passengers of the "Oregon" were Mrs. Langtry and her mother, Mrs. Le Breton; Lord and Lady Bury and Miss Keppel and Miss Hilda Keppel, their daughters.

GEORGE GUILLET'S GRAB.

He Manages to Draw Nearly $2,000 Indemnity.

How it Pays to be Unseated for Corruption—Mr. Hector Cameron Backs Mr. Guillet's Claim—Hypocrisy of the Government on the Temperance Question.

OTTAWA, March 13.—The Auditor-General's report discloses the fact that Mr. George Guillet managed to draw $1,896 as sessional indemnity, and $86 as travelling fees during the session of 1885, though he was absent 138 days of the session. Mr. Guillet, in fact, drew double indemnity and double travelling fees. He was unseated by the Supreme Court on the 17th of March, or six weeks after the session commenced. He was re-elected and introduced on the 17th of April, being away just one month. But he made it pay. Roddy Pringle's "indiscretion" turned out very profitably for Mr. Guillet. He claimed that he was entitled to full indemnity, $1,500 for his first term in the House, less eight dollars per day for the 119 days between the date of his being unseated and the end of the session. This would give him $812 and $43 travelling fees for the six weeks that he sat prior to the 17th of March. Returning to Parliament on the 17th of April, after a month's absence, he demanded full sessional indemnity, less eight dollars a day for the 53 days of the session that had expired before his re-election. That would give him $1,064 indemnity and $43 travelling expenses, making the total amount paid by the country for Mr. Guillet's parliamentary services $1,982. He got all he claimed. The Auditor-General protested against the payment of such an amount to Mr. Guillet, who, though absent a month from his duties, drew four hundred dollars more than the members who were present in the House every day of the session. The Auditor-General asked Mr. Guillet to refund the amount over-drawn by him, $591, stating that he was "extremely anxious not to have anything in his report which reflected upon a member of Parliament." To this letter Mr. Guillet replied, upholding his claim to double indemnity on the ground that when re-elected he was in the same position as a man who had never sat in Parliament, and stating that his view of the matter was upheld by Messrs. Hector Cameron, Murray, Dodd and J. F. Wood, Tory members of Parliament. And so Mr. Guillet got his $1,982 and refused to disgorge.

OTTAWA, March 15.—Mr. McCraney has taken steps to expose the rottenness and hypocrisy of the present Governments pretensions in favour of the Canada Temperance Act. He will ask the Government on Monday by whose authority Edward Miall, Commissioner of Inland Revenue, prepared, published and circulated during last year a pamphlet against the Canada Temperance Act, and the principle of Prohibition. Also whether Mr. Miall acted under instructions from or with the approval of the Government and what remuneration he received. It must be remembered that upon Mr. Miall, as permanent head of the Inland Revenue Department, devolves the duty of enforcing the Scott Act in all the counties where it has been adopted. It is to be expected that a man who is almost a fanatical anti-prohibitionist, and who spends the time that should be devoted to the public service in getting up anti-Scott Act pamphlets, will make an honest effort to enforce the Act which he detests. It makes very little difference whether Mr. Miall's pamphlet was printed and circulated at the expense of the Government, or the licensed victuallers. The friends of the Scott Act ought now to thoroughly understand why the Act is not properly observed and who is to blame for it.

The Degradation of the Judiciary.

A correspondent informs the Globe that at Morrisburg on Saturday last, County Court Judge CAMERON, who is also Revising Officer, before he opened Court dilated on the beauties and excellencies of the Franchise Act, and "pitched into the Globe pretty lively." We have no objection to his pitching into the Globe. Wherever there is a partisan, wherever there is an officer who feels that he has been selected by Sir John Macdonald to do the work of a partisan, we suppose there is one eager to pitch into the Globe, whenever he can find or make an opportunity. Nor are we unwilling that anyone who sees beauty and excellence in the Franchise Act should express his admiration of it, even from the bench, although we cannot say that we think that the proper place for such harangues as this officer is said to have made.

Experience has already shown that the Franchise Act is even more objectionable than we believed it to be after it was amended. In some districts hundreds of names have been omitted from the original list because the judges saw technical defects in applications about the meaning of which there could be no reasonable doubt. Many names have been omitted through the blindness or the negligence of those who made up the lists. Many, we fear, have been omitted because the partisan feelings of officer or clerk clouded or warped his judgement. In all these cases the persons whose names were omitted will be put to much inconvenience and trouble if they endeavour to get the mistakes rectified or the wrongs corrected. The people should not be put to so much trouble to establish their right to vote. In the Maritime Provinces we find that there is as much confusion, and that in some instances the number of names on the original lists is smaller by hundreds than the number on the old electoral lists. A Halifax paper states that the names of many who were for years entitled to vote do not appear on the lists. From New Brunswick we hear that in the County of Sudbury 400 names of persons who formerly were electors have disappeared from the lists. From York and Kent counties in that province similar complaints are heard. The possession of personal property formerly was a qualification in these districts, and it has been the custom to assess the farm of a new settler at $100.

Why should we have all this confusion? Why should thousands of people be put to so much trouble? Why should people who are not able to give the time and attention required, be disfranchised? Why should a partisan Reviser have the power to give so much trouble or to disfranchise those who are not sufficiently jealous of their rights as electors?

Judge Cameron, we are told, also said that after the first year it would not cost much to carry out the law as the lists need not be printed more than once in five years. As general elections take place more frequently than once in five years, and as there are several bye-elections every year, money can scarcely be saved in the way suggested by this admirer of the Franchise Act.

We hope that he will try to prove the Act good by putting on the list the name of every man in his district who has the qualification which the Act requires. The Globe desires only fair play and even-handed justice, and to every Revising-officer who does his duty impartially, and well, the Globe will gladly give all the credit to which he will be entitled.

The Electric Light

Is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. By this agency Polson's Nerviline is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficient power. Nerviline is a wonderful remedy, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonizing internal or external pain yields as if by magic. Neglect no longer to try Nerviline. Buy to-day a ten cent trial bottle and be relieved from all pain. J. Wilson, druggist, Goderich, writes: "Nerviline gives good satisfaction." Sold by druggists and country dealers everywhere.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.
Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:
ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30th, 1885.
GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.
This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every case; and 99 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Doubtful weather and the late sledging of this season causes our villages to assume a more lively appearance.

Farmers and others are at a great disadvantage not being able to get rolling properly hereabouts. No place in the Dominion affords better opening for a "flour mill" than Omemee—also a sash and door factory, "woolen factory," "butter tub" and "cheese-box" factory. Rents, taxes, fuel and etc., are exceedingly low.

Mr. McNeely of "McNeely & Waters," contractors, accompanied the "Trent Valley" deputation to Ottawa. When this scheme is accomplished, we hope to become united to Peterborough, and form the Chicago, of the Dominion.

Farmers visiting Peterborough markets from this section last Saturday, speak very highly of the fine samples "Ife wheat" raised in the Northwest for sale in Flavelle's seed store. Quite an emigration from here the coming spring.

Dr. Kincaid passed through here last week and so hale and hearty looking, no wonder that he has the confidence of restoring the sick and afflicted people.

There is quite a noticeable "enthusiasm" existing in the different churches here of late, and the Salvation Army is largely attended, and very well conducted under the two late female captains.

The patrons of the EXAMINER call promptly for their papers, which generally go the rounds with their neighborers.

BROKEN ARM.

Last Thursday as Mrs. Phalen, who resides near the village was returning from town, she upset the cutter in trying to turn out for a load of wood and broke her left arm above the wrist. She drove on to the village and had the injured member attended to.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

On Monday morning while Mr. H. Wynne was working at the new dam he got one of his fingers caught in the chain attached to the hoist and had the top taken off it; the injury while very painful has not prevented Harry from attending to work.

SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army are still "Holding the Fort" here and are favoured with full meetings. A subscription for a drum was taken up, so we may soon expect to be favoured with any amount of noise if not music.

NEW GRIST MILL.

The inside work of Messrs. Stricklands' new grist mill will soon be finished under the energetic management of the contractor. We understand Mr. Donald McLean, of Young's Point, has secured it from Messrs. Strickland and will begin operations next month. Donald will have one of the most complete mills in the county.

Father Damen, who 12 years ago voluntarily went as a missionary among the lepers on the lonely island Molokai, of the Hawaiian group, has fallen a victim to the disease without any hope of cure.

It is said that the outlines of two Bills are before the British Cabinet—one for a Dublin Parliament and the other specifying the sum required to purchase the landlord's interests.

The descent of Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt on our Southern coast may mean the capture of our outlying islands by Northern nabobs. Mr. Thomas Carnegie (not Mr. Andrew Carnegie, as is erroneously printed,) is already intrenched on the southern end of Cumberland, in the ancient home of the Greenes. He has retouched the incomparable avenues and rose-gardens of Dungeness at a cost of $70,000, and is said to have spent $250,000 in restoring the mansion and grounds. There, amid his orange-groves and live oaks, he has a home worthy of a Prince. Both Jay Gould and James Gordon Bennett have cruised along the Georgia coast and looked with longing eyes on the beautiful isles that stand between it and the sea.

Jekyll's Island, which Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt rode 2,000 miles to see, is one of the smallest on the coast, measuring about seven miles in length and averaging two in width. Its climate is perfect. St. Simon's on the north and Cumberland on the south sheltering it from boisterous winds. It fronts Brunswick, and stands high and clear above the sea. The growth is live oak and palmettoes. Oranges thrive on the island and the grass is luxuriant. Jekyll's was the point selected by the slave-ship Wanderer for landing its cargo of slaves. I have heard men tell of visiting the island that year and seeing hundreds of wild Africans ducking and scurrying amid the long grass. A force of canoes deported them rapidly from Jekyll's to neighboring islands and mainland, and when the Wanderer was captured less than a hundred of the slaves were found there.

Jekyll's now belongs to Mr. John Du Bignon, and is used mainly for grazing purposes. If Mr. Vanderbilt buys it a wonderful transformation may be expected. He inherited $50,000,000 in one block from his father, and is good for as much more. His wife is the leader of all the Vanderbilts in fashion. It was she who spent $150,000 on a single ball two seasons ago. When she joins her husband in making of Jekyll's a winter home, where spring reigns perpetually, a fashionable train will follow, and the inland waters of our coast will sparkle with yachts.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Robert Toombs' Wife.

Mr. Toombs' married life was a beautiful one. Mrs. Toombs was always his tender and faithful friend, his relief in sickness, his joy in health, his partner in his good fortune, and his comfort under all circumstances. She never had cause but for the most unshaken confidence in his virtue. Her heart was never chilled by the least indifference, receiving nothing from him but his tenderest love. He ever kept alive the flame kindled in youth, constantly fed by gentleness of affection, kindliness of manner and depth of regard, and thus cherished a holy light, that cheered and gladdened his hearth and home until the last hours of his life. As she became feeble from age and disease he could see that her cheek was paler, that her smile had a fainter play, and that her footsteps flagged with a weaker ring, yet he found on her cheek a bloom of affection, a richer damask than the bloom of health. His smile irradiated his home, threw beauty upon the features of the chosen one of his youth, and kindled light upon the forehead of his children. Many great men are retired and distant in domestic life; many are absorbed in business or their studies, and are unwilling to be disturbed by the ordinary occurrences of life, and are seldom communicative and pleasant at home. General Toombs ever showed the fondness and solicitude of a man who seemed to have no cares for others on his mind outside his family.—Atlanta Constitution.

Important Notice - To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every housekeeper, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $360 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $300 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and them we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine collectors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered in these outof employment to make money.

CAMPBELL'S TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

A musical jubilee was held at the barracks later on, at which the Army's celebrated singers distinguished themselves.

A Barber's Scrape.

The Opera House was again well filled last night to witness the sparkling comedy of "A Barber's Scrape." The audience were kept in convulsions of laughter during the whole evening and went away highly pleased. Local hits were numerous and not objectionable.

Knights of Labor.

A meeting of the Knights of Labor was held last night in Treaum's hall. The workings of the order were discussed, but no definite action was done. In fact, nothing farther can be done until the organizer arrives. He will be here some time next month, or forty days after the charter was applied for.

Cheap Reading.

Sailsbury & Bros. have received another instalment of Cassel's National Library, among them "Sermons on the Creed," directed against the vice of card playing, by Hugh Latimer, who played so conspicuous a part in the Reformation. The above sermons as well the "Sermon on the Plough" are comprised in a plainly printed volume for ten cents only, to be had at Sailsbury & Bros.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The interest in the meetings conducted by Mr. Schiverea, the evangelist, is unabated. The George street church was crowded to the doors again last night. The morning and to-day meetings in the Y.M.C.A. rooms were also well attended. To-morrow and till further notice the morning meetings will be held in the Baptist church, the Y.M.C.A. rooms being too small. The afternoon meetings will be held in St. Andrew's school room.

Port Hope Can't Afford It.

It seems that Port Hope is going to abandon the electric light system recently adopted by the corporation, the cost of maintenance being too great. Yesterday's Guide contains a farewell ode to the vivid light. It ends up with:

Dionysius escorting to her home
The lady love,
Thy absence will regret
And sigh for thy return.
But we can go to thee,
Can leave the home of our adoption
And find thee beaming brightly
In the Fair Western City.

Why go so far as the Western City when Peterborough is as well stocked, and much nearer.

Beautiful Railway Coaches

This morning there arrived, per the morning G. T. R. express from Port Hope, two splendid cars just finished by Mr. James Crossen's car works, Cobourg, for the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway. The cars, which consist of a second-class passenger coach and smoker, mail and baggage car, are splendid specimens of the car-builders' art. They are finished inside in all native woods—ash and maple—the combination producing an exceedingly light and cheerful effect. The heating and lighting are of the most approved modern styles. The windows, as suits the blizzardous climate of the Northwest, are all double. Mr. Crossen has supplied all the passenger rolling stock of the M. & N. W. R. R., and has, of course, given the best of satisfaction. The above cars are not only finished excellently above, but the rolling gear is of the best. During their first run of 40 miles from Cobourg to Peterborough the boxes hardly heated enough to melt the tallow. These cars were sent through on the Winnipeg express to-day. Mr. Crossen has other cars in construction for this road.

Police Court.

Mayor Stevenson occupied the bench at the Police Court this morning. R. McKay, was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk in a public place. He admitted the charge and was fined $2 and costs.

Oysters, Oysters

By the quart, tin or pail. New York Counts and New York Selects, in tins; New York Selects, in bulk. Game, poultry, etc., always on hand at Smith's market.

Opening of the New Cells.

The first victim was lodged in the new cells last night by P. C. Pidgeon, with due and becoming ceremony. In future the new cells will be used for the purpose for which they were intended. The reporters of the town papers to-day received an invitation to hold a farewell meeting in the old cells this evening. The police to officiate. But considering where the invitation came from and other minor points of etiquette they declined without thanks.

Market Items.

The market this morning, despite the beautiful weather, was not over the average. Hay, potatoes, meats and eggs were the principal offerings. Eggs have taken a tumble down to 13 and 15c. per dozen. Prices were as follows: Butter, in prints, 17c. to 18c.; eggs, 13c. to 15c.; turkeys, $1.00 to $1.25; beef, $4 to $6 per cwt.; pork, per cwt., $6 to $6.50; cut up, per pound, 7c. to 8c.; veal, per pound, 6c. to 7c.; potatoes, 60c. per bag; beets, per peck, 15c.; turnips, per peck, 8c.; carrots, per peck, 10c. Apples, hay and wood remain the same as last week.

An Effective Interview.

The county deputation which went to Toronto yesterday, to interview the Ministry with regard to legislation with respect to bridges, returned home yesterday evening, having accomplished the object of their visit. The deputation, in company with a deputation from York county on a similar mission, had an interview with the Committee on Municipal Bills. The committee agreed to withdraw all municipal bills with regard to bridges, holding them over until next session, with the understanding that they would issue a bill to be sent to the County Councils throughout Ontario, for consideration and an expression of views on the subject.

Disappointed Damsels.

A little incident occurred yesterday which raised considerable breeze in the breasts of a pair of damsels. Next to their residence is a vacant lot and the young ladies seeing a gentleman or two armed with an instrument like a photographer's camera, concluded he was preparing to "take" their residence and they decided to be "took" too—included in the picture.—Accordingly they bustled about and "got ready," taking their hair (only half curled or crimped) out of papers, and making other, as elaborate, preparations as time would permit. They then posed as gracefully as possible on the verandah for about half an hour, waiting for the photo man to draw a bead on the house and themselves. But no notice was taken by the man of the instrument, but the girls took cold and took on like little maniacs, when they learned that a surveyor's theodolite is not used in photograpic operations.

Oddfellows' Visit.

Last evening by invitation from their brethren in Lindsay, the following members of Mount Hebron Encampment went to Lindsay to participate and assist on the occasion of the removal of the Guiding Star Encampment from Manilla to Lindsay. Messrs. R. W. Bell, M.D., R. W. Errett, E. E. Henderson, S. Jameson, Harry Long, J. C. T. Lacey, W. Matthews, Joseph Mills, D. H. Moore, R. Nimmo, J. D. Tully and T. Workman. The encampment had formerly had its headquarters at Manilla, but as most of the members belonged to Lindsay, it was considered advisable to make the change that took place on Monday evening. The occasion was celebrated in the new Oddfellows' Hall, a very handsome and well furnished and equipped lodge room, in Britton's block. There were a number of initiations illustrating the work, and in the ceremonies incident to which, all the visiting members took prominent parts. After the ceremonies were concluded the visiting brethren were hospitably entertained at refreshments at the Dominion hotel. At two o'clock a.m. the brethren separated, all well pleased with the fraternal and social enjoyment the occasion had afforded, and the Peterborough party being especially pleased with the exceedingly hospitable reception given them. They returned by the morning train.

A Close Call.

This morning two gentlemen, one a lawyer and the other a local capitalist, who is such by virtue of having nothing to do with lawyers, except in a superficial, social way, stood conversing on the street beside the Dolan Block. After chatting a few minutes, the lawyer made a charge of venue, and the capitalist, who, by the way, is a military man also, "took ground to the left." Scarcely had they taken up their new position, when a huge fragment of solid ice fell from the cornice to the pavement with a crash upon the very spot where, but a minute before, two of our citizens were peacefully gossiping. If they had remained in the first position a minute longer they would have certainly been mowed down by the sickle of death in the shape of an icicle as long as the lawyer's bill of costs in an appeal case and as heavy as the capitalist's bank account on a coupon day. Why they changed their positions neither one can tell, but they feel that they owe their lives to that circumstance. They were very deeply impressed with the closeness of the call, and showed their gratitude for their escape in a characteristic manner. The lawyer reached to his office and, unearthing an old college text book, recited with unction the Horatian ode—in arborem cujus casu pene oppressus fuerat, while the capitalist went to church and expressed his gratitude in a more orthodox manner.

Going.

The snow is rapidly disappearing around town, and it requires half a dozen men to keep the channels open to run off the streets to prevent flooded cellars.

Shoppers.

The 17th of Ireland.

To-day is the anniversary of St. Patrick, Ireland's patron saint. Patriotic Irishmen commemorated the occasion by decking themselves with a sprig of shamrock or its equivalent in green ribbon. Service were held in St. Peter's Cathedral, mass being celebrated at 6, 8 and 10.30 o'clock this morning. At 10.30 o'clock His Lordship Bishop Jamot celebrated Pontificial High Mass, assisted by Rev. Father Conway, as high priest; Rev. Father O'Brien, as deacon; Sub-Deacon Mr. P. Rudkins, as sub-deacon, and Rev. Father Lavesque, as master of ceremonies. The Pontificial benediction was given at this mass, for which His Lordship received special permission at his last audience with the Holy Father, Rev. Father Conway reading the official document conferring this favor, precious to every true Catholic.

Wedding Bells.

Smith Township Joins in the Hymeneal Procession.

Two weddings in Peterborough on Monday, made a little social stir, prognosticating a lively week. Tuesday, in town, at least, did not keep up the record but Smith township lent its aid. On Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. Frank Sanderson, Rev Mr. Torrance united in marriage, Mr. Andrew Johnston and Miss Ella Dykes, Mr. Frank Sanderson, in loco parentis, giving the bride away. Mr. Ed. Sanderson, performed the duties of best man and the bride was supported by three bridesmaids, Miss Flora Nethercutt, Miss Mary Edger and Miss Maggie McKee. The bride was beautifully attired in cream satin with oriental lace trimming. The first bridesmaid, Miss Nethercutt wore white satin with lace trimming. Miss Edger was dressed in white nun's veiling trimmed with cream lace, while Miss McKee appeared in pale blue nun's veiling with white lace trimmings. There were a large number of wedding guests present to participate in the enjoyment of the occasion, to admire the beautiful and varied array of handsome bridal presents, and partake of the elaborate and sumptuous wedding repast provided and the social festivities that succeeded. The happy pair went on no extended bridal tour. They repaired quietly this morning to the home in Smith prepared for them, which we, with their hosts of friends, hope may long continue to be a happy home to them.

Personal.

F. Stancliffe, general manager of the British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company, was registered at the Oriental to-day.

Rev. Dr. McTavish, of Lindsay, assisted in the evangelistic services, yesterday evening, in the George street church. He was the guest of Rev. Mr. Torrance while in town.

Ed. Blake, Toronto, commercial traveller, was registered at the Grand Central yesterday evening and to-day. Considerable speculation was indulged in as to whether it was Hon. Edward Blake or not. The proprietor gave it as his opinion that it was the honorable gentleman, who was in town on business in connection with the new post-office site.

A Successful Remedy.

Dr. Dorenwend's German "Hair Magic" has proved itself to be a first-class remedy for gray, and thin hair. The sale of it is rapidly increasing everywhere. Where the roots of the hair are not altogether destroyed, it will make it come in thick and strong, and restore the gray hair back to its natural colour. For sale by all principal drug stores. J. Tully, agent for Peterborough.

A Sensation.

An unparalleled sensation is being created all over Ontario by the wonderful and unequalled manner in which Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism Backache, Headache, is removed by but one application of Fluid Lightning. No offensive, disgusting drugs need be taken for days. It is an instant cure. Try a 25c. bottle from J. McKee druggist.

Keepsakes.

Sailors, the most superstitious of men, and oftenest away from Poll or Sue, are great at love tokens. They wear a charm on a silken string round their necks; they tattoo their manly arms with two hearts transfixed with a single arrow, and marked respectively "Jack" and "Molly," and they believe, or pretend to believe in the magic power of such symbolical unions to keep their affections true to their lady loves against all the allurements of alien beauty. Moreover, the keepsake, beside containing as often as possible the hair of the beloved object is almost always made of the precious metals or precious stones. There is a common though indefinite feeling that it ought to be something rather useless in gold or silver. It remains remotely true, in fact, to its amulet origin. Gold and silver and precious stones are of immense antiqnity. Something to hang around your neck on a string; something to wear as a charm on your watch chain; or, failing these, something in the way of necklet, bracelet, brooch, ear-ring—that is the ordinary ideal of the keepsake. The ideal, in short, descends from a time when clothing was scanty, personal ornament was a matter of high importance, barbaric decoration alone was known, and goods and chattels very few and simple. We seldom think of giving as a keepsake anything that can not be worn about the person.—Longman's Magazine.

Got the Best.

A man, after eating a very poor dinner in a third-class restaurant, leaned back and asked of the negro waiter how much money was due.

"Sebenty-fi' cents, sah."

"What, for the wing of a chicken and a piece of corn bread?"

"Yes, sah."

"It's outrageous! I never heard of anything like it before!"

"Boss, lemme tell yer. Yer looked like a man dat wanted de bes' an' I giv' it ter yer."

"The best?"

"Yes, sah, fur dat wuz de wing o' de games' chicken in dis country. If yer wanted common chicken w'yn't say so?"—Arkansaw Traveller.

A well-known writer tell of seeing thousands of small fish migrating across land from one lagoon to another in tropical America. He says they moved as deliberately and unconcernedly as though they had been accustomed to the overland route all their lives.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

THOS. BLEZARD, ESQ., M. P. P.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of the whose portrait is presented above. Though Canadian by birth, he is of English extraction. He is descended from a Yorkshire family, a member of which, Mr. John Blezard, came to Canada in 1819. Mr. Blezard's Yorkshire descent is apparent in his solid and substantial personal presence, his bluff heartiness of jovial address, and in his fondness for a good horse a good ox, and a well tilled farm such as he now occupies. He is one of our most successful farmers in Central Canada. His farm in Otonabee consists of 375 acres, and is one of the finest in this section of the country. He is a thorough agriculturist and stock breeder at heart, and has always a keen eye for the interests of the class to which he belongs, which largely accounts for his being chosen by overwhelming majorities as the representative of an almost exclusively rural riding. He is a warm encourager of agricultural exhibitions, and takes a warm and personal interest in everything that concerns the welfare and happiness of his constituents, regardless of their political faith. His liberal mind, which concedes equal rights to all in the enjoyment of opinions, has no room for bigotry. He is always approachable and greets a friend with a heartiness and kindliness that have made him the most personally popular man in the district. When a member of the County Council he was one of the most popular members, and if he had not gone higher would have been Warden long ago. His constituents have stood by him, and, if he increases in popularity between this and the next general election as he did between his first and second elections, he will be returned by a majority of between 600 and 800. He is liberal in his support of worthy objects, and no subscription list that can command respect, ever leaves his hand without his signature opposite a liberal donation, and very little of his sessional allowance finds its way into his personal assets at the end of the session. For the past quarter of a century he has held various municipal representative positions. In 1879 he was first returned to the Local House by a large majority, and so highly were his services appreciated that in the general election of 1883 he was again returned by a majority of nearly 400—300. As a member of the House he is undemonstrative, but he "is there." He is a faithful and effective worker in committee, but seldom troubles the House with speeches, though when he has anything to say he can say it with credit to himself and the enlightenment of the House on the subject under discussion. He is a staunch supporter of the Liberal Government of Hon. Mr. Mowat; he enjoys the respect of his fellow members, and the full confidence of his constituents, which he will retain so long as he continues to so faithfully represent them and guard their interests as he has done in the past. He is always at the post of duty and ever discharges that duty faithfully.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

TUESDAY, MARCH 16th.

The Legislature to-day concurred in the agreement laid before the House between the Grip Printing Company and Warwick Bros. assigning the contract for the Government printing.

Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of the bill to further amend the law in regard to the consolidation of statutes. Various amendments were found to be necessary, and it was thought well to incorporate all in one bill. One of the most important sections of the bill is one intended to facilitate the settling of the question of Provincial jurisdiction. It provides that the High Court shall have a jurisdiction to entertain an action at the instance of either the Province of Ontario or the Dominion for a declaration as to the validity of any statute of Ontario, though no further relief is prayed.

Mr. Meredith thought this was beyond the jurisdiction of the Province.

The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Mowat's bill respecting the districts of Algoma, Thunder Bay and Parry Sound was read a second time.

The House then went into Committee on Mr. Pardee's bill for free grants to settlers in the Rainy River District. Mr. Pardee had the bill amended so as to give 120 acres instead of 80 to unmarried men. The bill was then reported.

Mr. G. W. Ross' resolutions relating to mechanics' institutes were passed through committee.

The bill respecting liquor licenses was amended in committee so as to exclude port, sherry and maderia from the list of foreign wines which may be sold by the holders of wines and beer licenses.

The following Government measures were advanced a stage: Bills to amend the act respecting the Industrial Refuge for Girls and the Reformatory for Boys so as to allow discharges on probation; respecting the taxation of lands in Algoma; respecting the Private Lunatic Asylums Bill; respecting the Vaccination Bill; respecting the Land Improvement Fund, and the bill consolidating the Separate School law.

Protecting the Press.

The Globe had to answer on Monday at the Brampton assizes for an alleged libel, damages laid at $10,000, by one George Tait, for remarks regarding the latter's connection with a charge under the Charlton Seduction Act. Though the libel suit was decided in the Globe's favor, it makes the following pertinent remarks thereon:—

The Globe claims no special privileges for the newspaper fraternity. If in any case wrong is done, by all means let that wrong be rectified, and if necessary atoned for. At the same time, newspapers have a right to expect that they should be protected from vexatious law suits and blackmailing conspiracies.

Throughout the whole of its course the Globe has spoken out frankly and fearlessly against every wrong, however supposedly sacred and privileged, and against every wrongdoer, however powerful and malignant. It has never followed the plan of attacking the weak and sparing the strong, and it is to be hoped that it never will. It has called falsehood false, and the wrongdoer dishonorable. It has characterized iniquity in high places as it deserved, and it has not spared the most pretentious even in their place of pride and power.

But at the same time it has ever been ready to make every reparation in its power for any wrong it may have unintentionally done, for any false impression it may have created, for any erroneous information it may have given. Those who have fancied that they got less than justice have always had the use of our columns to expose the mistake and put themselves right before the the public. We have no interest in persisting in holding by erroneous information after we have found that it is erroneous, and we have never hesitated to correct any statement which we have found to have been misleading. We have done this once and again in the most absolute and unmistakeable terms, and in similar circumstances are prepared to do so again.

But while we say all this, it is only in order the more energetically to repeat that no possible consideration will induce us to turn aside by a hair's breadth from exposing and condemning in befittingly strong terms all conduct that is hurtful to the public interests and corrupting to the public morals. We have had a good deal of this disagreeable yet necessary work to perform, and we rather suspect we shall have still more of it.

Our report of the Brampton case, to be in our columns this morning, gives an illustration in point. Malice against the complainant we could have none. We had never heard of his name. We could not have known him from Adam. He was to us as much a stranger as if he had been born in the Dog Star. Our remarks were based on the evidence in a public trial, and on what we regarded and regard as a fair inference from a Judge's charge. We at the same time subsequently gave all explanations in our power, and we opened our columns to this aggrieved person's own vindication. What more could we have done? Yet we have been subjected to all the trouble, vexation, and expenses of a suit in which the jury scarcely took the trouble of leaving their seats before finding a verdict in our favour. And as the end of it we have to pay our own costs, the plaintiff being practically without means. We blame not, in this case, the plaintiff's lawyer. Mr. Fleming made the best of a very bad case, and can only be blamed for being somewhat unnecessarily ignorant of his client's antecedents. Mr. Osler conducted the defence in a way which left nothing to be desired, and Judge Galt made a strong, able, and common-sense charge. But surely before such suits are allowed there should be some guarantee for the costs should the suits be dismissed as unfounded and vexatious.

A worse class still of libel suits is where predatory shysters, whose legitimate business is small, and whose needs are great, watch for and put up cases for the simple purpose of blackmailing. Such legal vampires will take advantage of a proof-reader's mistake, or the accidental change of a name, to present their stand and deliver missives, in the hope that the accused will come down handsomely rather than have the case go to Court, with all the great expense attendant thereupon, and the certainty that costs cannot be collected from the plaintiff. Now surely newspapers ought to have some protection from such wretches! The Globe has suffered an infinite amount of annoyance and expense from the operations of these harpies. Is there no remedy? There ought to be. If it is thought that in this way exposures will be avoided and deserved chastisement staved off, there never was a greater mistake. We will neither be bullied, blackmailed, nor silenced.

Davitt on Home Rule Government.

LONDON, March 17.—Mr. Davitt, in a speech at Oxford, announced that his idea of a Home Rule Government was that it would always be a representative of the Crown and have command of the Imperial forces in Ireland. The power of veto should be allowed, and the assembly would consist of 300 members, 70 or 80 of whom, perhaps, might not be Home Rulers. The Government should consist of Ministers of Finance, Land, Agriculture, Local Government, Pub Works and Education, and should have control of the police and forces, and of the Excise Department, without which it would be a farce. He believed Ireland will not impose import duties.

Summary of Proceedings.

In the Commons several private bills yesterday received their first reading, and questions were answered relating to the Northwest and other subjects. In amendment to Mr. Amyot's motion for some papers in relation to the Riel case, Sir H. Langevin moved to proceed with the debate on the motion of censure of the Government for hanging Riel. Mr. Edgar moved to add words to the original motion declaring that it was the duty of the Government to bring down the papers showing the state of the Northwest before, during and after the rebellion. This was ruled out of order, and a lively debate took place on Sir H. Langevin's motion, in which Mr. Blake led, arguing strongly against forcing on the decision while the evidence was refused. Messrs. White (Cardwell), Cameron (Huron), Desjardins and Amyot also took part in the debate, when Sir H. Langevin's motion was carried by 116 to 75. The debate on the Riel case was resumed by Sir A. Caron and the house adjourned at 6 o'clock in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

Mr. Jolineck had been engaged in a row with the elevator boy in the flat; where he resided, and had succeeded in making that juvenile functionary exceedingly wroth. About fifteen minutes after he had gone up to his rooms, a stranger came to the elevator.

"Boy," he inquired, "is there a gentleman in this flat by the name of Jolineck?"

"No, there ain't," replied the boy gruffly.

"Are you quite sure?"

"Of course, I am. I've been engineering this elevator ever since this flat was built, and I ought to know."

The stranger left, and shortly afterward came back, looking like a man who had heard something.

"I say, my boy," he remarked pleasantly, "is there an old hog rooting around in a pen on the top floor of this shebang?"

"You bet there is," responded the boy, with a fraternal smile of sympathy. "Climb in and I'll h'ist you up there in about two shakes of a sheep's tail. When you get up to the top you can track him down the hall by the bristles on the floor."—Merchants' Traveler

Notes From The Capital.

Mr. Curran's Attack on Archbishop Taché.

[Correspondence of the Globe.]

OTTAWA, March 16.—The Tories are now disgusted with themselves for allowing Mr. Curran, of Montreal, to run amuck in the House yesterday. He was a veritable bull in a china shop. He wantonly insulted Archbishop Taché by charging that he would not repeat under oath what he stated in his published letter with regard to Riel's insanity. Mr. Curran charged that the Archbishop had not been called as a witness to prove the insanity plea because he would have sworn that Riel was sane. Now, it happens that Archbishop Taché, in a letter published shortly after the execution, declared that Riel was a megalomaniac, and that the Government had hanged an insane man. To-day Mr. Curran received resenting the imputation that he would publish statements which he would not repeat under oath, and asking for a retraction and apology. And that is not the only scrape into which the windbag from Montreal has got himself into. He has enraged the Ontario Tories by his efforts to prove that the Conservatives were the enemies of the Orangemen, and that Mr. Blake and the Liberals were their friends.

A LETTER FROM THE ARCHBISHOP

To-day Mr. Royal introduced a Bill to incorporate the Lake Superior, Minnesota, and Manitoba Railway Co. The motion was seconded by Mr. Ross. Now, as the Government and the Pacific Railway Company are likely to oppose this Bill, it is reasonable to expect that both the members named will vote against their own Bill, unless indeed they have been given some "blind shares" in the company.

THE DEBATE ON THE RIEL QUESTION

was resumed to-day by Mr. Rykert, who soon emptied the House and galleries. Nobody, even on the Tory side, pays any attention to what he says. His "scraps" are used up, and his taking the floor only serves to remind the House of the Adams timber limit grab. Would it not be proper to speak of those Tories who have been "fixed" with with the grants of timber limits as after the manner in which certain incorporated companies are styled? Mr. Rykert's style of discussion is peculiar to himself. For instance to-day he referred to Mr. M. C. Cameron's charge that the Tories were trying to make a political platform out of Riel's scaffold, and deliberately charged Mr. Cameron with saying that he (Mr. Cameron) intended to make a political platform out of that scaffold. It is to the credit of the Ministerial party that the majority of them are ashamed of Rykert.

THE ROBITAILLE RAILWAY JOB.

The Government are to be asked for explanations concerning the Robitaille Railway job. Two years ago they took authority to build a branch of the Intercolonial Railway from Metapadia to Paspebiac. After spending some thousands of dollars upon that proposed railway, the Government illegally and without any authority from Parliament made an agreement with Senator Robitaille to hand over the branch to him so that he might get the benefit of the money the Government had expended upon it.

SUBSIDIES AMOUNTING TO OVER $20,000

per mile were to be given him and his associates. Having secured this illegal contract, the Senator sought to sell it for $25,000 cash. He seemed particularly anxious that some Reform capitalist should buy him out, imagining no doubt in that event the job would not be exposed or attacked. But the contract with the Senator and his family must be laid before Parliament and he may find that his ratification may not be such a mere formality, as he told some of those whom he urged to buy him out, it would be. The influence of the Robitailles over the Ministry is a mystery, though some explain it by saying that the greater portion of the $25,000 which Robitaille expects to get by selling his contract, will go into the Tory corruption fund, or that he will divide up with some personages more intimately connected with the Government than himself.

THOSE ORANGE PETITIONS.

Mr. Taylor has been put up by the Government to ask if any and how many petitions or resolutions were sent by Orange Lodges, asking that the sentence of death upon Riel be carried into effect. Surely Mr. Taylor does not question the truth of the Mail's statement that counter petitions asking that the sentence of death passed upon Louis Riel be carried into effect, were sent up the Government, when the petitions asking for clemency began to be received from Quebec. Probably the petitions, communications, and resolutions protesting against clemency have been (like cipher telegrams sent from Regina by the official' colonial cleaners) returned to those who sent them, and that therefore Mr. Taylor can safely question the Government on the subject.

MR. RYKERT'S INSOLENCE.

This afternoon Mr. Rykert, a thorough-paced Government supporter, became so abusive and indecent in his language that the Speaker was obliged to interfere to correct him. Then the member for Lincoln flared up and tried to intimidate Mr. Speaker by charging him with partiality and threatening to appeal to the partisan Tory majority against his rulings. In thus defying the authority of the chair, he was most indecently encouraged by the Minister of the Interior, who, as one of His Excellency's advisers, should have had better manners.

PROPOSAL TO DOUBLE THE DUTY ON COAL.

A delegation of gentlemen interested in Nova Scotia coal mines have been here for some time urging that as the present high tax upon American coal has not given them a monopoly of the Ontario and Quebec market, the duty should be increased to $1 per ton. Strange to say they have taken pains to impress their views, not upon the Minister of Finance, but upon Mr. Thos. White, who, they seem to think, should have been given that portfolio. This is another indignity to which Mr. McLelan may not tamely submit. No doubt Mr. White, as would not object to a tax of $1 or $2 upon coal if it would bring any votes to his party or personal advantage to himself. Cannot the coal men induce Mr. White to accept some stock in a coal company?

Ireland and the League.

At a regular meeting of the national league held in Dublin, the lord mayor presiding, Timothy Harrington, treasurer of the parliamentary fund, announced that since last meeting there had been received from the different branches of the league in Ireland $2080, and from Canada and Massachusetts $1445. The lord mayor stated that despite the utmost exertions of the league, it had been found impossible to entirely stop agrarian outrages in the remoter districts of the country, and he believed nothing would prevent their occurrence until the country had its land system placed on an entirely different basis. He believed Mr. Gladstone meant to heal the long standing trouble of the Irish people. The very threats which the Orangemen made to resist home rule, if it should be accorded to Ireland, justified the feeling entertained towards them and their English supporters by the great bulk of the Irish and which was sometimes pronounced to be disloyalty.

A CHARMING WIDOW.

"The idea of that little thing being a widow!"

"And a widow of four years' standing! It fairly takes one's breath away. She doesn't look a day over fifteen."

"Except in a strong light. In a strong light she would be taken for every day of twenty-one. I never settle upon a woman's age until I have seen her in a strong light."

This rather pointed remark from the lips of Miss Pickett, a spinster whose age was frankly beyond despair, seemed to produce an electric effect. Every woman on the piazza, as though suddenly reminded of a neglected duty, began carefully protecting her eyes from the glare of the sky.

"I wonder if she will get the Englishman," began the first speaker again. "She is putting in some pretty hard work. Her slightest glances are the incarnation of flattery."

"A great mistake. Never give a man more than he expects—you will only bore him."

"I am not so sure of that. A man is a very weak thing."

"Well, mark my word—he doesn't mean anything; he is only amusing himself."

A boarding-house in Santa Barbara, even when nestled amidst all the luxuriance of semi-tropical California, is quite like other boarding-houses after all. It contained the usual abundance of idle women, the usual scarcity of vigorous men, the usual superfluity of gossip.

So it happened that the boarders at Radcliffe Mansion—which, by the way, was no more of a mansion than any respectable two-story building, but was burdened with that title in deference to the prevailing Californian tendency to make everything greater than it is—were all more or less interested in Mrs. Cora Tyrrell.

Mrs. Tyrrell sat opposite me at table, and I used to watch her in a sort of amaze that anyone could be so young and fresh and fair and yet be widowed. Her form was absurdly slight for a full grown woman's, while her face was as sweet and guileless as a child's.

She some way reminded me of a pansy, particularly when she wore a slightly flaring hat, its dusky brim setting off to perfection the transparency of her complexion, the soft baby-like rings of her hair, the large, tender, pathetic eyes.

Beauty of this sort wins women as well as men. Even Miss Pickett, noted for the severity of her mental atmosphere, was subjugated. Not a woman grudged Mrs. Tyrrell her beauty, but several drew the line at the Englishman. Feminine generosity has its limits.

You see Percy Elliott was the only eligible man at Radcliffe Mansion—eligible in the world's acceptation of the term, which has a well-defined reference to an irreproachable bank-account—and it was hard to watch him slowly disappear down the widow's little throat.

He was a tall, nonchalant young fellow, quite convinced of his own importance, after the fashion of his countrymen. A certain narrowness of chest told why he was wintering in this far western land; and frequent horseback rides with Mrs. Tyrrell told that he believed in mingling business with pleasure.

She was a wonderful horsewoman, riding as easily without the saddle as with it, and jumping any fence without a tremor. These equestrian duets stimulated the boarders to the liveliest speculation.

Cora certainly was not overburdened with money, though her taste in dress skillfully concealed the deficiency. Jewelry of every description she utterly eschewed; but the gloom of her crape was exquisitely relieved by flowers.

She was never without flowers upon her breast; at first modest demure violets, suggestive of widowhood; then as the days wore on, roses—white for a long time, and finally pink.

I came to measure the progress of her affair with Mr. Elliott by these roses: when the pink ones appeared I was as excited as a girl over her first offer.

It was about this time that the boarders learned through a cousin of Elliott's, a lad who had accompanied him from England, that there was another factor in this interesting case. He said that Percy was engaged to an English girl and was to be married the following winter.

My woman's curiosity so far got the better of my manners that I finally spoke to Cora about it. She looked at me quietly for a moment, and then murmured:

"Yes, I know."

"Then it is true?" I asked eagerly.

"That is Mr. Elliott's affair," she answered with a shade of reproof.

The boarders, as if moved by one common impulse, persisted in declaring that Elliott "didn't mean anything."

"Of course he's getting all the fun he can out of it," observed one experienced matron; "but marriage is quite another matter."

Then there was the English girl—or, rather, the rumor of her.

But I was not so sure about it. To me it seemed very plain that from marked indifference this nonchalant Englishman had gradually awakened into vivid interest, and as time wore on I could have sworn that Mrs. Tyrrell was becoming a necessity to him.

He teased and tormented and even bullied the little widow, but at the same time he began to follow her every movement with his eyes, to play with his soup until she appeared at table, to wander in his replies whenever he was addressed.

Languid he was at all times, but there is a natural and affected languor, and it seemed to me that the less he retained the one the more he cultivated the other.

Few men can resist the daily presence of soft tender eyes raised in appeal to their superior manhood—of an artless innocence needing constant correction from their large knowledge of the world.

Miss Pickett and Mr. Elliott were always at loggerheads. Her keen sallies were unfeminally wounding his self-love; his languid assumption of superiority was a perpetual insult to her progressive womanhood, and so their mutual antipathy gradually expanded into solid hatred.

Miss Pickett was too thoroughly feminine not to be agressive in her hostility, so when I observed her closeted with Mrs. Tyrrell for two hours one day, I easily guessed what it meant.

It all came out the next evening, on the hill behind the house, whither Cora, Elliott, and I had strolled. Mrs. Tyrrell leaned back against a friendly mound and looked out into the night—one of those exquisite, luminous, distinctly Californian nights.

The scents of a thousand flowers—that of the orange-blossom rising above the rest as the voice of the prima donna leads and accentuates the song of the chorus—drifted upward to charm our senses.

Cora sighed a little and then began: "Miss Pickett said I did not understand men at all—that I was too unsuspecting, too confiding. She said men liked to play with such women, but that they suspected most those women who trusted them best."

"Miss Pickett be hanged!" burst forth from Elliott.

"Then you don't think I have done so very wrong?" and her velvet eyes looked into his with a troubled sweetness.

"Wrong! Humph!"

"How dreadful it seems to never trust anyone! I believe I would rather be always deceived than come to that. You see," turning to me, "I am strangely situated. I am a widow, and yet I am scarcely more than a girl. You never have heard about my marriage? It occurred four years ago, when I was only seventeen, and still at school. Mr. Tyrrell was kind to me—and I was romantic. We were married on a Friday, and on Monday my husband was summoned to Mexico on business. It was August, and they feared I would take the fever, so it was decided that I must remain at home. Some time in September came a telegram announcing Mr. Tyrrell's death. A wife of but four weeks, away from my husband when he died—imagine my feelings! For over three years I have lived in seclusion. Now you can understand how natural it is that I should make mistakes."

In her eyes rose a mist that was dangerous to the Englishman's cherished composure. He breathed hard, cleared his throat, and shifted his position. Finally a little smile stole over Cora's lips, and she gave him a glance that was like a caress—I often told her she kissed with her eyes.

The next day who should arrive but the English girl! This advent, it seems, was the result of an arrangement made some months before in England, and which Elliott had not had the nerve to discountenance.

I happened to be passing through the hall when Harriet Norton clasped her lover's hand in greeting. No words are needed to tell a sensitive woman when she has lost a man's affection. Harriet knew it then and there—I could tell by the pallor that overspread her face, and the sudden drawn look about her mouth.

Within ten days she had departed, accompanied by her dignified aunt, who acted as chaperon. Yet though, she was a reserved girl, I had learned to esteem her even in that short time.

"It is very strange," she said. "Percy and I have known each other from childhood. I believed I could trust him utterly." Here a tear welled up in her clear true eyes. "I have never loved any man but him. We were to have been married next winter. I wonder how it will seem never to see him again." Then her gaze wandered over to the softly tinted mountains, and she seemed almost to forget my presence. "He is honorable after a fashion, and he would live up to his word; but I do not care for a promise after the life has gone out of it."

It was perhaps a month after this that Mr. Elliott's engagement to Mrs. Tyrrell was formally announced.

Cora went about with a lithesome subtly suggestive of happiness, yet with no undue demonstrations of triumph. There was even an undercurrent of sadness running through it all, as though she realized that her gain was another's loss. Her conduct began to be pronounced admirable, even by those who at first criticized her severely. Society forgives almost anything sooner than an exhibition of bad taste.

Late one afternoon we were all out on the piazza, Elliott among us waiting for Cora to come down, when a tall stalwart fellow strode up to the door.

There was a certain boldness in his stride, a certain freedom in the swing of his arms, which bespoke determination.

He asked for Mrs. Tyrrell. She happened to come out just then, looking even more dainty than usual, in her clinging riding-habit. But as she caught sight of the visitor she stopped short, as though turned to stone.

"Well, Cora," he began.

Still he did not speak, but simply stared rigidly before her, her cheeks as white as the flowers at her breast.

"I don't call this exactly a tropical greeting," he continued.

Somebody laughed. Cora's pallor changed to a hot red. She shut her teeth together with a snap.

"I thought you were in Australia," she gasped.

"Yes, I know you did," he rejoined with asperity. "But you see I am back again. You might as well pack up and come along."

"I will not," she answered, digging her little heels into the floor.

"You will not?" quietly. "I think you will."

At this Percy Elliott arose, and walking resolutely up to the man said:

"Understand that you are dealing with a man as well as a defenseless woman."

"And what business is it of yours?" retorted the stranger coolly. "I reckon a man has a right to his own wife."

We looked at one another aghast.

But it proved only too true. This was Mrs. Tyrrell's husband; she had been married ten years, and, worst of all, she was thirty-three years old!

The Santa Barbara Vulture ferreted it all out and served it up in three double-loaded columns. Its diligence also discovered that soon after meeting Elliott the enterprising widow had secretly instituted a suit for divorce, Tyrrell returning from Australia barely in time to quash the proceedings.

"She's the smartest woman on the whole coast," he proudly observed to the interrogating reporter—"if I am speaking of my own property."

We saw Mrs. Tyrrell no more. It was our last glimpse of those appealing eyes, that soft silken hair.

Elliott left precipitately for England. I hope that Harriet Norton was strong enough to withstand his contrite tears. But a woman's heart is a curious thing.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

A Quiet 17th of Ireland.

The police report yesterday as the quietest St. Patrick's day in the history of their experience. There were no party rows, and drunks were scant, with one exception. This party, however, did not imbibe on St. Patrick principles, but as an habitual.

His Annual European Trip.

The temptation of not only obtaining a better selection, but better bargains, makes it necessary, with the increase of business, to visit yearly the European markets. In taking leave of my friends and patrons I shall on leavor, as I have in the past, to continue in the future to please them. Thanking them for past favors I ask, respectfully, for a continuance of the same. W. LEOM.

Out on Strike.

The billiard room owners of Port Hope have taken the striking epidemic, and are holding out for a reduction in license fees. The owners of billiard rooms applied to the Town Council for a reduction and were refused, hence the strike. They affirm that they will not open shop till a reduction is granted. If they hold out long the baseball season will be on, and billiards will be at a discount. It does not matter if the baseballers go out on strikes, as that makes the game all the more interesting.

Canoe Shipment.

Mr. William English will, to-morrow, ship five cases, each containing six completely equipped canoes, to his London, England, agent. These canoes are built of basswood and are handsomely finished with butternut deckings, and trimmings. This is one of a series of periodical shipments to this market. Mr. English's exhibit for the Colonial has long since gone forward. It consisted of a consignment of his ordinary commercial make of canoes and was not specially prepared for exhibition, his every-day make being about as good as they can be made.

The Evangelistic Meetings.

The George street church was again crowded last night with an attentive audience, eager to hear Schiveras, the evangelist. The speaker dwelt upon the importance of individual decision and stability. The after-meetings have become so crowded as to almost interfere with progress and last night only Christian workers were invited to remain. A large number waited for this meeting. The morning meeting in the Baptist church the noon meeting in the Y. M. C. A. and the afternoon Bible reading in St. Andrew's school room were all well attended and no doubt will have good results.

Important Sale of Property.

The sale of real estate, farm and park lots, the property of the late James Campbell, conducted at Cavanagh's hotel yesterday afternoon by the popular auctioneer, Chas. Stapleton, was fairly successful, the two parcels sold going at a good figure. Parcel No. 1, about ten acres in the township of North Monaghan, immediately west of "Walkerfield," was not offered for sale. Parcel No. 2, consisting of three park lots in the 12th Concession of the township of North Monaghan, near the Roman Catholic cemetery, was sold to Mr. Frank Brown for $1,420. Parcel No. 3, 106 acres of farm lands in the township of Otonabee, was sold to Mr. Wm. Leahy for $3,220. Parcel No. 4, consisting of seven lots in the township of Smith, was not sold. The bid on this parcel stands at $2,000. Parcel No. 1 would have sold well had it been offered. There were a large number present and bidding was brisk.

One More.

Mr. E. E. Henderson has received the appointment of general agent in this district for the Accident Insurance Co, of North America, head office, Montreal, in addition to his other life and fire insurance agencies. This company is the oldest, strongest and one of the best on the continent. It will pay parties liable to accident to take a risk with Mr. Henderson.

Genuine.

A deaf and dumb man was around town yesterday soliciting alms. He was supposed to be an imposter and many were the means employed to bring him out. Unlike the man who was asked how long he had been a mute, replying, "seven years," he kept a still tongue. His would-be exposers were compelled to give him up as genuine.

Lodge of Instruction.

Right Worshipful Bro. H. Turner, D. D. G. M., Ontario District, of the order of A. F. & A.M., was in town to-day and officiated at a Lodge of Instruction held in the Masonic Lodge rooms this morning. A number members of the order from the surrounding villages were present. Bro. Turner will hold a Lodge of Instruction in Cobourg on Thursday of next week.

From the Depths.

A portion of the British mail, fished up from the sunken Cunarder "Oregon," now lying "full forty fathoms deep" off Sandy Hook, arrived in town to-day. The papers were badly sea-soaked and will only serve as souvenirs for they can hardly be read. The bulk of the British mail, which has been fished out of the "Oregon's" hold, has not yet arrived.

Harvesting License Fees.

Parties who should have taken out licenses at the first of the month have been slow to pay their fees this year. Yesterday afternoon, Chief Cooper taking a cue from the fact took a walk around town and collected from the proprietors of billiard rooms the sum of $750. Thos. Darcy contributed $300, the Oriental $200, the Grand Central $150 and the Croft House, $100. Keep the ball a-rolling.

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

Marbles.

The marble season has commenced and the small boy is himself again. The popular greeting with the small fry is "backs, last," or a synonimous expression. A Hamilton clothier offers 500 marbles with every boys suit as an inducement to purchasers. The offer looks all right, but the investment is a paying one to the clothier, as before a boy will loose 500 marbles he will wear two suits of clothes out, especially at the knees.

A New Citizen's Credentials.

How Alliston Honored Mr. H. S. Griffin.

Many of our readers already are aware that Mr. H. S. Griffin has leased a shop in the Crystal Block, George street, where he will conduct a dry goods and millinery store. The following from the Alliston Herald, published in the place where Mr. Griffin was last located, shows how high a position he held in the estimation of his fellow citizens in that place. The Herald says:—

"In connection with Mr. H. S. Griffin's removal from Alliston his many friends part with him very unwillingly, but since the parting must be they determined that he should not go without some tangible token of the very high esteem is which he is held by them. Accordingly at the conclusion of what was designed to be his farewell address to the Sabbath School on Sunday afternoon, he was presented with a costly edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia in ten volumes, accompanied by an appropriate address. Mr. Griffin replied at length in a very feeling manner. It is not too much to say that Mr. Griffin carries with him the profound respect, not only of the Methodist people in Alliston, but of the entire community. Since he came to Alliston about eight years ago, he has always identified himself with everything that tended for the moral good of the place. In his business relationship he was a man of sterling character, honest and upright in his dealings, and one in whom the people could put the utmost confidence. His connection with the Methodist church will be greatly missed, having held the position of leader of the young people's class, superintendent of the Sabbath school. We understand he intends locating in the flourishing town of Peterborough, where new scenes will be brought before him and new friendships formed. Yet we have no doubt he will occasionally recall the good times spent in Alliston and of his many friends left behind."

THE EXAMINER warmly welcomes Mr. Griffin, and can answer for the people of Peterborough also, cordially receiving a gentleman coming to town with the excellent credentials implied in the above record of Mr. Griffin's moral and business status with those who know him best. We wish him a prosperous business career.

A Chinaman named Song Long arrived a Montreal yesterday in bond from San Francisco and was detained at the Custom House, till consignee, Wah Lee, paid over the fee of $50.

Moukhtar Pasha, on behalf of Turkey, opposes a proposition to reduce the army of occupation. He says the present Egyptian army is not sufficient to defend the frontier.

At the Cork Assizes yesterday Justice O'Brien, said that moonlight outrages continued, but they appeared to be rather for the purpose of robbery than for political purposes.

Personal.

Mr. J. A. Richardson, General Canadian Passenger Agent of the Wabash Railway, is in town to-day.

Mr. T. Menzie's will leave town on Saturday morning, on a business trip to New York.

Mr. Wm. Loch, Peterborough's pioneer farrier, leaves town on Saturday morning, en route for Europe on his annual fur-buying trip. Mr. Loch sails from New York on Sunday morning, on a steamer of the North German Lloyd line.

Mr. R. Herring, representing the well known type founders of Edinburgh and London, Messrs. Miller & Richard, is in town on behalf of the Toronto agency. Mr. Herring was editor and proprietor of the Advertiser, Petrolia, Ont., for over twenty years.

Mr. W. H. Manning, surgeon dentist, has been prostrated with an attack of pneumonia, but his physician does not consider it of a sufficiently severe type to create any alarm and he will soon be able to resume the performance of his professional duties.

Dr. Kincaid has been appointed a member of the Senate of Queen's University, Kingston. This is an honor which is only conferred on distinguished graduates. When Dr. Kincaid graduated he took a high standing, and in his professional career the promise of his graduate standing has been fulfilled, as shown by his selection as member of the Senate of his Alma Mater.

Mr. J. J. English, ("Joe,") a former resident, is in town for a three or four day's visit, after an absence of nine years. Since 1876 he has been connected with the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia. He is now en route for South America, where he goes as the representative of the company. He will sail from New York for South America on the 28th of March. Mr. English is a living example of how a young man by energetic and intelligent application of his own efforts, can rise to a high position of trust and responsibility.

Mr. A. E. Yelland, son of Councillor Yelland, who is pursuing a course of medical study at the Toronto School of Medicine, this morning passed through here on his way to Smith's Falls, where he acts as assistant in the smallpox hospital under the auspices of the Provincial Board of Health. Lacrosse lads who know that "Ab" was never afraid to "tackle" quarter of a ton of opponent on the lacrosse field, are not surprised that he has the pluck to try to "check" an attack of smallpox.

Cookery Classes.

Commencement of Demonstration Classes in this Useful Art by Miss Munro, of England.

Miss Munro, graduate of the National Training School of Cookery, South Kensington, London, England, gave the first of a course of demonstration lessons in the desirable art of plain cooking, last night, in her class rooms, immediately east of Hall, Innes & Co.'s store. Although the class was not very large, Miss Munro commenced her task of imparting the agreeable information. A large, clean table of 4x1½ feet, as bake board, a large gas cooking stove, with pots, pans and other furniture, bowls, basins, dishes and other necessaries composed the apparatus. Miss Munro stood behind the table, facing the class, and as she mixed the ingredients for a desired dish, explained minutely the attention necessary to produce the article to perfection, reducing to practice the scientific principles, showing the proportion of each ingredient and the best form of preparation. The stove was busily engaged in transforming the crude mixtures into mature soups, puddings, etc. Particular attention was given to this important branch; the time and attention required were fully and comprehensively explained.

Ordinary flour, supplemented by eggs, milk, suet, rice, seasoning, etc., after being properly compounded and subjected to the action of heat, was, as if by magic, transformed into most delicious and tempting "Helena Pudding" or some such dish. The pupils in addition to witnessing the work of preparation and cooking, listened to the minute instructions imparted and to aid their memory carefully noted in books the exact proportions used, the manner of mixing and the many other little technicalities acquired by experience and careful study. They were cautioned to guard against whipping an egg as they would a boy, or to mix butter as they would lemonade, raspberry vinegar, etc. The courses will no doubt afford many an opportunity of acquiring a vast amount of valuable information which years of experimenting would fail to give. Peterborough girls should consider seriously the saying,

"The turnpike road to the people's hearts, I find, Lies through their mouths, or I mistake mankind."

And if they would be happy should learn to cook. A leading physician says that bad cooking is responsible for more divorces than any other cause. A good cook will ever retain the affection of her husband, forming a delightful contrast to her who knows not a piece of beef steak from a side of sole leather. They generally marry well, too. It is also pleasant to visit a friend where you can depend on getting nice things to eat.

The initiatory class in superior cooking was held this afternoon. There was a large attendance, and a number of the best ladies in town were present, to learn the art of Vennoise pudding, omelet souffle, etc. Miss Munro has had a very liberal patronage wherever she has gone, sometimes having as many as 250 in a class, besides being supported by the most influential citizens, and is surprised at the indifference of Peterborough ladies. This would indicate that the Peterborough ladies are proficient in the art or do not wish to be enlightened. Miss Munro in addition to thoroughly understanding the art has to a remarkable degree, the desirable faculty of imparting information. The classes will be continued afternoon and evening, for twelve days, Saturday and Sunday excepted.

The Irish Land Problem.

How the Landlords are to be satisfied—Rumors Regarding Mr. Gladstone's Plans.

LONDON, March 17.—The most singular feature of the prevailing excitement over the amount supposed to be required to buy out the Irish landlords, is that so little attention is paid to the reimbursement which the Government must receive in time from the new tenants. The slight drop in the quotations of consols noted yesterday was caused by orders from timid investors to sell. There were no sales for account of large large holdings of London bankers who understand the situation better. The largest figure, two hundred million pounds, suggested as the amount which Mr. Gladstone's bill calls for, is admitted not to be an excessive valuation of the lands to be expropriated. The tenants receiving a title to these lands from the Government will certainly not be given more than sixteen years time or commutation and this would result in the additional debt being paid off in about that time, though Mr. Gladstone may not arrange the details of the financial provisions of the measure in exactly that form. But by some system of sinking funds he is sure to provide for the security of the new loan. Some statements are made that the tax equal to a full rental value of the lands is to be imposed upon the holders permanently in lieu of rent and of all taxation. This would reserve the title forever in the Government, but would provide more than sufficient revenue for meeting the additional charges on consols accounts. This scheme will be recognized as that of Mr. Henry George pure and simple. It would be an interesting test of the value of the American economist's theories. Mr. Gladstone is credited with being very much taken with Mr. George's ideas, but it is not known whether he is sufficiently so to lead him to put them in practice on so large a scale.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

MR. W. R. MEREDITH.

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

or rather deputy-leader, under Sir John Macdonald. William Ralph Meredith, Q. C., LL. B., M. P. P., is son of the late John Cooke Meredith, of Dublin, Ireland. William was born at a little hamlet called Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, Ontario, and received his education at the London Grammar School and at the Toronto University, where he obtained the degree of LL. B. in 1872. He is now in his 46th year; was called to the bar in 1861, elected a bencher of the Law Society of Ontario in 1871, and created a Q. C. in 1876. He entered the Local Legislature, representing the city of London, in 1872, and has held the seat ever since. His great object in life is to oust Hon. Oliver Mowat, a task which is monumental still, after fourteenn years' trying. To give him due credit it must be conceded that he has, as Leader of the Opposition, made the best use of the indifferent materials he has had at command in so difficult a task, but it must also be remembered that he has not made the best use of the considerable amount of ability, both literary and political, he possesses. He has made the great mistake of playing second fiddle to Sir John Macdonald, instead of standing on his own responsibility in political matters. A leader of men must show himself fitted, of himself, for the position, without relying upon or yielding to any other man's advice or dictation. This, Mr. Meredith has failed to do. He has worked with Sir John Macdonald even when that marauding statesman has been making one "dead set" after another against the interests and rights of this province. Mr. Meredith is too much the mere politician to be a statesman. Mr. Meredith is in the full prime of manhood, although the cares of office (sought and not found), and the labour involved in trying to serve two masters are rapidly silvering his hair. As a speaker Mr. Meredith takes a high stand though his lack of control of his temper detracts from the effectiveness of his orations. He is a successful lawyer and person, who, a few years ago, burned the midnight oil over the the Biddulph murder trials will recollect his name figuring prominently in these notorious trials.

Home Rule Schemes.

Mr. Gladstone's Two Bills Inseparable—An Irish Legislature Necessary.

DUBLIN, March 18.—United Ireland, edited by Mr. Wm. O'Brien, M. P., and partly owned by Mr. Parnell, says that Mr. Gladstone's land and home rule schemes are so closely knit together and dependent on each other that neither can stand alone. In proof of this United Ireland points to the fact that landlords of Ireland, whom Mr. Gladstone proposes to buy out, are, by the very terms of the Expropriation Bill, made unable to avail themselves of its enactments until an Irish Legislature is established at Dublin to administer the bill.

St. Thomas postoffice irregularities have been investigated, and several irregularities in the matter of registered letters brought to light. The deputy postmaster has confessed his guilt.

The Quebec Cabinet have, it is understood, decided to reserve an extensive tract of country to the north of the Province for future timber supply. Forest rangers are to be appointed to watch and guard this domain. Hon. Mr. Joly had been the active agent in securing this from the Government.

THE MARRIAGE RING.

Dr. Talmage Preaches the Ninth Discourse in his Series on Matrimony.

Home as a Refuge, Home as a Political Safeguard, Home as a School.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 7.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached to-day in the Brooklyn tabernacle, the ninth of his series of sermons on "The Marriage Ring," the subject being "The Domestic Circle." Appropriate passages of Scripture were read and expounded by Dr. Talmage, after which he took his text from Mark v. 19.

"Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee."

FOLLOWING IS THE SERMON IN FULL:

There are a great many people longing for some grand sphere in which to serve God. They admire Luther at the Diet of Worms, and only wish that they had some such opportunity in which to display their Christian prowess. They admire Paul making Felix tremble, and they only wish that they had some such grand occasion in which to preach righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come; all they want is an opportunity to exhibit their Christian heroism. Now the apostle comes to us and he practically says: "I will show you a place where you can exhibit all that is grand and beautiful and glorious in Christian character, and that is

"THE DOMESTIC CIRCLE."

If one is not faithful in an insignificant sphere he will not be faithful in a resounding sphere. If Peter will not help the cripple at the gate of the temple he will never be able to preach three thousand souls into the kingdom at the Pentecost. If Paul will not take pains to instruct in the way of salvation the jailer of the Philippian dungeon he will never make Felix tremble. He who is not faithful in a skirmish would not be faithful in an Armageddon. The fact is we are all placed in just the position in which we can most grandly serve God, and we ought not to be chiefly thoughtful about some sphere of usefulness which we may after a while gain; but the all-absorbing question with you and with me ought to be: "Lord, what wilt Thou have me now and here to do?"

There is one word in my text around which the most of our thoughts will this morning revolve. The word is "Home." Ask ten different men the meaning of that word and they will give you ten different definitions. To one it means love at the hearth, it means plenty of the table, industry at the workstand, intelligence at the books, devotion at the altar. To him it means a greeting at the door and a smile at the chair. Peace hovering like wings. Joy clapping its hands with laughter. Life a tranquil lake. Pillowed on the ripples sleep the shadows.

ASK ANOTHER MAN WHAT HOME IS,

and he will tell you it is want looking out of a obeerless fire-grate, kneading hunger in an empty bread tray. The damp air shivering with curses. No Bible on the shelf. Children robbers and murderers in embryo. Obscene songs their lullaby. Every face a picture of ruins. Want in the background and sin starting from the front. No Sabbath wave rolling over the doorsill. Vestibule of the pit. Shadow of infernal walls. Furnace for forging everlasting chains. Faggots for an unending funeral pile. Awful word. It is spelled with coarse, it weeps with ruin, it chokes with woe, it sweats with the death agony of despair.

The word "Home" in the one case means everything bright. The word "Home" in the other case means everything terrific.

I shall speak to you this morning of home as a test of character, home as a refuge, home as a political safeguard, home as a school, and home as a type of Heaven.

And in the first place I remark that home is

A POWERFUL TEST OF CHARACTER.

The disposition in public may be in gay costume, while in private it is in dishabille. As play actors may appear in one way on the stage, and may appear in another way behind the scenes, so private character may be very different from public character. Private character is often public character turned wrong side out. A man may receive you into his parlor as though he were a distillation of smiles, and yet his heart may be a swamp of nettles. There are business men who all day long are mild and courteous and genial, damming back their irritability and their petulance and their discontent, but at nightfall the dam breaks, and scolding pours forth in floods and freshets.

Reputation is only the shadow of character, and a very small house sometimes will cast a very long shadow. The lips may seem to drop with myrrh and cassia, and the disposition to be as bright and warm as a sheaf of sunbeams, and yet they may only be a magnificent show window to

A WRETCHED STOCK OF GOODS.

There is many a man who is affable in public life and amid commercial spheres, who in a cowardly way takes his anger and his petulance home and drops them on the domestic circle.

The reason men do not display their bad temper in public is because they do not want to be knocked down. There are men who hide their petulance and their irritability just for the same reason that they do not let their notes go to protest—it does not pay; or for the same reason that they do not want a man in their stock company to sell his stock at less than the right price—lest it depreciate the value. As at sunset the wind rises, so after a sunshiny day there may be a tempestuous night. There are people who in public act the philanthropist, who at home act the Nero with respect to their slippers and their gown.

Audubon, the great ornithologist, with gun and pencil went through the forests of America to bring down and sketch the beautiful birds, and after years of toil and exposure completed his manuscript and put it in a trunk in Philadelphia for a few days of recreation and rest, and came back and found that the rats had utterly destroyed the manuscript; but without any discomposure, and without any fret or bad temper, he again picked up his gun and pencil and visited again all the great forests of America and reproduced his immortal work. And yet there are people with the ten thousandth part of that kind who are utterly unreconcilable, who, at the loss of a pencil or an article of raiment, will blow

AS LONG AND SHARP AS A NORTHEAST STORM.

Now, that man who is affable in public and who is irritable at home is making a fraudulent over issue of stock, and he is as bad as a bank that might have four or five hundred thousand dollars of bills in circulation with no specie in the vault. Let us learn to show piety at home. If we have it not there we have it not anywhere. If we have not the genuine grace in the family circle, all our outward and public pleasibility merely springs from a fear of the world or from the slimy, putrid pool of our own selfishness. I tell you the home is a mighty test of character. What you are at home you are everywhere, whether you demonstrate it or not.

Again, I remark that home is a refuge. Life in the United States army on the National road to Mexico, a long march with now and anon a skirmish and a battle. At eventide we pitch our tents and stack the arms, we hang up the war cap and lay our head on the knapsack, we sleep until the morning bugle calls us to marching and action. How pleasant it is to rehearse the victories and the surprises and the hillocks of the day, seated by the still camp fire of the home circle.

Yes, life is a stormy sea. With shivered masts and torn sails and hulk aleak, we put in at

THE HARBOR OF HOME.

Blessed harbor! There we go for repairs in the drydock of quiet life. The candle in the window is to the tolling man the lighthouse guiding him into port. Children go forth to meet their fathers as pilots at the "Narrows" take the hand of ships. The door sill of the home is the wharf where heavy life is unladen.

There is the place where we may talk of what we have done without being charged with self-adulation. There is the place where we may lounge without being thought ungraceful. There is the place where we may express affection without being thought silly. There is the place where we may forget our annoyances and exasperations and troubles. Forlorn earth pilgrim! No home? Then die. That is better. The grave is brighter and grander and more glorious than this world with no rest from marchings, with no harbor from the storm, with no place of rest from this scene of greed and gouge and loss and gain. God pity the man or the woman who has no home.

Further, I remark, that home is a political safeguard.

THE SAFETY OF THE STATE

must be built on the safety of the home. Why cannot France come to a placid republic? Ever and anon there is a threat of national capsize. France as a nation has not the right kind of a Christian home. The Christian hearthstone is the only corner stone for a Republic. The virtues cultured in the family circle are an absolute necessity for the state. If there be not enough moral principle to make the family adhere, there will not be enough political principle to make the state adhere. "No home" means the Goths and Vandals, means the Nomads of Asia, means the Numidians of Africa, changing from place to place, according as the picture happens to change. Confounded be all those Babels of iniquity which would overtower and destroy the home. The same storm that upsets the ship in which the family sails will sink the frigate of the constitution. Jails and penitentiaries and armies and navies are not our best defence. The door of the home

IS THE BEST FORTRESS.

Household utensils are the best artillery and the chimneys of our dwelling-houses are the greatest monuments of safety and triumph. No home. No Republic.

Further, I remark that home is a school. Old ground must be turned up with subsoil, plow, and it must be harrowed and reharrowed, and then the crop will not be as large as that of the ground with less culture. Now, youth and childhood are new ground, and all the influences thrown over their hearts and life will come up in after life luxuriantly. Every time you have given a smile of approbation—all the good cheer of your life will come up again in the geniality of your children. And every ebullition of anger and every uncontrollable display of indignation will be fuel to their disposition twenty or thirty or forty years from now—fuel for a bad fire a quarter of a century from this. You praise the intelligence of your children too much sometimes when you think he is not aware of it, and you will see the result of it before ten years of age in his annoying affections. You praise his beauty, supposing he is not large enough to understand what you say, and you will find him standing on a high chair before a flattering mirror. Words and deeds and example are the seed of character, and children are very apt to be the

SECOND EDITION OF THEIR PARENTS.

Abraham begat Isaac; so virtue is apt to go down in the ancestral line; but Herod begat Archelaus, so iniquity is transmitted. What vast responsibility comes upon parents in view of this subject?

Notes from the Capital.

Divers Political Matters.

(Correspondence of the Globe.)

OTTAWA, March 17.—Lieut.-Col. Gray, M.P.P., for West York, is here pressing his claim to some appointment in connection with the artillery. He is strongly recommended by Messrs. Small, Tyrwhitt, and other members of Parliament, but Sir John Macdonald does not like the idea of opening West York just now. It is therefore probable that the gallant Colonel's present mission to Ottawa will be barren of results.

SIR ADOLPHE DISAPPOINTED.

Poor Sir Adolphe suffered a terrible disappointment to-day. He expected to resume the debate on Mr. Landry's resolution after routine, and accordingly had instructed all his admirers to be on hand. The galleries were filled with the lady friends of the darling knight, and he was smiling upon everybody. But if the Government moved the previous question Mr. Amyot started a previous debate, and Sir Adolphe had to sit for hours while Messrs. Blake, Cameron, Desjardins, Amyot and others denounced the Government's cowardly and despicable conduct in which go to prove their own guilt. The debate continuing, Sir Adolphe's friends became tired and went away. Then the Minister had to submit to the mortification of seeing thirteen of his own supporters voting to condemn the Government. When the Minister at last got the floor it was nearly six o'clock, and no further interest was taken in the day's proceedings. When Sir Adolphe sat down there was no applause and not a solitary member went near to compliment him. How different it was last night, when Mr. Laurier finished his brilliant speech. He was congratulated by friends and opponents, and the two Ministers who spoke to-day had to compliment him.

SIR HECTOR'S FAILURE.

Sir Hector Langevin's attempt to lead the House of Commons has been a terrible failure. To-day he got his party into trouble by his attempt to supersede Mr. Amyot's motion asking for papers respecting Riel's case, and in the discussion which he provoked the Government got badly worsted. It was amusing to watch Sir Hector's face when Mr. Edgar moved his amendment calling upon the Government to produce all the papers. Sir Hector was apparently terribly frightened, and the Speaker had to stretch a point to relieve him by stating that the precedent set a few days ago, and according to which Mr. Edgar's motion was quite in order, was a mistake. To-night Sir Hector has given notice of a motion giving Landry's motion a precedence over all other business until it is disposed of. If he knew his business he would have taken that course a week ago.

INDEPENDENCE OF PARLIAMENT.

In answer to Mr. Edgar's enquiry to-day Mr. Pope admitted that the Government had made a contracts with a senator, a senator's brother, and two Tory members of the House of Commons, for the construction of the Paspebiac Railway. This is observing the independence of Parliament Act with a vengeance. The contracting legislators are Senator Robitaille, L. A. Robitaille, his brother, L. J. Riopel, his brother-in-law, Thomas McGreevy, M.P., and R. H. McGreevy, brother of Thomas, a nice little family party. All these parties are the special pets of Sir. Hector Langevin, who, it has often been remarked, "sleeps with" McGreevy and Robitaille.

A PRINTING SCANDAL.

Mr. Chapleau admitted to-day, in answer to Mr. Bernier, that two of the Blue Books recently laid before Parliament were printed at the office of La Minerve at higher rates than those paid to the regular printing contractors for such work. Mr. Chapleau and Mr. Tasse, M.P., are the proprietors of La Minerve, so that it is easy to understand why the public treasury is being robbed to benefit that newspaper.

TARIFF CHANGES WANTED.

The Finance Minister is being badgered on all sides by parties who want tariff changes in their interest. The sugar refiners want a readjustment of duties, and some St. John men are asking for a specific duty upon cordage in pursuance of the promises made to them during the election campaign in that city.

Brakeman Williams of the C.P.R., fell from a train in Toronto yesterday and had his right leg and arm terribly crushed.

The signal service station at Mont Cove, C. B., reported yesterday a large steamer going to the northwestward in clear water to the eastward of St. Paul's Island. This is an unusual thing, as vessels have never been reported from this station at this season. She was probably a sailing vessel.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17th.

In the Legislature to-day Mr. A. M. Ross' bill respecting the Agricultural College; Mr. Ferris' bill respecting the agreement between the Grand Trunk Company and the City of Brantford; Mr. Mowat's bill respecting estates of deceased persons, and Mr. Brereton's bill respecting the municipal debt of Port Hope were read a third time.

The House went into supply and the Opposition made its annual attack upon the colonization road policy of the Government.

Mr. Pardee said that while the Government had spent $1,400,000 on this branch of the Government since they came into power, they had ever-expended on an average only $7,000 a year.

Mr. Meredith said he objected to a system which placed in the hands of the Commissioner of Crown Lands so powerful a weapon to influence elections.

The item passed after considerable discussion. While the item of insurance was under discussion, several members of the Opposition contended that the Government should not insure its own buildings. All the items in the estimates were passed and a large number of them concurred in.

It is expected prerogation will take place next Wednesday.

The Game Laws Committee, presided over by Mr. Badgerow, to-day reconsidered the amendment to prevent spring shooting. Geese and swans were exempted from the provisions. The time for shooting deer with dogs was reduced from six to four weeks, viz., from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. Hunting deer by water is prohibited. Increased power is given to game inspectors.

Mr. Gibson's (Hamilton) bill to amend the law relating to building societies, giving them power to issue transfer debenture stock, was reported by the Special Committee appointed to deal with law forms, etc.

The same committee reported Mr. Harcourt's bill giving power to one-fourth of the stockholders of a company to call a general meeting.

A Great New Railway Route

A Certain Consummation of the Near Future.

The public of this town and vicinity are much interested in an Ottawa despatch stating:—

"The Grand Trunk Railway Company are making arrangements to begin at an early date the construction of a line from Peterborough to Ottawa on the survey of the old Toronto and Ottawa road. Such a line, it is said, running in connection with the Canada Atlantic, would be shorter than the Canada Pacific Railway line between Toronto and Montreal, even with the air line from Smith's Falls finished."

Inquiry will of course at once naturally be made as to the full meaning of this, and through an interview with John Bell, Esq., Q.C., solicitor of the Grand Trunk Railway, we are enabled to make this explanation. The Grand Trunk Railway Co. with that indomitable enterprise and pluck which has spread the network of its lines over the whole of eastern Canada and a large part of the United States, is bound to have, in order to make its gigantic system complete, the shortest route, from the limitless wheat fields of the Northwest of both Canada and the United States, to the Atlantic seaboard on the Canadian shore line. To effect this it is proposed to utilize existing lines and to

to make a through line from the Pacific to the Atlantic. The Northern Pacific railroad is to be extended eastward along the southern shore of Lake Superior from its present eastern terminus, Minneapolis, to Sault Ste. Marie, in as direct a course as possible. While this line is being completed the gap between Sault Ste. Marie and the northern terminus of the Northern Railway will be filled by the construction of a new road along the northern shore of Georgian Bay. At Orillia, connection will be made through the Midland system with Peterborough. From Peterborough a line will be built direct, as the crow flies, to Montreal. Thus the between the immense grain fields of the Northwest and ocean wharfage at Montreal will be secured. It is not probable that the Canadian Pacific will continue to enjoy the monopoly of Canadian grain traffic. Before long competing branch lines connecting with the Northern Pacific will tap the Canadian Northwest and the grain of that region, especially the southern portion, as well as that of the whole heart of the grain growing area of the United States Northwest, will naturally seek the shortest and cheapest route to the seaboard, namely the route in question. We are given to understand that events are rapidly ripening which will make this great, and, in a railway sense, revolutionary project, a consummation of the near future.

A married man named Ivaley, of the township of Walkerton, has been taken to Belleville goal, charged with outraging a young girl of the same neighborhood.

John Biggins, a well to-do citizen of St. Lambert, went to Montreal Friday to draw some money from the Bank and has been missing since. Foul play is feared. He served in the French infantry during the Crimea.

FORGOTTEN POETS.

Shelly, in speaking of one of his heroines, describes her as "one of Shakspeare's women," and Emerson consequently corresponds us to Plutarch's men. It is therefore a little startling to read in a Western journal that Plutarch's men are crowded out of the minds of young Americans by the images of Lincoln and Grant. Against this view Shelly also supplies a comfortable thought:

"True love in this differs from gold and clay,
That to divide is not to take away."

Those laurels of Miltiades not only secured him to heroic remembrance, but they also embalmed Themistocles. Lincoln and Grant rather send us back to Plutarch than obscure his gallery. One of their greatest services is that of revealing to us the truth that the essentially noble and heroic qualities are always the same. The time and the circumstance differ, not the very man. Emerson found in Lincoln the shrewdness of Æsop. Have we not seen in Grant the magnanimity of Fabius?

But the paper of which we speak remarks that it is sadly true that Percival is a forgotten poet, and then, seizing a promiscuous assortment of names, exclaims that Charles Sprague, William Wirt, Washington Irving, and Jack Downing may be referred to as forgotten authors. But this is the luxury of woe. Why should not Percival be a forgotten poet? That is to say, what is there in the verse of Percival that should command interest and attention to-day?

He was an admirably and remarkably accomplished man and a most excellent gentleman, and his name is very familiar in the reading books of the time when certain grandfathers of to-day were going to school. But he was a noted poet not because he took rank with his contemporaries—with Byron, and Scott, and Keats, and Shelly, and Coleridge, and Wordsworth—but because there were very few Americans who wrote verses, and our fathers patriotically stood by them.

Grenville Mellen is a forgotten poet also. If the gentle reader will turn the pages of Kettell, he will seem to himself to be walking among tombs. Upon each page might be suitably inscribed, "Sacred to the memory" of almost everyone of the lamented singers. John Neal is there, and Rufus Dawes, and James G. Eastburn, excellent gentlemen, worthy writers, all of them. But can we say, with honest reproach, "forgotten poets?" Is Fame to be held responsible for not retaining the name of every minstrel who loiters by and touches his harp lightly and sings a sweet song as he passes on? It is a hard fate to give pleasures to those who listen, because those who are out of hearing do not turn and applaud?

Many an author may have a tone and touch which please the ear and taste of his own day, and which, as characteristic of a time, may be curious to a later taste, like the costumes and bonnets of our great-grandmothers. But Young America, sauntering at the club and at Newport, would not willingly wear the boots of Beau Nash, nor even the cloak of Beau Brummel. It is, indeed, doubtful whether the great law which provides that nothing shall be lost is not equally observable in the realm of literary fame. Is anything of literature lost that deserves remembrance, or, more properly, can it be lost? A fair answer to the question may be found in the reply to another, whether delving in Kettell or in any other anthology reveals treasures dropped by fame as precious as those she carries.

Our newspaper is certainly too swift in saying that Irving may be classed among the forgotten authors. There are two ways in which an author survives—one, by the constant reading of his works: the other, by his name. Is Milton a forgotten author? But how much is he read, compared with the contemporary singers? Is Plato forgotten? Yet how many know him except by his name? Irving thus far holds by both. Time also winnows its wheat, blowing away much chaff, but the golden grain remains. This is true not only of the whole multitude of authors, but of the works of each author. How many of them really survive only in the anthology? Asteria and Captain Bonneville and Mahomet and other books of Irving may gradually disappear. But the Knickerbocker, and Rip Van Winkle, and certain other tales and essays, have become, so far as we can foresee, an integral part of our literature.

As for Sprague—mild, genial, charming gentleman, who carried his simple freshness of nature and of manner to the end, and about whose venerable head in State Street always shone the faint halo of early poetic renown—his literary talent was essentially for a day, not for all time. In every age there will be singers, and delightful singers, of the day. On Christmas Eve the Easy Chair heard the passing music in the street that supplies for us the song of the waits. It was sweet and melodious, and pensively recalled the days and the faces and the voices that are no more. But they were not the same waits that it heard long ago; still less were they those that the Easy Chairs of a half century since heard with musing melancholy. But the substance of the song, and the emotion which it awakened, and the tender pathos of association, these were all the same both then and now. Sprague was a wait of yesterday, of last year, of fifty years ago. Others sing in the street the song that he sang, and singing they pass on, and the sweet strain grows softer, and fainter and fainter, and the echoes answer "dying, dying, dying"—and all is gone.

Indeed, does not all these troubadours "it never knew them. They had the vogue of their day. See how kindly Mr. Stedman speaks of those who are singing for us now, whose names are familiar, who trill and twitter in the magazines, and in tasteful and delicate volumes which seem to tempt the stream of time to suffer such light and graceful barks to slip along unopposed to future ages. Mat the kindly critic's fable forecasts the fate of the sparkling and pleasing ventures. Moore tells us of the Indian maids upon the banks of the Ganges who light a tiny paper, and on a frail little chip set it afloat upon the river. It twinkles and dwindles and flashes and expires. Mr. Stedman watches the minor poets trimming their tapers, and carefully launching their chips upon the brimming river. "Pleasant journey!" he cries, cheerily from the shore, as if he were speaking to hearty Captain Cook going up the side of his great ship, and shaking out his mighty canvas to circumnavigate the globe. "Pleasant journey!" cries the cheery critic. But there is a wistful something in his tone that betrays a consciousness of the swift extinction of that pretty, perfumed spark.

But Shakspeare's women, and Plutarch's men, and "the grand old masters," and "the bards sublime," are not tapers upon a river; they are stars in the firmament. Lincoln and Grant will not crowd out Washington and Franklin and Hamilton and Adams, nor they Edmund Burke and Chatham, nor any great man any other great man. There is room in space for every planet and every star and every particle of star dust, for all that the eye can see and all that eludes the most searching telescopic quest. Nor need any singer fear that the latest ages will not hear his song, if he sing a song worth its hearing.—George William Curtis, in Harper's Magazine for February.

Making Java Coffee.

Coffee, like wine, becomes better as it grows older. Age also improves its appearance. The best old Java is bright yellow—the effect of time upon a well-formed bean of a dirty-green color. But all yellow, nice-looking coffee is not Java, nor is its color proof of its merit. Cheap Santos by a newly discovered method may be converted to resemble the best of Java. A bean of coffee if put into water will swell. This is the initial means employed to produce imitation coffee out of small, imperfect grains. Once swollen the coffee retains its inflated size. It is then bleached and dried, and in a few days is made to resemble coffee that comes to a rich, desirable hue through great age. But the imitation coffee does not deceive the elect. Any dealer of experience can perceive the difference between the fraudulent and the genuine. The imitation looks better and sells better to the consumer, and fetches a better price than it would had it not been doctored, but close inspection will show the grains to be of a withered appearance, lacking in what may be called tone, and sadly wanting when they come to pot, in aroma.—Indianapolis News.

Eggs are Eggs.

The wife of a certain suburban resident was that nuisance among good cooks—a perpetual borrower. One day it was a cupful of sugar, the next a box of blueing and the clothes-wringer, and so on. And she wasn't half as good at returning as she was at borrowing. One day in the midst of her cooking not an egg was there to befound. Over she went to one of her neighbors, a widow of small means, and borrowed the two or three eggs she happened to have in the house. Several weeks elapsed, when one forenoon she appeared in the widow's kitchen with three eggs in a paper bag.

"Good morning, Mrs. S. I have come to return something you let me have the other day. I had boiled eggs for breakfast this morning and these are three I had left over. Eggs are eggs, you know."—Boston Record.

An Extended Experience.

The Electric Light

Is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. By this agency Polson's Nerviline is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficent power. Nerviline is a wonderful remedy, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonizing internal or external pain yields as if by magic. Neglect no longer to try Nerviline. Buy to-day a ten cent trial bottle and be relieved from all pain. J. Wilson, druggist, Goderich, writes: "Nerviline gives good satisfaction." Sold by druggists and country dealers everywhere. d62-6t-w11-15

Important Notice—To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. The standard of our celebrated brands, "Cable," "El Padre," "Queen's Own," and others, will always be maintained, the statements of others to the contrary notwithstanding. S. Davis & Sons.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, of real interest. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $125 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return what goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent (or general agent who would like to work more territory) who will work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $100 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offer. And indeed we if we did not know that we have special new making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Cheese Conference.

It is altogether likely that a meeting of the cheese manufacturers' and salesmen's association will be held in the old music hall to-morrow afternoon.

Oysters, Oysters

By the quart, tin or pail. New York Counts and New York Selects, in tins; New York Selects, in bulk. Game, poultry, etc., always on hand at Smith's market.

On the Toe Path.

A tough-looking tramp was lodged in the strong iron-bound cell of the new police station last night. He was allowed to go this morning on promising to quit the town and commence work.

Wheels Overriding Runners.

Wheels are slowly but sure by taking the place of runners around town. The rattle of the wheels knocks all the charm out of the tinkling bells which still dangle on the harness of some undecided jehus.

To the Gentlemen.

We are showing a complete assortment of every desirable style and pattern in English, Scotch and Canadian Tweeds, Black and Colored Worsted Coatings, in Corkscrews and Serges, Pantings, etc. For a neat and stylish suit go to R. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion.

The Cookery Classes.

The evening session yesterday and this afternoon's session of Miss Munro's demonstration classes in cookery were better attended than the first two. The ladies of the town, who are waking up to the necessity of receiving further information in this important art, are joining the classes.

Gone on the "Oregon."

Among the long list of losses occasioned by the sinking of the "Oregon," is one of special local importance. The Scottish-American Investment Company, (limited) of Edinburgh, Scotland, are the holders of a number of debentures of the town of Peterborough. Of these, twelve mature on the 20th of April next. Word was telegraphed from the head office to the Toronto agency that these twelve debentures, amounting to about $36,500, had been sent out to the Toronto agent by the "Oregon," and must now be at the bottom of the sea. The company will ask the town to pay the coupons when due, agreeing to indemnify the town against any loss in case the coupons should ever be presented. The Town Trust Commissioners will handle the matter.

A Big Sporting Event.

Mr. Johnny Newhall, who is a sport from hat-band to spurs, has a colt "Defiance," which trotted in the three minute event at the recent Hastings races. On this occasion the colt worked badly, and did not make a very brilliant record. Mr. Newhall feels pretty positive that the race did not bring out all his colt is capable of doing; he therefore still keeps up both the name and game of "Defiance" and hereby issues a proposal supported by the deposit of a guarrantee stake of $25 now in the hands of Mr. J. E. McIntyre of the Oriental, that his colt "Defiance" can beat any horse now in town or any of the horses that trotted against "Defiance" in the three minute event at Hastings, which will be admitted to this contest. The proposal is as follows: The value of the stake is to be the total of the entire amount paid in on behalf of all the horses entering the proposed contest, at the rate of $50 each per horse; of this sum, $25 is payable to Mr. J. E. McIntyre, of the Oriental, stakeholder, before 9 o'clock, p.m., of Thursday, March 25th, 1886. The remaining $25 is to be deposited with Mr. McIntyre before 9 o'clock, p.m., on Wednesday, June 16th. Owners of horses entering, who do not desire to make good their nominations will forfeit nothing beyond the amount already paid in. The race to be trotted on Wednesday, June 23rd, 1886, on the track of the Peterborough Driving Park, at two o'clock, p.m., the race to be mile heats, in harness, best three in five. The winning horse to take the "pot" unless the contributors to the stake agree to the making of a second purse. If the weather should not admit of the race being trotted out on the day above mentioned, the trot is to take place on the first favorable day thereafter. There will be no race unless four entries are made. The judges will be selected by the owners of the horses entering. Mr. Newhall says this is a bona fide proposal and has secured the driving park for the day set apart for the race.

Railway Freights.

Signs of Business.

Messrs. Morrow, Tierney & Co. and Rush Bros. have obliterated grimy white paint the letterings on the fronts, showing their respective places of business, preparatory to placing their names before the public.

Chief Cooper's First Capture.

Chief Cooper made his first capture last night and succeeded in running in a full-grown and willing tramp. It is said there was a striking resemblance in the measured tread of the military man and that of the professional tramp. The resemblance ended there.

Opening Out.

Messrs. H. S. Griffin & Co. opens out to-morrow a magnificent stock of new dry goods and millinery. They have been fortunate in securing a very handsome store, in the Crystal Block, George street, and to-day the last finishings in the shape of gas fixtures were placed. See this new firm's advertisement in to-day's issue.

The Mystery Solved.

Wife—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

Husband—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

Schiveras.

Schiveras, the Evangelist, continues to hold the fort at the George street Methodist church, every evening delivering powerful discourses to very large congregations. He is very earnest and without doubt is doing a good work. After the usual services last night a largely attended meeting of Christians and those anxious to become Christians was held. The morning meeting in the Baptist church and the noon meeting in the Y. M. C. A rooms were particularly well attended.

L. F. Carpenter is now engaged canvassing the county of Peterborough for all kinds of nursery stock for this spring's delivery.

The New Police Station.

The police force have taken possession of their new station in the new town buildings and will in future make it their headquarters. Their audience room is 12x14 feet and is elegantly furnished with a bench, two or three chairs and the old green baize covered table that has adorned the late police offices for many years. The new furnishings are expected to arrive in the spring. The station is hardly fit for receiving company yet, as it smells strongly of paint and plaster. A description of the charms of the premises will be given some other day.

The Flying Squirrel's Adventures.

A squirrel made itself conspicuous on Thursday evening, on Hunter street, by attracting the attention of several men and boys, and frightening several ladies. It was noticed first near the Oriental, sporting on the trees in front of the building and by the ease with which it made long leaps from post to pillar was pronounced a flying squirrel. The boys by chasing it, scared it, and it in turn frightened several ladies' by leaping over their heads from a telegraph pole to a window sill or some such place and even ran to them as if for protection. It finally found a haven of rest and safety in Mr. Brisbin's store, where it no doubt will find plenty of feed until it wishes to go back to the wild woods.

"Life in a Pars nage."

This is the title of an interesting book just issued by Wm. Briggs (Methodist), publisher, Toronto. It is a charming little story, by Dr. Withrow, detailing graphically the pleasures and pains, trials and triumphs of the itinerant life of a Methodist preacher. It is a handsomely printed volume of over two hundred pages, well bound and illustrated, with special cuts. The story introduces characters well known to every Methodist; and one of the most stirring scenes is of local interest, being laid in the neighborhood of Rice Lake. Its graceful language and high strain of piety and loyalty to Methodist institutions, should give it a charm to every true member of that denomination. Price only 50 cents.

Orange Blossoms.

The Hymeneal fever which has carried off a number of victims during this week developed into another marriage yesterday afternoon. Miss Siddy Johnston, daughter of Mr. W. L. Johnston, of town, was united in wedlock to Mr. Walter Davenport Card, manufacturer, Grafton, Ont. The ceremony was performed in St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. Miss Alice Blackburn acted as bridesmaid while Mr. J. Card, supported his brother through the ordeal. A large number of friends assembled at the church to witness the interesting ceremony. After the nuptial knot had been tied, the happy couple, with a small circle of friends, repaired to the residence of Mr. Johnston, on Hunter street, where the wedding feast was partaken of, after which they took the evening train for Belleville. The bride, who was a general favorite with her numerous friends, received a large number of handsome and costly presents. No cards were issued. Our cordial congratulations are extended to the happy couple.

The Great March Blow.

An Expected Equinoctial Event.

John Perrin, of Montreal, under date of March 18th, writes to the Witness thus:—"The depression now central over the North-Western States will cause a heavy snowfall in that section to-day and to-night, and over the Lakes to-night and to-morrow, reaching the St. Lawrence and extending to Pennsylvania on Friday night and Saturday, and the Eastern States and Canada about Saturday night. The depression will continue to increase in energy causing the snow to be followed by gales and a decided fall of temperature. This will likely be the great March blow.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

HON. ALEX. MORRIS.

In consideration of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of Mr. Meredith's Mentor.

Hon Alexander Morris, M.P.P., D.C.L., P.C., is one of the oldest politicians in the house, and in the country. He has been everything for a member of the Queen's privy council to a newspaper editor. He is a member of the bar of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, and has been successively a Dominion cabinet minister, chief justice of the court of Queen's bench, Manitoba; lieutenant-governor of Manitoba; commissioner of Indian affairs for Manitoba and the Northwest; and filled many other high official positions. He is author of "Canada and Her Resources," "Nova Britannia," "The Hudson Bay and Pacific Territories," and "The Treaties of Canada with the Indians." Long ago he used to edit a newspaper. He was elected to represent East Toronto in the legislature when Judge Cameron ascended the bench, and has held the seat ever since, defeating the Hon Oliver Mowat after a hot contest. Mr. Morris is the right hand man, though of late years his age and his failing health have compelled a withdrawal at times from active duty. It is said that at the close of this parliament, if his health does not improve, he will lay aside every active political relation, other than as a counsellor of the party.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

THURSDAY, MARCH 18th

In the Legislature to-day G. W. Ross' bill amending the Separate School law was considered in committee of the whole of the House as reported. The bill consolidates all the laws referring to separate schools. It provides that Protestant schools may be established where the teachers of the public schools is a Roman Catholic; also that colored separate schools may be established on applications of five heads of colored families.

The following Government measures were advanced a stage in committee: Respecting the district of Algoma, Thunder Bay and Parry Sound; respecting vaccination; respecting private lunatic asylums; respecting the the Upper Canada land improvement fund; respecting the Industrial Refuge for Girls; respecting the application of the Religious Institutions Act to the Church of England and the bill respecting compensation to workmen.

The Attorney-General's bill to amend the act respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors was read a second time.

A pleasant gathering of Liberal members of the Legislature took place in Room 16 this evening, when Mr. J. B. Freeman, the Liberal whip, was presented with an excellent crayon portrait of himself, handsomely framed. Mr. Mowat made a neat speech, thanking Mr. Freeman for his services to the party, and referring to the pleasant fraternal relations which had always existed between members. Mr. Freeman made an appropriate reply, in which he bore tribute to the high character of Mr. Monk, the Conservative whip. Mr. Fraser and Mr. Pardee spoke briefly.

Madre E Hijo,
What Does it Mean?

The Montreal city council has removed the boycott from the Herald and has boycotted La Minerve.

Sons of Toil.

Items of Interest to Working Men.

TORONTO.

The present open and fine weather has at least a buoyant effect upon those who are looking for an early commencement of building operations throughout the city.

There is a visible improvement in the printing trade.

The Bricklayers' and Plasterers' Unions have settled with employers as to the respective rates of wages, to be paid in each line for the ensuing season.

The Plasterers' Labourers' Union has also arranged as to the rate to be paid by employers to its members during the ninth year.

GENERAL.

The Granite-cutters' National Union, having effected an amicable settlement, have raised the boycott on the work of the Rhode Island Granite Works.

Recently over 100 tailors joined the Tailors' Protective Union New York.

The Bricklayers' Union of Chicago numbers over 400 men.

The boss tailors of Philadelphia have combined to secure better prices for garments made for wholesale houses.

The journeymen plasterers of Harrisburg, Pa., have decided to demand 30 cents per hour on and after May 30.

Over 600 employees at the Ashley shops of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway have been notified that their wages have been raised 8 per cent.

Wages continue to increase in the cotton and woollen trades in the Eastern States of the neighbouring Republic.

Never since the establishment of the Bureau of Buildings, have so many plans for new buildings been filed in the first two months in the year, as have been during the months of January and February, of this year in New York and Brooklyn.

The co-operative Hatters' Union, of South Norwalk, Connecticut, recently met with a serious misfortune in the destruction of one of their factories by fire. The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary. The members say they will resume in a few weeks.

A movement is on foot to organize a National Tailor'd Union of the United States. This union will be of those who work for middlemen.

Over 1,000 stove moulders are on strike at Troy, N.Y., for an advance of 25 per cent. It is said that several establishments in that city contemplate discharging all the Knights in their employ.

The U. S. House Committee on claims lately decided to report favourably a Bill compensating employees of the Government who worked more than eight hours after the passage and before the enforcement of the eight hour law.

The different upholsters' unions, of New York and vicinity, are about amalgamating in one organization.

The Legislature of Maryland lately voted down a proposition to compel the State Printer to employ only union men on work done for the State.

Thirteen out of eighteen cooper shops, in New York, have granted the increase of wages demanded by the Coopers' Union, of that city.

Eighty-four employers in New York have conceded nine hours, and $3.50 per day, to their carpenters for the future, and some twenty more are expected to do likewise in a few days.

The thirty-six ship carpenters lured from Quebec to Detroit to take the place of the men on strike, having refused to work, returned to their homes last week.

The Knights of Labor of the Schuylkill Valley have selected Spring City, Pa., as the location of their extensive stove foundry about to be erected by them. The building will be commenced at once. They will employ about 200 hands to begin with, and increase the number as occasion warrants.

The strike at the Blandon, Pa. rolling mill still continues.

Thirty-eight engineers, firemen, and machinists in the employ of the New York Steam Company are on strike against the employment of non-union men by that Company.

The moulders in the Empire Mower and Reaper Works at Akron, Ohio, are on strike for an advance of wages of 15 per cent. The firm contends that the men agreed to work throughout the season at $2.75 per day.

The shoe manufacturers of Cincinnati, O., are advertising extensively in Eastern cities for boot and shoe cutters, notwithstanding that these engaged in the trade in that city assert that there are plenty of idle men walking the streets and seeking employment. It is asserted that the employers are trying to flood the city with idle men with a view of attempting another test against organized labor by the 1st of May, 1886.

Over 16,000 men took part in the late street car strike in New York and Brooklyn. The real cause of the strike was that Manager Richardson, of the four Dry-dock lines, advertised for non-union men, that they might after a little practice take the place of unionists. The questions of shorter hours and better wages were the outcrop of the strike. In fact, the whole difficulty arose because one man would not accept less than 50 or 75 per cent. interest on his investments in these roads.

After a long and bitter fight the Dueber Watch Case Company, of Newport, Ky., as well as Fuller & Warren, stove manufacturers of Troy, N.Y., have had to succumb to the boycott of their goods by the Knights of Labour. Both have agreed in writing that all the old employees now out of employment shall be reinstated, and that in future there will be no discrimination against Knights of Labour. The Dueber Company also stipulate that from date of agreement they will not employ any children under the age of fifteen years; while Fuller & Warren pledge themselves that no new man shall be employed in the stove-mounting and pattern departments until all former employees who are Knights of Labour are reinstated and that in future all differences shall be settled by arbitration. On the strength of this settlement the boycott of the goods has been declared raised by the Executive Board of the Knights of Labour.

As strikes are now the "order of the day" it is said the Executive Board of the Knights of Labour are seriously considering whether they, too, should not strike for shorter hours, working, as they are obliged to, twenty-six out of the twenty-four hours.

The Executive Board of the Knights of Labour has sanctioned the boycott ordered by District Assemblies 77 and 96 upon the shoe manufacturing firms of B. F. Spinney & Co., Norway, Maine, and Keene Bros., of Skowhegan, Me.

Five hundred and fifteen assemblies of the Knights of Labour were organized in the month of February.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Bicycle Club.

We have been requested to publish the following letter which we have declined to insert to-day.

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir,—I am sure you will allow me space to explain to the public through your columns the extraordinary statement made by the President of the Bicycle Club at its meeting on Thursday evening last.

[illegible] is to be regretted that there should be [illegible] of violent grievances as the result of their connection with the P. A. A. Association and the two bodies. So far from that being the case, the contrary is true and the members of the club frequently expressed the hope at the meeting, that, as far as possible, nothing should be done that would interfere with the present friendly feeling.

We simply came to the conclusion, unanimously, that it would be to our best interests if some scheme could be agreed upon by which the Bicycle Club would be financially independent of the Association; thereby placing itself in a position to arrange for sports under its own auspices. A committee was appointed to consult with the Association as to the terms on which the track could be procured when required, and to see what arrangements could be made which should be to the advantage of both parties.

This course was adopted in order that the club might be thoroughly organized and that we might have that enthusiasm amongst the members which is so necessary for a comparatively small club and which was, to some extent, lacking last year.

The members of the club feel sure that they will be able to arrange satisfactorily and in a friendly manner with the association, and that there will be no necessity "to seek new grounds." As about half of the bicyclists intend being full members of the association, you will readily see that there would be no object in having a quarrel with them.

In conclusion I may say that our Secretary, Mr. F. E. Bell, who will always be willing to furnish you with club news, had written out a correct report of the meeting for your paper, but was too late to have it published.

A. E. Ams,
Captain P. B. C.
Peterborough, March 20th, 1886.

Dominion Doings.

Hon T. W. Anglin and Hon. John Donahoe, delivered addresses at the first annual dinner of the land league in Toronto last night.

Seal fishing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence is reported good. At point de Monts yesterday 20 were captured.

Two young children of David Bradley, near Stony Point, Kent Co., Ont., was asleep in bed Monday night when a lamp burst and set the bed clothes on fire. They were badly burned and the younger, a boy of five years, will die.

Several Hamilton merchants yesterday received cheques for the full amount of the goods lost by them on the Algoma.

Two weeks ago the 9-year old daughter of Mr. A. R. Dougall, of Belleville, was struck on the head by a hand sled and died yesterday from concussion of the brain.

It is rumored that Mercier the absconding ledger-keeper of the Bank Nationale, Montreal, suicided recently at Niagara.

Adolphe Damers, of St. Narcisse, county of Lotbiniere, was instantly killed by a falling tree at which he was working Monday morning.

Gabriel Dumont denies that he was planning an Indian revolt. He is in Montana and says that the visit of Big Bear's son to him was in reference to the Crees settling across the line.

A Decided Correction.

A statement appears in a local paper that Mr. M. Millar has accepted a position as "manager of an extensive lumbering company." The statement, we are authorized to say, is utterly untrue and without foundation. The statement has caused Mr. Millar no little degree of annoyance, as he is seeking no position whatever, and the purely imaginary assertion referred to has placed him in a false light.

A Big Sporting Event.

Mr. Johnny Newhall, who is a sport from hat-band to spurs, has a colt "Defiance," which trotted in the three minute event at the recent Hastings races. On this occasion the colt worked badly, and did not make a very brilliant record. Mr. Newhall feels pretty positive that the race did not bring out all his colt is capable of doing; he therefore still keeps up both the name and game of "Defiance" and hereby issues a proposal supported by the deposit of a guarrantee stake of $25 now in the hands of Mr. J. E. McIntyre of the Oriental, that his colt "Defiance" can beat any horse now in town or any of the horses that trotted against "Defiance" in the three minute event at Hastings, which will be admitted to this contest. The proposal is as follows: The value of the stake is to be the total of the entire amount paid in on behalf of all the horses entering the proposed contest, at the rate of $50 each per horse; of this sum, $25 is payable to Mr. J. E. McIntyre, of the Oriental, stakeholder, before 5 o'clock, p.m., of Thursday, March 25th. The remaining $25 to be paid [illegible] Mr. McIntyre before 5 o'clock, p.m., on Wednesday, June 16th. Owners of horses entering, who do not desire to make good their nominations will forfeit nothing beyond the amount already paid in. The race to be trotted on Wednesday, June 23rd, 1886, on the track of the Peterborough Driving Park, at two o'clock, p.m., the race to be mile heats, in harness, best three in five. The winning horse to take the "pool" unless the contributors to the stake agree to the making of a second purse. If the weather should not admit of the race being trotted out on the day above mentioned, the trot is to take place on the first favorable day thereafter. There will be no place unless four entries are made. The judges will be selected by the owners of the horses entering. Mr. Newhall says this is a bona fide proposal and has secured the driving park for the day set apart for the race.

Ald. Jacobs, of New York, who was arrested yesterday for receiving bribes, has confessed that he received $20,000 for his vote on the Broadway Railway Bill.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

An important meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Club will be held at 8 o'clock in their rooms over the telegraph office, on Monday evening next, at which all members, as well as working Liberals are requested to be present, as important matters will come up for consideration.

DISTRESS AND ITS CAUSES.

Yesterday's Mail has an article pointing out the great amount of distress prevailing among the working classes of England, and it attributes the cause to the effects of free trade. Will the Mail say whether this statement is the enunciation of a principle or merely a statement made for political effect? Because we have, even in Canada, occasional examples of distress among workingmen. But, respecting these and their causes the Mail, as an N. P. advocate and partizan paper, keeps a discreet silence. In that case let us invoke the testimony of a Toronto contemporary of the Conservative time-serving organ—the Globe—respecting the facts of popular distress and the causes thereof. The Globe says:—"It is said that a thousand men are now absolutely unemployed and idle in Toronto. The labourers, in their petition to the City Council on Monday night, said that their wives and children are in a starving condition, without food or fuel, and that as they are unable to pay their rents, they fear that they will be put out of their dwellings. This is a dreadful state of things. Parliament is now in session, and the men are still in power who boasted that they would, by Act of Parliament, restore prosperity to Canada, dispel all distress, and ensure to all who are willing to work full employment at good wages.

If they possess such power, if they are as able as they pretended to be, if they are as earnest friends of the wage-earners as they professed they were, why do they not pass an Act of Parliament to relieve these sufferers?

These men are willing to work. Why do not Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues give them the employment they promised to them?

The labourers and others want work. Why does not Sir John Macdonald provide it for them?"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

During the first eight months of the present fiscal year, the United States reduced its national debt by sixty-three million dollars. Canada is increasing her debt per capita in about the same proportion. A slight difference.

The most important part of the proceedings of the Legislative Assembly on Thursdays, had reference to the bill providing for the more complete protection of employees against damage from injury. In several respects the measure has been improved from the employees' point of view, notably in relation to railways, which will hereafter be liable to damages for accidents from unpacked frogs, and other defects, to a greater extent than at present.

It is with genuine pleasure that we note the signs of prosperity of the Ottawa Free Press, as shown in the marked improvements which the issue of Thursday inaugurates. It is enlarged by the addition of four full columns, making it a 36 column daily paper. It is printed in clear bold type by a new press. The price remains the same in spite of an addition of reading space equivalent to two pages of the journal of the old size. The Free Press has legitimately earned the prosperity it enjoys. It is one of the most enterprising, well conducted, straight-forward liberate journals in the Dominion and the patronage which has made its last upward stride possible, is merely a practical recognition of merit.

THE MARRIAGE RING.

Dr. Talmage Preaches the Ninth Discourse in his Series on Matrimony.

Home as a Refuge, Home as a Sentinel, Safeguard, Home as a School.

(Concluded from yesterday.)

Oh! make your home the brightest place on earth if you would charm your children to the high path of virtue and rectitude and religion. Do not always turn the blinds the wrong way. Let the light which puts gold on the grasshop and spots the pansy pour into your dwellings. Do not expect the little feet to keep step to a dead march. Do not cover up your walls with such pictures as West's "Death on a Pale Horse," or Tintoretto's "Massacre of the Innocents." Rather cover them, if you have pictures, with "The Hawking Party," and "The Mill by the Mountain Stream," and "The Fox Hunt," and "The Children Amid the Flowers," and "The Harvest Scene,' and "The Saturday Night Marketing."

Get you no hint of cheerfulness from grasshopper's leap and lamb frisk, and quail's whistle, and garrulous streamlet, which from the rock at the mountain top clear down to the meadow ferns under the shadow of the steep, comes looking for the steepest place to leap off at, and talking just to hear itself talk.

IF ALL THE SKIES HUSTLED WITH TEMPEST, and everlasting storm wandered over the sea, and every mountain stream went raving mad, frothing at the mouth with mud foam, and there were nothing but simoon blowings about the hills and there were neither lark's carol nor humming-bird's trill, nor waterfall's dash, but only a bear's bark, and panther's scream, and wolf's howl, then you might well gather into your homes only the shadows. But when God has strewn the earth and the heavens with beauty and with gladness, let us take into our home circles all innocent hilarity, all brightness and all good cheer. A dark home makes bad boys and bad girls, in preparation for bad men and bad women.

Above all, my friends, take into your homes Christian principle. Can it be that in any of the comfortable homes of my congregation the voice of prayer is never lifted? What! no supplication at night for protection? What! no thanksgiving in the morning for care? How, my brother, my sister, will you answer God in the day of judgment with reference to your children? It is a plain question, and therefore I ask it. In the tenth chapter of Jeremiah, God says he will pour out his fury upon the families that call upon his name. Oh, parents! when you are dead and gone and the moss is covering the inscription of the tombstone, and think of father and mother at family prayer? Will they take the old family Bible and open it and see the mark of tears of contrition and tears of consoling promise, wept by eyes long before gone out into darkness? Oh, if you do not inculcate Christian principle in the hearts of your children, and you do not warn them against evil, and you do not invite them to holiness and to God, and they wander off into dissipation and into infidelity, and at last make shipwreck of their mortal soul, on their death bed, and in their day of judgment they will curse you! Neated by the register or the stove, what if on the wall should come out the history of your children? What a history—the mortal and immortal life of your loved ones! Every parent is writing the history of his child. He is writing it, composing it into a song or turning it into a groan.

WILL YOUR CHILDREN LOOK BACK

My mind runs back to one of the best of early homes. Prayer, like a roof, over it. Peace, like an atmosphere, in it. Parents, personifications of faith in trial and comfort in darkness. The two pillars of that earthly home long ago crumbled to dust. But shall I ever forget that early home? Yes, when the flower forgets the sun that warms it. Yes, when the mariner forgets the star that guided him. Yes, when love has gone out on the heart's altar and memory has emptied its urn into forgetfulness. Then, the home of my childhood, I will forget thee; the family altar of a father's importunity and a mother's tenderness, the voice of affection, the funerals of our dead father and mother, with interlocked arms like intertwining branches of trees making a perpetual arbor of love, and peace and kindness—then I will forget them—then, and only then. You know, my brother, that a hundred times you have been of such a scene as I have been describing. You have often had raging temptations, but you know what has held you with supernatural grasp. I tell you a man who has had such a good home as that never gets over it, and a man who has had a bad early home never gets over it.

Again, I remark, that home is a type of Heaven. To bring us to that home Christ left His home. Far up and far back in the history of Heaven there came a period when its most illustrious citizen was about to absent Himself. He was not going to sail from beach to beach; we have often done that. He was not going to put out from one hemisphere to another hemisphere; many of us have done that. But he was to sail from world to world, the spaces unexplored and the immensities untravelled. No world had ever hailed Heaven, and Heaven had never hailed any other world. I think that the windows and the balconies were thronged, and that the pearline beach was crowded with those who had come to see Him sail out of the harbor of light into the oceans beyond. Out, and out, and out, and on and on, and on, and down, and down, and down He sped, until one night, with only one to greet Him, He arrived. His disembarkation so unpretending, so quiet that it was not known on earth until excitement in the clouds gave intimation that something grand and glorious had happened. Who comes there? From what port did he sail? Why was this the place of his destination? I question the shepherds, I question the camel drivers, I question the angels. I have found out. He was an exile. But the world has had plenty of exiles. Abraham an exile from Ur of the Chaldees; John an exile from Ephesus; Kosciusko an exile from Poland; Mazzini an exile from Rome; Emmett an exile from Ireland; Victor Hugo an exile from France; Kossuth an exile from Hungary. But this one of whom I speak to-day had such resounding farewell and for not even an hostler went out with his lantern to help him in, that he is more to be celebrated than any other expatriated one of earth or heaven.

It is ninety-five million miles from here to the sun, and all astronomers agree in saying that our solar system is only one of the small wheels of the great machinery of the universe, turning round some one great center, the center so far distant it is beyond all imagination and calculation, and if, as some think, that great center in the distance is heaven, Christ came far from home when He came here. Have you ever thought of the homesickness of Christ? Some of you know what homesickness is, when you have been only a few weeks absent from the domestic circle. Christ was thirty-three years away from home. Some of you feel homesickness when you are a hundred or a thousand miles away from the domestic circle. Christ was more millions of miles away from home than you could calculate if all your life you did nothing but calculate. You know what it is to be homesick even amid pleasurable surroundings; but Christ slept in huts, and he was athirst, and he was a hungered, and he was on the way from being born in another man's barn to being buried in another man's grave. I have read how the Swiss, when they are far away from their native country, at the sound of their national air get so homesick that they fall into melancholy, and sometimes they

DIE UNDER THE HOMESICKNESS.

But oh, the homesickness of Christ! Poverty, homesick for celestial riches. Persecution, homesick for hosannas. Weariness, homesick for rest. Homesick for angelic and archangelic companionship. Homesick to go out of the night, and the storm, and the world's execration, and all that homesick soul suffered to get us home!

Of our best estate we are only pilgrims and strangers here. "Heaven is our home." Death will never knock at the door of that mansion, and in all that country there is not a single grave. How glad parents are in holiday times to gather their children home again. But I have noticed that there is almost always a son or a daughter absent—absent from home, perhaps absent from the country, perhaps absent from the world. Oh, how glad our Heavenly Father will be when He gets all His children home with Him in Heaven. And how delightful it will be for brothers and sisters to meet after long separation. Once thy parted at the door of the tomb; now they meet at the door of immortality. Once they saw only through a glass darkly, now it is face to face; corruption, incorruption; mortality, immortality. Where are now all their sins, and sorrows, and troubles? Overwhelmed in the red sea of Death, while they passed through dry shod.

Gates of pearl, capstones of amethyst, thrones of dominion, do not stir my soul so much as the thought of home. Once there, let earthly sorrows howl like storms and roll like seas. Home! Let thrones rot and empires wither. Home! Let the world die in earthquake struggle, and be buried amid processions of planets and dirge of spheres. Home! Let everlasting ages roll irresistible sweep. Home! No sorrow, no crying, no tears, no death, but home, sweet home; home, beautiful home; everlasting home; home with each other; home with angels; home with God.

One night lying on my lounge, when very tired, my children all around about me in full romp and hilarity, and laughter on the lounge, half awake and half asleep. I

DREAMED THIS DREAM.

I was in a far country. It was not Persia, although more than Oriental luxuriance crowned the cities. It was not the tropics, although more than tropical fruitfulness filled the gardens. It was not Italy, although more than Italian softness filled the air. And I wandered around looking for thorns and nettles, but I found that none of them grew there, and I saw the sun rise, and I watched to see it set, but it sank not. And I saw the people in holiday attire, and I said, "When will they put off this and put on workmen's garb, and again delve in the mine or swelter at the forge?" but they never put off the holiday attire. And I wandered in the suburbs of the city to find the place where the dead sleep, and I looked all along the line of the beautiful hills, the place where the dead might meet blissfully sleep, and I saw towers and castles, but not a mausoleum or white slab could I see. And I went to the chapel of the great town and I said, "Where do the poor worship, and where are the hard benches on which they sit?" And the answer was made me, "We have no poor in this country." And then I wandered out to find the hovels of the destitute, and I found mansions of amber and ivory and gold, but not a tear could I see, not a sigh could I hear, and I was bewildered, and I sat down under the branches of a great tree, and I said, "Where am I? And whence comes all this scene?" And then out from among the leaves, and up the flowery paths, and across the bright streams there came thronging all about me, and as I saw them come I thought I knew their step, and as they shouted I thought I knew their voices; but then they were so gloriously arrayed in apparel such as I had never before witnessed, that I bowed as stranger to stranger. But when again they clapped their hands and shouted "welcome, welcome!" the mystery all vanished, and I found that time had gone and eternity had come, and we were all together again in our new home in heaven. And I looked around and I said, "Are we all here?" and the voices of many generations responded, "All here!" And while tears of gladness were raining down our cheeks, and the branches of the Lebanon cedars were clapping their hands, and the towers of the great city were chiming their welcome, we all together began to leap and shout and sing: "Home, home, home, home!"

A BEAUTIFUL GROUP,

Important Notice - To the Trade.

We have instituted legal proceedings gainst parties who have manufactured and sold and those now selling cigars with narrow bands of different colors similar to those registered and sold by us, and respectfully request the trade to treat manufacturers and dealers who employ such disreputable means to foist their goods upon the public in the manner they deserve. Those who encourage them by selling their imitations we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, and we rely upon our friends and the respectable dealers to assist us in putting down this obnoxious class, who are a disgrace to the trade. WM. McFADDEN,

On the hunter Opposite of Simcoe & Aylmer Streets and out the Sub-bub

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, all its interests. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $100 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

CAMPBELL'S

TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

Lightning.

Last night about eleven o'clock, the southern sky was occasionally lit up by vivid flashes of lightning. The first of the season, and, being a most unusual meterological phenomenon at this season, probably another precursor of the big March blow that generally accompanies the equinoctial crisis.

Schiverea.

The services held by Schiverea the evangelist have been, as far as can be ascertained, the means of doing much good. This afternoon a children's meeting was held in the George street church. A men's meeting will be held in the Opera House to-night, commencing at 7.30. Young men are especially wanted. Mr. Schiverea will preach in the Baptist church to-morrow morning, in the Charlotte street church in the afternoon and in St. Paul's church in the evening.

Police Court.

Nathaniel Houlihan was brought before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning charged by his son Patrick with having been drunk and disorderly yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten days in jail.

Matthew Edwards, a young man of 20 years of age, a farm laborer, was charged with being drunk in a public place early this morning. He admitted the charge. As it was the first offence the Magistrate dismissed him with a warning.

Market Mems.

In opposition to the weather this morning, the market was bright and brisk. Small produce was freely offered and bought up quickly. Hay and wood were scarce, and meats were not offered so extensively as of late. Vegetables were also plentiful. The first consignment of maple syrup arrived on the market this morning, one barrel, and was sold at $1.25 per gallon. Quotations were: Butter, in prints, 19 and 20c.; eggs, 13 to 14c.; chickens, per pair, 50 to 60c.; geese, 60c.; turkeys, $1.00 to $1.25; beef, per cwt., $4.00 to $5.50; pork, per cwt., $6.00 to $6.50; cut up, 7 to 8c.; mutton and lamb, 7 to 8c. per pound; potatoes, per bag, 60c.; apples, per bag, 70c. to $1.00; per barrel, $2.00 to $2.25; beets, per bushel, 60c.; carrots, per bushel, 60c.; turnips, per bag, 35c; cabbages, per head, 5 to 10c.

Important Business Change.

Mr. Melville Millar, proprietor of the Golden Anvil hardware establishment, George street, has disposed of the business to the Fortye Bros., Messrs. R. H. and Thomas Fortye. With the latter who has recently been in Orillia, the customers of the store, in the time of Mr. Bertram, will be familiar, he having served as salesman at that time. A few years ago Mr. Millar succeeded to the business, established originally by himself many years before, and afterwards conducted by Messrs. Bertram & Co. The several proprietorships of this business have added to its importance, made it increasingly valuable and popular, which Mr. Millar's incumbency has added to materially, and the Messrs. Fortye Bros. are to be congratulated upon receiving from his hands a business firmly established and popularized by a reputation for fair prices, good stock and fair dealing with, and courteous treatment of customers. Both members of the new firm, who will take possession of the business the first of April, are well-known and popular young men, with a full knowledge of the trade, and there is little doubt they will meet with the large measure of success we hope they may enjoy. It is also to be hoped that Mr. Millar will continue a resident of Peterborough, for he is a member of it whom of citizens the town can ill afford to spare.

Stock Shipment.

Mr. Wm. Deacon, cattle dealer, shipped a car load of [illegible] to-day.

Concert.

An invitation is extended to all young men who can sing and who are willing to assist at the young men's meeting to-night, to meet at the Opera House at 7 o'clock for practice.

Cheese-Makers' Meeting.

The Cheesemakers' and Buyers' Association of Peterborough and West Victoria held a meeting in the Town Hall this afternoon. A summary of the proceedings will be given in Monday's issue.

The George Street Church Pulpit.

Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M.A., pastor of the Bridge street Methodist Church, Belleville, will occupy the pulpit of George street church to-morrow at both morning and evening services. Mr. Clarkson is an able preacher and will no doubt deeply interest the congregations that shall hear him.

Sawdust Made Useful.

A prominent Anti-sawduster has devised a new and useful way of disposing of sawdust. This morning he sprinkled the sidewalk in front of his premises with the vexatious refuse, changing it from an obstructor of navigation to an aider in locomotion.

A Popular Resort.

The new police station is fast becoming a popular resort. The [illegible] cells were patronised last night by no less than six tired tramps in addition to two prisoners. The snores of the quintette were as regular as tuneful and revealed the fact that they were produced by a wandering band of musicians.

The Beecher [illegible]

When the Odfellows of Otonabee Lodge announced early in the season that Rev. Henry Ward Beecher would lecture in February, it was expected that the reverend lecturer would be able to fill his engagement, but a letter received from his agent this morning states that the Mr. Beecher has not left his church this winter for any lecturing engagement, but he hopes that he will be able to give a date for Mr. Beecher's lecture in this town, some time early in the fall.

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

To the Ladies.

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

A Sad Bereavement.

It is learned with deep regret that Mr. George Wilson, of the Guide, has suffered a great bereavement in the death of his daughter, (Carrie) wife of Mr. Guy Andrus, science master of the Port Hope High School. About a fortnight since Mrs. Andrus received a shock by a collision while out driving. She never recovered from its effects, and passed away on Friday morning. The deceased was a most estimable young lady, and had only been married a little over a year. We extend our deepest condolence and sympathy to the bereaved husband and the afflicted father and family.

Painful Accident.

The slippery condition of all-out-doors this morning made it dangerous to pedestrians, and while many ludicrous tumbles took place, some painful falls occurred. Mr. H. W. Watson met with a heavy fall, striking on his head and was stunned for some time Pennington Alexander, Reid and King streets, met with an accident more enduring in its effects. As he was passing, on his way to work, Coughlin's grocery, Charlotte street, he partially fell, and in striving to recover himself, struck his elbow on the walk so severely that the shock communicated to his collar bone, broke that bone at its outer third. Dr. King supplied the necessary surgical treatment. Mr. Alexander will have a most unwelcome addition to the recent enforced holiday from illness, from which he had only recovered.

Cycling.

The Bicycle Club, in connection with the P.A.A.A., was held in Mr. J. McNamara's rooms on Thursday evening. There were present a large number of wheelsmen and their friends. It was decided to form a club independent of the association. The new club is called "The Peterborough Bicycle Club." The following officers were elected for the new club:

PRESIDENT,—Dr. Geo. Beraham.
CAPTAIN,—A. E. Ames.
1ST. LIEUTENANT,—A. Gibson.
2ND LIEUTENANT,—C. McClelland.
SECRETARY,—Fred. E. Bell.
WHIPPER-IN,—G. Clementi.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,—J. McNamara, C. McClelland and A. E. Ames.

Committee for providing uniforms, Messrs. Gibson, Reid and Might.

Applications will be made to the P.A.A.A. at its next meeting for the use of the association track.

Madre E Hijo,

What Does it Mean?

Needs of Spring.

Spring is coming and with it the semi-annual [illegible] of houses. In view of this [illegible] my stock of [illegible] which was never shown anywhere outside of the larger cities. I invite inspection and guarantee satisfaction in material, style and price. [illegible]

Correction.

In the weekly EXAMINER of week before last, an item appeared from a "Zion" correspondent stating that Mr. Robert Hull, blacksmith, of Peterborough, would open a shop at the Corners. In last week's issue the item was contradicted, and now we repeat the denial. Mr. Hull is not going to Zion to engage in business, but will remain at his old stand, Hunter and Aylmer streets, where he will be pleased to meet all his old customers.

Slippery Sidewalks.

Last night's storm completely clothed everything exposed in an icy coat of mail. Walking early this morning was a difficult feat to perform, and many were obliged to take the middle of the road to keep their feet. Persons who had succeeded in making their places of business in good time, stood at their doors and with a secret satisfaction watched the fitful struggles of others. The constant exertions so wearied many that they were irresistibly compelled to sit down and rest. About eight o'clock a whole army of junior clerks with shovels and axes and [illegible] with salt and ashes attacked the enemy and after a warm engagement accompanied with a terrible din succeeded in routing the foe, from George street, spoiling the sidewalk for skating or curling but making it more pleasant for walking. By order of the Mayor the streets were salted, which also assisted in breaking the attraction of the ice.

Up-Town Offices.

Mr. E. E. Henderson, insurance agent, has fitted up convenient, comfortable and well equipped offices over Tully's drug store, (entrance, George street). This will be a great convenience to the many of the public who require to meet Mr. Henderson in connection with the large business he has built up. He is general agent for the British Empire Life Assurance Company, being one of the first general agents appointed, and is now one of the two original appointees still in the position, the others having failed to meet the requirements of the central agency in the way of live work and careful and capable management of business. Mr. Henderson is also agent for the Phœnix Fire Insurance Company of England, and for the Accident Insurance Company of North America (Montreal). Mr. Henderson has shown himself a capable and pushing insurance agent, conducting his business in such a manner as to win both the approval of head agencies and the confidence of the insuring public who have dealings with him.

Personal.

Mr. John Ludgate, of Ashburnham, is, we regret to learn, confined to his house by a serious attack of illness, and immediate improvement is not probable.

Peterborough musical talent is gaining an enviable reputation abroad. Miss Hurley, daughter of Mr. T. Hurley, real estate agent, is in London, Ont., prosecuting her musical studies. In connection therewith she is assistant organist of St. Peter's Cathedral in that city. On the occasion of St. Patrick's concert Miss Hurley made her first public appearance—before an audience of some 1,500. Referring to Miss Hurley, the London Advertiser says:—"Dr. Verrinder acted as musical director and accompanist, assisted in the latter capacity by Miss Hurley, of Peterborough, the new assistant organist of St. Peter's who last night made her debut in London, and it is needless to say, made a most favorable impression."

Montreal uses twelve million gallons of water daily.

Rules and Regulations

For the Government of the Police Force.

The committee on appointments and supervision of Police, at a meeting held on Thursday evening, prepared a code of rules and regulations for the government of the police force, which will be submitted at the next meeting of the Council for ratification. The following summary of the rules, which was crowded out of yesterday's edition, is given:—

THE CHIEF'S DUTIES.

The Chief Constable will, as chief executive officer of the department, have the general government of the force subject to the orders of the committee on appointments and supervision of police, and shall be responsible to the Council.

He will be required to visit his men frequently, occasionally at night, to see that they are regular and efficient.

The Chief Constable is to see that the laws of the Province and of the town are duly enforced within his jurisdiction.

He shall from time to time inspect the condition of the station and report regarding the same.

When charges are preferred against constables he will have power to investigate the same, and when of sufficient importance, submit the charge in writing to the committee for consideration.

In minor offences he will have power to impose a fine.

It will be the chief's duty to attend all fires, riots and tumultuous assemblages, to command the force present and arrest persons disturbing the peace.

In all important cases coming before the magistrate he will be required to take a memorandum of evidence.

It will be his duty to be cognizant of all expenses in connection with the department and to certify all accounts.

The chief will have full power to suspend in cases where such action is necessary.

GENERAL DUTIES OF THE FORCE.

A policeman shall devote his whole time and attention to the business of the force.

The efforts of the force are to be directed towards the prevention of crime, and the detection and punishment of offenders.

He must be prepared to turn out on duty at all times and to act in any part of the town.

He must be quiet, civil and orderly in deportment, performing his duties with decorum and politeness, at the same time with energy and courage. When on duty he must be neat in appearance, having his clothes and boots cleaned, dressing in conformity with the regulations.

In serious disturbances his first duty is to restore peace, if possible, by moderate measures; if they fail, force to be resorted to.

In cases of peril the police must act together and protect each other in the execution of duty.

He must do the utmost in his power to prevent the commission of assaults or breaches of he peace.

All correspondence with persons not in the force, on matters of duty, to be carried through the Chief's office under his direction.

The Chief to direct all telegraphic and written communication, except when there is not time to obtain his direction.

No anonymous correspondence allowed.

The police will report all deposits of filth, dead animals, etc., and take steps for their removal.

Special attention is called to by-law 395.

The Chief is expected to study and make himself conversant with the provisions he shall enforce and to instruct his men.

Men who wish to resign must give a month's notice to the Chief.

CAUTION AGAINST DRINKING.

The committee will discharge any officer or constable convicted of being unfit for duty from the effects of liquor, or for being found asleep on his beat.

Any member found entering public houses, except on duty, or who purchase spirits from unlicensed persons, will be dismissed. The Chief to set a good example.

The committee warn the members against the wives of designing men, who endeavor to draw them from the path of duty, so as to secure their dismissal.

There must be a constant warfare between the force and those under their supervision.

PUBLIC HOUSES.

The police shall see that the provisions of the liquor act are enforced. For wilful neglect a fine of $10 will be imposed.

A constable may at all times enter any licensed or unlicensed premises on the execution of his duty. Persons obstructing or refusing to admit the police shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $10.

In general he should be directed by or accompanied by the chief.

Any licensed dealer in spirituous liquors, shall not knowingly harbour any officer of the force, except for the quelling of a disturbance, on penalty of forfeiture of his license.

The police are forbidden to ask for, take or buy any drink, except with meals, while engaged in any special duty on penalty of severe punishment.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

JOHN CARNEGIE, ESQ., M.P.P.,

In continuation of our outline and pen and ink portraits of our provincial representative men, below is given a portrait and sketch of the life of

The Scrap-Book Member.

Though his portrait appears the last of the series, that fact is not to be construed into disrespect; let it be borne in mind that the most important figures in an ecclesiastical, society or civic procession, bring up the rear. Mr. Carnegie is nothing if not a politician, therefore, his political history is alone of interest. He began his political career in a representative capacity nearly twenty years ago, entering the first Local Legislature in 1867. He at once came to the front as a man of ambition and scrape—in fact his scrap-book counts its days from the dawn of the federated Dominion. In 1871 Mr. Carnegie was sufficiently self-satisfied with his political successes to ask a renewal of the confidence of the people, but the people, recognizing a certain crudeness and patchiness in his "facts" granted him a holiday of a dozen years to be devoted to the compilation of a scrap-book of respectable proportions, choosing in his stead the late Thomas Fairbairn. In the general elections of 1883, there was yeoman's work to be done—"Mowat must go"—"That Little Tyrant" must be crushed—and Mr. Carnegie lent his aid to draw the tyrant's teeth. The people yearned for "facts," even if "figuratively" speaking they were somewhat "cooked" and No. 1 ward nobly responded to the call of duty and elected Mr. Carnegie representative of West Peterborough.

Mr. Carnegie is an effective speaker. He has a silvery toned voice, and his style is moulded on the best forms of that classical school of oratory denominated the sledge-hammer. He never descends to personalities—from his stand point, he ascends to them. He was never known to make a misleading statement—without its being followed in the next sentence, by another which could claim kinship to the family of whoppers; he was never known to injure the feelings of a political opponent, unless the latter were so absurdly sensitive to insult and abusive language as a rule, or as thin-skinned as a rhinoceros. His speeches are exceedingly convincing—the fact that his political friends tolerate them convinces the unprejudiced hearer that party loyalty can stand a terrific strain.

Mr. Carnegie is not exactly popular among the local leaders of his own party, a fact difficult to understand, in the light of the warm interest he took at one time in their personal welfare. Why, he even resorted to means, which with a politician of less high and less honorable motives, would not be called exactly square, to secure the nomination so that his friends might not be subjected to the degradation of defeat. Great things were expected of Mr. Carnegie when he entered the last parliament, but he showed his lofty spirit of independence by neglecting to do anything great—though he tried hard enough. He held on high his scrap book and poured forth the floods of his wrath on the heads of the ministers, but the latter indulged to fulsome the stream. Even with the able assistance of Messrs. Bunting, Wilkinson, Monk and eighteen one hundred bills, he failed to make "Mowat go." The failure of the conspiracy was to be expected, when Mr. Carnegie's name was omitted from the provisional cast of the conspiracy cabinet—the absurd idea of putting on the play of Hamlet, and leaving Hamlet sitting in obscurity among the back benches!

By one or two testamentary accidents, Mr. Carnegie became a wealthy farmer. Therefore, he is the farmers' representative, and he shows a deep interest in their welfare. Lest the farmer and farmers' sons should learn too much and get above their business, Mr. Carnegie, after deriving all the personal benefit possible from the Guelph Agricultural College, is doing his best to destroy it.

Mr. Carnegie is credited with the laudable ambition of becoming a Cabinet Minister, but unfortunately he has tried the wrong way. He has been clambering and stumbling over the rough road-bed of Colonization Roads, and after an exasperating struggle of four sessions, he has not even been able to gain a little foothold.

Sunday Sermons and Services.

Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M. A., of Belleville, in the George Street Church—Schiverea Drawn the Crowds.

Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M.A., pastor of the Bridge Street Methodist church, Belleville, occupied the pulpit of the George street church yesterday, morning and evening. His discourses were eloquent and impressive and in keeping with the special efforts now being put forth to revive Christianity. In the morning he took for his text the 32nd verse of the 24th chapter of St. Luke, "And they said one to another, did not our hearts burn within us, while he opened to us the Scriptures," shewing the inspiration received by communion with Christ. As the text for his evening discourse he took the 17th verse of the 5th chapter of 2nd Corinthians, "Therefore if any man be in Christ he is a new creature, old things are passed away; behold all things are become new."

SCHIVERES.

Shiveres, the evangelist, had a busy day yesterday. He seems to be unacquainted with fatigue, as the longer he works the more energetic he becomes. In the morning he occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church from which he delivered an able and earnest sermon. Notwithstanding the inclement state of the weather, the edifice was crowded to its utmost capacity.

In the afternoon Mr. Schiveres preached in the Charlotte street church, taking as his text the 17th verse of the 1st chapter of St. John: "For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." The church was crowded with an eager throng long before the service commenced, who listened with interest to the discourse.

In the evening he occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church. As at the other services during the day the attendance was very large. Half an hour before the service began the church was so crowded that chairs had to be placed along the aisles, around the pulpit and in every available space, and then many were able to get seats while many more would not get standing room and had to turn away. It is estimated that there were over 1,400 present. The evangelist took as his text a clause from the 3rd verse of the 2nd chapter of Hebrews: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation." His discourse was earnest, stirring and even eloquent at times. The result of his day's efforts was that over twenty persons stood up and testified that they had decided to accept salvation.

CHANGE OF PULPITS.

Rev. A. H. Munro occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte street church yesterday morning.

Rev. J. F. McAmmond conducted the services in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening.

Agricultural Society Meeting.

Peterborough and the Provincial.

At a meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Central Exhibition, held on Saturday afternoon, the judges were selected for the spring show of stallions and bulls, after which Mr. R. Vance, representative of this district on the Board of the Agricultural and Arts Association, made a short address. He stated that at the last meeting the place for holding the next Provincial Exhibition had been fixed at Guelph. It was the opinion of the Board that the Provincial Exhibition should be held alternatively two years in the western and two years in the eastern portion of the Province. The eastern members of the Ontario Legislature had all voted for the grant to the exhibition. They showed that the eastern portion of the Province had not received an equal chance with the west in the matter of the locating of the annual exhibition. At the recent meeting only Guelph had applied for the exhibition, and if Peterborough had been prepared in the way of suitable buildings, there was little doubt but that the exhibition could have been secured for this town for the coming fall. The statement by Mr. Vance that Peterborough was endeavouring by an attempt to erect suitable building to make himself eligible for the holding of a provincial exhibition, was received with applause, showing how favourably the Board regarded the suitability of Peterborough's position for the exhibition. It is to be hoped that the Board of Directors of the West Riding society, the citizens of the town and the neighbouring farmers will wake up the importance of more vigorous action with a view of securing new and suitable exhibition buildings. Not only are such buildings the first step towards making this town the permanent location for a large and flourishing Central Exhibition, but there is every reason to hope that with suitable buildings and appurtenances, Peterborough's claim to the Provincial, next after Guelph, could be successfully maintained. It needs a little of well-directed energy to bring about this result. Any further delay or slothfulness will be a disgraceful reflection on the energy and enterprise of the town and county.

Cheesemakers' Meeting.

The Annual Meeting of the Cheesemakers And Manufacturers in the Old Fire Hall.

The annual meeting of the Cheesemakers' and Manufacturers' Association of Peterborough, and Victoria counties, was held in the old Fire Hall on Saturday afternoon. There were present, Mr. J. W. Moore, of Lakefield, President, in the chair, and Messrs. D. Pilkie, of Pine Grove factory; Wm. Crebbin, of Emilemore; J. Wilson, of North Smith Dairy Co.; B. Davis and John Chittick, of Trewers factory, Smith; J. Spence, of Norwood; W. Desprose, of Normanhurst factory, Smith; and C. Matchett and R. Doyell, of Otonabee factory. There were no members from Victoria present.

Mr. D. Pilkey was elected secretary pro. tem.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Several communications received by the president relating to boxes and bandages were read by the secretary.

On motion of Mr. Crebbin, seconded by Mr. Spence, it was decided that Harrison's coloring be used for this season.

On motion of Mr. Crebbin, seconded by Mr. Best, it was also decided to use Harrison's extract.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Crebbin, that the association accept Mr. H. Best's offer to supply bandages at 6½ cents.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Crebbin, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that coloring be continued until July 1st, and that the secretary be instructed to, notify each maker.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Crebbin, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the amount of color used at commencing be 2½ ounces per thousand.—Carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the year:—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. W. Crebbin.

SEC'Y.-TREASURER.—D. Pilkey.

On motion of Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Desprose, the secretary was instructed to communicate with Mr. Bickle, of Port Hope, and Mr. Vandervort, of Belleville, to ascertain the lowest figure at which they could supply first class boxes.

The meeting then adjourned to meet in the same place on April 24th at 2 o'clock.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SHOOTING MATCH.

The return match between the Lakefield and Young's point teams was fired off here on Friday, the 19th inst. Though the Young's Point team were defeated, the score is such as will probably show our Lakefield friends that our men can do more than hit a barn door by accident. The same target was used as at the Lakefield match and the ranges were one and two hundred yards, three shots at each range. The following is the score by points:—

Lakefield	53
Young's Point	48
Majority for Lakefield	5

Mr. R. Heard, of Young's Point made the highest score 18 points.

The wind-up of the shooting was a friendly match between Mr. R. Purser and Mr. D. Costello, Mr. Purser winning by one point. The contestants and a few friends then repaired to Mr. Costello's hotel where a very enjoyable evening was spent. Another match will take place shortly in Lakefield.

COURT.

Joseph Duggan, of Burleigh Falls, was arraigned before Mr. Wm. Graham, J.P., and Mr. P. Alex. Kearney, J.P., on March 19th, charged with assault and battery on his wife. He was found guilty and sentenced to sixty days at hard labor in the county goal.

PURCHASED THE FAIRY.

Mr. C. Young has purchased the neat little Steamer Fairy and scow from Mr. Geo. A. Cox. She will be used for towing and passenger traffic between Lakefield and the back lakes.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL AND MR. HILLIARD.

In a letter which appears in Saturday's Review, over the signature of Mr. Geo. Hilliard, this gentleman, in a fit of wild indignation which would do credit to a Bowery tragedian, attacks the EXAMINER in language smacking more of the rougher element of the "lobby" than is consistent with that dignity and good sense, which ought to characterize a man of his representative position and character. It is not meet that Mr. Geo Hilliard, a public man, a member of parliament, representing a constituency as intelligent as West Peterborough, comprising a comparatively large French population, should characterize any section of his confreres in the Dominion as "loathsome" and especially that part which has been so closely and intimately connected with Mr. Hilliard and his political leaders for so many years. It exhibits a venomous party feeling which should be stifled, discreditable alike to that calm judgment and that judicial spirit, which should be brought to bear on the consideration of political questions.

In writing that the EXAMINER has ever been hostile to the scheme, (Trent Valley Canal,) Mr. Hilliard states what he must know to be a deliberate falsehood, without a solitary fact or a single expression of ours to give credence to, or grounds for so untruthful and dishonest an expression of opinion. We challenge Mr. Hilliard to produce a single editorial or statement of like nature in the EXAMINER upon which he could base so unfounded and lying a misrepresentation. It ill becomes Mr. Hilliard to impute to us untruthfulness, dishonesty of political purpose and subserviency to party, when a warm supporter of his during the last election, who followed closely at his beck and call, and who should know him intimately, publicly called him on the streets of Peterborough's Judas, who had lied to and betrayed him. What more dishonest or subservient, hot-house politician could there be than Mr. Hilliard?—"so lost to all that is noble in man, viz: honesty." When did he ever oppose Sir John A. Macdonald in all his treachery and corruption? Has he ever raised his stentorian voice against the political debauchery which is permeating and tinging with its foul stream the purity of this Dominion? Did he oppose the infamy of the Gerrymander Act or that blot on our country's honor, the Franchise Act? No. There stands not to-day at Ottawa a more subservient politician than Mr. Hilliard, betraying alike the honor of his country and the interests of his constituents, "a person willing to sacrifice everything at the shrine of politics." So grossly has the West Riding of Peterborough been deceived in Mr. Hilliard, and in his fairness and honesty of purpose, and so well is he aware of the fact, that we venture to say he will never again have the boldness to appeal in the county for election to any such office as he now holds, and that the next position he will claim, will be one which will be a reward for party faithfulness and party blindness to his political chief, and which will be in the nature of a gift and deceur for wrecking his principles on the rock of their corruption, issuing solely by virtue of their power and non-elective.

In charging Mr. Hilliard with apathy and sloth in not securing to the Trent Valley Canal deputation that hearing they deserved we were correct. Mr. Hilliard had ample notice of the visit of the deputation—a deputation in which 13 constituencies were interested. He was aware that it would be large and important both in consequence and numbers, and yet when that deputation went to Ottawa, he had arranged that it should meet at 8 o'clock in the evening, the Hon. Mr. Pope; well aware that the House rises at 6 o'clock p.m. and sits again at 8 o'clock p.m., and that any Minister would have at the most one hour and a half to hear the merits of so momentous an undertaking. When the deputation heard of this arrangement they were astounded and at the suggestion of the Rev. Mr. Logan, a committee was appointed to wait on Sir John A. but they accomplished nothing, and in the end it was solely to the influence and exertions of the deputation that they finally received the hearing they did, after a large part of the deputation had returned home disgusted. And it was openly stated by members of the deputation that so short a time had been arranged by Mr. Hilliard intentionally in order not to compromise the government, and allow them an opportunity to bring the meeting suddenly to a close on some plausible excuse as they saw fit.

What did the deputation accomplish? Absolutely nothing. Hon. Mr. Pope said "all the money he could get out of his friend the Minister of Finance, he would spend on the work." What had the Minister of Finance to say. He had no doubt the deputation were terribly in earnest but they must consider As financial positions, chiefly favorable of great consolation and holding high expectations to the deputation. Sir Hector Langevin spoke of the financial depression, and thought the Government could not be asked to be imprudent. Hon. Mr. Bowell thought the people of this session took a large interest in the work, words of calm judgment and inspiration, but not very hopeful, and to crown the whole farce, $360,000 were promised to be placed on the estimates on the eve of an election—the Government clearly understanding that before the money could be expended they were about to appeal to the country.

The position of the EXAMINER has always been straightforward. We are in favor of the building of the canal speedily and without political subterfuge, but we believe that the present Government are merely using this undertaking as a bait to fish in political waters to catch thoughtless loose fish in thirteen constituencies. In spite of the statement of Mr. Hilliard to the contrary, we have used our influence in furthering the work. As a work to which the Government are pledged, we will hold them to their pledges. If the present Government will not build the work, a Reform Government will, and we do not intend to cast in our lot with such men as Mr. Hilliard and his ilk, and be tricked and deceived by the Tory Government and finally accomplish nothing.

The EXAMINER has done more for the work than any other paper in the thirteen constituencies, and we are willing to do more. We are convinced, and that not unreasonably, that the Tory Government intends to do nothing and that until it is ousted the work will be merely dangled as a bait before the electors of this section of the country.

As to the Trent Valley Canal, for six or seven long years he has represented Peterborough and we have yet to see the motion either by himself or his Tory friends, committing the Government to this undertaking. On the other hand he has done all in his power to whitewash the Government, and prevent them from being in any way harassed by the importunities of the supporters of this work, or injured politically by the delay and carelessness which has uniformly characterized the Government's action in this matter.

We would advise Mr. Hilliard before he again comes forward in public print, prating about his honesty, that he take another column in the Review explaning his double dealing and treacherous action in reference to the Peterborough post-office. His course in this matter appears to have been so unique in its faithlessness that even the Government which he supports, which all will admit draws no fine line in such matters, as to either consistency or moral purity, were forced to write reprimanding him for the dishonorable position he assumed in the matter, first recommending the Phelan lot and then covertly withdrawing his recommendation at the solicitation and threats of other Tories in Peterborough.

MISSING LINKS.

A BRUISED ROSE.

The revelry that fill'd the night is done:
Hush'd is the patter of once dancing feet,
The rustle of rich fabrics, laughter sweet;
The music still'd, and morning, newly born,
Hears but its echo.

One poor bruised rose,
Let fall upon the floor from some fair breast,
Is all that tells it was no cunning jest
Wrought by the deft romancer of repose;
The lamps, laughter—all a fitful gleam,
Raised from the pillow of a broken dream.
—Charles W. Coleman, Jr., in Harper's Magazine for February.

The largest American cannon throws a 1,080-pound ball.

An extensive deposit of iron ore has been discovered near Irondale, W. T.

President Richards of the Metropolitan Horse Railroad of Boston is quoted as saying, after a study of electric motors, that the day of horses is past.

John I. Blair, of New Jersey, is one of the most powerful railroad magnates in the land. He is the sole owner of 1,500 miles of road, and an officer in companies controlling 10,000 miles.

The biggest ruby of the crownless King Theebaw is missing. It was called the Man-zin-Budda-mya. Once a damsel stole the gem, but at that time it was restored to the royal lock-box and the hapless maid was put to death.

"Stepniak," the literary leader of the Russian revolutionists, is residing in London, writing for the press and engaged on two new books. He proposes within a year to visit this country. He is a young man of less than 34 years.

Dr. Hammond was found by a correspondent writing on his fifth novel, "An Honorable Villain." He usually writes in the evening, in the midst of his books in a quiet and secluded room, comfortable and luxurious, like the rest of the house.

Several million pounds of the dark, hard, flawless wood called cocobola are imported from South America annually into New York. It comes not in logs or planks, but in great chunks, and is used for knife handles, flutes, and similar purposes. Formerly it was worth 5 cents a pound, but now only half as much.

At a recent meeting in Cleveland, Francis Murphy, the temperance apostle, read a selection from Paul with reference to charity, in which Paul says: "I spake as a child." Then Mr. Murphy added: "I have always thought Paul was a countryman of mine, but that we got created out of him somehow. Who but an Irishman ever said 'spake?' "

Last summer the report was circulated that Hugh Conway, author of "Called Back," had died, but since then there has been an incessant stream of novels from his pen. The last one is appropriately entitled "Living or Dead?" and if the work goes on at its present rate the opinion will prevail that he has called back on his publishers.—Chicago News.

Queen Victoria did a kindly act recently, when, as she was driving through Windsor, she observed a cab-horse fall down. An outrider was sent to make inquiries, and, on learning the nature of the accident, her majesty caused an intimation to be conveyed to the lamenting owner that he should be presented with another horse from the royal stables.

A very noticeable change has taken place in the grass growth of the open sheep plains of Australia since its civilization. The grass originally grew in large tussocks some distance apart, but now has assumed the appearance of a sward, owing to its having stooled out when fed upon by sheep and cattle, and from the seed having been trampled into the ground, where, in the absence of bush fires, it germinated.

Minister S. S. Cox announces in a letter to a friend in New York that he has begun an historical work on the Ottoman invasion of Europe. He expects to obtain full access to all the Turkish archives and libraries. If Mr. Cox is successful in this he will be able to do a great service to historical literature, as the Greek and Armenian manuscripts in Constantinople have for many centuries been inaccessible to scholars.

Gambetta said after he had been time. For a moment the green Vermont hills, the chalky brook, the old, low-browed house came into his mind and over against them stood the factory with its ceaseless din and hurry. Only for a moment, for glancing up he saw the child nestled in Dan'l's arm: while he with clumsy care, was drawing off the tattered stockings and chafing the wee cold feet.

"Dan'l?"

"Yes, brother," said Dan'l looking up.

"Gals is better than farms, I reckon."

"Yes, brother."—C. F. Thompson, in Chicago Tribune.

Roofs of Paper.

A roof pronounced superior to that of slate because of its lightness and other advantages is now made of any fibrous pulp, says the Boston Journal of Commerce. From this material tiles of any shape desired are formed by pressure under machinery or by any other method which may suggest itself. Pressed into the design wished for the pulp tiles are partially dried, previous to being subjected to a water-proof solution. Thoroughly impregnated with the preparation to resist moisture they are baked to harden in them the water-proof mixture. After the baking the tiles are treated to a mixture imparting an enameled surface; to this is added a coating of sand, whereby the pulp is rendered proof against the action of heat or flame. By the use of different colored sands a variety of tints may be imparted to the tiles, which, after the application of the enameling mixture and sands, are baked a second time, after which they are ready for use. Besides the inherent lightness of pulp tiles, which obviates the necessity of a heavy frame to support a weighty roof, the pulp tile, being tough and not brittle like slate is far less liable to be broken from blows, stones thrown upon them, or human footsteps. Again, slate tiles cannot be laid compactly together on a roof on account of their brittleness, which prevents their being drawn tightly together by nails. Through the fibrous pulp nails may be driven as close home as in shingles, thereby binding them closely to the bed and together without any possibility of lateral movement or being blown away in a high wind, as slates loosely fastened on roofs so frequently are. Nails penetrate the pulp tiles more easily than shingles, and lie closer together, being more elastic than wood.

Some Good Advice.

It is said that the wine-cup has occasionally circulated among the legislators, and some have even achieved celebrity by this convivial disposition. Of one who has since achieved reputation as a lawyer the following story circulated among his legislative friends. He attended a ball one evening, and in the course of the festivities he became somewhat too joyous. Seeing this, one of his friends approached him and advised him to seek his room and bed. The young lawyer said nothing, but with great solemnity took a dollar bill from his pocket and thrust it into the hand of his friend.

"But I don't want money," said the gentleman, "I merely suggested that you go to bed."

"Take it, take it," was the reply in the blandest of tones, "I've charged $2 for a good deal poorer advice than that!"—Boston Record.

Drinking One's Money's Worth.

How many of us drink intelligently when we visit celebrated springs? We pay our five dollars a day, and that certainly ought to entitle one to drinking as much as one likes. So we rush blindly on, in this our first visit, running a race with old habitues who have come fortified by their physician's carefully guarded opinions. Of course it doesn't kill us on the spot. Perhaps in solitary cases the soaking may work good, although it wasn't the spring to be prescribed for us, but one exactly the opposite in its properties. At any rate, we return home satisfied to have obtained our money's worth. That satisfaction goes a long way toward good health, it is true.—Margaret Sidney, in Good Housekeeping.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and worth them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to these out of employment to make money.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child our; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. What is It? What Does it Means?

The following appears in the Mail of Saturday under the heading of "Canada Gazette, notices and appointments":—"Abraham J. Ingen, of Cobourg, is gazetted Out-Port Collector of Customs for East Peterborough, and Charles A. Wheeler the same for West Peterborough."

Why?

Why continue to drive around with faded and shabby Buffalo Robes, when you can have them dyed a rich Black or Brown. Bring your Robes and Coats to the Blyth Mills end have them dyed and made equal to a Black Bear Skin, before you store them away for the season. J. M. Masson, Blyth Mills, Peterborough.

A Grim Picture.

One picture among the many in Mr. Clegg's window has attracted a great deal of attention for the last day or two. It is by a Canadian artist, N. Bethune, of Toronto, and published by Forbes & Co., Boston. The picture represents a grave-yard with three grim skeletons playing at billiards on a flat tombstone, with white skulls for balls, and has for title the quotation from Shakespeare, presumably: "Did these bones cost no more the breeding than to play at loggat? Mine ache to think on't!"

Police Court.

Thomas McGee, arrested by P. C. Adams on a warrant for neglecting to attend a summons charging him with fighting last October, was brought before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning. McGee admitted the charge against him and was fined $2.

A drunk, captured by P. C. Adams this morning, was too much overcome by bad spirits to admit of his being presented in court, and was ordered to be taken to jail until he cooled off. He was very noisy and demonstrative at the police station. He will receive an interview with the magistrate on Wednesday.

Too Early in the Season.

Two young ladies' attempted to take the short-cut across the Central Park this morning. They were engaged in conversation and did not notice that a minature lake lay in their path until they began to sink in the slush around its borders. In endeavouring to walk around the obstruction they only "put their foot in it" a little further. After some lively stepping they regained solid footing and retraced their steps. A young man who watched the performance was so overpowered with laughter, that he could not go to their assistance. The excuse will not hold water, though.

Almost Drowned.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Alex. McIntyre, of Dummer, came very near to losing a valuable pair of horses. He had delivered a load of wheat at the mills of Messrs. Meldrum, Davidson & Co. He had secured his team from running away by winding the lines around the hind bob of the sleigh. After unloading his wheat he wished to change the position of his sleigh. He took his horses by the heads and began backing them; the more the backing process was indulged in the tighter the lines became drawn, and the horses continued backing on their own account, till suddenly horses, sleigh and all tumbled sheer down the bank of Dickson's race, at this point some 25 feet in depth with almost perpendicular sides. The whole "business" went down clean out of sight. When the horses came to the surface their heads were caught and held above water till help came, in the persons of Messrs. Johnny Lee, John Clay and Wm. Martin who cut the harness and set the animals free. The horses had to be towed a long distance up stream before they could be got out. The disunited team was taken to Mr. Haslitt's stables, warmly blanketed, fed and treated to the attention that half an hour's immersion in the water, called for.

Dates of Exhibitions.

The annual spring show of stallions and bulls of the West Riding Association will be held on Saturday, May 1st. The dates of the fall exhibition have been fixed as follows: October 5th, 6th and 7th.

Sketch of Spring.

Spring is coming and with it the semi-annual renovation of houses and homes. In view of this I can now offer a superb stock of Lace Curtains and Carpets, the superior of which was never shown anywhere outside of the larger cities. I invite inspection and guarantee satisfaction in material, style and price. R. Fair.

The Mystery Solved.

Wife—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

Husband—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

A Trio of Tramps.

Three unocommercial travellers registered at the police station last night. There were just enough sample rooms to accommodate them. One of the trio, who carried a stock of protection against tan and freckles, (dirt) was allowed to use the female compartment. They reported the place as damp, cold and cheerless. There was no steam on, the furnace fire having been extinguished by a flood from the street.

A Flattering Coincidence.

We are informed that last Friday, March 19th, Mr. Arthur Rutherford, veteran councillor for No. 3 Ward, and President Cleveland, of the United States, turned together the home-stretch on the half century—each being on that day 49 years of age. Being unable to strike a balance on account of the mutual honor involved in the coincidence of natal days, we must proclaim honors even.

A Policeman for the Opera House.

Chief Cooper has issued orders to the effect that in future an officer of the force shall be stationed at the Opera House during all entertainments, to maintain order in hall, and to see that loungers do not hang around the stairs, blocking the passage, polluting the place by their presence. This is a move in the right direction and will receive the sanction of the public. This will also make the policeman's lot a more happy one, if he does not get altogether infatuated with the stage.

To the Ladies.

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

Madre E Hijo,

What Does it Mean?

Court House Park.

The public are requested, during the early months of spring, to refrain from taking the "short cut" through the park or using the walks till the ground becomes settled. Use of the walks or treading on the sward when both are soft and spongy will result in great damage. Every citizen is a stockholder in this fine summer resort and is expected to assist in protecting the grounds so that he may share in the dividend of enjoyment declared every day during the season. In this connection it may not be amiss to give the hitherto conspicuous cow a note of warning. While her important position in society is conceded, it is not proposed to allow her to enjoy unrestrained indulgence in cropping the herbage and flowers of the park the coming summer.

A Joke Among the Ministers.

The clericals enjoy what they call a good joke as well as anybody. Through a friendly arrangement that does credit to the local condition of denominational amenites, Rev. Mr. Munro, Baptist, and Rev. F. McAmmond, Methodist, were to exchange pulpits yesterday. When Rev. Mr. Munro repaired to the Ashburnham church, he found that the water had encroached on the furnace room and extinguished the fire, and, of course, the service could not be conducted at so low a temperature. Among the cloth Rev. Mr. McAmmond is accused of "putting up a job" on Rev. Mr. Munro, while the latter is pelted with clerical chaff for acknowledging by his retreat that even a Baptist can be afraid of a little too much of the aqueous element.

Watery Wickedness.

The fast fading beautiful snow is rapidly disappearing from the surface of the earth, and in the natural course of events and water courses, finds its way into cellars, from which it slowly filters out into sewers, etc. The furnace in the new town buildings was drowned out this morning by an inundation of this kind, also other furnaces in the immediate vicinity. Engineer English found it impossible to get up steam, even to pump out the water. Reports of watery cellars come from all over the town, and many exciting tales are told of how rafts were formed to rescue preserves, vegetables, etc., stored away in the cellars. It is told of one melancholy and absent-minded man, who is accustomed to go down cellar every morning to help himself to an apple or so, that he stepped in the water up to his middle before he bethought himself of it. The servant girl scrubbed him with a broom.

The Evangelistic Meetings.

The evangelistic services, conducted by Ferdinand Schiveras, will be continued this week in St. Paul's Church, commencing at 7.30, o'clock each evening. The morning, noon and afternoon services will also be continued as usual next week, with the exception of the afternoon meetings which will be held in the Charlotte Street Church instead of St. Andrews. A meeting for boys will be held on Thursday in the George Street Church, and a meeting for ladies, the date of which is not yet decided.

Schiveras's Talk to Men.

On Saturday evening Schiveras, the evangelist, again addressed a mass meeting of men in the Opera House. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. The meeting was opened by devotional exercises and an excellent choir of male voices. Mr D. D. Gallatly sang the solo, "Where is My Boy To-night," the congregation of about a thousand voices joining in the chorus. Mr. Schiveras took as his text the 7th and 8th verses of the 6th chapter of Gallatians: "Be thou not deceived, God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." His discourse was characteristic of undeniable truth, energy and earnestness, and must have been the means of awakening many.

Personal.

Rev. I. Tovell, conducted the services in Bridge Street Church, Belleville, yesterday, exchanging pulpits with Rev. J. B. Clarkson. He returned home this morning.

The Egbert Dramatic Company, twelve strong, arrived in town this morning, from Lindsay and put up at the Grand Central. They will open a season of two weeks in the Opera House to-night.

Mr. Fred. Swiss, at one time connected with the Examiner, a well-known contributor to Grip, under the pseudonym of "Swis," died suddenly in Toronto on Saturday, of hemorrhage of the lungs.

A Big Sporting Event.

Mr. Johnny Newhall, who is a sport from hat-band to spurs, has a colt "Defiance," which trotted in the three minute event at the recent Hastings races. On this occasion the colt worked badly, and did not make a very brilliant record. Mr. Newhall feels pretty positive that the race did not bring out all his colt is capable of doing; he therefore still keeps up both the name and game of "Defiance" and hereby issues a proposal supported by the deposit of a guaranteed stake of $25 now in the hands of Mr. J. E. McIntyre of the Oriental, that his colt "Defiance" can beat any horse now in town or any of the horses that trotted against "Defiance" in the three minute event at Hastings, which will be admitted to this contest. The proposal is as follows: The value of the stake is to be the total of the entire amount paid in on behalf of all the horses entering the proposed contest, at the rate of $50 each per horse; of this sum, $25 is payable to Mr. J. E. McIntyre, of the Oriental, stakeholder, before 9 o'clock, p.m., of Thursday, March 25th, 1886. The remaining $25 is to be deposited with Mr. McIntyre before 9 o'clock, p.m., on Wednesday, June 16th. Owners of horses entering, who do not desire to make good their nominations will forfeit nothing beyond the amount already paid in. The race to be trotted on Wednesday, June 23rd, 1886, on the track of the Peterborough Driving Park, at two o'clock, p.m., the race to be mile heats, in harness, best three in five. The winning horse to take the "pot" unless the contributors to the stake agree to the making of a second purse. If the weather should not admit of the race being trotted out on the day above mentioned, the trot is to take place on the first favorable day thereafter. There will be no race unless four entries are made. The judges will be selected by the owners of the horses entering. Mr. Newhall says this is a bona fide proposal and has secured the driving park for the day set apart for the race.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

FRIDAY, MARCH 19th.

In the Legislature to-day several bills received their third reading.

Mr. Ross (Huron) moved the second reading of the bill to make further provisions regarding public health. This bill provides for power to take possession of land or unoccupied buildings for a smallpox hospital. The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Mowat's bill providing for an appeal from awards under the Niagara Falls Park Act was read a second time.

The City of Toronto Bill was passed after being deprived of all the clauses providing for the new esplanade.

Mr. Meredith moved an address to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor praying that he will cause to be laid before this House a copy of the Order-in-Council disallowing the statute of the Western University of London, Ont., establishing a faculty of Law in connection with the University and of all reports and correspondence in connection. He complained bitterly that the Minister of Education had allowed the university to go to the trouble and expense of establishing this faculty, and waited till the very last moment, and then disallowed the statute without consulting the authorities of the University of London at all.

Hon. G. W. Ross said his conduct was not dictated by hostility to the Western University. On the contrary, he had hesitated till the last moment, and had reluctantly come to the conclusion that the statute was ultra vires, and his colleagues had agreed in this view. The motion passed.

Mr. Meredith also obtained an order for several returns regarding timber limits.

Mr. McLaughlin obtained an order for a return regarding the Lawrence Townley estate.

A large part of the evening was spent in discussing Mr. Wood's bill for preventing minors from frequenting billiard rooms, which was finally passed through committee with some modifications.

Parnell on Gladstone's Home Rule Scheme.

A special cable despatch to the Globe gives the details of an interview of the Globe's correspondent with Mr. Parnell.

The former asks:—

"What do you think, Mr. Parnell, would be the result of an appeal to the country, the issue being Home Rule for Ireland?"

"I am very much disposed to think it would leave the balance of parties pretty much as it is now. At the last general election we gave the Conservatives by the aid of the Irishmen at least seventy seats on a moderate computation. If Mr. Gladstone's proposals should prove fairly acceptable, a settlement of the long standing quarrel between England and Ireland, this vote would everywhere be given, and these possibly. The issue being Home Rule, an equivalent loss would be incurred by the Liberals throughout England generally, so that matters would be balanced and remain as they are now with a majority of one hundred and seventy of Liberals and Nationalists combined over the Tories."

"You spoke of the eagerness of the landlords not to lose the benefit of the land purchase scheme; do you think this will weaken their resistance to Home Rule?"

"I should think it would. The attachment of the land to the Home Rule question is shrewdly devised. Much of the lands held by the Irish landlords are mortgaged.

IF THESE MORTGAGES WERE RELEASED, and if the landlords were residing upon and occupying their demesne properties, the tenants, their holdings having been transferred to the State, could live very comfortably and in the happiest relations with their neighbours. The great majority would be overjoyed at the relief. There is a commercial interest besides, both in England and Ireland. The holders of these mortgages, to whom the land purchase would be a great boon, and their desire to have the matter settled, would be a considerable factor in forwarding

THE CREATION OF AN IRISH LEGISLATURE,

on whose establishment the settlement would depend. In fact the Land Purchase Scheme would be so eminently beneficial to the landlord that the greatest opposition to the project may be from the Radicals, who, if they do not oppose Mr. Gladstone's measure, will be likely to let Home Rule pass readily enough, and direct their hostility to the Land Bill. Mr. Chamberlain, however, if he leaves the Cabinet, will probably oppose the measure dealing with the Government of Ireland as strongly as he would the measure dealing with the land."

"What would be Mr. Chamberlain's object?"

"Mr. Chamberlain's is undoubtedly to keep the Irish members at Westminister in the hope that they will assist him in carrying out the Radical programme, but if he by any chance succeeded as the result of his present action in so far from the Radical programme being adopted by Irish members, a chasm would be created between them and the Radicals that would not be bridged over in 20 years. The only serious immediate danger in the condition of Mr. Gladstone's health, or if his voice failed him even now, it would be a grave calamity, but it would be worse in a general election, when it would be necessary for him to make at least if an appeal to the country should be forced upon him. Moreover in the excitement and turmoil of an electoral campaign his health would be a source of continual anxiety. Mr. Chamberlain, I am inclined to think, would have little cause to rejoice at his work, if it resulted in ruining the hopes of the aged Prime Minister of finally settling the Irish quest ion. A revulsion of feeling would probably set in against the man who had done this, even amongst the least liberal of Liberals.

DASHING THE CUP FROM THE LIPS OF IRELAND,

Gladstone's Land Scheme.

LONDON, March 22.—It is now declared that the premier in his scheme proposes the appointment of a commission of experts to fix the value of the various land proprieties in Ireland, which at these valuations are to be handed over to the possession of the government in exchange for consols. In this way Ireland is to be made a debtor to the empire for the entire amount paid to the landlords, together with interest, the whole sum to be repaid into the Imperial treasury by Ireland in instalments within the term of 50 years, at the end of which term the lessees are to become the owners. This plan involves a domestic arrangement between the government of Ireland and the tenants, Ireland becomes the tenant of the empire and sublettting to the occupiers at same the aggregate of which will include rent, taxes and a levy to meet the interest on the consols and create a sinding fund for their final liquidation. It necessarily involves home rule.

The Eastern Question up Again.

Restless Russia in the Role of Disturber of Europe.

LONDON, March 22.—The situation in the East is again becoming serious. This time it is not any of the Balkin states that is threatening trouble, for the belligerent ardor of Servia and Bulgaria and the aspiration of Greece have alike been throttled by the Powers. The disturbing factor now is the captious and ballying attitude of Russia regarding the Turco-Bulgarian treaty. A few day ago she objected to the designation as "ruler of Eastern Roumelia" of Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, and insisted upon the phrase, "The Prince of Bulgaria." This being conceded she now demands that the term of the Prince's rulership instead of being for life shall be limited to five years. If this concession be also granted she will formulate a new condition to-morrow and thus prolong the crisis. Russia is making immense war preparations and massing troops in the neighborhood of the Turkish frontier. These extensive war preparations seem to mean that Russia is at last ready for, and determined upon, a final and decisive grapple with the Porte. This determination would be quite sufficient to explain Russia's search in the Bulgarian embroglio for a pretext for invasion.

Parliamentary Summary.

OTTAWA, March 22.—In the Commons yesterday, the whole day was taken up with speeches on the Riel question, Mr. Thompson, the new Minister of Justice, and Mr. Mills being the only speakers. Mr. Thompson made his maiden speech lasting five hours, dealing with the legal aspects of the case. Mr. Mills spoke in the same phase against the Government. Sir H. Langevin said he hoped the debate would end on Wednesday.

Medals for the Volunteers.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The Government have received medals for the Volunteers who took part in quelling the Northwest rebellion. They came by the steamship Parisian. It is understood that all important centres meetings will be arranged for, and medals will be presented to the Volunteers. This, however, will take some time, as each medal has to be stamped with the name of the Volunteer to whom it is to be presented.

Sir John Macdonald's Condition.

OTTAWA, March 22.—Dr. Powell to-day called in Dr. Howard, of Montreal, to consult with him on Sir John Macdonald's case. The Premier is suffering from sciatica and lumbago, which—supervening on a severe bronchial attack that left him in a debilitated condition—causes great pain, and rendered it advisable that a consultation should be held. The doctors agree about the treatment and recommend quiet, rest, and great care. Fortunately Sir John is able to take nourishment.

Port Hope.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Guy Ambrose Andrus on Sunday last was very largely attended. Rev. A. T. Green conducted services at both the residence and cemetery. Her relatives are under great obligation to the many kind friends who contributed floral offerings. There was something unusual and unique in the four brothers of the deceased lowering her body into the grave, her last resting place.

Manvers.

The suppression of smallpox at Pontypool cost Manvers township about $1,200. Taking the number of cases and the headway the disease obtained into consideration, the expense is comparatively small.

The Agricultural ground and hall, near Bethany, have been purchased at a cost of $150, for the proposed creamery. It is expected to be in operation by the 1st of May, and preparations will be commenced immediately.

The Hamilton Art association has purchased the late Judge Mercier's fine collection of busts, numbering about ninety casts of the heads of famous persons.

Toronto police authorities are satisfied that Elliott and Wilkes, the forgers arrested in New York, are the same pair who swindled the Quebec, Federal, and Commerce Banks out of $14,000. Elliott is also thought to be the sharper who swindled the Dominion Bank out of $4,800 last September.

The Windsor coroner's jury in the Rielly murder case returned a verdict that the deceased died of effusion of blood in the brain, hastened by blows on her head inflicted by her husband. Relly was committed to the Sandwich jail to await his trial at the next assizes. The doctor who conducted the post mortem found apoplexy to be the cause of death.

Madre E Hijo,

What Does it Mean?

Shall We Drink to a Day of Judgment?

It does no good to put certain drinks under a ban. "What is a man's meat is another's poison," reads just as well if drink is substituted for meat, and does not need repeating here. The immense variety of beverages which a person of ordinary contrivance can concoct, argues for a corresponding number of thirsty and willing throats waiting for them. They may be all good in their way; only see that each throat receives its proper portion. Do not give green tea to that nervous woman already so irritable she cannot dress the little children God has given her, without twitching and slapping them to the tune of cross words. It is poor enjoyment to pay for her morning cup, the consciousness that she has lost the love of an innocent little child with the knowledge that she has soured its merry disposition for that day.

And do not, we beg, insist on a child over whom you have control, showing you the bottom of a large milk cup drained dry. Pleadings and tears do not avail with a mother whose mind is made up that "milk is good for her." How does that mother know, pray tell? Has she ever given the matter one earnest thought, beyond that of assenting to the general statement that milk is wholesome? That all children should like it, is equivalent with her to saying that they do. She does not consider that the little stomach, to be treated intelligently, should have this fact remembered and borne in mind, that its father could not drink milk when a child, and that now in middle life he recoils at the mention of it, with a memory for many an hour of a stomach soured after its trial. But that to her is all nonsense, even if she does remember it. That he could drink milk, so delightful to her, she does not for an instant doubt, were he really to make up his mind that he would. The will is at fault. And she secretly determines that their child shall learn early in life to "drink what is set before her." So the little thing is made wretched by nausea, and inward disturbance that makes outward irritability, keeping her in disgrace half the time, and in defiance the whole of it, simply because that mother would not bring her common sense and Christian judgment to bear upon the matter.—Margaret Sidney, in Good Housekeeping.

POLICE REGULATIONS.

The Committee on Supervision of Police have prepared a code of rules and regulations to govern the police force of the town, and it will be submitted to the Council for ratification at its next meeting. That body no doubt will make some modifications and there are one or two clauses which require special attention, as being contrary to the interests of the town and the usefulness of the force. The power given the Chief of Police to suspend any member of the force is too great a power to be placed in the hands of any man occupying such a position and is liable to abuse. Suppose a Chief of Police had a grudge against some member, and these officers, being but human, are liable to entertain such feelings, the suspension regulation places the private at the mercy of his Chief. The suspension power, vested as it is in the Mayor, is in safe hands and a change could not be for the better. The clause requiring a member who contemplates leaving the force to place his resignation in the hands of the Chief should be carefully considered. The clerk of the Council, as the agent of the appointing power, is the proper recipient of such documents. Otherwise it is possible for an aspirant for a position on the force, to be more easily apprised of a prospective vacancy, and to use his influence with members to extract pledges of support to the prejudice of, perhaps, a better man. The new regulations as bearing upon the organization of a thoroughly efficient police force, are very important matters, and it is to be hoped the Council will exercise all due prudence in the interests of the town, which are involved to a greater extent than is usually supposed in the establishment of a well-organized police force.

REVISING OFFICERS AND THEIR DUTIES.

The Lindsay Warder, having accused Judge Dean of partizan conduct, in rejecting certain names for the new voters' lists under the Dominion Franchise Act, on account of insufficient knowledge as to facts of the parties making application, it is gratifying to know that Mr. Adam Hudspeth, Revising officer for the North Riding of Victoria, "entirely agrees" with Judge Dean. In a letter to the Press, Mr. Hudspeth says:

I enclose you a copy of a letter sent by me to each of the newspapers published in the north riding of Victoria. Since writing the letter I have corresponded with some revising officers, particularly with Judge McDougall of Toronto, who does not agree with me as to the first sittings being a court, and has concluded that he will accept of declarations made by the parties who apply or others cognizant of the facts; in all other respects he agrees with my conclusions. As I am without doubt as to the first sittings being a court, I have concluded to accept of declarations on the 6th April next, and after some consideration Judge Dean has also so decided. In conclusion I must say that I have adhered to the rule throughout to accept no declaration, except made by a person cognizant of the facts whereof he declares, and in this respect my ruling has entirely agreed with Judge Dean's. The following judges amongst others have so decided:—Judge Soukler of St. Catharines, Judge Bell of Chatham, Judge McDougall of Toronto, Judge Scott of Brampton, Judge Ross of Ottawa, Judge Benson of Port Hope, Judge Price of Kingston, Judge Sinclair of Hamilton, Judge Hughes of St. Thomas, Judge Jones of Brantford, Judge Clark of Cobourg, Judge Daniel of L'Original. Some of these judges go farther than Judge Dean and I have gone. But all of them agree that they cannot accept a declaration made by a person on mere information and belief.

Yours truly,
ADAM HUDSPETH,
Revising officer N. R. Co. Victoria.
Lindsay, March 15th, 1886.

All the Warder has envolved by its contentions is the fact that the Franchise Act, an utterly unnecessary piece of legislative impertinence to begin with, is so obscure and so full of doubts that endless confusion of opinion and of results have arisen and will continue to arise, through its operation. It is a most vexatious, expensive, unnecessary and offensive piece of legislation and it would seem that the intricacies and difficulties were the result of malice a forethought designed to discourage the voter in his herculean attempts to get his name on the list, causing him to desist in disgust and thus, bring about the disfranchisement of as many as possible of those, whom the administrators of the act friendly to the Government, would not voluntarily and willingly put upon the lists.

Interesting to Dairymen.

A case of more than ordinary interest to farmers and patrons of cheese factories was, says the Port Hope Times, tried before Judge Benson at the Division Court, in Campbellford on the 4th inst., the plaintiff being Mr. James Irwin, of Seymour, and the defendants the Crow Bay Manufacturing Co. The plaintiff is a shareholder of the Company, and wishing to sell his stock he had no difficulty in finding purchasers at $2.50 per share. He applied to the Secretary and President of the factory to register the transfer of the stock he had sold, but they refused to allow the sale. At a subsequent meeting of the directors of the Company a by-law was passed forbidding the sale and sustaining the decision of the President and Secretary; the plaintiff brought an action against the Company for damages, and judgment was given in his favor, the Court allowing him $10, as it was proved that the stock had depreciated in value since he made the sale; he also retains his stock in the Company. The Court held that though the Company might pass a by-law to regulate the sale of the stock, they could not prohibit its sale.

A TALE OF THE IRISH FAMINE.

The potato Famine in Ireland was nowhere felt more severely than in that part of the country where the following story is told as a true tale. In a small village in one of the most barren districts of the west of Ireland there lived a very poor widow whose sole inheritance was two healthy children—girls of the respective ages of 8 and 5. Painfully and by the utmost efforts she contrived to pass two years of her sorrowful widowhood. Bad and scanty food, obtained only by labor too great for her delicate frame, had at last thrown her upon her sick bed, and death, in pity, removed her in a few days, and without great suffering, from all her earthly troubles. The poverty of the parish was so great that nothing could be done for the orphans. All the neighbors, with the utmost desire to help, were too famine-stricken, and heard their own children too often cry in vain for bread to assist others. "If the children could only be got to Kilburn," a village some miles distant, said one of the neighbors after the poor mother had been buried, "a brother of their father lives there, and he could not possibly refuse to take care of them."

"But matters are as bad there as here," replied another, "and I fear they will be no better off there."

"It cannot possibly be worse than here, for nothing but starvation stares them in the face. If we send them to their relations we have done our duty. We cannot possibly keep them here."

All were at last agreed upon this; and as there was a carrier who on the next day was going near to Kilburn, he was requested, as an act of charity, to take the children with him. The man readily consented, and the neighbors felt satisfied that they had done all that could be required of them. The carrier, as agreed, came the next day and took the two girls. Lizzie was 7 now and Mary 5 in his cart with him. The timid children kept very quiet and close together; the carrier hardly looked at them. Toward noon they reached the spot where the cart would turn off. The man lifted them out, showed them a road to the left and bade them go straight forward, and if they did not turn from the high road they would, in about two hours, come to the place. He then drove off. The children sobbed out "good-by," and looked out after him as long as they could see the least speck of the cart, and then they both began to cry. Lizzie ceased her crying first, she took hold of her little sister's hand, who had seated herself on the ground, and said: "Get up, Mary; we must not stay here, if we wish to get to Kilburn. We cannot stop here on the road."

"I am so hungry," sobbed Mary; "we have had nothing to eat all day."

And again they began to cry, for Lizzie was equally as hungry. The poor children had gone to bed without food the night before; it was a long time since they had a full meal; the neighbors, where they had stayed since the death of their mother, had not given them any breakfast, as the poor people had really themselves nothing to eat. It was now dinner time, but there was no dinner for them.

"Come, Mary," at last said Lizzie, "we must try to get to some house, we may, perhaps, get a little bread or some potatoes. If we stay here we shall starve; no one will bring us anything to eat here."

"Oh, if our dear mother were but alive," exclaimed the little one getting up with difficulty.

The children were very weak, and could only drag themselves slowly along. Hand in hand they tottered on. Several times Mary declared that she could not go any further, and sat down on the high road; and it was with the greatest difficulty that Lizzie persuaded her to get up again, and to pursue their way. At last Lizzie fancied she saw a house and pointed toward the spot.

"Now, Mary, we shall soon get something to eat; we shall find kind people there."

It took them more than a quarter of an hour before they reached the farmhouse, for such it proved to be. With hesitating steps they entered into the house, for they had never begged before, in spite of their former misery. But at this moment they could think of nothing else but their terrible hunger. When a few steps from the house they heard the farmer violently scolding one of his men. Then he went into the house, fiercely closed the door after him, so as to make the windows rattle, continuing his abuse all the time. The children, terrified and with beating hearts, stood still at the door until the voice ceased. Then Lizzie opened the door and both the children entered. The farmer sat in an arm-chair by the fire.

"Well, what do you want?" he harshly asked the children, who were too frightened to utter a word and to tell their errand. "Can't you speak?" he asked, still more roughly.

Lizzie at last took courage, and said gently:

"Sir, if you would be so good and give us the least little bit to eat—a small piece of bread or a few potatoes."

"I thought so," shouted the farmer; "I was sure you were nothing but beggars, although you do not seem to belong to this neighborhood. We have plenty of these here, and do not want them to come from other parts. We have no bread for ourselves in these hard times. You will get nothing here. Be off this moment."

The children, dreadfully frightened, began both to cry bitterly.

"That will not do you any good," continued the man; "that kind of whining is nothing new to me, and won't move me. Let your parents feed you; but they, no doubt, prefer idling rather than getting their living by honest labor."

"Our parents are dead," said Lizzie.

"I thought so," replied the farmer, "whenever children are sent out to beg their father and mother are always dead, or at least their father. That is a mere excuse for begging. Be off this minute."

"We have not eaten a morsel the whole day," pleaded Lizzie; "we are so tired that we cannot move a step. If you would but give us the least bit to eat, we are so hungry."

"I have told you I should not. Beggars get nothing here."

The farmer got up with a threatening look. Lizzie quickly opened the door and drew her sister along with her. The children again stood in the farm-yard, but knew not what to do; suddenly little Mary drew her hand from her sister's clasp and went to the other side of the yard; there was a big, fierce dog chained, his dinner stood before him in a wooden basin: Mary put her hand in the basin and began to caress the dog. Lizzie went nearer, and saw that in the basin there was some liquid, in which a few pieces of bread and some boiled potatoes were floating; she likewise could not resist; she had but one feeling that of most gnawing hunger; she took some of the bread and potatoes and ate them greedily.

The dog, not accustomed to such guests, looked at the children full of astonishment; he drew back a little, then sat down and left them his dinner, of which he had eaten very little. At this moment the farmer stepped into the yard; he wished to see whether the children had really left, and then he saw this singular scene. The dog was noted for his fierceness and feared alike by young and old; he was obliged to be constantly chained. No one dared to come near him, except his master. Even the servant put the food before him in the most cautious manner.

In the first moment the man thought of nothing but the fearful danger in which the children were, and, quickly walking toward them, he exclaimed:

"Don't you see the dog? He will tear you to pieces!" But suddenly he stopped as if rooted to the ground; the dog had got up again and gone near the children, then he looked at his master and wagged his tail. It seemed as if he wished to say: "Don't drive my guests away!"

At that sight a great change came over the man: the spectacle before him acted upon him like an electric shock, and feelings such as he had never had before seemed to stir within him.

The children had risen, terrified at the call of the man, fearful of punishment for having eaten against his command. They stood with downcast eyes. At last, after several minutes' silence, the farmer asked:

"Are you really so fearfully hungry that you do not even despise the dog's food?"

But without waiting for an answer he continued:

"Come in, then, you shall have something to eat, and as much as you like."

And, taking them by the hand, he led them into the house, calling out to the servant:

"Biddy, get some hot bread and milk, and be quick, for these children."

The dog had shamed his master—the brute had taught the man. Touched by what he had seen, the farmer was anxious to make amends for what his conscience had showed him to be a great sin. He seated the children at the table, sat down by them, and kindly asked them their names.

"My name is Lizzie," said the eldest, "and my sister is called Mary."

"Have your parents been dead long?"

"Our father has been dead two years, but our mother only died last week."

At the thought of their recent loss both children began again to weep.

"Don't cry, children," said the farmer kindly. "God will in one way or another take care of you. But tell me, now, where did you come from?"

"From Loughrea," replied the child.

"From Loughrea?" asked the man, "from Loughrea? That is strange!" He began to suspect the truth, and asked hesitatingly:

"What is your father's name?"

"Martin Sullivan," replied Lizzie.

"What - Martin—Martin Sullivan?" he exclaimed, jumping up at the same time and casting a piercing look at the children, thoroughly frightening them. His face grew red then tears came to his eyes at last he sobbed aloud. He took the youngest child in his arms, pressed her to his heart and kissed her. The child struggled and called for help to her sister; she could not think what the man meant.

Then he put down the little one and did the same to Lizzie, who took it more quietly, as she had seen that the man had not hurt her sister. At last he became more composed; he dried his tears and said:

"Do you know my name, children?"

"No," replied Lizzie.

"How happened it, then, that you have come to me?" he asked. "Has any one sent you to me?"

"Nobody has sent us," replied Lizzie. "We were to go to Kilburn, where a brother of our father lives, and they said he would gladly receive us. But I do not believe it, for our mother always said he is a hard-hearted man, who does not care for his relations."

"Your mother was quite right when she said so," said the farmer. "But what will you do if the hard-hearted man does not receive you?"

"Then we shall have to starve," answered Lizzie.

"No, no," exclaimed the man quietly; "it shall never come to that—never. Dry your tears. The merciful God has had pity on your helplessness and has made use of a fierce brute to soften the heart of your uncle, and, therefore, He will never forsake you—never."

The children looked at the man in utter bewilderment; they did not understand what he said—his words and his behavior were alike strange to them. This he soon perceived, for he added:

"You were going to Kilburn to Patrick Sullivan; you are already there. I am your uncle; and now that I know that you are the children of my brother Martin I make you welcome."

The children's tears quickly changed into smiles, and the meal which Biddy just put on the table for them made them forget their grief.

Patrick Sullivan had taken this farm near Kilburn about a year before. A kind Providence had directed the children's steps to him: but if the dog had not taught him a lesson of kindness, who knows what might, after all, have become of the poor orphans? But He who is the Father of the fatherless would assuredly not have forsaken them.

What Does it Mean?

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every housewife, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other genuine proposition ever dared to make such offers, nor could we if we did not know that our sub-agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $120 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to these out of employment to make money.

P. C. Pidgeon Did It.

The Review of yesterday credits P. C. Adams with possessing "a hi like a beagle," and with having arrested McGee, who evaded justice since October. It was mistaken, however, as P. C. Pidgeon was the officer who swooped down on the delinquent. Two Pidgeon eyes must be better than the "hi like a beagle."

Lakefield Still a Tenant.

The voting on the third reading of a by-law to provide for the purchase of a property in the village of Lakefield for the purposes of village buildings and village purposes took place yesterday resulting in the defeat of the by-law by the narrow majority of two votes. Lakefield almost desires to become a freeholder, but not quite.

Asleep on Duty.

The boy who works the pump handle of the George street church organ fell asleep during the sermon on Sunday evening. The organist found when he attempted to produce music that the keys were out of breath. A profundo basso, who guessed the cause, remedied the evil by manning the pumps. The delinquent awoke in time for the next hymn

To the Ladies.

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

After the Meetings are Over.

The Indian boy Gwab-tahe-lum-khe ah (Buffalo Boy), an officer of the Saved Army, who is now on a tour through Ontario in the interests of the extension fund of the Army, and who was announced to visit Peterborough yesterday, to address meetings in the Saved Army rooms in the evening and this evening, did not make his appearance. His visit will be postponed so as not to interfere with the evangelcatic services now being held in town, in which the Saved Army is assisting the churches. He will come some other day.

Curling Continues.

The curling club have decided to make the best of their time during this week, as in all probability, after that time curling will cease until next season. The annual point game, open to the whole club, for the club challenge cup, (silver), now held by R. S. Davidson, will be played to-morrow afternoon and evening. On Thursday evening a bonspiel, between five opposing rinks of Grit's and Tories, will be played. The whole rink will be used in this match, and no doubt will be an interesting battle. It is also expected that a match will be played on Friday with the Whitby club.

The Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army paraded the sidewalks of the principal streets yesterday evening in single file, making an unusual racket by sounding their war cry with energetic vehemence, (Hallelujah-a-a-a-a-ah) and firing volleys all along the way. There was considerable excitement on George street, while everybody inquired of his neighbor what the proceedings meant. Chief Cooper endeavored to persuade the officers to discontinue their march, but without avail. This morning he interviewed the captain with a view of securing her consent to keep her forces off George street. She would not consent to do this, arguing that the army had as much right to sing, beat drums and cymbals as any others. It is likely that Capt. Bertha Smith, the drummers, instrument performers and color-bearers will appear before the Magistrate to-morrow morning.

The finest and most furnishing room in the Golden Lion is being thoroughly overhauled, and when completed will be one of the most commodious in the city. A visit to this department solicited by R. FAIR.

The Opera House Cop.

P. C. McNulty, whose name is familiar to all Opera House goers, as the most common victim sacrificed when a joke on a policeman is worked off, was on duty at the Opera House last night, maintaining the desired order. The usual nuisance of hall loafers was conspicuously absent while the play was not disturbed by any boisterous boys.

Curling and Skating.

The directors of the Charlotte street rink held a meeting last night, at which it was decided that should the weather continue mild, curling should be suspended until next season, and that after next week Ed. Brown be allowed to remove the ice off the skating rink, preparatory to opening the rink for roller skating.

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

The Gun Club.

The gun club had a successful shoot at the Riverside Park yesterday afternoon. The scores were very good considering the unfavorable state of the weather, and were as follows:

R. Tivey	0 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 0 1—7

See our advertisement in another column. GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

The Egbert Dramatic Company.

The Egbert Dramatic Company made their debut before a Peterborough audience last night in the thrilling drama, "Lucretia Borgia." The play is one of the best ever presented in the Opera House, while the acting of the entire company was very superior, which, brightened by elegant costumes and a careful attention to effects, could not fail to please the most fastidious. Miss Kate Glassford, the star of the company, sustained the role of the lovely but vengeful "Lucretia Borgia" in a manner that proclaimed her a finished artist of the highest standing. Her acting which was most real and affecting was particularly so in the closing scene, when holding an interview with her son, whom she dearly loved but had unwittingly poisoned along with four of her enemies and his friends, and who avenges the death of his friends by stabbing his mother to the heart, after which she makes herself known to him as they are both expiring. T. F. Egbert, as "Guebetta," Lucretia's executive villian, was capital throughout. H. C. Clemens, as "Genaro," a soldier of fortune, and son of Lucretia, also displayed finished dramatic ability. T. J. Meegan, Harry Adams, Miss Ernie Mellville and May Ellsworth, who took the part of "Jeppo," "Olferno," "Ascanio" and "Maffio," followers and friends of "Genaro," are talented performers. H. A. Ellis, as "Duke of Ferrara," the unrelenting and jealous husband of "Lucretia Borgia," J. Miller, as "Rushligo," and May Wade, as "Princess Negroni," in their several parts, showed themselves finished artists. Last and least in statue comes little Lulu Wade, who charmed the audience with her songs, especially with her rendition of "Don't You Believe it, Dear Boys." She was encored and responded with another selection. She bids fair to eclipse Annie Bird in popularity. This evening W. S. Gilbert's brilliant comedy, "Engaged," will be presented. Admission, 20c. and 30c. No doubt there will be a large audience. The company's repertoire of plays contain none but the most select.

Warm Once More.

The water in the town buildings cellar having subsided the furnace fire was rekindled this morning, and the steam system again extended its warm influence throughout the building.

Police Court.

G. Hern, remanded to jail yesterday, charged by P. C. Adams with being drunk and disorderly, was brought before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning. He admitted the charge and was fined $2.

Oddfellowship.

The Peterborough lodges of Oddfellows have decided to duly observe the 56th anniversary of the establishment of the Order on the continent of America, on the 26th of April, by attending divine worship in a body, during the day. The Oddfellows have a membership of about 300 in town, 200 of whom belong to the town lodges, and 100 of other lodges residing here, and are increasing in importance all over the continent.

The Spring Assizes.

The Spring Sittings of the High Court of Justice for Peterborough, will be held in the Court House, on Thursday next, before Mr. Justice Armour. The following is the list of cases entered for trial:—Jury cases—Douglass vs. G.T.R. et. al.; Roberts vs. G.T.R. et. al.; McCann vs. Prenevan (new trial); Peterborough Real Estate Investment Co. vs. McQuaid; Irwin vs. Sperry; Sperry vs. Irwin; Irwin vs. Sperry; Bradburn vs. Phalen; Story vs. Moffat et. al. Non Jury cases:—Bradburn vs. Lasher; Dumble vs. Peterborough. The following cases comprise the criminal docket, viz:—Queen vs. Lallance, Queen vs. Holmes.

The Highest Encomiums.

The Egbert Dramatic Company, which appeared before a Peterborough audience for the first time last night, has made a very favorable impression. Wherever they have been they received a liberal support. Everything about the organization is particularly free from anything objectionable. The Lindsay press speaks very highly of their performances and Mr. E. T. Hughes, the popular business manager, is confident that the Peterborough public will be more than satisfied with the plays. Gilbert's charming comedy, "Engaged," will be presented to-night and "The Two Orphans" to-morrow night.

Personal.

Mr. Fred. Barker acted as musical director at the Opera House last night.

An Explanation.

"What Does It Mean?"

EXAMINER, Monday.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

It means a terrible example of typographical errors. The nearest approach to the exact meaning is that Mr. Chas. A. Weller has been appointed Revising Barrister for West Peterborough, and that Abram J. Van Ingen has been advanced from Customs Clerk at Cobourg to Collector of Customs at the port of Newcastle, West Durham. Sabe?

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1886.

COUNTY JUDGE CHARLES WELLER.

The Canada Gazette contains the official announcement of the appointment of Mr. Weller as county judge, and the EXAMINER has much pleasure in extending its cordial felicitations on the occasion.

Charles Alexander Weller is a native of the town of Cobourg. He received his academic training at that nursery of many of the greatest minds of Canada lay and legal, Upper Canada College, Toronto. He pursued his course of legal study and training with the firm of Boulton & Cockburn, Cobourg, and was admitted to the bar in 1852, and immediately began the practice of his profession, which he has contuined uninteruptedly ever since, a period of thirty four years. He began practice in Peterborough, entering into partnership with the late W. H. Vimrd, which connection was maintained only one year. At the end of that time, Mr. Weller continued his practice by himself for several years, when the late D. G. Hatton, who had studied and acquired the qualifications for his profession with Mr. Weller, was admitted to partnership. This legal firm continued in existence for a considerable time, when it became dissolved and Mr. Weller again took practice by himself, which he has continued up to the time of his elevation to the bench. He was appointed County Crown Attorney and clerk of the peace in 1858—28 years ago—by the Government of the Legislative union of Upper and Lower Canada. Eleven years ago, in 1875, he was appointed, jointly with his brother, the late W. H. Weller, of Cobourg, Local Master in the Court of Chancery. The latter dying in 1880, Mr. Weller retained the position of Master, which he will still continue to occupy, the law, we believe, contemplating that the offices of County Judge and County Master should be united in the person of one incumbent.

Recently, on the resignation of His Honor Judge Dennistoun, (who was appointed in 1860, and filled the office of County Judge three years beyond the statutory term—15 years—which entitles him to retire with a pension equivalent to two-thirds of his salary in case of ill health) Mr. Weller was chosen to fill the vacancy thus created. On March 13th the Order-in-Council was made at a Dominion Cabinet meeting, and on Tuesday, March 23rd, 1886, the Gazette contained the official notice of Mr. Weller's appointment as County Judge.

This is an appointment upon the occasion of which the EXAMINER is pleased to be able to offer double congratulations—to Mr. Weller upon so appreciable a recognition of his fitness for the position, and to the county and the legal fraternity upon the appointment of a gentleman upon whose impartial and equitable administration of justice the one can count with confidence, and whose legal qualifications and judicial decisions, the other can respect. So far as we are able to learn Mr. Weller's appointments gives unusual satisfaction especially among the gentlemen of the bar, whose interest and opinions on such a subject are deserving of especial consideration. He has had an extensive legal experience, which he has enriched by a course of professional reading beyond the range of ordinary local practice, and we hope he may long be spared to administer even-handed justice and maintain the dignity of the position, to which a timely recognition of his legal abilities has called him.

It is expected that His Honour Judge Weller will first appear in a judicial capacity at the Surrogate Court to be held in Peterborough on Monday, April 5th.

Police Court.

The Salvation Army Charged with Vagrancy.

Police Magistrate Dumble had before him this morning at the Police Court a full docket, the principal one being the charge against the Salvation Army for creating a disturbance on the streets on Monday night and with inconveniencing passengers. Before the hour for opening court the room was filled to the door with an eager crowd of spectators. About ten o'clock the army marched to the court to the music of drums and cornets, cymbals and tambos. They filed into the room and held a short prayer before taking their seats.

The first unfortunate called on was John Sullivan, an old timer, charged with being drunk. He admitted the charge and was fined $5 or ten days.

Nettie Simmons, a pretty but unfortunate young woman, recently from the Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, was brought before the Magistrate charged by P. C. Pidgeon with vagrancy. She admitted the charge and was remanded to jail for one week.

Capt. Bertha Smith, Cadet Minnie Leidley, Drummers John Baker and Isaac York, and Geo. Boiler, Henry Charles Bacon, John Howland and W. J. Sloane, instrumentalists and officers of the Salvation Army were charged with causing disturbance on the public streets, screaming, singing, impeding and inconmododing peaceable passengers. The Magistrate explained to the defendants that the charge was laid against them under the vagrant act, and for their benefit read the clause bearing on their case, it was as follows:

"All persons causing a disturbance on the streets or highways by, singing, swearing, screaming, or being drunk, or impeding or in commoding peaceable passengers, shall be deemed vagrants and upon conviction shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and be punished by imprisonment in any goal or place of confinement other than the penitentiary for a term not exceeding six months, and with or without hard labor, or by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or both, such fine and imprisonment being in the discretion of the convicting Magistrate or Justices."

He also explained that the charge was not instituted with the view of persecuting the Army but to enforce the laws, so as to give all their rights and privileges. The people had liberties as well as the Army and it was possible the Army might be enjoying privileges which they had no right to. He thought the difficulty would be overcome by amicable arrangement. He was sorry they had not a solicitor to advise them.

Capt. Smith replied that they could not give up their marches and that God was their adviser.

The Magistrate said the laws of man were based on the laws of God and that one of God's laws was to obey the laws of the land. Although they did not break the law in the spirit they might in the letter. He offered to give the defendants a week to consider the question.

Capt. Smith thanked the Magistrate, but said she could not alter her position.

The case was then proceeded with.

Chief Cooper was sworn. He stated that on Monday night he saw the army parading the streets, beating drums and playing other instruments, carrying flags and torches, singing, and at times shouting and screaming. They had inconvenienced traffic, as the big drum took up most of the sidewalk. They also took the outside of the sidewalk, not allowing pedestrians to pass on the right side. He had asked the marshall of the army, Mr. W. J. Sloane, to leave the sidewalk. They would not, and answered him by firing a volley, and laughing at him. He had seen Miss Smith on Tuesday, with a view of arranging with her to have the nuisance abated, but she refused, saying she would obey God's laws before those of man, that when she received grace she also received determination. He told her as they kept within the bounds of the law they would receive police protection. The witness had heard of horses being frightened by the noise made by the Army.

P. C. Adams, P. C. Pidgeon, Mr. Wm. Cummings, Wm. Menzies, W. H. Wrighton, M. C. O'Neil, John McKee, Geo. Ball gave evidence mainly to the effect that the Army did, on the night in question, discommode passengers, and that horses were frightened by the noise they made.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, who conducted the case for the Crown, summed up the evidence and showed that the action was not to persecute a religious body, but to strengthen the police in enforcing the laws.

The magistrate reserved judgment till the 31st day of March.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

MONDAY, MARCH 22nd.

In the House to day business was greatly expedited, and a large number of bills received their third readings, including the bill to incorporate the Nicholls Hospital.

Mr. Murry asked whether it was the intention of the Government, before the close of the present session, to introduce legislation giving the people of the Nipissing district Parliamentary representation in the legislature of Ontario. Mr. Mowat replied that it was not.

In committee of the whole a discussion arose concerning the proposed amendment by Mr. McLaughlin to the snow fences act, providing, as an inducement to farmers to build snow fences, that they may, by township by-law, occupy strips of the roadway of not less than six feet. Mr. Meredith and other members strongly opposed the measure on the ground that the roads were already narrow enough without having them made narrower, and because the proposed township by-law was not subject to sanction of the county council. The bill was passed through committee and the House with a slight amendment.

After passing several bills through committee, the bill respecting liquor licenses was considered and the price of wholesale licenses in cities of over and under 20,000 was fixed at a uniform rate of $100, instead of $150 for cities over that population, and $100 for those under.

The House adjourned at 12.25.

Millbrook.

Our readers will learn with deep regret of the sudden death in Millbrook, on Saturday, of Major Howden's only son, Charles. The deceased was a fine, tall, stout boy, of eleven years, and gave great promise for the future. He was attacked with brain fever, and after two day's illness death came to his relief.—Port Hope Times.

Personal.

Mr. W. H. Bigger, barrister, of Belleville, is registered at the Oriental.

Mr. J. E. Ashwith, of Ottawa, contractor for the new postal and customs buildings, is in town arranging for the delivery of material, preparatory to commencing work at an early date.

Mr. A. W. Jones, vacated the position of headmaster of the South Ward School yesterday evening, his successor Mr. Sterling, of North Monaghan having put in an appearance. Mr. Sterling was initiated this morning. (Mr. Jones giving him a pointer on routine), and commenced his task of teaching the young idea how to shoot.

Belleville.

The Bridge Street Church was destroyed by fire during the first week of January, yet fire is still smouldering in the ruins. The burning pile is near where the fire originated and is supposed to be in a coal heap.

Belleville city fathers relieved the tedium of business at the last meeting of the city council by a dog fight, between canines owned by the city Clerk and Alderman Hanley. The dogs seem to profit by the example of the members of the council.

Sir John's Precarious Health.

OTTAWA, March 23.—Sir John's increased illness is semi-officially denied to-night, but it is true all the same. He was troubled with a severe bronchial affection, which has developed into sciatica, while there are other complications which render his condition not perhaps critical, but serious. Drs. Kingston, of Kingston, and Howard, of Montreal, have been called to Ottawa suddenly to consult upon Sir John Macdonald's case. His physicians have ordered complete rest, and it is said Sir John will not appear in Parliament the present session.

Why is Easter not a Fixed Date?

Why does not Easter always fall upon a fixed day. Christmas is always on December 25th, why should not Easter be fixed with equal certainty? It is not a particular date that is observed, but a particular Sunday. How to decide upon the Sunday, gave the very early churches much trouble, and there were differences on that account, but the matter was settled at a council held at Nice, in the year 325. The rule was adopted that: "Easter day is always the first Sunday after the full moon, which happens upon or next after March 21st, and if the full moon happens on a Sunday, Easter day is the next Sunday after. This gives Easter day a wide range of dates, as it may occur on any Sunday from March 22nd to April 25th.

Indian River.

Joseph Lallance, an Italian, employed in choring around the hotel of Mrs. Smith, at Indian River, on Friday evening last attempted to kill a daughter of Mrs. Smith, who refused to fill his order for a drink of beer, she thinking he had received enough, as he was already under the influence of liquor. When refused, he went to the back yard and seizing an axe, attempted to break in the kitchen door, failing in this, he came in the front door and made a dash for the girl with the axe in his hand. His companions, together with others present, who had heard the racket, prevented him, however, A messenger was sent for Mr. John Doherty, County Constable, who took him in charge. He was brought before Justices of the Peace, T. Blezard and John Breckenridge, who committed him for trial. He was lodged in the county jail and will be tried before Justice Armour to-morrow, at the Spring Assizes in Peterborough.

Mayor Howland Unseated.

Not Eligible for re-Election—He Will Appeal from the Decision.

TORONTO, March 23.—Mr. Dalton, Master in Chambers, this morning rendered judgment in the quo warranto case brought to unseat Mayor Howland. The contention that the property qualification was lacking was sustained with legal force, and in deciding that Mr. Howland was not entitled to retain possession, the Master clearly stated the points on which that decision is based, and which in effect is that a husband has no property qualification in the leasehold of his wife. The decision has created a great deal of comment and excitement, and speculation is rife as to what the result will be. Mr. Howland has stated his intention to appeal, but his friends believe that the Bill introduced by the Ontario Government at this session making provision for a contingency of this nature will be sufficient to retain him in office.

As the law is at present, according to another despatch, Howland is ineligible for re-election.

What Does it Mean?

Bathing.

The man who doesn't habitually wash himself all over isn't a pleasant man to live in the same house with. He be well, the subject is not a pleasant one, and we won't get any closer to it. It is not what the ladies call "nice" to wear any of the same clothing at night that one does in the day time. Wives, have ready for your men clean, cool night garments. Farmers, when the day's work is over and you are ready to retire, wash your bodies thoroughly all over. Give yourself a good scrubbing in plenty of soap and water. The farmer who will go to bed with the dust and perspiration of the day still upon him is not fit to sleep in a bed. He is not in fact a civilized human being. No! Off with your fixings and take a good bath. Then you will smell as sweet and sleep as sound as a clean baby. You will rise in the morning feverless and in good temper, ready to do a solid day's work.

According to an ancient idea, pelicans were hatched dead, but the male pelican brought them to life by wounding his breast and letting one drop of blood fall upon each.

Instructions to Revising Officers.

(Globe's Correspondence).

OTTAWA, March 22.—The instructions issued by the Government to Revising officers under the Franchise Act show that the clerks to such officers are to be allowed two dollars per day when actually employed, and one dollar additional per day when absent from home on duty, besides travelling expenses. Each Revising officer's bailiff is to receive one dollar and fifty cents per day while attending Court, and for serving notices and similar services, such fees as are paid to such officers in ordinary Courts.

THE SCALE OF PRICES

to be paid for printing electoral lists under the Dominion Franchise Act is as follows:—For every voter's name on the preliminary list, including particulars of qualification, etc., twelve cents for twenty names and under; of voters on addendum for second list, $2.50, and the same for every twenty names added to the final list; where the number of names on the first or second addendum exceeds twenty, then twelve cents per name will be allowed. Advances of Money have been made to different Revising-officers to enable them to pay for printing and the services of clerks and bailiff's, but the remuneration of Revising-officers has not yet been settled.

A LOW ESTIMATE OF ANNUAL EXPENDITURE

that will be necessitated by the Franchise Act places it at a million dollars. All the revenue raised from the coal tax will have to be spent in paying Revising-officers, clerks, bailiffs, etc.

MR. BLAKE COMPLIMENTED.

In the course of his sermon in the Dominion Methodist Church last night Rev. Mr. Longley expressed his admiration of the stand taken by Mr. Blake in the House of Commons, in regard to the Riel resolution. The Rev. gentleman said he admired a man who expressed his honest convictions and stood up for what he believed to be right, even if by so doing he injured his political prospects, rather than the man who resorted to trickery and hypocrisy in order to win political favor and power.

MR. THOMPSON'S SPEECH.

It was argued when Mr. Thompson, new Minister of Justice, was taken into the Cabinet that he would add thereto dignity, respectability, and debating power, qualities sadly needed by the Ministay. But those who listened to him to-day felt that the investment of taking Mr. Thompson off the bench and placing him in the Ministry over the head of their Parliamentary supporters, was a poor investment for the Government. His speech this afternoon, his petty prevarications, his resorting to the Rykertian dodge of misquoting from newspapers, and his exaggeration of statement, clearly demonstrated that he possessed neither dignity, fairness, nor self-respect.

THE INDIANS AND THE FRANCHISE.

In response to Mr. Paterson's motion the Government has brought down a certified copy of the minutes of the Council, held by the Six Nation Indian Chiefs on 22nd Dec. last, in reference to the Franchise Act. The minute reads as follows:—"The Speaker reports that the Franchise Act has for some time been under the consideration of the Council, and as they observe elections are the cause of much excitement among their neighbors, they desire to exclude its operation from their reserve; they, therefore, request their people to abstain from attending political meetings and also from giving votes at any election."

ANOTHER GRAB POSSIBLE.

The presence of Sir George Stephen, President of the Pacific Railway Syndicate at Ottawa just now has aroused suspicion that another raid is to be made upon the treasury for the benefit of that corporation. Sir George has lately been making valuable presents to persons who are supposed to have influence over Sir John Macdonald and the other Ministers, and this is ominous of that. George understands the value of backstair influence. He had to use it before. The game is now understood to be that the Syndicate will insist that the Government shall allow them to pay off their $30,000,000 loan with the lands obtained already from the Government. Failing to find purchasers for their lands, the Syndicate now demand that the people of Canada shall buy them back at a high price per acre. This scheme was put forward last session but abandoned in consequence of some vigorous protests made against it by Conservative members.

It is hinted that the Syndicate have offered to buy up all the recalcitrant Bleus and keep them in line with the Tory party, provided the Government will release the $30,000,000 loan and take the lands off their hands. The present indications are that the $25,000 necklace presented by Sir George to Lady Macdonald is likely to prove a very costly affair to the taxpayers of Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It has been difficult in the past to induce witnesses from the United States to come to Windsor and give evidence in criminal cases because no fees were allowed, but the Ontario Government has now ordered that all witnesses from across the Detroit River shall be paid. By this means, it is believed the law can be much more effectively administered.

The Victoria (B.C.) Times is authority for the statement that Sir John Macdonald, accompanied by several members of his Cabinet and members of Parliament, will take a trip over the Canadian Pacific Railway from the capital to Vancouver and thence to Victoria, provided a general election does not take place during the ensuing summer, which is among the probabilities.

The United States have long enjoyed so high a rate of protective taxation that the adequacy of the system of creating wealth and promoting prosperity by the imposition of taxes has had a chance of being thoroughly tested. Yet, under its operation, the American marine has been swept from the seas in competition with free trade England, and the United States flag does not fly over a bit of plank big enough to carry a bushel of wheat across the sea. It is not surprising, therefore, to learn that the House of Representatives' committee on shipping on Wednesday instructed Representative Dunn to report favorably his free ship bill, with a section added, authorizing the entry free of duty of materials used in the construction of ships.

The Labour Problem.

Mr. Justice Rose at the Huron spring assizes referring to the labour problem said that one matter that was beginning to affect the interest of the public w s the labour problem and he thought, perhaps, before ending their session they might think it wise to give the country the benefit of the result of their mature deliberations on the subject. It was a question this country, with other countries, must face very soon, and it was to be hoped it would meet with a peaceful solution. It was not quite right to say that labour and capital were in conflict or that they should be. In the nature of things they should not be. They must work hand in hand if the true interests of the country were to be considered. While it would not do to have those who have been placed by the public in possession of large franchises and great power through wealth to handle it to the detriment of the country, on the other hand it would never do that those who have the power to make money, the power to labour, should be able to combine to subvert peace and order and the prosperity of the country in order to accomplish that which they think is in their interests. If those who command labour and and those who command capital cannot harmonise and work quietly and peaceably in the solution of this problem, then legislation, backed by public opinion, must be brought to bear and the administration of justice enforced.

Bridgenorth.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Quite a sensation was caused in our school a week ago last Monday, by one of the scholars, Willie J. Young, being suddenly seized with severe spasms. Mr. Succee kindly drove the sufferer home, while Mr. Jopling went with all possible dispatch for Dr. Halliday, under whose treatment, I am glad to be able to state, the little fellow is rapidly becoming convalescent.

A week ago Wednesday night, a meeting was held in the town hall for the purpose of enfranchising young Liberal-Conservatives. The meeting can scarcely be said to have been very large or enthusiastic as there were only about four persons present. Altogether it may be taken as a fair indication of the past that the "veteran Premier's" influence in Bridgenorth is on the wane.

Miss Pauline Udy has returned after a visiting tour of two weeks in the direction of Brighton.

Mr. Wright, our former school teacher, has been paying us a visit. He looks hale and hearty.

Miss S. J. Young is, I am very sorry to say, on the sick list at present.

Mr. Jas. Fife is at present suffering from a peculiar and distressing malady. It appears that sometime during last fall the gentleman hurt his upper lip and bathed the wounded part in a pool of stagnant water near at hand. The wound did not heal as it should have done, but, on the contrary, continued to grow worse. Medical men were then consulted and they now agree that parasites, peculiar to stagnant water, have effected a lodgment in his lip. When I last heard from him the doctors were confident of their ability to eradicate the pest, but the process is a slow and painful one. I hope it will not be long ere we have our friend amongst us in his usual cheerful spirits and good health once more.

Building is to assume extensive proportions in Bridgenorth during the coming summer.

I regret to have to state that Mr. James Bowie leaves us for Manitoba on Tuesday. Mr. Bowie's pleasant face and genial manners will be greatly missed in this vicinity, especially on the 4th Line, where he has been actively engaged as a temperance worker for a number of years.

Mr. W. B. Kelly has recalled his men from his shanty in Harvey.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $16. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

☞This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sent; and 95 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address

Important to Delinquents.

With this issue of the EXAMINER a large number of accounts are being enclosed to delinquent subscribers. Those not receiving them this week may expect them in their next paper. We have very frequently called attention to the fact that subscriptions must be paid in advance. We are now rendering statements, and it is of the greatest importance to us that we have the opportunity of writing a receipt beneath the amount during the next two weeks.

To the Ladies.

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

Deserved Words of Praise.

Night & Day, the monthly organ of the Barnardo Homes, thus refers in the current issue to the Peterborough branch and its managers:—"Our superintendents at Hazelbrae, Mr. and Mrs. E. Duff, our excellent secretary Miss Sanderson, and our travelling visitors, Miss E. Joyce and Mr. A. B. Owen, keep an Argus-eyed watch over every little mite of humanity that passes out from the Homes to the Dominion; and it is one of the most interesting things in our work to look through their eyes at the progress of those whom we have been, under God, instrumental in putting into "straight paths."'

"Engaged."

The sparkling comedy "Engaged" as presented by the Egbert Dramatic Company in Bradburn's Opera House last night, was one of the most engaging performances ever presented to a Peterborough audience. The large audience present was delighted with the capital bill of fare. Each member of the company sustained his or her role to perfection, presenting in the most pleasing way the absurdities, comical situations and peculiarities of the comedy. Mr. T. F. Egbert, as "Cheviot Hill," the young man of wealth who loved, proposed to and became engaged to every lady he met, was of course the general favorite with the audience, especially the ladies. Little Lulu Wade again charmed her hearers with her spicy songs and clever dancing. This evening the thrilling drama of "The Two Orphans" will be presented. This is one of the company's strongest plays and will be well worth seeing.

A Live Company.

We direct attention to the advertisement of the Federal Life Assurance Company, of Hamilton, which will be found elsewhere in these columns. The amount of business being done by this company, both in this section and all over the Dominion of Canada, is an ample evidence of the popularity of the plan adopted by it. Sheppard Homans says of this plan: "It is the safest, cheapest and fairest attainable." Wm. T. Standen, consulting actuary of New York, says: "I have the utmost confidence in it; it answers the requirements of a scientific basis, and commends itself to my judgment." Commissioner Tarbox says: "A provident person will do wiser to buy his insurance from a company doing business on this plan, and make his deposits, if he wishes to make investments, with some regular savings institution." And the plan is fully endorsed by all the leading actuaries of the day. When a life insurance policy becomes a claim, it is found in many, if not in most cases, to be the sole dependence of a comparatively helpless family. Reader, have you this provision made for those who are nearest and dearest to you? If not, apply at once to the agent, Mr. G. H. Howson, who will be pleased to discuss the matter with you, and write your application.

A full line of Macrame Cord in all shades, cheap, at the "Ten Cent" Store.

Cattle Shipment.

Mr. Gen. Webber last evening shipped a car load of cattle and sheep to the Montreal market.

Tax Sale

The Town Treasurer's quarterly sale of lands for taxes, will be held in the old Music hall to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The carpet and house-furnishing room in the Golden Lion is being thoroughly overhauled, and when completed will be one of the most commodious in the city. A visit to this department solicited by R. FAIR.

Colonist's Trains.

Three colonist's trains passed through town last night on the C.P.R. carrying settlers for the Northwest, together with their stock and effects. A number of farmers from Cavanville, were among the party.

Oratorio.

Professor Parker and a choir of thirty voices will render Farmer's sacred oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," in St. Luke's school room, on Wednesday, March 31st, at 8 p.m. Tickets 25 cents.

Market Items.

The market this morning was almost a blank. What produce was offered went at unchanged prices. There were only two or three small lots of butter and eggs, and a few lots of vegetables. Butter sold at 17c.; eggs, 12c.; potatoes, 55c. to 60c.

A Contradiction.

Mr. Newhall wishes us to state that he never saw his horse "Defiance" on any trotting track except when at the Hastings races a short time since. He also says any statement to the contrary is not in accordance with the facts.

So Cheap and yet so Good.

Sailsbury Bros. have received another consignment of Cassell's National Library, including Plutarch's Lives of Alexander the Great and Julius Cæsar. Think of it; 200 pages of well bound and well printed classical matter for only ten cents.

Curling.

Two rinks of the local curling club went to Lindsay this morning to play a match with the Lindsayites. Messrs. T. P. Attrill and W. G. Ferguson will in all probability skip the Peterborough men.

The annual point game for the club cup was in progress this afternoon, and will continue this evening and probably to-morrow.

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

De Profundis.

The following is a copy of a slip attached to the mail matter rescued from the steamer Oregon, of the Cunard Line, recently sunk near New York, which passed through the Peterborough postoffice:—

P.O. NEW YORK, N.Y., March 16, 1886.

This piece is a portion of the mail forwarded from Queenstown, Ireland, per steamer Oregon. It was damaged before being taken from that vessel, which sunk off Fire Island on the 14th instant.

New Spring Dry Goods.

Messrs. Giroux & Sullivan, this week, will exhibit the finest assortment of new spring dry goods in every department throughout their vast establishment. We are now prepared to show in each department throughout our establishment the most complete stock of staple and fancy dry goods ever placed before our patrons at any previous season. We have carefully studied the interest of all classes in their wants, and our selections are only first-class and reliable goods, from the cheapest to the finest qualities. We have no hesitation in stating that our stock and assortment are the most complete in town, and at prices beyond the reach of all legitimate competition. Inspection invited. See our advertisement in another column. GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

An Unfortunate Young Woman.

The young woman, Nettie Simmons, who was charged at the Police Court this morning with being a vagrant, was on Monday dismissed from the Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, where she has already served two terms. She received a pass for Belleville, and, probably, not caring to return to that place, where she had spent a part of her life, she dropped off here. P. C. Pidgeon, whose eyes are proverbial for acuteness, kept a fatherly watch over her and yesterday evening arrested her for vagrancy. She is young, pretty and intelligent looking, but is evidently very depraved. Communication will be opened with the authorities of the Reformatory and with Chief McKinnon, of Belleville, before she is disposed of. She will in all probability be sent back to the Reformatory. The police are bound to keep the town free of such company.

High Court of Justice.

Spring Sittings of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions.

The sittings of the Spring Assizes opened at the Court House at ten o'clock to-day, before Mr. Justice Armour.

The following gentlemen composed the panel of

THE GRAND JURY.

T. G. Hazlitt, Foreman.

John Diawoddie,	Jas. H. Fife,
Joseph Forster,	Edward Foley,
David Forsyth,	Thos. Gladman,
Peter Gillespie,	John Garbutt,
A. D. Gough,	B. Hogan,
Richard Hall,	Thos. Hetherington.
Adam Hall,	J. Humphreys,
J. S. Knox,	John Ludgate,
Wm. Lancaster,	Wm. Manoee,
Malleville Millar,	Charles McGill,
D. Ross,	R. C. Strickland.

In his

ADDRESS TO THE GRAND JURY

His Lordship remarked that their duties would be very light during the sitting of the present court. There were only two cases of a criminal nature to engage their attention, and these were not of very great gravity—one assault with intent to commit rape, and the other assault of a felonious character, or as might turn out, one of common assault. His Lordship gave directions for the guidance of the jury in arriving at a conclusion respecting the criminality of the parties charged.

Attention was directed to the duty of the jury in visiting and examining the jail. They would no doubt find here, as he had elsewhere, a great many persons able to work confined for vagrancy. It was desirable that poor houses should be maintained in every county for the purpose of maintaining and giving support to such persons.

THE BAR

was represented by the following gentlemen: E. B. Osler, Q.C., and G. T. Blackstock, Toronto; W. H. Biggar, Belleville; W. Kerr, Q.C., Cobourg, in charge of Crown business; E. H. D. Hall, A. P. Poussette, Q.C., Geo. Edmison, R. E. Wood, E. B. Stone, S. Masson, W. H. Moore, John Green, John O'Meara, C. W. Sawers, E. A. Peck, W. A. Stratton.

CIVIL BUSINESS.

The first case called was that of DOUGLASS VS. G. T. R.—An action for damages to plaintiff's tenement premises, Bethune street, through the backing up of water caused by the alleged defective construction of the railway bridge on Bethune street, crossing Hamilton's creek. The jury was sent, accompanied by engineers representing the parties to the suit, to inspect the situation of the bridge and the contiguous houses.

Will Try It Again.

TORONTO, March 25.—Mr. Hoyland, so it was announced yesterday, is not going to take further proceedings in the matter of his unseating as mayor. He will accept the decision and run again. The city clerk will probably issue the writ for a new election to-day, within fifteen days from which not the election must take place.

The British Political Situation.

LONDON, March 24.—Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Trevelyan were both absent from yesterday's Cabinet Council. The meeting is said to have been an important one, and to have included, perhaps, the final discussion as to whether, in view of the opposition of the Chamberlain faction, the land purchase bill shall be introduced. The Liberals claim that they are gaining strength. The positively confident tone of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell throughout all their recent public utterances inspired confidence in the probability that they see their way clear to a settlement of the Irish question, in spite of all the alarming rumors. There is said to have been adopted by the Liberals a programme for arousing public sentiment for Mr. Gladstone and supporting Parliament by means of monster mass meetings to all parts of the country, at which resolutions favoring Irish plans will be adopted and members of the House urged to support them.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

TUESDAY, MARCH 23rd.

In the Legislature this afternoon Mr. Fraser made the announcement about the new Parliament buildings. The plans are nearly ready, and work is expected to be begun in three or four months. The erection of the buildings will occupy three or four years. The cost is not to be more than $750,000.

The bill for compensation to workmen was referred back to Committee of the Whole House, where a clause was added providing that for one year the act shall not apply to cases where an employes' insurance association has been formed. It was explained that the object of this delay is to inquire into the working of these associations.

Mr. Creighton moved an amendment to the License Bill, regretting that the Government had not divided the increase with the municipalities. The amendment was lost by 47 to 37.

Supplementary estimates, amounting to $66,202 for 1886, and $20,000 for hospital expenses of the month of January, 1887, were brought down. The largest items are $10,000 for expenses of enforcing the Canada Temperance Act and $20,000 for new buildings at the Model Farm. Among other items are a grant to the widow and family of Dr. Metcalfe, medical superintendent of Rockwood Asylum, killed by a patient, of $5,000; a grant to Dr. Stewart, of Elora, in aid of the vaccine farm, $1,000; London Art School, $500; earth closets at London Asylum for Insane, $1,000.

At the call of some of the most prominent men in Boston, all native Americans, a meeting of Boston merchants was held on Tuesday, to aid the Irish Parliamentary Fund. Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The snow is leaving us, yet the roads are quite passable, in most of the townships.

Mr. George Blake, on the third concession, is very seriously ill.

Who will sell the alcoholic liquors here, is now the leading question of the day. Echo answers, who?

Our bake house and the hopes of our village are blighted in the withering of that particular branch of enterprise.

The oldest inhabitant prophesies spring. Others shake their head and predict a small winter to come. The weather is lovely, decidedly sugary.

On Tuesday evening a Liberal Conservative Association Meeting was held in the Town Hall here. We do not know the subject of the deliberations nor the result, not being present.

However, we are not breadless, as Mr. Murray, of Hastings, continues to supply us with the staff of life. Like all monopolists, he gets high prices—having advanced the 4-lb. loaf to eleven cents, as soon as the Keene bakery collapsed.

Miss Etta Howson, daughter of Mr. Geo. Howson, of this place, met with an accident which may result in the loss of one of her eyes. Through some unfortunate slip of a pair of scissors the eye was injured, and the young lady is suffering acutely from the wound. She has every one's sympathy in her trouble.

"In the spring the young folk's fancy, lightly turns to thoughts of"—what? housekeeping, of course." We have had a goodly number of weddings in this direction this season, and still they come. Two more couples at least, within our borders, are to take the irrevocable step. We hear the prophetic chime of the bells across the lake, and elsewhere.

Mr. Francis Hyde, of Peterborough, was in the village this week. He has put some musical instruments into excellent condition, being a tuner of the first order and a painstaking and conscientious work man in his art in which he is a thorough proficient. We hope he will take charge of this musical locality, and keep us long in perfect tune.

We are exceedingly sorry to learn that Miss Cumming and her sister, Miss Kate Cumming, are about leaving Keene "for good and all." Though "the chimes" call them hence, and the happiest future appears before them, we cannot help our regret that Keene will no longer be their residence; their sweet faces will be much missed, and we know that all here wish them both every possible joy and success in the future.

We should have let you know last week of the social that was held in the Methodist parsonage here on the 15th. It was a great success, the programme was capital and well carried out. The proceeds were over $15. Mrs. Johnson is a model hostess and well deserves her great popularity, as testified by even the little people. The Sunday School scholars added a very interesting item to the evening's proceedings by presenting to her the autograph or album quilt we heard so often of last year. It was accompanied by the following address:—

DEAR MRS. JOHNSON,—We, the senior members of the Keene Methodist Sunday School, take this opportunity of presenting you with this album quilt as a slight token of the high esteem in which you are held by us, and we also trust that all whose names are inscribed thereon may prove true and lasting friends, and that you may always look back with pleasure to your sojourn in Keene.

Signed on behalf of the S. S. scholars.

Mrs. Johnson, who was quite taken by surprise replied in brief and suitable terms, thanking them for their kindness, and assuring them that they would long be remembered by her and her family, for this, as well as many other expressions of kindly regard, already enjoyed during her stay at Keene. The party separated at a late hour, and went on their way rejoicing.

The Premier's Health.

OTTAWA, March 25.—It is stated that Sir John is slightly better to-day, though seriously ill.

Three in a Row.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 24.—Yesterday morning, near Auburn, Ky., three negroes, Hemp Wade, Alex. North, and Henry Shaw attempted to outrage Cora Day, daughter of a prominent citizen. A mob strung all three up to a tree, where they are still hanging.

Port Hope Debentures.

The London and Canada Loan and Agency Company, of Toronto, have purchased $25,700 of Port Hope town issue of 4 per cent. debentures. The price paid was $25,065.17. Messrs. Osler and Hammond were among the unsuccessful bidders. This is gratifying to Port Hope as the first town in the Dominion to try to float a 4 per cent. loan.

The Vote on Landry's Motion.

OTTAWA, March 24.—The debate on the Government motion moved by Landry was brought to a close at about 2.30 o'clock this morning. The vote was first taken on "the previous question," moved the first night of the debate by Sir Hector Langevin. It was carried by 126 to 73. Mr. Landry's motion was then put, and lost, the vote standing, yeas, 52: nays, 146.

The Lost Oregon.

NEW YORK, March 24.—A lawyer of this city has been retained by passengers of the wrecked steamer Oregon to look after their interests. The aggregate of the losses and damages amount to $107,000. The lawyer has engaged four divers to work at the wreck and secure evidence which will warrant him in commencing an action against the Cunard company in England.

Orangemen Will Arm.

A Repetition of the Scenes of 1886 Expected in Ireland.

LONDON, March 24.—At an Orange banquet last evening to celebrate the return of the Ulster members of the house of commons several speakers predicted a repetition of the scenes of 1688 and said that if necessary the Orangemen would arm themselves against the Pope and tools of the papacy. Major Saunderson, member of parliament for North Armagh, said he doubted if English troops sent against Orangemen would use their bayonets. Anyhow there were thousands of Orangemen in the British volunteer army who would be willing to go to Ireland at the proper moment.

Madre E Hijo,
What Does it Mean?
An Indiana member of Congress with a bundle of freshly-opened letters in his hand, recently remarked: "If there is anything in the world that my people don't want to Congressmen about I don't know what it is. Now, look here (selecting a letter from the package). This is a letter from a woman of my district. She writes: 'Dear Sir: My husband left me seven years ago, and I have not heard from him since. Will you please go to the Census Office, get his present address, and send it to me?' Now," continued the member, "here is another letter from a citizen of my district, who requests me to write to the American Minister at Rome and get him an Italian quarter free."—Washington Post.

Our Centres.

The artistic and dramatic of these one always hears one's self out of the count for social superiority when they are not elders entitled to traditions, are apt to be young people, and young people are necessarily conservative in their tastes and theories. They have the tastes and theories of their instructors, who perhaps caught the drift of their day, but whose routine life has been alien to any other truth. There is probably no chair of literature in this country from which the principles now shaping the literary impressions of young civilized people are not denounced and confounded with certain objectionable French novels, or which fearless young men anything of the universal impulse which has given us the heroes, not only of Zola, but of Turgueneff and Tolstoi in Russia, of Bjornson in Norway, of Valera in Spain, of Verga in Italy, of the unknown Englishman who wrote "Mark Rutherford." Till these younger writers have learned to think as well as to write for themselves they will persist in uttering a sigh, more and more perfunctory, for the truth as it was in Sir Walter, and as it was in Dickens and in Hawthorne. Presently all will have been changed; they will have seen the new truth in larger and larger degree, and when it shall have become the old truth, they will perhaps see it all.

In the meanwhile they are not such bad fellows with us, and though one might perhaps resent our critical authorities upon rather less than the thumbs of one hand, we believe there is no country in the world where an author finds more complete recognition at once. Our critics must still make each his manners, more or less comical, to the awful form of precedent; but when this is once done, they do collectively find out what is good in a piece of literature. In a thousand newspapers, scattered all over the whole country, they utter as vast an amount of fresh and independent impression that every part of the author's work is touched, nothing of its intention or performance is lost. It will often be deplored as mistaken and of wrong direction or slighter value, but it will have been felt to the last, lightest insinuation.

This is another advantage of a literary centre distributed almost as widely as the Presidential patronage. There is no critical leadership among us. Chicago frankly differs from Boston about a book, and St. Louis can not do less than differ from Chicago; San Francisco has no superstition about the opinions of New York; Buffalo and New Orleans have each its point of view. Concord is almost co-extensive with reading in our country, and from the newspapers the author may learn fairly well what this vast, sympathetic, eager people are saying and thinking of his book. This will always, however, be far less than he would have imagined.—W. D. Howell's, in Harper's Magazine for February.

Elevated to an Art.

Dressmaking is fast becoming one of the high arts. A few days ago a celebrated English journal, which is noted for its published interviews with celebrities, reported a conversation with Mme. I——, a leading modiste, who, it would appear, is an exceptionally intelligent person, having studied at Girton, and dabbled considerably in philosophy. The journal reports that her business is conducted on highly artistic principles, and that madame goes every week to the National Gallery to make sketches of costumes of various nationalities and epochs, she making artistic and antique gowns a specialty. She makes a close study of the style, tone and feature of each customer, and never asks if she will wear what is fashionable simply because it is in mode, but to make the appropriate and becoming the chief consideration. She thinks that if once this principle is thoroughly accepted the world over a great triumph will have been achieved, and that then there will be no need of any further agitation of the question of dress reform. Among her apprentices are a number of young ladies, daughters of wealth, who are making a study of "artistic home dressmaking" under madame's skilful guidance. Remington and "crazy work" being quite forsaken for this more praiseworthy and serviceable occupation.

Bursting Water-Backs.

"There is one danger to which hot water apparatus, of all kinds, is subject, and that is the bursting of the water-back in winter time. One frequently encounters in newspapers account of such explosions, which are often the cause of serious injuries to the kitchen servants or, at least, of damage to property. Such accidents are liable to occur whether a boiler is supplied from direct pressure or from a tank, and they can be guaranteed only by some intelligent care on the part of the householder. The reason of such an explosion, which very often causes the entire destruction of the cooking range, is very simple. If the kitchen fire is allowed to go out on a very cold night, particularly if the fireplace is much exposed, the water in the water-back and the connecting pipes may freeze. If the fire is lighted in the morning, steam is generated in the water-back, and inasmuch as the circulation is interrupted and the steam has no exit from which to escape, a powerful pressure is exerted upon the water-back until it finally explodes with great violence. It should be understood that neither vacuum or safety valve, nor the expansion pipe of the tank supply system render the system free from the danger of such accident. The only sure way to prevent the occurrence of such a disaster is to keep, on cold nights, a fire going in the range, so as to maintain the circulation of water through the water-back. If the fire should accidentally or carelessly be allowed to go out on a winter night, it may be a wise precaution to ascertain in the morning, before lighting a fire, if the water in the pipes has frozen, and if so, thaw it out before the fire is lighted in the range.—William Paul Gerhard, in Good Housekeeping.

A Pretty Little List.

How Money is Wasted in Doubling Salaries.

Globe Correspondence.

OTTAWA, March 20.—The Auditor-General's report shows that the Government have by no means modified their scandalous practice of duplicating the salaries of favourite officials by means of payments for alleged extra services. The system is utterly indefensible, because every official is supposed to devote his whole time to the service of the Government for the regular salary which he receives. If he is taken from his regular employment to perform special duties, it is manifest that his regular pay for the time being should cease, or at least that the extra sums paid him should be deducted from his usual salary. For instance, if Mr. Burbidge is to devote his whole time to consolidating the Statutes, his pay as Deputy Minister of Justice should cease. The following is a partial list of those Dominion officials who were favoured with extra payments last year, with the salaries and extras paid to each:—

NAME OF OFFICIAL.	Salary.	Extras.
Colling wood Schreiber, Railway Department	$4,000	$2,000
Hugh Richardson	3,000	1,200
Hon. John O'Connor	4,227	1,633
Edward Miall	3,000	200
James Johnson	3,000	200
Asa F. McLeod	3,000	200

Those are the principal officials who have shared in the extras grab, but there are hundreds in the Postoffice, Public Works, Interior, Fisheries, and other Departments who have drawn large amounts for alleged extra services over and above their regular salaries. After the expose of last session the Government have been careful to see that none of their employees have been drawing pay for more days than there are in the year. The Auditor's report for 1884 shows that in that year some enterprising officials drew pay for a full year and thirty or forty days over. That was overdoing the business, and the "extras" had to be given in some other shape. But the whole system of paying for extra work is wrong. All employees now demand extra pay for the most trifling service rendered after four o'clock; whereas, as Mr. Langelier pointed out last session, the regulation closing the offices at four simply means that they are closed to the public at that hour, while the employees are supposed to devote all their time to the work of the service in which they are engaged.

Madre E Hijo,

What Does it Mean?

THE NATION'S PAGES.

Characteristics of the Boys Who Wait on Senators and Congressmen.

An Indianapolis correspondent at Washington writes: Some interesting characters and peculiar bits of life are found in the pages of the senate and house of representatives. In the upper branch of congress there are about thirty-five pages. Their duties are well-known to the average reader. Their fields of labor are the floors of the two branches of congress. A page for the senate of the house, and vice versa. Sometimes a page is found, who is almost of age and nearly full-grown; but they average from 9 to 14 years, and most of them are very small in stature, and upon first appearance boyish in character. As years go on, if they are retained the little fellows become sagacious, often proud, and not infrequently imitate the statesmen in bearing and conversation. There is no better school for a boy in which to become an actor. He has the best of opportunity to study every phase of character. Speaking of the pages sometimes imitating the acts of their superiors, reminds me of an incident that occurred a few days ago. A very diminutive page who was borne upon the rolls of the last congress was superseded. When he learned that his place had been given to another he became considerably dejected, for this little fellow had dissipated in a mild way and had been profligate, so that he was found almost without funds, and was far away from home as the state of Missouri is from Washington. But the boy had been an observer and knew a trick or two. He studied the situation. He solved it. Going to his boarding-house he hastily packed up his effects without attracting the attention of anyone. With great caution he removed them to another quarter of the city. Then he went out to bid his confreres adieu. Meeting one of them, who was about 10 years old, and as tall as a man's arm is long, he said:

"Well, good-by, old fellow; I'm off. My constituents have given me the shake. I was defeated in caucus and beaten in convention. The situation, however, leaves me a little flat. I am nearly broke; but I have found a way out. I will jump my board-bill. They all do it."

Sometimes the pages run in schools, like fish, and become clannish. Not infrequently one meets a crowd of them, all under three feet in height; at the midnight hour, making the town howl. Many of them smoke cigarettes and play billiards. Frequently the little fellows drink beer, for they can buy it anywhere at the counters. There is not a very great proportion of them, however, who fall into these channels of dissipation. Those who do generally come from the larger cities. Then the pages have a way of "hazing," and some of the capers they play upon plebeians or inexperienced boys are wonderfully severe and terribly embarrassing. One of the favorite tricks in the line of hazing is to take a new boy down in the lower basement under the hall of the house and show him the "rubber man." This basement is very dark and very broad and cavernous. Portions of it are unlighted, and the unsophisticated youth soon finds himself lost. The surroundings are weird and frightful, and it sometimes takes an hour to get out. Pages receive $74 per month during the session. Those in the house are generally changed every two years, but the boys in the senate are retained, and some of them grow up to manhood from childhood at their post of duty, as did Senator Gorman, of Maryland. It is said that a considerable number of the pages in the house are blood relatives to members, and sometimes the members have their sons appointed.

Cure for Snake Bites.

Writing to the Medical Times from the Delaware water gap, where poisonous snakes abound, Dr. J. B. Shaw says that he was called to see a child aged 10, female. She was bitten by a copperhead on the foot, about one inch above the middle toes. He saw her in four hours from the time she was bitten. Her symptoms then were: Extreme prostration with nausea; respiration very slow; pulse weak; eyes fully dilated, with a wild look. The foot and leg were very much swollen and purple, and very painful. He gave her sixty minims of spirit of ammon. aromat. hypodermically, ordered one ounce of whisky every two hours, and a large poultice of bruised raw onions to be applied to the foot and to be renewed every hour. The whisky and onions were kept up until the child was well, which was on the third day. The above has been his treatment for the last six years, and he has never lost a case, nor has he heard of a death from snake bite where the treatment has been carried out.

Your Coming.

I know not, love, how first you found me,
What instinct led you here;
I know the world has changed around me
Since once you came so near.
I yield a thousand claims to nourish this,
At last the dearest hope, the nearest bliss;
And whether lot to you for happiness,
Happy am I.

How lightly passed the maiden leisure
That youth and freedom chose,
The careless days of peace and pleasure,
The nights of pure repose!
So swift a touch could set the tune astir!
So brief a shadow blot the morning sky!
Yet if the heart be made for happiness,
Happy am I.

O love, your coming taught me trouble;
Your parting taught me pain.
My breath grew quick, my blood ran double—
Fire leaped in every vein.
Yet, ah! has Time outdone the lover's kiss,
The look—the burning look—the low reply?
If these be all he holds of happiness,
Happy am I.

[illegible]
[illegible]
Your voice is heard in dreams.
The good I choose is weighed with that I miss,
My idlest laughter mated with a sigh,
And moving only in your happiness,
Happy am I.

—Dora Read Goodale, in Harper's Magazine for February.

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

I loved Dora Morton from the first. Not only for her pretty brown eyes, wavy golden hair, and trim little figure, but for her kind heart and amiable disposition as well. You might look the world over from one end to the other, and never find a girl to compare with Dora, either in point of beauty or sweetness of disposition.

Dora loved me too. She not only said so; but her every action clearly showed it; and everybody in the town said I was remarkably fortunate—being but a poor young doctor—to win the love of such a girl, who could have had her pick from the best in the land, as her father was the wealthiest man in all the country round.

I fully appreciated my good fortune, and was happy accordingly. But my happiness was not to be of long duration, and the course of the love that had erst while run so smooth, was destined to become exceedingly rough.

About this time Ralph Clayton, a wealthy merchant of high standing, met and lost his heart to Dora, and became a constant visitor at her home.

While I was assured of Dora's love and esteem, I was positive that her father held quite a different opinion of me, and he soon made it evident that my attentions to his daughter were distasteful to him.

He always welcomed Clayton warmly, and bestowed upon him every attention, while I was treated with freezing politeness. Ah, money is a wonderful power!

Clayton was a pompous man, some half-dozen years my senior, and, on account of my inferior financial position in the world, he always treated me with considerable condescension.

One day, as we returned together from a visit to the Merton mansion, he said to me:

"Conway, I think Dora Merton one of the nicest girls I ever met. She would make a model wife, and I am going to marry her. What do you think of it?"

"Why," I replied, while the hot blood rushed to my face, "I think she will never be your wife, because she loves and is engaged to me."

"Oh, that is nothing," he coolly answered; "her father approves of me, and, it is very plain, desires me for a son-in-law; but you he doesn't like at all. Dora is a very obedient and dutiful girl, and I do not think the old man will have any trouble at all in gaining her consent to marry me."

"But," said I, "would you marry a woman who does not love you, and whose heart is another's?"

"That," replied he, "is a small matter. Love doesn't amount to much where there is plenty of lucre. I could teach her, I think, to esteem me in time."

I had always disliked the man; now I fairly despised him, and it was with a mighty effort that I restrained myself from striking him.

Dora had always been in the habit of meeting me, when I called, under a spreading maple-tree some distance from the house. The next day after my conversation with Clayton, I went to see her, and she met me at the usual place. After a few commonplace remarks, I told her what Ralph Clayton had said to me.

"Oh, Paul," she exclaimed, "I fervently pray that my father will not desire me to marry that man! For, Paul, I do not love him—I cannot love him; but, if my father bids me marry him, I dare not disobey. But let us pray that he will not make any such request, for I love you, Paul—only you! and I believe I should die if we were separated!"

While I did not exactly like the way she replied, I could not find the heart to be angry with her, for I really believed she loved me. So I folded her in my arms and warmly kissed her, and assured her of my trust in her.

I returned to the village feeling every way but buoyant, and passed a restless, sleepless night.

A few days after that I received a note from old Mr. Merton, also one from Dora. The old man in a few words informed me that his daughter was soon to marry Ralph Clayton, and [illegible] me discontinue my attentions to her.

Dora wrote me a tearful little note, returning the ring I had given her, and saying she loved only me, but duty and obedience to her father compelled her to renounce me, and marry Mr. Clayton; that she thought best never more to meet me again, and closed by beseeching me to forgive her.

Neither of them stated when the marriage was to take place, and I took no particular pains to find out. That night I entered a train bound for a distant town, where I intended to locate and strive to forget the heartless girl, as I then thought her, who had treated me so cruelly.

I did well in my new home, and though the wound in my heart was past healing, it was not so sore as at first; time is a measure bad deadened the pain.

A year and more had gone by and in all that time I had never had any tidings from Dora.

I scanned the papers closely, but I never saw any account of her marriage. I thought all this very strange, but could not doubt that the marriage had taken place.

After a time I ceased to look at the papers altogether and devoted myself strictly to my profession.

One night, as I sat alone in my office wrapt in thoughts of the past, a boy entered and handed me a telegram. I lost no time in reading it and found it to be from old Mr. Merton, and contained these words:

"Dora is very ill and desires to see you. Come immediately."

I did not stop to think over this strange message. I only knew my darling—mine in spite of the past—was ill, probably dying, and wished to see me. I never once thought of her being another's wife. I would go, to her, of course.

All the bitterness I had felt towards the poor little girl left me, and the love for her that I had partially smothered surged over and through me with renewed vigor.

It was early morning when I started on my journey, and the darkness of night was settling over the world when I reached my destination.

No one was at the station to meet me, and, without losing the time to hire a vehicle, I started out to walk to the Merton mansion across the fields, as I used to do of yore. It was no great distance, and the walk would do me good. My way would take me by the old trysting-tree, where Dora had met me so often in the happy days of the long ago.

My mind was busy as I walked over the old familiar pathway. I thought of the girl—now, probably, lying within the pale of death—who had wandered over these very fields, clinging trustingly to my arm, and uttering vows of eternal love for me. I thought, too, of the man who had come between us with his accursed gold and parted us forever, well-nigh wrecking my life, and breaking the heart of poor Dora.

I was now near the old tryst-tree, and in the fast-gathering twilight I saw a sight that sent the blood rushing through my veins like a current of fire.

Leaning against the trunk of the tree, clad in a dress of spotless white, I saw the outline of a fragile female form.

It was Dora! There could be no doubt about that. I knew the graceful figure too well, and the attitude was just the same as she used to assume when she waited for me in the spot long ago.

Yes, it was Dora. She was not so ill, then, as they had thought her; she had recovered, and had come out to meet and surprise me.

Thus I thought as I rushed on to greet her. There never was such joy as mine. It was so great I often wonder it did not kill me then and there.

I was now close to her; but she never moved.

Uttering many endearing words I seized her hands which were clasped before her, and attempted to draw her to me.

The hands were cold—oh, so stony cold, and the great brown eyes had such a strange expression, and the face was so worn and white, that I released her hastily and recoiled several feet.

"My God!" was my inward ejaculation, "can my Dora have gone mad? Has her illness dethroned her reason?"

Suddenly she turned, and fixing her great star-like eyes on me, slowly said:

"Paul, your Dora is dead; you came too late—I died for love of you! Forget me never, oh, my darling! Farewell, farewell!" and, noiselessly approaching me, she pressed her icy lips to mine and disappeared.

Overcome with horror I fell fainting to the ground.

When I recovered I found myself in bed at the residence of the old village doctor, under whom I had first studied.

He told me that I had been found under the old maple-tree in a death-like swoon; that three weeks had elapsed since then, and I had been suffering from an attack of brain-fever, and in all that time I had talked of nothing but Dora, ghosts, and human cruelty.

When I grew stronger he said:

"Old fellow, you have had a tough pull. They came pretty near killing you as they did Dora, poor girl! She died a short time before we found you. She was calling for you all the time during her illness, and died with your name on her lips."

Meissonier, according to the Art Amateur, is heavily in debt to his agent, M. Petit, and will probably remain so to the last day of his life. His studio is crowded with unfinished pictures, i. e., the masters so consider them—which if sold, even at auction, would make him rich "beyond the dreams of avarice." But he is extremely fastidious, and in more than one instance, after having received enormous payments in advance on commissions to be executed, he has failed to finish within a reasonable time the picture ordered and has had to pay back the money. His generosity also stands in the way of his success, as he will often, when in need of money, stop to paint pictures and give them to friends.

With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make us "EXTRAORDINARY" offers, but we have made it so, for the reason that we have concluded to make it our study, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work [illegible] from $125 to $200 a month [illegible] and they make no trouble for us to [illegible] to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and worth them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $100 above ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guarantee; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to everyone out of employment, who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the season, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

CAMPBELL'S

TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders

RUPTURE CURED

IN FROM 20 TO 30 DAYS BY WEARING

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spiralean trusses made in York State, costing me $60. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child here; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be held in the Little Windsor, Brock street, on Thursday evening, April 1st. This being the most important meeting of the season, it is expected that there will be a full attendance of members.

Schiverea.

The meetings being held in St. Paul's church this week, conducted by Schiverea, the evangelist, continue with unabated interest. Mr. Schiverea is working with a will and is being rewarded with many converts. The usual meetings were held to-day.

Caught on the Fly.

P. C. Adams, on Tuesday night last, armed with an attachment against the chattels of a former resident of Smith, who was moving to the Northwest on the colonists train, notified the C.P.R. agent that he had such a document and that the company would be responsible if the car was removed. The proprietor of the goods was found, who settled the matter by paying the bill, which only amounted to $16. The train was allowed to proceed.

To the Ladies.

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

A Sunlight Reflector.

Mr. William Drury, assisted by Mr. E. C. Hill has ornamented the Opera House by introducing as the lighting appartus, an immense "Sunlight Reflector." This reflector will give as powerful a light as the electric and at the same time will be more congenial, being softer and "more mellow" as Mr. H. puts it. The electric light is said to be too dazzling and harsh, besides gas-light beauties cannot stand its rays. The reflector is quite ornamental, hanging from the centre of the ceiling, its brazen frame and porcelain reflectors, in the centre of which hangs a circle of sixty gas jets, having a striking and and handsome appearance. The reflector as well as being ornamental is decidely convenient. By a simple twist of the wrist the whole sixty jets can be completely extinguished leaving one pilot light alone burning, which by the same manouvre reversed can in an instant be relit. The tap regulating this is situated at the side of the stage near the curtain windlass. In connection with the reflector a ventilator is being put in under the direction of Mr. Hill. It will be placed immediately over the reflector, a large circular aperture having been made in the ceiling, which is covered with a fine wire screen, capped with a funnel pipe which will be continued to the roof of the building. The hot air will be carried off through this large pipe, thus ensuring a good ventilation. In this a long felt want will be supplied. Owing to a complicated system of supporters immediately over the apparatus in the ceiling there was considerable difficulty in placing the ventilator; this, however, has been overcome by sloping the funneled pipe. Messrs. Drury and Hill have made a neat and effective job of it, which will remain as witness of their ingenuity of mind and executive ability. The reflector was purchased in New York City. The improvement no doubt will add to the attractiveness of the Opera House.

The carpet and house-furnishing room in the Golden Lion is being thoroughly overhauled, and when completed will be one of the most commodious in the city. A visit to this department solicited by R. GAIN.

Advertising Cards.

A large quantity of Sanford's celebrated advertising cards, just received at the "EXAMINER OFFICE." Newest designs and styles. Call and inspect.

Town Treasurer's Tax Sale.

The Town Treasurer's sale of lands for taxes was held in the old fire hall this morning. All the lots offered, seven in number, were quickly sold at small figures. Four lots of the seven are situated in Spaulding's bay.

To the Afflicted

Dr. N. Washington, M. D., L. C. P. S. O., Toronto and Halifax, will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on March 29th, 30th and 31st for consultation upon and treatment of Throat and Lung Diseases, in the successful treatment of which he has a well-earned pre-eminence.

The First Spin.

Messrs. Frank Karch and T. Delaney mounted their bicycles last night and had a spin around the town—the first of the season. The latter wheelsman had the misfortune to collide with a horse which a passing boy had hidden from his view. Fortunately the animal was not easily frightened, and after the cyclist had bumbled himself in the dust, allowed him to pursue his course unmolested.

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $3 better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

A Good Rink Record.

There is a good deal of glory won in this world that does not appear in the record. For instance the curling record of Mr. Skip Ferguson's rink is a very creditable one. During the past season the rink skipped by him, consisting generally of himself and Messrs. H. B. Merrick, Geo. Walker, and R. S. Davidson with Messrs. C. McGill and W. H. Budden occasionally, has this season, played a leading score, usually by a good majority, too, in every match in which it has entered always defeating its opponent rink. Last season the same rink was individually only defeated once.

New Spring Dry Goods.

Messrs. Giroux & Sullivan, this week, will exhibit the finest assortment of new spring dry goods in every department throughout their vast establishment. We are now prepared to show in each department throughout our establishment the most complete stock of staple and fancy dry goods ever placed before our patrons at any previous season. We have carefully studied the interest of all classes in their wants, and our selections are only first-class and reliable goods, from the cheapest to the finest qualities. We have no hesitation in stating that our stock and assortment are the most complete in town, and at prices beyond the reach of all legitimate competition. Inspection invited. See our advertisement in another column. GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

A Disagreeable and Painful Accident.

Mr. A. J. Ritchie, of the firm of Graham & Ritchie, Agricultural Implement Dealers had the misfortune to meet with a severe and very painful accident yesterday afternoon. While driving down George street and when opposite the C.P.R. station, his horse, a spirited young animal, became frightened by the roaring and deafening noise made by an engine, from which steam was being "blown off." The neighing of the iron horse so surprised the animate steed that it turned sharply around and bolted up street. Mr. Ritchie in saving the vehicle from being upset in the sharp turn, overbalanced himself and was thrown violently headforemost to the roadside, striking the rough muddy ground, severely scratching and cutting the right side of his face. Several witnesses of the occurrence helped him to the station where by the assistance of water part of of the effects of the misfortune were removed. The horse was captured in front of Mr. Peter Hamilton's foundry and brought back, when Mr. Ritchie took his seat and drove home. He will be obliged to give up business for some days, but it is hoped he will soon wholly recover from his injuries.

The Egbert Company.

The sensational drama, "The Two Orphans," was the bill presented at the Opera House last night by the Egbert Dramatic Co. The audience was not as large as the performance merited. As on former occasions the play was presented in the most realistic manner, the appropriate costumes and scenic effects assisting materially. Miss Kate Glassford and Mary Ellsworth as the orphans, "Henriette" and "Louise," May Wade as "Frochard the Charity Woman," H. C. Clemens and T. F. Egbert as the two brothers. "Pierre" and "Jacques," and T. J. Meegan as "Picard," of the Secret Police, having the most prominent parts, were excellent in their impersonations, H. C. Clemens, as the cripple Pierre, probably carrying off the honors. Little Lois Wade in her song "Papa'll be Home By and By" again won the applause of the audience. The bill for this evening will be "Our Boys" in which play the Egberts have the reputation of excelling. Those who wish to see it well played will visit the Opera House to-night. Little Lois Wade as "the Slavey" has won the highest praises. To-morrow night Dumas' romantic drama, Monte Christo, with special scenery, will be presented.

Conservatives, Attention.

The Market Committee and the Court of Revision will meet to-night in the clerk's office.

Young Men's Meeting.

Attention is the watchword of the Young Men's Liberal Association and all those who sympathize with the principles of the party of Liberal principles are expected to attend the meeting to be held in the rooms of the Association on Friday evening. A full attendance is expected.

Handsome Gas Fixtures.

Handsome gasaliers have arrived at the Gas Company's offices for the stores of Messrs. A. Mercer, and J. McCrea, Druggists, and will be placed in a few days by Mr. Drury, Superintendent of the Gas Work. The gasaliers and fixtures in the newly opened store of Mr. H. S. Griffin are particularly handsome and attractive.

Accident to the C. P. R.

The C. P. R. express from the east due at 5.31 yesterday morning was seven or eight hours late coming in on account first the other side Lakefield. A rail broken on the curve threw the engine off the track. Owing to the admirable manner in which the air-brakes worked no damage was sustained except to a slight extent to the baggage car.

Provincial Board of Health.

A Sanitary and Public Health Convention, under the auspices of the Provincial Board of Health, will be held at Woodstock on the 30th and 31st inst., the object being for the presentation of facts, comparison of views and discussion of methods relating to the prevention of sickness and death and the improvement of the conditions of living. At each of the meetings papers have been read on public health will be read, and the subjects discussed by those present. No doubt Peterborough will be represented at this convention.

Curling Events.

The point game for the club cup will be continued this evening, not being completed yesterday, although a large number scored during the afternoon and evening. Mr. F. Hamtain leads at present with a score of 12. In this contest 36 shots are made, with a possible score of 36, which, of course is never attained. Twelve is considered a good score and is hard to beat. Last year a lower score won the cup.

The political bonspiel will not be played, this evening, as the ice on the skating rink, owing to the weather, could not be prepared.

Defeated by Lindsay.

The local curlers who went to Lindsay yesterday were defeated by the curlers of that town after an interesting and hilarious game. The ever-victorious rink of Mr. W. G. Ferguson, encouraged by defeating its opponent, Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Lindsay's champion, while Mr. T. P. Atkill, Peterborough's champion, was defeated by Mr. S. A. McMurtry. The score was as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH.	LINDSAY.
Rink No. 1.

C. McGill.	W. McLellan.
R. S. Davidson.	S. Hughes.

W. R. Calloway, district superintendent of the C. P. R. was in town yesterday.

A. J. Taylor, general passenger agent, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, and J. Richardson, general passenger agent of the Wabash, were registered at the Oriental to-day.

Mr. J. Simpson, of Rochester, accompanied by his wife, is in town on a visit to his brother, Mr. W. Simpson, of the Queen's. He was formerly a Peterborough typo.

B. H. Brow, superintendent of agencies of the London and Lancashire Life Assurance Company, is in town on business in connection with the Company.

Mr. David McDougall has been appointed representative of the London and Lancashire Life Assurance Company for the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland. This company holds as important position in insurance circles and has undoubted security for the $20,000,000 of insurance which it has now in force. The company is fortunate in securing a gentleman of Mr. McDougall's position as its representative.

For the year 1886

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fifth Parliament—Third Session.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24th.

In the Legislature this evening the bill respecting the drainage indebtedness of the township of Sombra was read a third time. The bill confirms a settlement of a suit brought by the Attorney-General against the township of Sombra, fixing the indebtedness of the township at $42,500.

Mr. Clancy said that the people of Sombra had had no notice of the confirmation of assessment, while Mr. Creighton attacked the Government for compromising drainage indebtedness without the consent of the House, claiming that a reduction of a debt was virtually a gift of the money of the Province.

A sharp discussion took place in which Messrs. Ferguson, Mowat, Fraser and Pardee took part. The Ministers took the ground that the Government was not reducing the debt because the amount of the debt was not ascertained until the suit was brought. If the Government found that the township had not received the benefit of the whole expenditure of the debt, and reduced this claim, they was not forgiving a debt but they simply accepting what was really and justly due.

Supplementary estimates amounting to $97,000 were passed in Committee of Supply. The Opposition moved amendments condemning the immigration policy and colonization roads and the timber limit policy of the Government, which were lost on divisions.

Pardon from the Queen.

LONDON, March 25.—It is reported that the Queen will direct the release of Brown, the crank who threw the petition into the royal carriage in Hyde Park yesterday.

Strikes in France.

PARIS, March 25.—Figaro says that the employees at Decazeville are losing $1,000 a day in consequence of the present strike. One thousand of the strikers support themselves by farm work, while 800 others receive regular help from the relief fund.

Port Hope.

Mr. P. R. Randall fell in a faint near the postoffice Thursday morning, and was lifted into Dr. Powers' carriage and taken home. Mr. Randall has been suffering from a very bad cold, and this morning complained of a feeling of faintness. No serious result is anticipated and he will no doubt soon be fully recovered.—Times.

Dominion Doings.

His Excellency the Governor-General has declared by order in council that the second part of the Canada Temperance act, 1878, shall be in force in the county of Frontenac as soon as the licenses now in force expire.

Charles Fisher of Reed City, Mich., Pat McConnellsville of Detroit, and Hugh Leonard of Montreal, three tramps, have been arrested at Essex Centre on a charge of shooting Fireman Woodford of the Canada Southern.

Miss Lucy Downs, of Brantford, Ont., who had been paying a visit to her sister, Mrs. Geo. Vine, No. 1,062 Broadway, Buffalo, was discovered dead in her bed. The cause was doubtless heart disease. The deceased was 45 years old and unmarried.

Miss Trottier, aged 16, a daughter of A. A. Trottier, manager of the Banque du Peuple, took down her father's coat off a nail. A revolver was in one of the pockets. To please her 3-year-old brother she took the weapon and snapped it. The ball entered her brother's head and killed him instantly.

A large deputation of citizens of Winnipeg attempted to present a petition against the disallowance of railways to the local legislature, Thursday, at Ottawa, but were refused, on the ground of irregular procedure. There is a good deal of indignation in regard to the matter.

President Allan Cleghorn, of the Brant Memorial committee, has received word from the Hon. A. S. Hardy that the Ontario Government has granted an additional $1500 towards the fund for the construction of the Brant monument. This constitutes a total grant by the Provincial Government of $2,500.

At the Liverpool spring meeting yesterday the Prince of Wales' cup was won by Mr. Hungerford's Brighton, the Duke of Portland's Satchell finishing second, and Mr. Leigh's Corneille at third.

Pasteur found a portion of a decayed tooth embedded in the cheek-bone of the Russian patient who died of hydrophobia. This, undoubtedly, belonged to a mad wolf that bit him, and M. Pasteur thinks it hastened the incubation of the disease.

The Irish Question.

Gladstone Too Ill to Go to the House of Commons.

DUBLIN, March 25.—United Ireland (Parnellite organ) publishes an editorial speculation based on a supposition of the the failure of Gladstone to carry his Irish measures through Parliament. It says if such a failure should possibly occur, it would not only be a Parliamentary scandal, but would be followed by the most horrible "suppressed civil war." "The Liberal party," the paper continues, "would be split, one portion would stand watching in helpless shame the terrorization of Ireland, and the other portion would be dragged at the chariot wheels of the Brummagem Cromwell."

LONDON, March 25.—Gladstone is ill. He caught cold yesterday and to-day is confined to his room suffering from chills and diarrhœa. The attending physicians have forbidden him to go out of the house. Gladstone will, therefore, be unable to go to the House of Commons to-day. He had appointed to-night as the date on which he would name a day for the presentation of his Irish proposals. It was generally expected that he would accompany his announcement with a short speech which should intimate the nature of his Irish scheme. The Premier's unfortunate illness at a critical juncture is regarded as a political misfortune.

Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt, in the commons this evening, announced that Gladstone would state his Irish policy to the house on April 8th.

Continuing, the chancellor said that the budget would be introduced some time within the first two weeks of April. Mr. Gladstone, he said, hoped to be able to be present during to-morrow's session of the house.

Two New York Widows.

Two of the richest widows in New York writes a correspondent from that city, have died during the last year—Mrs. Commodore Vanderbilt and Mrs. Edwin D. Morgan. The former was the most remarkable instance of conjugal influence on record. She married a covetous old man, who held his immense wealth with a grip which had always been proof against every appeal, but she triumphed over this confirmed parsimony in two notable instances. One was the purchase of a church for her pastor (C. F. Deems), who has its free use during life, and the other was the gift of a million to the Nashville University. The beauty of this work is its disinterestedness. She never attempted to get control of her husband's wealth, but only sought to move him to deeds of beneficence. This was a noble record and deserves grateful remembrance. Mrs. E. D. Morgan was a kind-hearted and very useful woman, who rose with her husband to wealth and social rank, but always preserved the simplicity of early life and was deeply beloved by all who knew her. Her benefactions to the Woman's Hospital and other important institutions are too well known to require further reference, but (personally speaking) I shall always remember her for kind acts done to a friendless boy who served her husband as clerk and who lived in the family, thus coming directly under her domestic influence, which he cherishes in grateful memory.

The Chicago Manual Training School.

Manual training has laid hold upon the imagination of the American people. The register of the Chicago Manual Training School contains the names of visitors from all parts of this country, from Canada, and from England. On last Commencement-day seven hundred persons visited the school, passing through the several laboratories and witnessing the exercises. It is true, many of those visitors were relations and personal friends of students; but relations and personal friends of students of schools of the old regime visit them very infrequently. Many of the visitors of manual training schools are women. They are enthusiasts on the subject of the new education. Their comprehension of it is clearer than that of men. This is doubtless because they are possessed of a higher degree of intuition, are more imaginative, more unselfish and less ambitious, and have less aversion to labor. Froebel found women better adapted to the work of teaching than men. The Kindergarten and manual training are identical in principle; but the Kindergarten has struggled long, and as yet unsuccessfully, except in a few instances, for admission to the schools, while manual training, a thing of yesterday in its educational aspect, has conquered all the educational outposts, and now waits only the formal surrender of the garrison of the citadel. It possesses the fascination of the concrete as opposed to the drowsy effect of abstract speculation. The Manual Training School Building itself powerfully attracts the healthy active boy. Smoke issues from the tall chimney that rises high above the roof, and the hum of machinery is heard, and the heavy thud of the sledge resounding on the anvil makes music in the ear.

The interior is more attractive still. The rhythmic motion of the polished Corliss engine responds to the now throbbing heart of the expectant lad. The shafting in the wood-turning laboratory speaks of mystery. It is a labyrinth of belts, large and small, of wheels, big and little, of pulleys and lathes. A student moves a lever a few inches, and the breath of life is breathed into the complicated mass of machinery. From the engine far away come the currents of its power. The whir of steam-driven machines salutes the ear, and the class of twenty-four students take their places at the lathes. So in the laboratory of forging the furnace fires give back an answering glow to glow of the visiting lad's flushed cheeks. All this is in very sharp contrast to the monotony of the recitation-room of the old regime. The superiority of the new over the old education consists largely in the fact that it alternates the purely mental with the mental and manual exercise combined.

During the pauses of labor in the laboratories of the Manual Training School the well-equipped instructor delivers a series of brief lectures on subjects growing logically out of the exercises. In the drawing-room the sketches in bold outline the biographies of the great masters of the graphic art. In the laboratory of carpentry he discusses the natural history of certain trees, and considers the qualities of woods, their adaptability and various uses. In the wood-turning laboratory the subject of the history of turnery is found to be not less delightful than inexhaustible, and the manipulations of the iron and steel laboratories are closely allied to all the great events of the world's history. The moulding and casting laboratory is richly suggestive of subjects for discussion.—Charles H. Ham, in Harper's Magazine for February.

Condition of the British Navy.

The British navy, having very diversified services to perform during both peace and war, requires ships of various kinds and sizes. Its first and greatest requirement of all is that of line-of-battle ships in sufficient numbers to enable England to stand up successfully against any European naval force or forces that may threaten her or her empire. If any one should be disposed to ask why this requirement—which is obviously an extreme one, and an impossible one for more than a single power—is more necessary for England than for any other country, the answer must be, Circumspice! To look round over England's empire is to see why her failure on the sea would be her failure altogether. France, Germany, Italy, and even Holland, might each get along fairly well, losing nothing that is absolutely essential to their existence, even if every port belonging to them were sealed by an enemy's squadron. But were Great Britain to be cut off from her colonies and dependencies, were her ships to be swept from the seas and her ports closed by hostile squadrons, she would either be deprived of the very elements of life itself, or would have to seek from the compassion of her foes the bare means of existence. It is this consideration, and the strong parental care which she feels for her colonies, that make her sons indignant at any hazardous reduction of her naval strength. There are even in England itself men who can not or will not see this danger, and who impute to those who strive to avert it ambitious, selfish, and even sordid motives. But it is to no unworthy cause that England's naval anxieties are due. We have no desire for war; we do not hunger for further naval fame; we cherish no mean rivalry of other powers who seek to colonize or to otherwise improve their trade; we do not want the mastery of the seas for any commercial objects that are exclusively our own. What we desire to do is to keep the seas open thoroughfares to our vast possessions and dependencies, and free to that commercial communication which has become indispensable to our existence as an empire. To accomplish that object we must, at any cost, be strong, supremely strong, in European waters; and it is for this reason that England's line-of-battle ships ought to be always above suspicion both in number and in quality.

It is not a pleasant assertion for an Englishman to make when he has to say that this is very far from being the case at present. A few months ago this statement, from whomsoever it emanated, would have been received with distrust by the general public, for the truth was only known to the navy itself and to comparatively few outsiders. But the official communications made to both Houses of Parliament early in December last have prepared the world for the truth, the First Lord of the Admiralty in the Chamber of Peers and Sir Thomas Brassey in the House of Commons having then proposed to Parliament a programme of additional ship-building which provided for a considerable increase in the number of its first-class ships and cruisers, and which also provided, on the demand of the present writer, that the cruisers should be protected with belts of armor—an element of safety previously denied to them. It need hardly be repeated, after this wholesale admission of weakness by the Admiralty, that Great Britain is at present in far from a satisfactory condition as regards both the number and the character of its ships. Were that not so, no public agitation could have moved the government to reverse in several respects a policy by which it had for so long abided.—Sir Edward Reed, in Harper's Magazine for February.

Chinamen and Chinamen.

I have learned, writes H. Sherwin in the Overland Monthly, that there are Chinamen and Chinamen. As well judge the Maine farmer lad by the New York city arab as the well-bred, honest, steady young fellow from the rice farms up the river from Canton, by the Hong Kong street cooly or dock rat. Most people are quite without discrimination in selecting a Chinese workman, and seem to think it is pure luck whether they get a clear-skinned, bright-eyed boy, modest, intelligent, and trustworthy, or a hard-looking old opium smoker. It is perfectly possible to select with some certainty; but the only way I know to do it is to be acquainted with some sensible, trustworthy Chinaman, and explain to him what you want, and if it is his opinion that you will be a fair and agreeable employer, whom he can feel justified in recommending to his friends, you will, as soon as he can find the right man, be very satisfactorily supplied. But if you have a bad reputation as an employer—if you are unreasonable or bad pay or unpleasant in your ways and inconsiderate of a servant's feelings, you will be politely told, month after month, that no suitable boy has yet been found. For these farmers' boys are self-respecting fellows. They will not take insulting treatment, nor even rough jokes; they will not bear aggressions on their personal dignity. I have known one of them to leave a place because some article of food was locked up from him, on the ground that there was only enough to go around the family; yet he would, probably, if nothing had been said to him, have estimated that someone must go without, and silently refrained from taking any himself, as I have often known them to do, even when it was a favorite dish. Many a household has been suddenly deprived of its very satisfactory cook because someone had mocked him rudely or put hands on him roughly. It is worth while to note this, in view of the popular idea that a Chinaman will go anywhere and endure anything for money. On the contrary, many of this class of Chinamen will throw up a paying position and remain some time out of work sooner than receive indignity.

They are, in fact—I speak for my own acquaintance among them; others may have a different experience—gentlemen. They show instinctively a simple refinement and careful breeding. In my own home we have in more than a dozen years had only two cooks, handsome young fellows from the same village; and in all these years, spent under the same roof, in the isolation of a country house, I may say that I have had pretty fair opportunity to know these boys. And I have found them both essentially gentlemen. I have never seen a European foreigner of their humble class who approached them in refinement, simple dignity, and unfailing sense of propriety. I do not know how many of our own boys could go to a foreign land and carry off such a position so well. In a somewhat cruder way, the farm hands that I have seen much of show the same native refinement and propriety, though they are often bashful and awkward. And I do not doubt that they all have been, in fact, carefully bred in their simple homes by painstaking parents. When they become certain that you intend no ridicule, and will listen with entire respect, they will tell you a little about their homes, and from their fragmentary accounts it is easy to get an idea of the plain, honest, and temperate peasantry from which they come; and it is an idea that must give one a sincere respect for them.

A Frenchman has, it is said, found means to restore the life-like expression to the eyes of dead persons. He places a few drops of glycerine and water on the corners; life-like expression is reproduced.

The native who carried from the field the body of the Napoleonic Prince Imperial when he lost his life fighting in South Africa was presented with a diamond ring and pensioned by the Empress Eugenie. He came to Massachusetts and was lost sight of, but the ring was found last week in a Boston pawnshop.

According to General Morin, the eminent expert, the proper temperature in well-ventilated places is as follows: Nurseries, asylums and schools, 69 degrees; workshops, barracks and prisons, 59; hospitals, 61 to 64; theatres and lecture-rooms, 66 to 69. In dwellings in this country it has been the custom to keep the temperature at 65 to 70 degrees.

COLONIZATION ROADS.

The session of the Ontario Legislature now practically over, has been in some respects an uneventful one. The only sensation was the introduction by the Opposition of a matter entirely foreign to the functions and jurisdiction of the House. The Opposition, though indulging in considerable snarling, have been unable to formulate a single charge reflecting on the administration of public affairs by the government of Hon. Mr. Mowat. There has been, it is true, considerable talk about colonization roads expenditure by certain members, but no definite action in the way of censure has been taken and no demand made for information that might support the covert insinuations of malfeasance made. At the last moment Mr. Meredith made a motion—not making any specific charge but simply declaring his suspicions. Hon. Mr. Pardee effectively replied to the insinuations of the Oppositon and showed how baseless were the unstatesmanlike inuendoes made. He showed that the Government had a right to expect the support of the Opposition in the matter of colonization roads expenditure and management, since after years of active research the Opposition had failed to fix a 'single charge of wrong doing. They had changed from one position to another as each position was found in turn, untenable. They first of all said the roads should be constructed by contract; they abandoned that. Then they said that the municipalities should spend the money; they abandoned that for they found that the municipalities did not agree with them. Then they say that the overseers have expended the money corruptly and extravagently and they have abandoned that because they cannot give any proof of the truthfulness of their statements. Now they say that the Commissioner orders colonization roads improperly for the purpose of securing votes, and he challenged them to find the least tittle of proof. The Opposition had investigated the expenditure on colonization roads for several years in the Public Accounts Committee, and had never been able to find the least proof of their charges. This year they had not investigated the subject at all, but had declared that they could not find anything out by their searches, and the reason was there nothing wrong to find out. He informed the grumbling Opposition that he should be happy to meet them any time when the policy of the Government with respect to the policy of the Crown Lands Department was challenged. At one time Mr. Meredith with much froth and fury, on an election platform threatened the commissioner with impeachment and astounding revelations to be made at the opening of parliament. But there the matter ended. No more was ever heard of it; Mr. Carnegie has utterly failed to find a single "scrap" justifying a charge of wrong doing, though he has had the able assistance in one session after another of the County Council, of the Reeve of Lakefield. The simple explanation of all these failures is that there is nothing wrong to bring out, and no department of any government ever had a stronger vindication of the excellence of its administration than the utter failure of the Opposition to discover anything wrong even after years of the most careful and energetic search. Of insinuation there has been no lack; of proof, not a tittle.

Doing up the Undertakers.

TORONTO, March 25.—A clever swindle has been perpetrated on the city undertakers. A lady dressed in mourning called upon each and ordered a coffin for a stranger from New York who had died in her house at Mimico. As she had forgotten her purse and wanted to telegraph to the friends of the deceased, could they oblige her with sufficient to pay for it? Believing they had a fat job each obliged her, some with $5 others with $10. The following day they drove out to measure the corpse and each found he had been swindled.

Madre E Hijo,

What Does it Mean?

THE MARRIAGE RING.

Talmage's Tenth Treatise on the Tie that Binds.

Influence of Sisters on Brothers.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., March 14.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D.D., preached to day in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, the tenth of his series of sermons on "The Marriage Ring," the subject being "The Sister's Influence upon her Brothers."

The text was Exodus ii., 4: "And his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him."

DR. TALMAGE SAID:

Prince Thermutis, daughter of Pharaoh, looking out through the lattice of her bathing-house, on the banks of the Nile, saw a curious boat on the river. It had neither oar or helm, and they would have been useless anyhow. There was only one passenger and that a baby boy. But the Mayflower that brought the Pilgrim Fathers to America carried not so precious a load. The boat was made of the broad leaves of papyrus tightened together by bitumen. Boats were sometimes made of that material, as we learn from Pliny and Herodotus and Theophrastus. "Kill all the Hebrew children born," had been Pharaoh's order. To save her boy, Jochebed, the mother of little Moses, had put him in that queer boat and launched him. His sister Miriam stood on the bank watching that precious craft. She was far enough off not to draw attention to the boat, but near enough to offer protection. There she stands on the bank. Miriam the poetess, Miriam the quick-witted, Miriam the faithful, though very human, for in after time she became for marrying a woman she did not like, that she made a great family row and was struck with leprosy.

SO ANGRY WITH THAT VERY BROTHER

Miriam was a splendid sister but had her faults like the rest of us. How carefully she watched the boat containing her brother! A strong wind might upset it. The buffaloes often found there might in a sudden plunge of thirst sink it. Some ravenous water fowl might swoop and pick his eyes out with iron beak. Some crocodile or hippopotamus crawling through the rushes might crush the babe. Miriam watched and watched and watched until Princess Thermutie, a maiden on each side of her holding palm leaves over her head to shelter her from the sun, came down and entered her bathing house. When from the lattice she saw that boat, she ordered it brought, and when the leaves were pulled back from the face of the child and the boy looked up he cried aloud, for he was hungry and frightened and would not even let the Princess take him. The infant would rather stay hungry than acknowledge any one in the court as mother. Now Miriam, the sister, incognito, no one suspecting her relation to the child, leaps from the bank and rushes down and offers to get a nurse to pacify the child. Consent is given, she brings Jochebed, the baby's mother, incognito, not sure of the court knowing that she was the mother, and when Jochebed arrived the child stopped crying, for the fright was calmed and its hunger appeased. You may admire Jochebed, the mother, and all the ages may admire Moses, but I clap my hand the faithful, brilliant, and strategic sister.

IN APPLAUSE AT THE BEHAVIOUR OF MIRIAM

"Go home," some one might have said to Miriam. "Why risk yourself out there alone on the banks of the Nile, breathing the miasma and in danger of being attacked by wild beast or ruffian; go home! No, Miriam, the sister, most lovingly watched and heartily defended Moses, the brother. Is he worthy her care and courage; Oh, yes; the sixty centuries of the world's history have never had so much involved in the arrival of any ship at any port as in the landing of that papyrus boat caulked with bitumen. Its one passenger was to be a monarch in history. Lawyer, statesman, politician, legislator, organizer, conqueror, deliverer. He had such remarkable beauty in childhood that Josephus says, when he was carried along the road people stopped to gaze at him, and workmen would leave their work to admire him. When the king playfully put his crown upon this boy he threw it off indignantly and put his foot on it. The king, fearing that this might be a sign that the child might yet take down his crown, applied another test. According to Jewish legend the king ordered two bowls to be put before the child, one containing rubies and the other burning coals. And if he took the coals he was to live, and if he took the rubies

HE WAS TO DIE.

For some reason the child took one of the coals and put it in his mouth, so that his life was spared, although it burned the tongue till he was indistinct of utterance ever after. Having come to manhood, he spread open the palms of his hands in prayer, and the Red Sea parted to let two million people escape. And he put the palms of his hands together in prayer, and the red Sea closed on a strangulated host.

His life was unutterably grand, his burial must be on the same scale. God would let neither man, nor saint nor archangel have anything to do with weaving for him a shroud or digging for him a grave. The omnipotent God left His throne in Heaven one day, and if the question was asked, "Whither is the King of the Universe going?" the answer was, "I am going down to bury Moses." And the Lord took this mightiest of men to the top of a hill, and the day was clear, and Moses ran his eye over the magnificent range of country. Here, the valley of Esdraelon, where the final battle is to be tought; and yonder, the mountains Hermon and Lebanon, and Gerizim, and hills of Judea; and the village of Bethlehem ther, and the city of Jericho yonder, and the vast stretch of landscape that almost as he looked at it. And then, without a pang, as I learn from the statement that the eye of Moses was undimmed and his natural force unabated, God touched the great lawgiver's eyes, and they closed; and his lungs, and they ceased; and his heart, and it stopped; and commanded, saying, "to the skies, thou immortal spirit!" And then the Divine hand was put against the back of Moses, and the other hand against the paleless breast, and God laid him softly down on Mount Nebo, and then the lawgiver, lifted in the Almighty's arms, was carried to the opening of a cave and placed in a crypt, and one stroke of the Divine hand smoothed the features into an everlasting calm, and a rock was rolled to the door, and the only obsequies at which God did all the offices of priest and undertaker and gravedigger and mourner were ended.

Oh, was not Miriam, the sister of Moses, doing a good thing, an important thing, a glorious thing, when she watched the boat woven of riverplants, and made water-tight with asphaltum, carrying its one passenger? Did she not put all the ages of time, and of a coming when she defended her helpless brother from [illegible] reared to be the deliverer of the nation, when otherwise, if saved at all from the rushes of the Nile, he would have been only one more of the God-defying Pharaohs; for Princess Thermutis of the bathing-house would have inherited the crown of Egypt, and as she had no child of her own, this adopted child would have come to coronation. Had there been no Miriam there would have been no Moses. What a garland for faithful sisterhood? For how many a lawgiver and how many a hero and how many a deliverer and how many a saint are the world and the church indebted to a watchful, loving, faithful, godly sister? Come up out of the farmhouses, come up out of the inconspicuous homes? Come up from the banks of the Hudson and the Penobscot and the Savannah and the Mobile and the Mississippi and all the other Niles of America, and let us see you, the Miriams who watched and protected the leaders in law and medicine and merchandise and art and agriculture and mechanics and religion? If I should ask all these physicians and attorneys and merchants and ministers of religion and successful men of all professions and trades, who are for good influences, and perhaps for an education or a prosperous start, to rise, they would rise by the hundreds. God knows how many of our Greek lexicons and how much of our schooling was paid for by money that would otherwise have gone for the replenishing of a sister's wardrobe while the brother called off for a resounding sphere, the sister watched him from the banks of self-denial.

ETERNITY UNDER OBLIGATION

Miriam was the eldest of the family. Moses and Aaron her brothers, and younger. Oh, the power of the elder sister to help decide the brother's character for usefulness and for heaven! She can keep off from her brother more evils than Miriam could have driven back waterfowl or crocodile from the ark of bulrushes. The elder sister decides the direction in which the cradle boat shall sail. By gentleness, by good sense, by Christian principle, she can turn it toward the palace, not of a wicked Pharaoh, but of a holy God; and a brighter princess than Thermutis shall lift him out of peril, even religion, whose ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. The elder sister,

HOW MUCH THE WORLD OWES HER!

Born while yet the family was in limited circumstances, she had to hold and take care of her younger brothers. And if there is anything that excites my sympathy it is a little girl lugging round a great fat child and getting her ears boxed because she cannot keep him quiet. By the time she gets to young womanhood she is pale and worn out, and her attractiveness has been sacrificed on the altar of sister's fidelity, and she is consigned to celibacy, and society calls her by an ungallant name but in heaven they call her Miriam. In most families the two most undesirable places in the record of births are the first and the last—the first because she is worn out with the cares of a home that cannot afford to hire help, and the last because she is spoiled as a pet. Among the grandest equipages that sweep through the streets of heaven will be those occupied by sisters who sacrificed themselves for brothers. They will have the finest of the Apocalyptic white horses, and many who on earth looked down upon them will have to turn out to let them pass.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $300 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $300,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgage may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

The Inner Man.

Although there are some bookworms who adore,
Above all things in womankind, great learning,
Nine men in ten, who honor yet their lore,
For food, and not philosophy, are yearning.

Well versed in Greek and Latin though he be,
Should she he calls his wife indite a ballad;
Overcome by hunger's pangs, I doubt not he
Were better pleased had she prepared a salad.

Thus any man—a poet, if you will—
Whom all the world with laurels has been crowning,
And living in the realms of fancy, still
Would much prefer a steak, well browned, to Browning.

Though he be cast in Nature's noblest mould,
Man has an appetite, if saint or sinner,
And cares less, if the solemn truth were told,
For dissertations than dessert and dinner.
—Fred H. Chrtiss, in Good Housekeeping.

SIME'S FARM.

I.

It was years ago that Sime and his brother, Dan'l, came to the city. They were young fellows, then, full of hope and ambition: now they are time-withered and old. Sime is 50, perhaps, and his brother some ten years younger. In fact, Dan'l, in his brother's eyes, is quite a youngster—a harum-scarum young fellow, liable to kick over the traces at any time. Sime is stoop-shouldered and thin, with a short, grisly beard and cold blue eyes. The younger brother is short and stout, with a curly mass of gray hair falling almost to the shoulder. Dan'l was never known to laugh, but his full lips, puckered into a sneaking smile, give one an impression of good-nature, which is strengthened by the soft brown eyes. The two brothers work in a box-factory, and their wages, though small, heaven knows, satisfy all their wants and leave a bit beside. Back in the Vermont hills is a scrap of a farm that slipped from their father's hands years ago.

"Well, well," Sime would say, "p'raps not to-day, but we kin wait a bit, an' I reckon the ol' farm 'll be ours some day."

"Some day, eh?" breaks in Dan'l—a thoughtless, impatient young dog, that Dan'l—"why, we hain't got $800 a'ready; I reckon we oughter speckelate."

Sime smiles paternally on his young brother. "I calkilate we'll keep outen that, Dan'l, an' we kin wait a bit, I reckon, Dan'l."

Dan'l doesn't reply, but he shakes his gray head as though reserving his own opinion. Sime pulls softly at his beard, thinking what an improvident youngster that brother of his is and what a blessed thing it is that there is some one to keep an eye on him.

One night Sime was busy getting supper when Dan'l came tramping up the three pairs of stairs to the two-room den carrying something under his coat. The night was sharp and cold—a night one would hesitate to leave his wife's relatives out of doors. Dan'l shook the powdered snow from his hat as he stood in the doorway. "Brother," he said hesitatingly. Dan'l had made a fool of himself, and he knew it.

"Well, youngster," returned Sime encouragingly. Dan'l laughed in an embarrassed way, like a schoolboy caught winking at the rosy-cheeked girl in the back seat. At last he began to open his coat.

"Meouw!"

"Brother Dan'l," said Sime sternly, as a shivering, wretched cat fell to the floor.

"But think o' sucher night, Sime, 'twould be downright unchristyon to leave the beast in the snow."

"Kin we afford sich luxuries as feelin's, Dan'l?"

"Brother, we kin wait a bit longer fur the farm an' I reckon it'll seem all the better when we git it, Sime."

"You allus was a willful lad, Dan'l, a willful lad," said Sime gently, laying his hand on his brother's arm. They shook hands in silence and sat down to supper.

"This looks more homelike," said Dan'l, watching the cat purring near the stove.

"Yes," replied Sime.

"That's the word more homelike. Somehow or other, Dan'l, a cat allus makes you feel that-a-way—cats an' women," he added meditatively.

"Brother."

"Well, Dan'l?"

"How'd a woman look like here?"

"Dan'l," said Sime sharply, "you're not a-thinkin' of that agin, Dan'l?"

"No, brother, no, I reckon not," replied Dan'l.

A good twenty years ago Dan'l had met a right comely girl—a true Vermont girl she was, buxom, red cheeked and tall. He had never seen her since, but he often referred to her—it was the one little romance he cherished. Sime felt obliged to frown upon this.

"Youngsters," he said solemnly, "have no business with them dismal thoughts. Women ain't farms, Dan'l, remember that. Never have them dismal thoughts, Dan'l. It's feelin' that-a-way what kills."

And yet Dan'l nursed his little dream, though the buxom Berkshire lass, God bless her, was a full-faced woman now with five babies at her skirts.

II.

Perhaps a month after pussie's first appearance the brothers came home somewhat early. Pussie did not run to meet them as usual and purr and rub against Dan'l's leg as he stood in the doorway.

"Pussie," called Dan'l; "Pussie?"

"Where kin she be?" asked Sime, excited as his brother. They searched high and low, along the shelf, and through the dark passages, but pussie was gone. For a long time they sat by the stove in silence.

"'Twas jest sich a night I found 'er," said Dan'l at last.

"Jest so," returned Sime; "an' I reckon it's allus so, brother. You was too young to remember how mother'd say that if a body was born a stormy night, on jest sich a night he'd die. I reckon it's so, Dan'l; I reckon it's so. We come an' go, brother, like play-people goin' in outen the snowin' night, an' walkin' round on the stage, an' goin' out inter the snowin' night agin."

"What's that brother?"

There was a sound of flying feet up the dark stairway—a stumble—a cry, and the noise of a fall by the door. Sime took the lamp in his hand and went to the door, his brother close behind him. As the light shone into the hall a slip of a girl, ragged and dirty, scrambled to her feet and darted into the room, panting for breath.

"O, sir, don't let them get me, please. I didn't do it, sir—don't let them—I didn't touch it—I didn't see it, sir—O, you won't let them take me!" and the little one clung to Dan'l's arm, her frightened eyes fixed on his face.

"Brother, Dan'l," said Sime, "kin we afford sich luxuries——"

"Don't let them, sir," begged the child in an ecstasy of terror, shrinking down in the corner as a step was heard on the stairway.

"What d'ye want here?" asked Sime, opening the door a foot or so and catching the glimmer of a star and a glimpse of helmet and club.

"I'm afther askin' if ye've sane a gurrul—a little ragged baste of a thafe, an' the divil floy away wid her entoirely?"

"No, I haint," said Sime, promptly.

"Is it nuthin' ye've hurrud, thin?"

"Nuthin'," said Dan'l.

"Faith, I'm belavin' yees, thin."

As the door closed the brothers gazed at each other in solemn horror.

"A lie, brother," said Sime at last.

"Brother," returned Dan'l, slowly, "I don't know, but I reckon God-A'mighty 'll be downright proud o' that lie."

"Kin we keep her, Dan'l?"

"'t sorter seems more'n nat'ral she should come jest now to fill Pussie's place, brother Sime."

"Dan'l, it costs a mortal sight to feed a gal."

"An' her clo'es, brother."

"An' washin' Dan'l, an schoolin."

"Brother, I reckon we'll have to let the farm go, if things go this-a-way," said Dan'l, astonished at his own boldness. Sime buried his face in his hands. It was hard, very hard, to give up the purpose, the hope, the dream of a lifetime. For a moment the green Vermont hills, the chalky brook, the old, low-browed house came into his mind and over against them stood the factory with its ceaseless din and hurry. Only for a moment, for glancing up he saw the child nestled in Dan'l's arm; while he with clumsy care, was drawing off the tattered stockings and chafing the wee cold feet.

"Dan'l?"

"Yes, brother," said Dan'l looking up.

"Gals is better than farms, I reckon."

"Yes, brother."—C. V. Thompson, in Chicago Tribune.

An Extraordinary Offer.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every housewoman, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $36. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 99 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. Peterborough Talent Appreciated.

The Perth Expositor of yesterday in an item relating to the concert given on St. Patrick's day under the auspices of St. John's church, of that town, in speaking of the foreign talent present, gives great praise to Miss L. To the Ladies

Miss Delaney has just received a large assortment of dress goods in a great variety of new shades, with lace and trimmings to match. Having determined to make a special feature in future of this branch of her business, she calls especial attention to the prices for these goods, which will be found exceptionally cheap. Miss Delaney is also making a specialty of ladies' and children's underwear, a department which has long been wanted in Peterborough. The millinery department is also complete.

"Our Boys."

The Egbert Dramatic Company yesterday evening presented Byron's celebrated comedy, "Our Boys," in the Opera House to a large and appreciative audience. The play was presented in a refined and finished manner, differing very much from other companys which have given it here. All the parts were well taken; Lulu Wade, as "Belinda, the Slavey," won the admiration of her hearers. The bill for to-night is Dumas' romantic drama, "Monte Cristo," with special scenery. The Egbert's presentation of this play is exceptionally good, and those who have read the work will be specially interested. On Saturday night the button-bursting comedy, "Risen from the Ashes," will be presented.

Messrs. Giroux & Sullivan, this week, will exhibit the finest assortment of new spring dry goods in every department throughout their vast establishment. We have carefully studied the interest of all classes in their wants, and our selections are only first-class and reliable goods, from the cheapest to the finest qualities. We have no hesitation in stating that our stock and assortment are the most complete in town, and at prices beyond the reach of all legitimate competition. Inspection invited. See our advertisement in another column. GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

To the Afflicted

Dr. N. Washington, M. D., L. C. P. S. O., Toronto and Halifax, will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on March 29th, 30th and 31st for consultation upon and treatment of Throat and Lung Diseases, in the successful treatment of which he has a well-earned pre-eminence.

Committee Meetings.

The market committee and the court of revision met last night in the clerk's office. It is understood that the market committee will recommend the re-appointment of Mr. John Doherty as market clerk. The court of revision considered seven applications for remission of taxes, only one of which was entertained, amounting to $2.50.

Postoffice Appropriation.

The Dominion Estimates for the current fiscal year contain an appropriation of $10,000 for postal and customs buildings for Peterborough. The sum of $15,000 was voted for the purchase of a site for the proposed public buildings. All of that has not been expended. Where will the third site purchased be? Is the question of site settled?

The Mystery Solved.

WIFE—John, no wonder the shoemakers that don't work for Johnston Carey were told to strike his shop, for I bought a pair of Boots that fit me just lovely, his own make, for $2.

HUSBAND—Yes, my dear; Edward bought a pair of Boots to-day at Carey's for $5, better than mine that cost $6.50. I am going to get a pair like them on Saturday, and I think it will pay to get his make for the boys.

Accident.

Mr. P. Begley, of Ashburnham, while working in his shop during the fore part of this week had the misfortune to meet with a painful accident. He was turning a whiffletree when a piece of wood became detached and springing up struck him in the face, cutting his upper lip and knocking a tooth out. Dr. O'Sullivan dressed the wound and he is now rapidly recovering from the effects of the blow.

Ready to Admit.

Every one is ready to admit, there is a great advantage in getting their boots and shoes made to order, providing they have not to pay the price of two pair for one. Johnston Carey is making them to order as cheap as they can be bought ready made. He is now ready to fill all orders on short notice, as he has a full set of first class workmen in the custom department.

High Court of Justice.

Spring Sittings of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Division.

CIVIL BUSINESS.

The first case called was that of Bengiano vs. Grand Trunk and Midland Railway Company.—This was an action for damages and a mandatory order to compel the defendants to remove obstructions in the creek at the Bethune Street Bridge and diverting the water by the Missing Link Bridge, causing damages to Mr. John Douglass' property. The defendants pleaded not guilty. The jury gave a verdict to the plaintiff for $50 and costs on the ground of negligence. His lordship reserved leave to move on the question of injunction before the full court. E. B. Stone and S. Masson for plaintiff. B. B. Osler, Q.C., Toronto, and Mr. Biggar of Belleville, for the defendants.

Roberts vs. Grand Trunk and Midland Railway.—This was a similar action to the above and represented by the same council. Verdict for plaintiff, $25 and costs.

SECOND DAY—FRIDAY.

On the assembling of the Court this morning the Grand Jury made the following presentment:—

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, beg to make the following presentment:—

That they have in conformity with your Lordship's instructions visited the jail premises and made a minute inspection thereof, finding everything clean and in thoroughly good order, and the jail regulations satisfactorily carried out.

There are now confined in the jail twenty-three persons, of whom two only are females. All are well provided for, but no means furnished to keep those who are able to work occupied; they are thefore necessarily left unemployed.

The Grand Jury, with Your Lordship, regret that so large a number of able-bodied persons should be kept in idleness at the expense of the industrious public, and would call attention to the grave want in administration in not providing some means of carrying out sentences of hard labor and compelling persons by their work to contribute towards defraying the expenses incurred for their maintenance.

By far too many men well able to work are kept in our jails in idleness and in a degree of comfort which their indolent and thriftless habits could not procure for them were they left to their own resources.

It is therefore to be hoped that the subject will be so urgently brought before the attention of the Government and the County Council that the requisite legislation to reduce to a minimum, if not wholly to remove the evil complained of, will be enacted, and that means may be devised for taking care of the helpless poor now found incarcerated in our common jails, and for whom no adequate provision is made.

THOS. G. HAZLITT, Foreman.

Grand Jury Room, March 26th, 1886.

THE CRIMINAL CASES.

The grand jury also reported no bill in the criminal cases, Queen vs. Holmes, a charge against John Holmes hotel-keeper, of Burleigh for attempting to commit rape on Ella Avery; and in Queen vs. Lallance, a charge against Joseph Lallance, for assaulting Miss Smith of Indian River with intent to murder; on the ground that the evidence in both cases was insufficient to admit of being brought before the court.

IRWIN VS. SPERRY AND SPERRY VS. IRWIN.

The two cases of Irwin vs. Sperry, for breach of contract, and Sperry vs. Irwin, a cross action, were ordered to be consolidated, and were referred to Judge Clark, of Cobourg, for arbitrament.

M'CANN VS. PREVENEAU,

Granted a new trial at the last assizes. On application of the defendant the trial of the case was postponed till the next sittings of the court, owing to the serious illness of the defendant. The costs in the cause to the plaintiff in any event. G. T. Blackstock and C. W. Sawers for the plaintiff and E. B. Osler, and John O'Meara for the defendant.

BRADBURN VS. PHELAN.

An action of replevin to recover three billiard tables. Verdict for the defendant, with full costs of court. D. W. Dumble for the plaintiff, and G. T. Blackstock and C. W. Sawers for the defendants.

STOREY VS. MOFFAT, ET AL.

An action for dower, was settled out of court. E. B. Edwards for the plaintiff, and Hatton & Wood for the defendants.

LASHER VS. BRADBURN.

An action of account and cross account, was by consent referred to Judge Weller. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., for the plaintiff, and D. W. Dumble for the defendant.

The cases still remaining to be disposed of are Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company vs. McQuaid, and Dumble vs. town of Peterborough.
